NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

Tortoiseshell From Florida Coast

The finest of tortoiseshell is said to be that which comes from the Indian archipelago, although much of that obtained on the Florida coast is of the very best quality. There are three rows of plates on the back of the animal, called "blades" by the fishermen. In the central row are five plates, and in each of the others four plates. There are 25 small plates around the edges of the shell, known as "feet" or "noses." The biggest turtle does not furnish more than 16 pound of shell. Formerly the undershell was discarded as worthless, but now it is much esteemed for the delicacy of coloring. Sometimes imitation of tortoiseshell is made from the horns of cows.

PEASANT'S CLOAK IS A "LIMOUSINE"

Here is the Origin of the Name For Most Luxurious of all Autos

Here is a poser for the haughty automobilist.

The limousine car is the heighth of arrogant luxury, and the person who likes to look down on the pedestrian from his tufted cushions would probably look with greater tolerance if he knew what the name for his fashionable vehicle was the the same as that given the garments always worn by the heroine in the melodrama when she is turned from the doors of her home and sent out to end the second act amidst the constant fluttering of paper snow and the moaning of the wind machine behind the scenes.

But that, nevertheless, is the great grandmother of the limousine. The hooded cloak all melodrama heroines throw over their sobbing persons is copied directly from a garment that used to be, and perhaps still is worn by the peasants of the old province of Limousine in France.

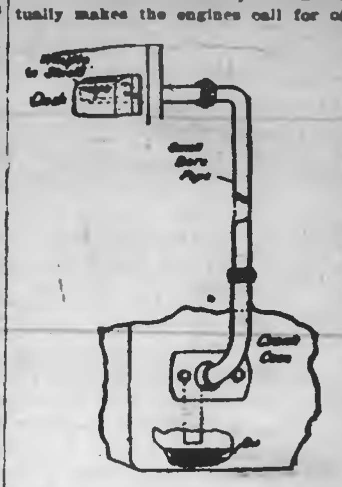
Its general outlines, along with the name, were borrowed by carriage makers in the early part of the last century and utilized to make a covering for a carriage that not only afforded protection to the occupants, but also gave the driver a shield from the weather by forming a canopy over his head.

It was but natural to adopt it into the automobile makeup, therefore, when automobiles needed different kinds of names.

LIKE A HUNGRY BABY

You Can Make Your Automobile Engine Cry For Oil

An Englishman is responsible for a new automobile accessory which virtually makes the engines call for oil when the oil gets low. A continuous alarm is sounded if the lubricant in the crank chamber falls below a given level. The device consists of a small brass tube with a whistle of suitable size fixed in one end and mounted on the dash.



The tube is inserted through the crank chamber and the air pulsations produced by the moving piston have the power to sound the whistle. This can only be done, however, when the oil goes below the level of the tube which is placed so that its end will be just above the bottom of the case—or as soon as the quantity of oil becomes too low to get to the cranks.

Saved by Rival Wives

M. Francois Benedetti, a Frenchman was acquitted of bigamy at Toulouse, thanks to the glowing testimonials given him by his two mates.

About three years ago M. Benedetti married a seamstress at Nimes. A year afterwards he went through the marriage ceremony with another woman at Toulouse.

Both women appeared in court, where they sat side by side and chatted amiably. Instead of reproaching the husband, they spoke so highly in his favor that an acquittal followed.

A DIFFERENCE IN BUTTONS

Buttons make the supreme and mysterious separation of the sexes. And [illegible]. If as a man you will go through your clothes, from overcoat to the underclothes, you will find that the buttons are on the right and the buttonholes on the left. But you will notice that the feminine garments close up the other way, and that the woman demands her buttonholes to correspond. Feminine clothes fold right to left, masculine from left to right. And there the problem must be left by a puzzled commentator.—Dundee Advertiser.

The Union Jack

It's only a small bit of bunting,
It's only an old colored rag.
Yet thousands have died for its honor
And shed their best blood for the flag.
It's charged with the cross of St. Andrew,
Which of old, Scotland's heroes have led;
It carries the cross of St. Patrick,
For which Ireland's bravest have bled.
Joined with these is our old English ensign,
Britons conquer or die, but ne'er yield.
It flutters triumphant o'er ocean,
As free as the winds and the waves;
And bondsmen from shackles unloosened
'Neath its shadows no longer are slaves.
It floats over Cypress and Malta,
O'er Canada, the Indies, Hong Kong;
And Britons, where'er their flag's flying
Claim the rights which to Britons belong.
We hoist it to show our devotion.
To our King, to our country, and laws;
It's outward and visible emblem
Of advancement and Liberty's cause.
You may say it's an old bit of bunting,
You may call it an old colored rag,
But Freedom has made it majestic,
And time has ennobled the flag.

Leather Casters

Many furniture casters are being made from leather by cutting disks of the required size, and cementing them together to form the wheel, which is then put into a lathe and turned until the face of the wheel is rounded. Disks of metal, fastened to each side of the wheel provide bearings for the axle that runs through the wheel. This type of caster is made for use on hardwood floors, and casters of compressed felt are also manufactured for the same purpose. Other styles of casters include those of glass, designed for the purpose of insulation and ball-bearing casters having no wheel, but a ball that revolves on a circle of smaller balls.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The familiar maxim, "two heads are better than one," does not seem to hold good when they happen to be governors of New York.

The finding of a gold nugget about half an inch square near the river at Saskatoon, suggests the conclusion that someone must have left it there.

"Wonder if the recent hot spell was what caused Harry to Thaw out?" ponders the St. Thomas Times. That man Thaw has been responsible for a lot of outrages, but nothing worse than this.

TURKEY AND THE POWERS

The Constantinople canard that the European powers have decided that Adrianople shall remain Turkish is precisely the opposite of the truth. At the ambassadorial conference in London the representatives of the powers unanimously agreed that Turkey must be required to evacuate Adrianople and retire within the Enos-Midia line, in accordance with the peace treaty which she signed. The conference adjourned on August 12. It will reassemble when necessary. Until then there cannot be any change of decision, and a change is the last thing to be expected, all the powers having presented the demand for evacuation to the Government at Constantinople.

If the Turks are to keep their European capital for any length of time, if they are to have a frontier on which they may successfully defend it, they must retreat from the Maritza to the Ergene, as the powers advise. The line by way of the latter river, from the vicinity of Enos to Midia, is declared by European military experts to be strategically the strongest that Turkey can have for the defence of Constantinople; whereas the retention of Thrace and Adrianople would be an extra burden on the finances of Turkey in time of peace, and a positive weakness in time of war. In any case, the Turkish government cannot long defy the powers.

"If Turkey does not accept the advice of the powers," says Sir Edward Grey, "it will from the beginning paralyze any policy dependent on their good will, and sooner or later, whether it will be by financial distress or whether it be by armed intervention of one or more of the powers, the disregard of their advice about Adrianople will bring on the Turkish government disastrous consequences." It would be foolish not to heed that serious warning, the force of which is emphasized by Sir Edward's remark that had the Bulgarians threatened Constantinople the powers would have intervened, the implication being that they will not think of intervening in the future if Turkey rejects their advice. Had it not been for pressure by the powers, Bulgaria would have retired from Rodosto and Bulair on the Marmora. Owing to Turkey's defiance, such pressure will not be exerted in the next war, come when it may. If Turkey tries to keep Adrianople, she risks the loss of the Marmora, the Bosphorus, and Constantinople itself.

Bronchitis Cured By Medicated Air

NO DRUGS TO TAKE — YOU SIMPLY BREATHE A HEALING BALSAMIC VAPOR

Every Breath Carries Healing Balsams to the Sick, Sore Places in the Nose and Throat.

Montreal this time gives splendid praise for the modern way of curing colds, catarrh and bronchitis.

Instead of taking [illegible] drugs into the stomach, or using an old-fashioned spray, the sensible man nowadays breathes the soothing vapors of Catarrhozone and gets well right away. This is exactly what Mr. Joseph Daouse did, and writing from his office at 57 St. Paul street, he says:—

"I suffered for years with the worst form of chronic bronchial throat and nasal catarrh. I tried all kinds of syrups, ointments, tablets and washes, but they proved ineffective. In fact I could get no relief. I read in the Montreal Witness of Catarrhozone and bought an outfit. In a few hours I got relief. The air passages of my nose were cleared out, and I was able to breathe freely. My throat was strengthened—my voice improved—and no longer gagged and coughed. The effect of Catarrhozone was wonderful. Now I am well—no bronchitis—no throat distress. I urge everyone with a weak throat, with a cough, a cold or a touch of catarrh to use Catarrhozone freely."

Get the Dollar outfit — lasts two months and is guaranteed. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. each, all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BASEBALL'S JOKER IS REALLY FUNNY

"Germany" Schaefer a Circus in Himself—Does a Comical Rope Walking Act on the Diamond

Arlie Latham was funny in his day, but "Germany" Schaefer of the Washington club is the funniest fellow that has ever been connected with baseball. Schaefer is popular with the fans because he never gets peevish when they kid him. He can laugh at a joke at his expense, just as well as the fan laughs at his puns. His wit is spontaneous, and seldom does any one get the better of a battle of repartee with Schaefer. The umpires, realising that the fans like to see him in action, never object to his comedy stunts unless he seems to go too far. During a series at Cleveland, Schaefer almost turned the game into a farce by his stunts. The Naps were getting so badly trimmed that the fans forgot the game in their amusement at Schaefer. Umpire Connolly, seeing the state of affairs, pulled off his mask and yelled.

"Ease up on that stuff! The folks came here to see a ball game, not a burlesque."

"Wrong, as all umpires usually are Mr. Connolly!" said Herman, wearing his broadest smile, a smile at which no umpire could take offense. "Just a minute and I will convince you."

HERMAN SCHAEFER

The crowd looked on in wonderment. Turning to the stands Schaefer asked: "Ladies and gentlemen, did you come to see the ball game or me?" Almost in unison the crowd shouted, "Schaefer!" So what could the umpire do?

Later in the game some fan who desired to take a little of the ginger out of Schaefer, asked, "When do you intend to play, and try to earn your salary?"

"The boss is saving me for the world's series," answered Herman, almost before the fan finished his question.

One of Schaefer's best acts is his tight rope walking, using the whitewash lines of the coacher's box as an imaginary wire. It is really one of the funniest stunts ever shown on diamond or stage. After doing this on one occasion a spectator who didn't like the act, possibly because it was so ridiculous, remarked as Schaefer walked toward the bench: "You must be crazy when you will do that stuff to get the money!"

"Sure, I'm crazy!" answered Herman. "Those fellows who make a living driving automobiles and motor cycles 90 miles an hour are wise."

He has a habit of announcing to the grandstand in the early part of a game what the final score will be, and in an almost increditable number of cases his guess turns out to be correct.

SMILE WHEN YOU EAT

Pleasant Thoughts Aid Digestion—go Slowly, Says a Physician

Digestion depends very largely on the state of mind!

Be merry when you eat is more than a mere saying. There is real wisdom in it.

It is best not to sit down to a meal when you are tired out, physically or mentally. It is best not to eat a hearty meal when your mind is perturbed or in an unhappy state. It is best not to eat in solitude and to the accompaniment of unpleasant thoughts.

It may sound strange to the average person to say, "Watch your thought while you are at the table." But it is good common sense when you think it over and get at the reason. Watching your thought simply means that you will, by intention, think of and talk of pleasant, bright things.

Thinking and talking of bright, pleasant things simply means your mind will be in a proper frame. And then you are several points nearer properly digesting your food.

The next important matter, which, by the way, is just as "firstly" as the state of mind question, has to do with the way you eat your food.

Do you masticate it, or do you swallow it almost whole?

Hurrying through a meal is poor policy. Many foods should be acted upon, in part, by the mouth. If they are bolted into the stomach they lose this part of the process of digestion entirely.

And do you know that the preservation of the teeth depends very largely on the use of them in masticating food. That which we do not put to good use is very likely to disappear.

Thirdly and lastly, do not get into the habit of reading or studying while at a meal. It is a heavy tax on the digestive organs, and in the end will not prove either a saving of time or a relaxation.

Backward Spain

As the result of an investigation ordered by King Alfonso, the Minister of the Interior reported that sixty per cent. of the land in Spain is uncultivated, and 38 per cent. is utterly without irrigation. The report shows that 4,500 villages are without roads or railroads, 30,000 towns and villages have no schools, and 12,000,000 of Spain's 17,000,000 inhabitants can neither read nor write.

Poverty Unknown in Servia

Though the progress of Servia has been disappointing, said to be due in a considerable measure to the fact that the country has been afflicted with two native dynasties, yet poverty is almost unknown. The peasantry is prosperous, almost all being small land-owners and quite well-to-do.

Gas Men Killed

Four gas operators, all residents of Calgary, employed of the Western Canada Natural Gas Company, were asphyxiated in the Nanton Gas Plant. The men were sent down to Nanton to repair a leak in the pipes of the Nanton plant. The Courage-giver

All day her wistful face looks out
Through all December's gusty snows,
Through all the August heat,
A little captive of the slums,
Unenvious and sweet.

The other children run below,
On play or errand bent;
She watches them from dawn to dark
With [illegible] eyes intent,
Breaking all shackles of the flesh
In that [illegible].

Yet he who passes day by day,
And they who minister
Beside her to the few cheap wants,
Like some awed worshipper
Wonder, before that placid brow;
"What use is life to her?"

What use? The great and only use!
The chance to face her fate
With folded hands and cheerful heart
And stalwart soul elate;
To crush the world 'neath stricken heel;
To suffer and to wait.

O brave, sad smile that put to shame
My anguish of a day,
I owe you more than I can tell
And more than I can pay;
A lesson for the passing need,
And courage for alway!

BASEBALL.

The Toronto ball club has closed th Kingston, N.Y., for the pur- ase of Pitcher Schwabb of that ub. He is highly spoken of by ose who have seen him work. He ll report at once.

New York, Aug. 28. — Baseball anagers and players of a quarter of century ago received salaries that pear microscopic as compared with fabulous sums which those of to- y are said to receive.

"Cap" Adrian C. Anson is said to ve received the princely sum of $2,- 0 for managing the Chicago White ockings in 1888, the year after he d finished the season with a bat- g average of .421. And of this ount $700 represented his services acting captain and manager of the team, the major portion being his salary as a player. R. E. Smith of Chicago, claims to possess the contract.

Smith also has the contracts signed by N. Fred Pfeiffer and Edward N. Williamson when they consented to play in the Brotherhood league in 1889. These two players were talked of at that time as the greatest in the game. The Chicago club paid paid Williamson $3000, while Pfeiffer, one of the greatest of all second basemen, received only $2000 and the score card privilege.

A larger salary than any of those old-time stars was paid to Charles Comiskey, present owner of the Chicago White Sox, when he jumped to the Brotherhood League. His contract, also held by Smith, called for $7000 in 1890. Comiskey was then regarded as the dean of fielding first baseman, although he was not regarded as good at the bat as Anson.

RING.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Heavyweights will be barred from contests in Kenosha and Racine, Wis., boxing centers in the middle west, following the killing of "Bull" Young in his bout with Jesse Willard at Los Angeles, it was announced today.

The Kenosha Athletic club, whose bouts are patronized largely by Chicagoans, today abandoned plans for a meeting between Carl Morris and Jim Flynn and put up the bars against the heavies.

"Under the new Wisconsin boxing law, we can match heavyweights," said J. I. Day, matchmaker for the Kenosha club, "but it is not our desire to arrange meetings of heavyweights when there is a public protest against them. We will confine our attractions to middleweights and boxers of lighters poundage."

Watch Yourself

When you sit, do you lean forward from the waist as though your backbone were a curved line? Bending should be from the hip joints, not from the waist.

Do you settle down in a sort of meaningless way when you stop to speak to a person on the street, or "flop" in a cramped heap when you slip into a chair to rest?

Do you walk with your shoulders [illegible] and your head in its proper place, [illegible] they droop miserably as if you [illegible] lost every vestige of energy?

The muscles of the body are wonderfully pliable and seem almost anxious to follow your bidding.

Give them a chance to make you proud of yourself.

A little practice will do it. Watch yourself!

Long Bodied Men

Man wants to eat over-much without getting over-fat!

If he is short-trunked he cannot do it. If he measures far from his last rib to his hips, he is pretty certain to fatten up as he passes across the youth line.

The men with endurance and vitality are usually those with long trunks. They are the men who can work hard and long and keep it up for successive days without tiring out. They are the men who "sit high," as the saying goes.

NOVEL CHEESE KNIFE

Movable Blades Mounted on Rod That Runs Through Middle

An ingenious method of cutting cheese has been designed by a New York woman. A rod has three broad, movable blades slidably mounted upon it. The cheese—the cutter is designed for use on round cheese, by the way—is placed on a dish and the rod thrust through the center. The three blades, being light in weight, can rest on top of the cheese. When a slice or wedge of cheese is desired it can be cut quickly and accurately by pressing down two of the blades with the requisite width between them. Another advantage of this device, and the probable reason for the third blade, is the fact that it keeps the remainder of the cheese fresh by closing the cuts against the air. The blades are about the depth of the usual round cheese and two of them can be kept pressed against the cuts where the inside is exposed.

KEEPS CHEESE FRESH, TOO.

Beauty of the Tail

It looks as if the docking of horses' tails might become unpopular. The Duke of Connaught is against the practice, and all the King's horses are undocked.

Mr. Winans, one of the best known horsemen in London, says: "For a lady's carriage or phaeton a long-tailed or undocked horse is infinitely handsomer. It always looks vulgar to see a pair of docked and hog-maned horses in a smart carriage."

Sir John Rolleston, M.P., favors legislation to stop docking.

Mr. Butcher, K.C., Lord Henry Cavendish-Bentinck, Mr. Philip Snowden, Sir William Bull, Mr. H. G. Chancellor, Mr. George Greenwood and the Hon. Walter Guinness support him in his views.

Mr F. A. Cox, of the National Equine Defence League, prophesies that the docking of horses' tails will go the same way as the old fashion of clipping dogs' ears, which was done simply for the same stupid reason—ornament.

Paper and Ink For Money

To manufacture and print the paper money of Canada it is necessary to import materials from various parts of the world. A part of the paper fiber, for instance, is linen rag from the Orient. The silk that furnishes the strands that are run through the paper as a safeguard against counterfeiting comes from China or from Italy. The blue ink contains cobalt from Canada or Germany. The black ink is said to be made at Niagara Falls from acetylene gas smoke, and the greater part of the green ink is made with white zinc sulphate, the product of German industry. The red is derived from a pigment imported from Central America.

Berlin has 52 power-propelled cars in its mail service.

A HOUSE OF CARDS

Old "Pop" Steifel's Great Sacrifice as a Memorial to His Daughter Mina.

By ARTHUR JONES.

"Bends?" queried "Pop" Stiefel scornfully. "Huh! If you fellers wasn't in such a blame hurry to get out of the caissons so as to knock off work you wouldn't be in danger of them."

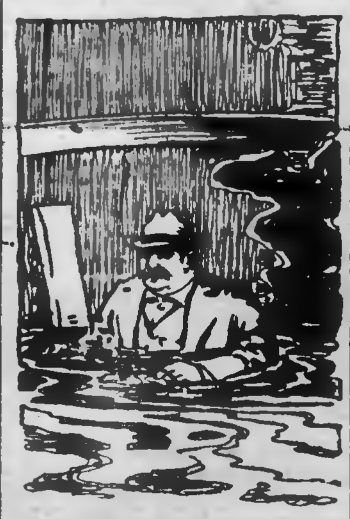
Though he was only fifty-five, everybody knew old Stiefel, the foreman of the construction company, as "Pop." It is not often that a German is found in charge of a gang; and when he is he is apt to be a man of authority. But everybody revered "Pop" Stiefel because he was known to be a man devoid of fear.

"You see, boys," he would explain to the newcomers, "them bends is caused this way. Under two, three, four pressures the blood gets full of air. Now you got to go back slow, or else when you gets back to one pressure them air bubbles hasn't busted yet, and it's going to get into your heart and kill you, maybe." Which was as nearly scientific as was necessary for their comprehension.

"Bill's anxious to git back to meet that girl of his when the Smith building turns out its people," said one of the men.

Everybody knew Bill's girl. Bill was the popular sobriquet for Mr. William Allen, whose uncle was junior partner in the construction company that was sinking its caissons deep into the edge of the East river, adjoining the Smith building. Allen was qualifying for an engineer by learning the practical details of the work. Miss Elizabeth Strickland was employed in the Smith building, a little three-story structure soon to be pulled down because of age and general decrepitude. It was rarely that the men going to work did not see Miss Elizabeth seated at her desk beside a window on the top story, and looking out to wave her hand to Bill. "Pop" Stiefel, the sentimentalist, as most Teutons are, was once found almost in tears, though he stoutly attributed his condition to the onion which his landlady had placed in his lunch basket that morning.

"Say, you fellers—when I see a nice girl like Miss Strickland and a fine young feller like that feller Bill, it sort of makes me think of my Mina," he said.



The Quivering Mass Was Temporarily Halted.

Old Stiefel's wife had died two years before, and his only daughter had been killed in a railroad accident a year later. He lived absolutely alone, for at fifty one does not often make new friends.

"What I'm afraid of," he continued, munching his luncheon, "is that that rotten old Smith building's going to fall. Yes, fellers, them foundations is rotten—rotten, fellers. I've been down and I've seen them. Some swindling contractor must have set them down on the mud of the river bed. There ain't one inch of concrete under 'em, fellers. And if that old building falls" —he paused impressively—"I tell you, from the way them foundations is twisted, she falls plumb into the East river, like a house of cards. But don't you say nothing to Bill."

Miss Elizabeth always waved a welcoming hand to "Pop" Stiefel. He would have died for her. She had whispered to him, before anybody else was told, the secret of her engagement to Allen, and had told him be was to consider himself a privileged guest at the little bungalow which was being built for them out on Long Island. She reminded "Pop" more than ever of Mina. He went away, wiping the tears out of his eyes. Soft-hearted and stout of soul, Stiefel was exaggeratedly German, from his bluchers to his spectacles and his thatch of iron-gray hair.

He had gone down in the caisson. Under several pressures of atmosphere the men were pushing the great shield forward, scooping out the soft, cheese-like clay of the river bank and sending up the debris. When the gang's hour was ended old Stiefel remained down alone. He wanted to inspect those Smith building foundations again. He had been worrying about them. Three months remained before the old, condemned building was to be closed. Of course it was not likely that within three months they would give way. They must have been rotten for fifty years; three months made little difference.

Suddenly Stiefel became conscious that something abnormal was happening. In fact, the air pressure had been slightly lowered and a little silt was drifting in. That in itself was not of the greatest consequence. Probably there was a leaky valve somewhere which lowered the atmosphere tension. It had happened before and meant only a few hours' work lost. But this was something different. It was no leaky valve—he saw that now—but a sudden influx of quicksand, probably propelled by the sudden releasing of the pressure of the dead weight of clay that had confined it in its original limits. And it was flowing, not from the south, as it should have flowed, but from the west—from immediately beneath the Smith building.

"Pop" Stiefel knew what that meant. The rotten foundations would simply be swept away. The building, resting on nothing, would collapse as surely as a house of cards falls when the under cards are withdrawn.

The sweat poured down his face. He looked round him in agony. Then he rushed back to the air lock and entered the chamber with the next pressure of atmosphere. One man was waiting there, and he was just about to pass back into the upper air.

"Run!" shouted Stiefel, plucking him by the sleeve. "Run like all you was worth, you feller, and tell 'em the Smith building's going to fall!"

The man caught the horrified look on the old German's face and turned and obeyed. Then Stiefel turned back into the lowest chamber again and waded through eight inches of swampy sand.

"Five minutes!" he muttered. "Five minutes and she falls. But we'll save her!"

He knew that a slight obstruction often checks a vast momentum for a short space of time. And he, with his ponderous body—what better purpose could he serve? So he sat down heavily in the mud, which reached almost to his armpits. As he did so be became conscious that the quivering mass was temporarily halted, like some wave meeting a breakwater. The rippling surface undulated away from him; then slowly it crept round and upward. But he had saved a minute. And a minute meant the margin between death and safety.

He looked at his watch. "Four minutes," he said. "Five. Good. Now let her come!" And the mass rose to his neck and gulped his watch and the hand that held it, and lapped at his chin and nostrils. The old man tilted back his head to breathe. "She looked like Mina," he muttered, as though in extenuation of his sacrifice. And suddenly he saw Mina beside him, her arms outstretched, a look of ineffable love in her eyes. "Mina!" he mumbled thickly. "I'm coming, my dear!" And the lapping sands no longer oppressed him, nor the mud waves that now surged over him.

DULL TIME FOR ROYAL CHILD

Heir to the Throne of Russia Knows Very Little of the Genuine Joys of Boyhood.

The czarevitch cannot look back upon the joys of early life in the way that most children born to a throne are in a position to do. Nor will any of his European colleagues envy the crown prince of Russia.

From the day of his birth the little prince was put under the care of a Cossack guard, who is held answerable with his life for the safety of his charge. The soldier never leaves the child; he sleeps in the anteroom of his bedchamber. The room is locked, but a series of bells would at a touch communicate with the outside world. Two sentries parade in front of the bedroom door and a few paces further on is another double guard.

Little Alexis was four years old before his eyes fell on any sight beyond his own small garden bounded by the wall of a courtyard. He did not even play as other children do, for while he was digging in the sand or running about with his only companion, the son of a lady in waiting, other children were acting as his ghosts and running about in another part of the garden to distract attention and make security doubly sure. His own Cossack guarded the imperial child of Russia, while a second Cossack guard simulated duty over the other little ones.

An English tutor entered upon the service of the czarevitch when he was seven years old, but all lessons are done in the presence of the Cossack and of a lady in waiting. Friedborg was the first place the little boy saw outside his own secluded playground, later he beheld the grounds of the imperial residence, and from the decks of the Standart his eyes greeted the Baltic.

On one occasion only was the son of of the czar at a military reception, and the precautionary measures adopted were of the strictest kind. The czar and czarina have tried to prevent any possible risk of their child being poisoned, attacked or kidnaped. He eats nothing until it has been examined by his own special "taster," who makes trial of every dish before it appears on the table.—Neues Wiener Journal.

Tough Luck.

"Why so disconsolate?"

"I've such a fine formula for getting rid of red ants," pouted the bride.

"Well?"

"And I have no red ants to get rid of."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

EATING A CHURCH

Of all the things that may befall a church, nothing could be much stranger than the destruction of a little house of worship north of Hudson Bay, as once reported by the Bishop of the diocese. He had attended a synod of the Canadian church at Winnipeg, and there had seen a missionary bishop who had been six weeks on the way, having come most of the distance in a canoe. The missionary bishop reported gravely that the diocese of a brother bishop had "gone to the dogs." Being asked for an explanation he said that the Eskimos in the diocese had built a church with whales' ribs for rafters, and covered it with walrus hide. The little church held eighty persons; but in the time that elapsed between two services the building was set upon by a pack of famished dogs, and actually devoured it in a few hours.

A Riot of Cash and Beauty

This gown is of very light oyster gray brocade chiffon velvet over a soft white satin petticoat. The long, pointed court train is caught in the back with a magnificent scarf of Venetian lace. The back of the bodice and one side of the front are of white chiffon draped with the lace, which makes one sleeve entirely of lace and the other capped with the brocade. This style of making one side and sleeve of a bodice different from the other obtains in many other Paris houses besides that of Worth and it is seen in many afternoon frocks as well as evening gowns.

A touch of extreme elegance is the graduated fringe that finishes the bottom of the brocade skirt where it is pulled up at the side to show the satin petticoat. This gown is perhaps the handsomest that has been brought over this season and to a woman of fashion it speaks its cost as loudly if more elegantly, as though it were made of dollar bills. Only a woman who could wear ropes of pearls and diamond and egret feather hair ornaments should wear a gown of this magnificence. But given the time, the place and the circumstances it is the acme of luxurious good taste.

WHEN MAILING PAPERS

This Little Trick is a Good One to Remember

Everybody has sent papers to some friend or other person with a marked item of interest to them and when everybody does this everybody usually puts the wrapper on to stay and usually puts it on so securely that sections of reading matter come away with it when it is removed.

A good way to do away with this when sending papers is to paste a piece of fine linen thread or stout cord along the inner side of the wrapper, leaving a loose end on each end. Then when the paper is to be unwrapped all that is necessary is for the receiver to pull the string and the wrapper is neatly slit.

Whisky for Monkeys

Monkeys kept into captivity in the Zoo at Richmond, Indiana, are supplied with a drink of whisky every other day during the winter months, and their drink bill amounts to a considerable sum. The Zoo authorities say that the monkeys look for the whisky, which helps to keep them warm and in good health. It is now proposed to save money to the city by giving the monkeys all the whisky seized in raids on "tigbeons."

BURGLAR TRAPS AND PROTECTORS

Better Keep the Midnight Marauder Outside Than Fight With Him After He Enters the House

Most burglars are amateurs at th business; lots of them have little rea burglaring experience, and they ar easily outwitted. Naturally it is muc more pleasant to keep a burglar ou of the house than to put him ou when once he has loaded his bag.

A good way to fasten windows i to run screws through the uprigh frames, connecting both upper an lower sash.

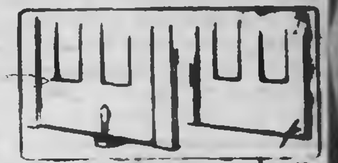
Locks on door can be easily opene from the outside; bolts are more s cure, but if the bolt is placed as usua with the bolt running along the doo and the socket on the frame an burglar can cut through the doo and move the bolt. Reverse the bolt placing it on the casing, with the catch or socket on the door and you've foile the man on the outside.

If you can't bolt the door, slip wedge beneath it, having the big en of the wedge fastened to the floo by a nail or any sharp pointed too such as an awl.

Screws to Make Window Sashes Bu glar Proof

A double pointed nail with one en resting against the door, the othe against the floor, will make it impossible for any one to open the doo from the outside, for the more on would push the farther the nail woul be jammed into both door and floo

Another good way to protect door is to pile some kitchen pans on table with the broom extending fro the pans to the door. When Miste Burglar opens the door he pushe against the broom and the broo throws the pans on the floor. Result A great noise, and burglar runs fo his life.



Wedge or Double-pointed Nail to Kee Door From Opening

If there is anything burglars don like, it's noise. Tie a weight to cord, run the cord across the doo near the top, fastening it on the othe side. When the door is opened presses against the cord, breaking and sending the weight down wit a great crash.

One man who was bothered wit intruders coming into his kitchen an making away with food filled a bucke of water, tied it over the door wit just a couple of inches of bucket extending down over the door. Whe the door was opened the bucket wa overturned, drenching the man below. That burglar never found out how h got his ducking, but he never got ove the threshold.

If you are going away even fo the day, don't pull down all the window shades and close the window That tells a burglar looking for "jobs that the house is not occupied, an he may try to enter either then o that night

There'll be a Frightful Racket if Burglar Opens This Door

They Needed It.

"Why, he was trying to get out o town with it!"

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

"Return Trip East," $18.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from all points east of MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton to Winnipeg.

TO SEE BOTTOM OF BAKING CAKE

It would be a great convenience for the housewife to be able to examine the bottom of a cake she is baking to watch the process of baking, but up to date there have been very few ways offered her to do this without removing the cake from the pan.

An ingenious cook found a way however. She cut out the bottom of her cake pan leaving about ⅜ inch of the metal around the four sides.

Then she obtained a piece of glass the size of the bottom of the pan and put this in for a bottom. Now she can look at the bottom of her baking cakes as well as the sides and in addition to this has a much more sanitary baking pan as the bottom can be removed and the sides more easily washed.

The Tailored Girl

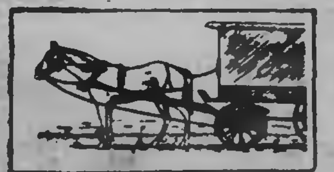
Notwithstanding the many draperies that are worn there still is seen the strictly tailored girl. She is usually young, for only a young woman can stand the plain lines of the correctly tailored suit. This costume is of blue and white check for the skirt and of plain blue for the coat. There is a white vestee with dark blue buttons and binding, with a white collar and blue choker with a large sailor hat. Note the side pocket in the skirt.

FOX FARMING

Prices Paid for Breeding Purposes Exceeds Pelt Values

A return of three hundred per cent on the capital involved is what silver-farmers in the Maritime Provinces received, according to a report on fur-farming in Canada. The fur value of a silver fox varies from about $300 to about $2,500 according to the quality of the pelt, but the prices paid for foxes for breeding purposes far exceed this. Ultimately the value of the silver fox must be determined by its fur value and not by the prices now being paid for breeders. It is plain, also, that, in the course of a few years, the numerous ranches in process of formation and which are creating such a demand for breeding stock, will be producing pelts for the market. The principal points at which the industry is carried on are around Alberton, Summerside, Charlottetown and Montague in Prince Edward Island; Quebec city in Quebec; Port Elgin in New Brunswick, and Wyoming in Ontario.

Tie Horse Like This



The average horse weight offers very little obstruction to a horse that really wants to walk away. A way out of the trouble is easily found, however, if the hitching strap is attached to the wheel, with the line just long enough to allow the horse's head to be held naturally when the strap is on the edge of the wheel nearest to him. Then if the horse takes a step forward the wheel turns and pulls its head down. It will be found that a horse can move but a few feet before it stops of its own accord if hitched in this way.

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a Real Cure

"I can't remember any time during the past twenty years when my heart wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to my head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P. O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going upstairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. I tell you how I feel to-day and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made. I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going upstairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine. They helped me, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health.

Our Eager Workers

That the men of Peterborough can and will rise to meet an emergency was demonstrated yesterday when hundreds of our citizens almost fought for the privilege of working in the wreck, in their anxiety to rescue the stricken and locate the dead.

Back After Fifty Years

Mr. J. Barry of Buffalom is in the city after an absence of nearly fifty years. Mr. Barry says that Peterborough is one of the nicest little cities he has ever visited. Yesterday Mr. Barry and Mr. and Mrs. Barry, of Auburn, N.Y., who are also in the city, took in the "local lions."

There is not a traveller who knows the trade of this district better than Mr. Hardill.

A Norwood Fire

Norwood, Aug. 28.—The fire bell was sounded on Thursday morning last at one o'clock, in warning of a fire at the old hop building on Mr. John Doherty's property, Hastings road. The building was entirely consumed by the flames, also a hop press and some sacks and crates contained in it.

How Lindsay Moves Garbage

Lindsay, Aug. 28.—Where is the town garbage cart which the council decided to purchase a month or so ago, is a question being asked by many citizens. The hauling away of the refuse on the permanent roads in a wheel barrow is a crude and unsatisfactory method by which valuable time is lost.

Body in Water With Feet Tied

Haliburton, Aug. 28.—The residents of Ingoldsby, Haliburton township, are shocked at the discovery of the body of a Barnado Home boy in the stream joining Kushog Lake to Cannon's Lake. His feet were tied together when found. He was living with Ed. Harrison and last Sunday was sent for the cows and had not been heard of since.

A Narrow Escape

Among those who had narrow escapes in yesterday's awful accident was Mrs. Harry Lashar, whose husband is employed in the Peterborough Lock Works. Mrs. Lasher was in the Turnbull Co. store when the accident had its inception. Following the frightened crowd to the George street entrance and managed, providentially to escape a cloud of falling lime and dust.

Lucky He Overslept

Mrs. H. Clayton, wife of the local moving picture house proprietor, had a narrow escape from yesterday's calamity. She had arranged with a lady friend to attend the bargain sale at J. C. Turnbull & Company's store at 9.15. However, Mrs. Clayton had fortunately had a very busy day on Tuesday and slept later than usual yesterday morning. At 9 o'clock, Mrs. Clayton telephoned her friend cancelling the engagement and thus, in all probability, saved her life.

Port Hope Chinaman Fined

Port Hope, Aug. 28.—Lee Jim's bite of Dickie's finger in George Hughes bakeshop last week proved rather expensive. The celestial and Dickie had a dispute about a laundry bill, the difference being 10c. Dick ordered the Chinaman out, whereupon the latter grabbed Dickie's finger between his teeth and gave it a severe biting. In Court this morning, Magistrate White imposed a fine of $10 and $6.75 costs, $3.00 of which goes to the defendant to pay the doctor's bill.

The Persian rug of the famous Hunt design will also be on exhibition.

Protestant Federation Meeting.

Last night the Sons of England hall on Hunter Street was well filled, when the Protestant Benevolent Association, of Peterborough and adjoining points held a meeting.

An address was given by the Revi J. A. Conners, a very able speaker. A splendid musical programme was rendered, under the direction of Mr. J. Miller. Following was the programme: prayer, Chaplain; minutes of previous meeting; usual business; obligation of new members; general business, etc.; violin solo, Mr. G. Leader; Recitation, Col. Miller; comic song, "Why Did She Kick Me Downstairs." Mr. T. L. Anderson; quartette, Messrs. Pratt, Green, Callender and Miller; address, Rev. F. A. Conners.

Quick Action Saved His Sight

Mr. Wilt Metheral who boards at the American Hotel, was able to be out yesterday after his serious injury of Tuesday. It will be remembered that Mr. Metheral, whilst attending the "Gun," used in connection with the Quaker Oats Co. puffed wheat cooking, had a narrow escape from being blinded or worse. He noticed that this steam gun had gone wrong in some way. With great presence of mind he suddenly ducked his head in time to escape most of the blinding cloud of superheated steam. Had he not dodged so promptly his face would have been destroyed. Mr. Metheral speaks in highest terms of the kindly way he was used by Mr. W. H. Denham and other officers of the company. His face is badly burnt, but will not be permanently disfigured.

Boy Drowned Sturgeon Lake

Lindsay, Aug. 28.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Coppins' landing, Sturgeon Lake, yesterday afternoon, the victim being George Roland Westaway, the only son of Byron Westaway, a farmer residing close to the scene of the fatality. Young Westaway, seven years and two months old, joined Mr. Coppins' son, a lad of about 15 years, who was going to the lake for a barrel of water. The two boys drove down with the team to the shore and backed the rig in for the purpose of conveniently filling the barrel with water. At this point the bottom is rocky and for several feet from the shore the water is shallow, but drops suddenly down for several feet. It was into this hole that the wagon backed, with the result that both of the youths were precipitated into the water. Young Coppins struggled to the wagon on coming up, but the Westaway boy sank from his view.

OBITUARY.

MUSIC and DRAMA

MISS LUCILE PARRISH IN "LITTLE MISS FIX-IT."

Lucile Parrish, the dainty singing comedienne, will be seen at the Grand Opera House, on Saturday next, August 30th, matinee and night, in the "a laugh or a song hit every minute success," "Little Miss Fix-It." During the action of the play, Miss Parrish will sing her very latest song hits, including: "Love's Wireless," "Little Girl," "Laughing Love," "I've a Garden in Sweden," etc. She will also add new charm to the famous "turkey trot," the dance sensation of the piece, which is just now the rage among the fashionable Newport colony.

The story of "Little Miss Fix-It" deals with a young married couple who love each other so devotedly that they indulge in one of those "I'll never speak to you again," quarrels peculiar to that blissful period just before and immediately after marriage. The wife endeavors to forget her own sorrow in the noble endeavor to make others happy, so she proceeds to "fix it" for all her friends who are either in love, or, according to her ideas, should be. Of course, she attains her worthy ends, but not until amusing situations, clever lines, tuneful songs, pretty girls and lovely stage pictures have combined to furnish an evening of thorough enjoyment.

The play ran for four months at the Globe Theatre, New York, last winter and was the big summer musical hit in Chicago.

500 ROBBERIES

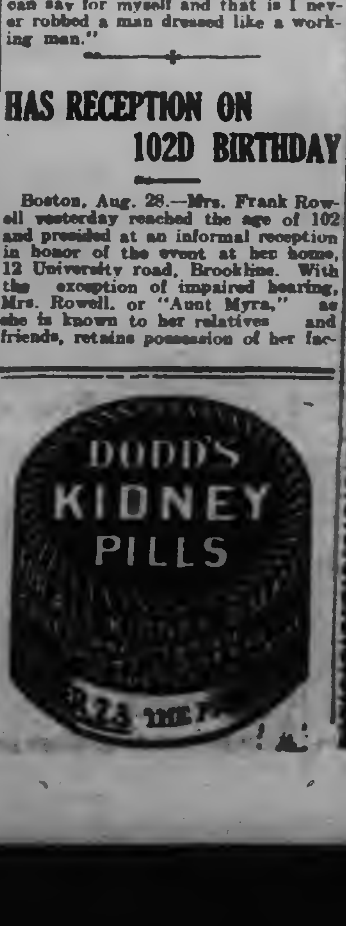
Chicago, Aug. 28.—In a statement made to the police, Walter Novak, 20 years old, arrested with four companions today after they had fatally wounded one policeman and beaten another, admitted having taken part in more than thirty robberies in two months and boasted of his career.

"I was born a thief and I've been a thief ever since; I suppose I've committed 500 robberies," said Novak. "I don't care whether I go to the gallows. I started when I was 9 years old, stealing pennies from kids. I have been put in all kinds of institutions to reform me but they only made me worse.

"There is only one good thing I can say for myself and that is I never robbed a man dressed like a working man."

HAS RECEPTION ON 102D BIRTHDAY

Boston, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Frank Rowell yesterday reached the age of 102 and presided at an informal reception in honor of the event at her home, 12 University road, Brookline. With the exception of impaired hearing, Mrs. Rowell, or "Aunt Myra," as she is known to her relatives and friends, retains possession of her faculties to a remarkable degree, is active about the house and a regular reader of newspapers and magazines. She received many messages of congratulation, flowers and other gifts yesterday. Mrs. Rowell makes her home with her niece, Mrs. T. F. Hovey, and grandniece, Miss Clarissa Hovey.



GIRL TELLS STORY OF WHITE SLAVERY

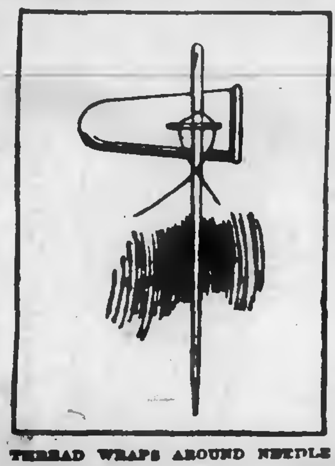
Boston, Aug. 28.—How a pretty Maine girl was taken from her home and forced to live an immoral life by threats of death was unfolded in the federal building yesterday when United States Commissioner Hayes held Multrades Kutsumekos better known as James Brown, of Nashua, N. H., in $10,000 bonds for a hearing Aug. 20 on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act.

According to the stories of the girl, Ethel J. Hight, 23 years old, she was taken first to Nashua and then to Lowell. The man and the girl were arrested in Lowell, Wednesday night by Special Agent Schmid. The Lowell police turned over to the federal official a list of money received by the girl while she was being held in Lowell.

NEEDLE THREADER

Acts Automatically as Needle Is Drawn Through Slot

A little device which will save many women time and eye strain has been patented by an Indiana woman. It is a needle threader, and its action is practically automatic. In connection with it a thimble is used or to be more exact, the threading device is mounted on the thimble. It consists of a flat, narrow strip of metal with a central transverse eye and inwardly inclined end walls. The head of the needle passes through this eye and the thread is brought around the end walls and wrapped once around it. As the needle is drawn through the eye the thread is hooked into its own eye through the lower end, which is open. The free part of the eye, however, is resilient and opens only at the pressure from without that is exerted by the thread sliding through it.



THREAD WRAPS AROUND NEEDLE

SLEEP AND BEAUTY

"Forty Winks" During the Day of Incalculable Value

Sleep is one of the greatest aids to beauty; a woman's beauty nap is an absolute essential to her good looks. Lack of sleep will make her look old and sallow, while a sufficient amount will give her youth and beauty.

Many women think it is enough to sleep seven or eight hours at night; but if a beauty nap was indulged in during the day, the woman who claims she is ageing, despite the fact that she is exercising, dieting, and using many measures to preserve her youth, would find that the nap would do more for arresting the flight of youth and beauty than anything else.

Some women are so constituted that the average hours of wakefulness and activity are too long for them; their nerves become very tired, and in order to continue activity throughout the day a supreme effort must be exerted. This would be all right if it were only for one or two days, but to continue it daily will eventually not only rob the woman of one of her greatest assets—beauty—but it will also undermine her health.

However, the beauty nap is a thing that must be cultivated, but once one has learned to control the senses it will be an easy matter to drop into an unconscious state and remain so for a period.

It may be difficult for one who is actively engaged, to relax into a sleeping state during the day. To begin with, it is suggested that no effort be made to sleep—not even to lie down, but sitting with the elbows on table, head resting on hands, maintain an indifference to wakefulness. Confine the mind to thinking of light and simple things, gradually close the eyes, relax the muscles, and breathe rhythmically. Soon you will experience the desire to sleep, and you will then realize that you have gained control of your senses.

VOL. XI., NO. 203 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, AUG. 30, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS

CITY COUNCIL WILL PAY FOR EXPERT EVIDENCE AT INQUEST INTO CAUSE FOR LATE TRAGEDY

Coroner Greer Will Thoroughly Probe the Matter--Majority of City Fathers Favor the Petition of Local Witnesses Conversant With Local Conditions

At last night's Council meeting Ald. Gordon suggested that, as the city's coroner had no power to pay witnesses to give evidence as to the cause of the collapse of the Turnbull building, the Council rise to the occasion and pay for expert evidence. Ald. Gordon therefore moved that the Mayor be authorized to retain and pay an architect or building inspector from some outside city to give testimony before the coroner's inquest into the cause of the collapse of the J. C. Turnbull & Co's building at the corner of George and Simcoe streets.

Ald. Buller and Duncan did not think any outside architect could now judge intelligently of the cause of the tragedy. Ald. Buller added that there are plenty of practical men in this city capable of reaching a conclusion as to what caused the accident, without calling in outside aid.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall said that the coroner desired an independent opinion as to the cause of the accident for his guidance. He had no authority to pay for such evidence.

The City Engineer contended that it would be difficult for any outsider to judge of the cause of the accident. Not knowing the conditions of the building before the alterations were gone into, he would have to depend upon local information for his guidance.

Council general opined that local men with a knowledge of conditions before the accident could give the most acceptable evidence. Consequently Ald. Gordon could get no seconder to his resolution for outside evidence.

Ald. Gillespie here moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that the city treasurer be authorized to pay up to $50, on certificate of the coroner, for expert witnesses at the inquest into the cause of the fall of the Turnbull building—Carried.

This means that the selection of such evidence—local or outside—is left with the coroner.

Ald. Gordon held to his contention that independent outside evidence, free from any local associations whatever, is what the coroner desires and should have.

Resolution of Sympathy.

Ald. Anderson moved, seconded by Ald. Buller, that this council extend its sympathy to the bereaved families of those who lost their lives in the deplorable calamity caused by the fall of the Turnbull building on the 28th inst.—Carried unanimously.

Ald. Buller and Duncan moved a resolution of thanks to all citizens who so nobly co-operated in rendering aid at the scene of the late tragedy caused by the collapse of the Turnbull building.—Carried unanimously.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Gillespie, the building inspector (Engineer Hay) will be asked to report in regard to his policy in regard to inspection of buildings.—This motion was lost.

PREMIER OF ENGLAND, ASQUITH ASSAULTED WHILE PLAYING GOLF

Two Militants Handled the Premier Roughly--Latter Did Not Resist

Elgin, Scotland, Aug. 28.—The British Prime Minister was the object of an attack this afternoon in which his chivalry restrained him from adequately defending himself. While he was golfing with his daughter on the Lossiemouth links two stalwart suffragettes, who had quietly come up to the green, sprang at him suddenly. They knocked off his hat, grabbed him by the clothing and dragged him some distance over the ground.

The Prime Minister bore his rough treatment complacently and refrained from using force to make them desist while they imparted to him their opinion that he was a scoundrel and a past master in the arts of Ananias. Miss Asquith, who was a little distance off when the suffragettes pounced on her father, ran to his assistance and proceeded to apply militant methods to the militants.

Detectives to the Rescue.

The battle waged for only a few moments when two detectives rushed up and with difficulty released Mr. Asquith from the clutches of the suffragettes. The detectives took the women to the club lodge, where after listening to various opinions of themselves hardly less complimentary than those they had expressed to the Premier, they were placed in a motor car and driven to the Elgin Police Station, to the accompaniment of much booing and hissing and repeated cries of "Let us get at them; we will duck them in the sea."

At the station the women refused to give their names or addresses. Mr. Asquith resumed play after the suffragettes had been hauled off him, and was loudly cheered when he reached the last green.

ROYAL WIFE-BEATER 'HENRY THE BRUTE' NO LONGER

Wilhelmina's Husband Is Much Subdued After Kaiser Reads Riot Act

Vienna, Aug. 29.—Prince Henry of the Netherlands, the husband of Queen Wilhelmina, who had been visiting here, left a good impression and royalty is willing to forgive him his reputation for rudeness acquired in the early state of his marital life.

A penniless Duke of Macklenburg, he thought he could play tyrant when he fell into the Dutch butter-tub, and learning to his surprise that his wifes subjects merely regarded him in the capacity of a male, he essayed to lord it at home. That earned him the title of Henry the Brute, and soon the whole world was candalized by the royal wife-beater.

As it happened, Henry was a Prussian officer, hence, the Kaiser had power to correct him and it is said he did so in unmistakable terms.

PRINCE IS SUBDUED.

At any rate Henry became very much subdued and henceforth treated his wife with becoming deference and humility. As the Dutch say: "If there is any beating to be done in the palace, Our Mientchen shall do it."

This is almost ancient history now, but the appearance of Henry in a royal gathering recalled these unpleasant facts by the mere coincident that the Prince of the Netherlands is so different now. He seems to have acquired a definite purpose in life. His ambition is to become lord protector of life-saving institutions by land and sea. He is now travelling in Europe to study the various life-saving devices and is generally looked upon as a serious and well meaning man, instead of a little, overgrown sub-officer.

U. S. AND JAPAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29. —The first test of the constitutionality of the California alien land law will be begun here within the next few hays by H. Tanigaschi, a wealthy Japanese, according to his attorney, H. A. Chamberlain.

Tanigachi desires to transfer 200 acres of land to fellow-countrymen for agricultural purposes. Because the law provides that aliens not eligible to naturalization cannot become possessed of real property within the State. Tanigachi directed Attorney Chamberlain to secure an interpretation from the United States courts as to its constitutionality.

PUBLIC SWIMMING POOLS AND BATHING HOUSES FOR THIS CITY NEXT YEAR

Board Of Works Will Co-Operate With The Secretary of of the Y. M. C. A. in This Matter--Downie Street Creek Diversion Again Laid on the Table--Final Move in Street Paving Project

The City Fathers met in special session last night. There were present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Duncan, Buller, Duffus, Gillespie, Gordon and Anderson.

C. E. Adams of East City, wrote claiming $500 damages from the Board of Works for authorizing the construction of a railway siding in front of his property into the Vermont Marble Co's premises. This was sent to the Legal Committee.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., wrote in regard to the provision of public bathing facilities and placed his services at the city's disposal in the way of advancing such a project. This matter was sent to the Board of Works.

A letter from J. J. Turner & Sons in regard to signs directing strangers to the lilt lock and street signs was sent along to the Board of Works.

The Water Commissioners wrote that they would lay a water main along Prince street if the city would guarantee the construction of a sewer along said street within one year's time, and a sufficient number of requests for water service sent in to assure a revenue to defray the cost of the work.

The reports of the several committee's business since last council meeting were adopted as read.

Downie Street Creek Meddle.

The Council are of opinion that Mr. D. W. Dumble is asking too much in consideration of the course of the Downie street creek being diverted through his property at the corner of Smith and Downie streets. Amongst other things Mr. Dumble is asking the city to assume liability for damages in case the water course at any time overflows its banks, by reason of abnormal spring freshets or otherwise. Council positively refused to enter into any such agreement with Mr. Dumble, and consequently the Downie street creek project is again sidetracked. Ald. Buller will interview Mr. Dumble on this matter.

Dry Sweeping By-law.

A by-law to prohibit the dry sweeping of sidewalks between Charlotte and Brock and Water and Aylmer streets passed its several readings. Any person not watering a sidewalk in front of his premises, within the given area, before sweeping same will be subject to a fine of $5.

Public Swimming Pools.

Ald. Gordon raised the question of public bathing houses and swimming pools on the river. The Y.M.C.A., he offered, would give the services of a swimming expert during the season to teach swimming, and the city should supply bathing houses, life preservers, etc.

Ald. Buller was in sympathy with this project which he hoped would be carried into effect next year.

The secretary of the Y.M.C.A. will be asked to discuss this matter with the Board of Works, a scheme for the establishment of public bathing houses and swimming pools next year.

Street Paving By-law.

A by-law to authorize the execution of an agreement with Foley & Gleeson for the construction of concrete pavements on parts of George, Charlotte and Hunter streets, passed its several readings.

Abuse of Garbage By-law.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Duffus, the City Solicitor was instructed to prepare an amendment so the Garbage By-law to prevent its abuse in the way of parties placing their garbage cans in front of other people's premises. This means that such cans must be placed on the street line or lane opposite one's own property, or in default of such facilities at spots designated by the Sanitary Inspector.

King Street Crossing.

Ald. Duffus contended that the gate men at King and Sherbrooke streets crossing cannot possibly see the trains coming by reason of the engine house, hence the protection is inadequate. And on his motion the Board of Railway Commissioners will be written to this effect.

BASEBALL

There was a large attendance yesterday at Riverside Park to witness the double-header ball game between Hamilton and the Petes. The two games were of a high order and the best and cleanest of the season. The boys opened up the game airtight and from start to finish it was a pitcher's battle. Stan. Cresswell pitched both games and kept the Tigers in hand all through. The first game ended with a score, up to the ninth inning of 2—2, when Peg. Swartz swarted one out to left field bringing in the winning run.

The second game was even faster, the sides were retired in 1, 2, 3 order and no scoring was done until the last of the seventh, when Fox, first up, made a three bagger. The Hamilton pitcher deliberately walked Hilliard, and next in turn Trout, filling the bases, when Peg. Swartz came up and swarted another, scoring Fox, and winning the game with a score of 1—0.

Features of the games yesterday was the brilliant playing of both Brant and Swartz.

The game to-day, which begins at 3 o'clock, promises to be a battle royal, as it is the closing of the Peterborough end of the Canadia League. The fans should turn out to the limit to give the boys their support and show their appreciation of the elasty ball they have put up during this season.

CIRCUS TRAMP DROPS CIGAR AND HALF OF WESTERN FAIR WIPED OUT

Two Men Said to Have Been Seen Running Away From the Cattle Sheds Where Blaze Started--The Police Are Working on This Theory

London, Ont., Aug. 28.—Fire, which it is believed was caused by a tramp following the circus smoking in a cattle shed early to-day, swept the Western Fair Grounds causing a loss of $100,000. The big machinery hall, carriage buildings, pig and the sheep buildings, and about one third of the big horse sheds are a pile of ashes. The buildings were all frame and fanned by a high wind, the flames licked them up in a few minutes. The fact that the heavy shower, an hour or two before, had soaked the roofs of adjoining buildings probably prevented the whole of the fair buildings and the grand stand from going. The large Grand Trunk unloading platform and many cars were burned, and the half-million dollar G.T.R. car works, just across the street from the horse sheds was on fire many times, but was saved by the efforts of the company's own fire department.

Fair Will Still Be Held.

As the fair was to open next week, and thousands of exhibits are on the way, the management is up against a big problem. An effort will be made to secure tents to put the exhibits in in the meantime.

The police are investigating a story told by Henry Wakeling, one of the first to notice the blaze, to the effect that he saw two men running away from the cattle sheds, where the fire was first noticed.

President Reid stated to-day that the loss is fully covered by insurance. The fair, he says, will go on as usual, and at a meeting being held to-day the directors are hustling the necessary arrangements. Far from being dismayed at the loss of about a quarter of their buildings, they unanimously express the hope that bigger and better buildings than ever will replace those lost.

MAN SLEEPS IN A HOUSE WITH TWO SLAIN WOMEN

Tennessee Man Finds Dead Bodies of Murdered Wife and Niece In Morning

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 29.—Meager reports of a terrible double murder in the Rock Springs neighborhood, four miles west of the village of Smyrna, reached Nashville to-day. The victims were Mrs William Cook, wife of a prosperous farmer, and a niece, Miss Lucy Stanford, a young woman teacher in a nearby school.

Last night Mr. Cook attended a revival service at Smyrna, returning home about 10.30 o'clock. Mrs. Cook was not in her room, but thinking she was in her niece's room, he retired. When he awoke this morning he saw no signs of his wife having retired, but going out on the back porch he found her dead body covered with blood. In the niece's room was the latter's dead body. The wife's body had apparently been dragged from the girl's room. Cook gave the alarm at once, a neighbor telephoning to the sheriff at Rutherford county at Murfreesboro, who went to the scene with bloodhounds.

Early reports did not indicate the probable motive of the murderers nor the weapons used to accomplish the death of the two women.

Great excitement prevails at Smyrna.

A JUVENILE COURT IN SECRET SESSION

Yesterday morning another Star Chamber Secret Session of the Juvenile Court was held.

At 10 a.m., Magistrate Stumble wiped off his chin and mounted the dais. To Chief Johnston he remarked: "Chief, are the outside guards posted so that no reporters can tell the mothers of Heterborough what threatens their daughters?"

"Yes, most worthy autocrat!" replied the chief.

"Constable White, kindly see that the chimneys are guarded and that the key holes are plugged. It will never do for this court to lose its authority. The public pay us, but you must realize that the common public has no rights!"

"Yes, most worthy autocrat, even the mouse traps have been oiled for fear of sound from the court escapes!"

"Proceed!" remarked the Poobah of secret sessions. "Call the first case!"

Three boys, named Willie Smith, Johnny Jones and Tommy Brown were charged with stealing the shadows cast by an eastbound train. With a heavy frown, the Poobah viewed the young culprits and asked, "Are you guilty of this heinous offense? Can you assure me you have mentioned nothing of the offense to the press of Heterborough?"

The boys kowtoed before this secret tribunal and replied, "No, Master, we aint done nothing."

"Let us here the evidence," said the Poobah, after warning Chief Johnston to send Detective Sadiron out scouting for local newspaper men. Here one of the boys became hysterical and exclaimed "Please, Mister, I done it!"

"Done what?" asked the Poobah of the Juvenile Court.

"I told a Heterborough reporter there was a Juvenile Court on to-day!"

"Poor boy!" said the Poobah, "I'm sorry, but I'll have to send you to the Limestone Penitentiary for the rest of your natural life."

"As far as you other boys are concerned, you are acquitted, so long as you have seen that the press of Heterborough do not get the same privileges as granted in other places.

POSTAL REVENUE ALSO JUMPING

Improved Administration Under L. P. Pelletier Produces Better Results All Round.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Despite reports to the contrary the country is in a state of prosperity and the postal receipts for the first four months of the fiscal year give a splendid indication of the increased business, which is taking place everywhere. Under the administration of Hon L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General of the Post Office Department is being administered with a single eye to efficiency. The reforms he has initiated in the working of his department have made for more faithfulness among the officials with a correspondingly good result.

For the first four months of the fiscal year, 1913—that is, from March 31 to July 31—the postal revenue was $4,385,507, as against $4,142,849 for 1912; an increase of $442,658. Ten years ago the receipts for the same four months was $1,735,243.

For the month of July the revenue was $1,286,074, against $1,094,429 for the same month of 1912. Ten years ago for July, 1903, the returns were $388,470.

PLAY FUNERAL MARCH AT WEDDING FOR WIFE

Chicago, Aug. 29.—A funeral march and rag time were played at the secret wedding last week, of Gene Green, a vaudeville performer. The ceremony which was performed in the Presbyterian Church at Rensselaer, Ind., did not become known until recently.

The dirge was in memory of Green's first wife, who died in February, and was substituted for the wedding march. The organist struck up a popular melody as the groom and his bride, who was Miss Harriet Kliessendorff, left the church.

AFTERMATH OF THURSDAY'S DIRE DISASTER BY COLLAPSE OF STORE

Sympathy of Whole Community is Extended to the Afflicted--Funeral Arrangements Are Noted

As an aftermath of the terrible catastrophy which occurred here on Thursday morning, when five people lost their lives in the unfortunate collapse of the J. C. Turnbull & Co. Departmental store, we can only reiterate the sorrow the Times and its whole staff feel over this lamentable affair. It would be ill-advised at this juncture to express any opinion as to locating the, at present seeming culpable negligence for this disaster. The inquest on September 4th, will establish where the blame if any, lies. If there is any personal blame attaching to the occurrence, the guilty party, if such exists must be sufficiently punished, in the mean time for his or their mistake.

One thing, however, we might venture to assert, and that is, that when such operations were in progress, the building should have been vacated. It now looks as though Providence had been tempted. We might, without expressing in any tangible form a criticism of the occurrence, note that Mr. Tom Rutherford, Peterborough's veteran builder, who has handled the reconstruction of many buildings, on Wednesday night remarked on returning to his home that on that evening he saw the walls were several inches out of plumb, and predicted a catastrophy. He also told The Times what was almost criminally wrong in handling the changes made in the Turnbull building. However, as an inquest is now being held to ascertain the cause of this disaster, it would be ill-advised to give his views in print.

Mr. Finley Here.

Mr. J. A. Finley, husband of Mrs. Finley, who was seriously injured in the collapse of the building was in the city yesterday.

The bodies of Miss Boddison and Mr. J. J. Cuffe, were removed to their late residence yesterday from Belleghem's Undertaking Parlours.

Mr. Belcher's Statement.

Had the accident been ten minutes later, Mr. John Belcher, the architect for the operations would have been in the Turnbull building. He was coming in from home to his office and was crossing Hunter street to go to the postoffice he noticed the dust at the corner, but thought the trouble to be a fire.

"I have no idea what caused the collapse, Mr. Belcher said yesterday. I made inspections of the building the night before and found everything satisfactory. I also asked the bricklayer if he knew of anything that should be done, and he answered "No."

Funeral Arrangements.

The funeral arrangements made up to yesterday morning were as follows:

Mrs. John Kelly to be taken to Norwood.

Funeral of Miss Sisson to Cavanville on Sunday.

Funeral of Miss Boddison from the family residence to All Saints' church, Sunday morning, Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

Funeral of J. J. Cuffe, from his brother's residence to the Little Lake cemetery, Sunday afternoon.

Funeral of Mrs. Brown to the Westwood cemetery on Monday.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 386 George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

For the Slim Girl

Only a thin girl can wear this tailored suit, which is a design of Doucet's. It is of the new shade of blue rough silk. The skirt is narrow and caught up on one side after the manner of a riding skirt. The coat is made with a full waist and wide belt. Upon this is sewed a deeply pleated peplum, which reaches to below the knees in the back and is rounded in a cut-away fashion in the front. The coat is lined with a darker blue silk than the outside. Dark linings are the fashion fancy of the moment. About the throat is the very latest neck piece; a wide turn-over collar of heavy blue uncut velvet embroidered at the ends and fastened with broad ties of oriental crepe in brilliant colors. The simple hat is of black "hemp" trimmed with a black bird of paradise feather. If you are tall and slender with big brown eyes this dress is for you.

FARMS IN ENGLAND

Few of the Very Large Holdings Have Shown a Profit

Among the farms in England ranging from 2,000 to 10,000 acres less than 5 per cent. have shown an annual profit in the last ten years. One writer in The Daily Mail goes into details in regard to a Midland farm of 2,100 acres, valued at $95,000 under the Finance Act, but which ten years ago could have been sold for three times that amount. The receipts from this farm amounted in 1912 to $6,500, and the expenditure to $110, plus that amount.

Owing to the general fall in the value of land the landlord has lost a large capital sum since he came into possession. It is calculated that in England the capital value of land fell by over $500,000,000 or $2,500,000,000 within a generation, and his due proportion of the national loss has fallen on this landlord. If put into the open market the estate would probably not fetch nearly $100,000, but if it sold at half this price the landlord would be richer than he now is by several thousand dollars a year.

One need not go into his reasons for holding, but it is clear that at present he acts as a sort of agricultural credit bank to the estate. Whatever requires capital to be done he does. When the farmers were in a bad way he reduced the rents to a minimum. In the eyes of both farmers and laborers, schoolmaster and parson, who complete the population, he is regarded as the pivot of the organization. Without his capital there would be chaos, and without his personality much less confidence, which is the moral side of credit.

Effect of Cold on Cat's Fur

A remarkable transformation of a cat's fur by temperature has been reported. A black cat was accidentally shut in the refrigerating chamber of a mail steamer in Sydney harbor, and was not discovered until about thirty-two days later, when the ship was off Aden.

The cat was scarcely recognizable, the fur having become long and thick, changing to white on the back. Brought out into the intense heat of the Red sea, the heavy white coat rapidly fell out and the normal coat was restored.

Umbrella Device

A combination lock that encircles the handle of an umbrella and prevents it being opened by any person ignorant of the combination is the invention of a London cafe coat room attendant.

New Sewing Machine

A sewing cabinet capacious enough to hold everything a seamstress may need in her work yet which folds up like a screen and can be carried by handles on one side has been invented by a Minnesotan.

RESTFUL BEDROOMS

Some Suggestions For Furnishing, Trimming and Decorating

Bedrooms should be furnished to give a feeling of repose; the colors should be restful. Select comfortable furniture and avoid any appearance of crowding; remembering these rules and with harmony as a watchword, success is sure to follow.

Location decides the color scheme to a great extent, a north room requiring a sunlight effect, which can best be realized by the use of pale yellow for the walls; where the light is to be subdued, a good gray-green will produce a feeling of the woods. White woodwork is desirable; it lends itself to so many modes of decoration, though fine results may be had by the use of oak, birch and other woods.

Colonial furnishings are seen at their best in the country. Nothing can quite equal a bedroom with doors and window seats of mahogany, a white trim, a cool grey-green wall and Colonial furniture. Figured papers, well chosen, are equally suited to the country house.

In furniture there are beds of wood with rattan panels, comfortable reed and willow chairs, and many other pieces of summer furniture of excellent effect, and to suit individual tastes. A comfortable chair for reading with its accompanying footstool, one for the dressing table, and a low chair for sewing and a table for books are almost indispensable.

A bedroom needs but few pictures, and in the present day so many really excellent reproductions of great pictures are to be had that a good selection is easily made, while the possession of good old prints is to be envied.

Braided rag rugs shading from cream to tan are suitable, or with soft green. Conventional designs are as easily carried out in a rug as a raffia basket. Speaking of raffia, baskets of this grass made to contain flower bowls are attractive and appropriate. A room in a country house is not complete without its bowl of flowers, and the cheerful gleam of a couple of brass candlesticks or vases will make a room as comfortable and attractive by night as it is cool and refreshing during the day.

Cat-like Animal

A huge cat-like animal was killed recently on the bush farm of Joseph Sauder, Puslinch Township, Ont., by Aaron Ziegler. It was discovered that some miraudiug creature was stealing meat hung up in the kitchen, and a burrow under the building was accidentally disclosed, extending 100 yards back to the swamp. At the entrance to the burrow a dead-fall was set and worked to a charm. The captive animal was despatched with a crowbar. It was pronounced by Mr. Herbert Wales, Galt, taxidermist, to be a genuine catamount or mountain lion. It weighed 28 pounds and measured 5 feet 4 inches from nose to tail tip.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

While the crisising is good, our old friend, the Balkan crisis, is making the most of the spotlight

"After Sulzer what?" asks a Toronto paper. Well, at this distance it looks very much like the Tammanay tiger.

The sober second thought does much on the morning after to make a man wish he had remained sober and escaped the purple taste and the headache.

A story comes from the west to the effect that a man has a skunk farm near there and his little son plays with the skunks the same as he would with the kittens. May be so, but it's a safe bet that nobody plays with the boy.

SOCIALISM

In Germany and Belgium Socialism has made enormous gains in recent years. But in English-speaking lands "the growth has not been so marked. At a recent annual conference of the Fabian Society Mr. R. C. K. Ensor declared that there was a slump in Socialism; and The Party Builder, the official organ of the American National Committee, now announces that "after the most successful campaign, ending in the most remarkable advance (considering the odds) ever made by the Socialist party in this country, there has been a steady falling off in membership until there are nearly 50,005 less members than a year ago." The year has also witnessed the demise of the following socialistic publications: The Coming Nation; The Chicago Daily Socialist; The Washington National Socialist; and the Cleveland Socialist. There is no doubt that some of the truths for which Socialism stands are becoming very widely accepted, but there seems to be too much of an impracticable nature in the ordinary socialist program to commend it to Anglo-Saxon peoples.

CHEAPER MONEY FOR FARMERS

There has been a strong effort made to secure cheaper money for farmers, especially in the western provinces, and the Saskatchewan Government appointed a Royal Commission, which recently spent some three months in Europe investigating money and credit conditions there in relation to agriculture, and the Commission is now holding a series of meetings throughout Saskatchewan in order to get more closely in touch with the real need of the farmers of the province. The United States Government is alive to the demand for cheaper money in its own western states, and has arranged to loan the western and southern banks $100,000,000 if necessary, to enable them to finance the crops, such loans to be repaid in December and January. But while there is something in the cry for cheaper money, there is also something in what the Farmers Advocate, of Winnipeg, says in regard to the matter. The editor declares emphatically that "No sane system can be adopted that will enable the negligent or careless farmer to secure the loans that he desires, and any farmer who, up to the present year has found credit hard to secure will find it difficult for the same reasons, through whatever system the Government of Saskatchewan may see fit to foster." And he says further, that "If the farmers of Saskatchewan are to have cheaper money they must be prepared to drop in all cases speculative schemes and get at farming on a sound basis. And moreover, it is altogether likely they will have to submit to certain restraint in order to take advantage of any system of cheap loans that may be inaugurated." Whether cheaper money will be welcomed under these conditions is another question.

Every Weak Throat Quickly Strengthened And Bronchitis Cured

Grand Results Follow the Direct Breathing Remedy, Which Cures Without Drugging.

The country is fairly wild over the wonderful recovery that throat sufferers are making every day with Catarrhozone. From ocean to ocean come letters telling of rapid cures—and cures when the complaint was chronic and long standing. It's a brand new principle upon which Catarrhozone works—not a single dose of medicine to take—nothing to upset the stomach or spoil digestion.

You can breathe through the Catarrhozone Inhaler medicated air that is full of healing, soothing balsams, full of piney antiseptic essences that resemble the air of the pine woods in the Adirondacks. The piney vapor has a truly marvelous action on weak throats. It brings strength and health to the bronchitic, stops that hacking, irritating cough, prevents hoarseness and difficult breathing. You can't find anything for weak-throated people on earth more beneficial than Catarrhozone. It means heaven on earth to the man that has had bronchitis, catarrh or throat irritation. You will realize this the first time you use Catarrhozone, which is a scientific preparation specially designed for diseases of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Get the large size, it lasts two months, costs $1.00; medium size, 50c.; sample size, 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SEEN AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

THE GREAT BISCUIT DISPLAY.

When you are talking of the things good to eat, tasty, delicious and satisfying, you naturally come around to the proverb "A biscuit for every Taste," and, of course, everybody at once thinks then of the makers of the greatest biscuits in the world, The Christie, Brown & Company, Toronto.

In the Manufacturers' Building, and on the main aisle, may be seen the exhibit of the Christie, Brown & Company this year, and as the Fair directors have called it "Expansion Year," the biscuit manufacturing firm has added a little touch to their stand because a little added touch to the taste of the biscuits was impossible.

Those in charge of the display are courteous, and while you are visiting the world's great annual fair, do not fail to drop in, and see the biscuit exhibit. You will never forget the variety, and always after your pantry will be well supplied with delicate biscuits.

Just because you have heard the words "Christie's biscuits" all your life, do not allow that to stop you from seeing and learning

EXHIBIT FOR OFFICE MANAGERS

Business men attending the Exhibition from outside points should visit the offices of the United Typewriter Company of 7 Adelaide street east and see their permanent exhibit of special office appliances. The exhibit includes such machines as the Underwood adding machine, condensed billing typewriter multiple unit order writer, computing machines, Roneo duplicators, and many other special devices. Demonstrations of expert typewriter operation are given daily from 12 to 2 and from 4 to 5 o'clock by the fastest typists in the Dominion.

DRUNKENNESS CURED.

Any visitor to the Toronto Exhibition who suffers from the curse of inebriety, either personally or through anyone near and dear should call at the Gatlin Institute, 428 Jarvis Street corner Maitland, for full information regarding the wonderful Gatlin cure.

The Gatlin Cure absolutely does away with all desire for liquor in three days under legal contract to refund money if not satisfactory. The Gatlin Institute occupies a handsome and comfortable residence in Toronto, a fine residential section and the patient is comfortable and happy during the three days required for his cure. Thousands of men and women throughout Canada testify to the wonderful results of this treatment and visitors are cordially invited to call and have a talk with the Doctor in charge.

BIRD'S DINING HALL.

Every year Bird's Dining hall, opposite the west end of the Grand Stand at Toronto Exhibition, does a larger business because people are pleased with the meals served here. A full course dinner is served for 35 cents and you pay as you go out, after you have eaten the meal. Everything in dining hall and kitchen is clean and tidy, and the meats, fish, vegetables and deserts are good and well cooked. Don't forget Bird's dining hall when you visit the Exhibition. In the Private Dining Hall in connection a 50 cent meal is served.

HONEST WEIGHT.

"You are sure of Honest Weight where TOLEDO SCALES are used. They contain No Springs." Such is the essence of the thousands of pieces of advertising matter being distributed from the handsome exhibit of the Toledo Scale Co. in the Manufacturers' Building. It must be a source of satisfaction to the users of these machines to have these features so prominently brought before their customers. The wonderful success of the Toledo Scale Company is due to the vast superiority of their product. TOLEDO SCALES to-day are recognized as the standard of excellence, and a visit to this exhibit is well worth while.

PEMBER'S HAIR GOODS.

You are invited to visit the Pember Store, 127 Yonge street, Toronto, and privately examine the Pember switches, transformations, waves and curls. This store carries the finest line of human hair goods in Canada and the exclusive and unapproachable Pember styles, beauty and grace will appeal to your good taste.

NORDHEIMER'S INVITE YOU.

During Toronto Exhibition you are invited to visit the display of the Nordheimer Piano and Music Co., Limited, in the Manufacturers Building. Here they have on view a representative stock of "Steinway" Pianos (the world's greatest pianofort) Nordheimer "Quality Tone" Pianos (the standard of Canada), and "Human Touch" Player Pianos (the ONE Player Piano that is NOT mechanical). You will receive courteous treatment and be made to feel under no obligation to purchase. Visitors will also be made very welcome at the head office and showrooms, 15 King St. E., (just a few doors east of Yonge St.) Out of town teachers are especially invited to look over the large stock of music, in which will be found selections to meet the requirements of any pupil. Communications sent to their Head office will receive prompt attention.

SHAW'S SCHOOLS.

Anyone interested in a business education should seize the opportunity of calling on Mr. W. H. Shaw at the Central Business College, Yonge and Gerrard Sts., Toronto. Mr. Shaw is probably the best known business educationalist in Canada and conducts a number of our very best Business Colleges. The Central Business College is one of the largest of its kind in America and numbers its graduates in thousands. Instruction is given in shorthand, typewriting, spelling, bookkeeping and all business subjects, and positions are found for graduates, a diploma from any of Shaw's Schools being accepted by business men as the best of recommendations. The office of the Central Business College will be open every day for visitors during Exhibition from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Mr. Shaw invites all to call.

LADIES' TAILORING.

Mr. B. Hoffman (late cutter and fitter of the T. Eaton Co., Ladies' Tailoring Dept) announces the opening of his Fall season goods at his handsome new store, 367 Yonge St., Toronto. Since leaving Eaton's Mr Hoffman has been very successful in building up a large business with the ladies of Toronto and other cities. Each garment is made especially to measure and perfect fit is guaranteed. He studies the individual requirements of each customer and all work is done in his own establishment under his own personal supervision. He invites Exhibition visitors to call at his store, 367 Yonge Street.

WONDERFUL GLASS BLOWERS.

O. H. John's famous troupe of expert glass blowers is the first show as you enter Midway at Toronto Exhibition. The price of admission is [illegible] cents and every visitor is given a souvenir.

FAT AND PNEUMONIA

Reasons Why a Cold is Dangerous For Stout Persons

Fat people and people who drink alcoholic stimulants are afraid of colds and pneumonia. There are two reasons why they should be so. First, they are more susceptible. Second, their ailments go much harder with them. When a person is fat an excess of fat is tucked away anywhere it can be; under the skin, around the heart or anywhere else to get rid of it. It isn't needed. It is a burden. When a person takes alcohol and food together, the alcohol is burned and the food is left to clog the tissues.

In case of a cold or pneumonia there is more or less strain on the vital organs. If these are cluttered up with unnecessary fat or weakened by alcohol, the chance of recovery is that much less.

No matter what the disease, the individual who eats moderately, exercises sufficiently to keep a normal weight and avoids alcohol has much the best chance to fight it off. And often this type of sane humanity goes much farther and escapes it altogether. Don't let yourself grow unnaturally fat.

Milk For the Hogs

Sweet milk, skim milk, sour skim milk, and buttermilk, says an authority, are of practically equal value when fed to hogs in the proportion of two and a half to three pounds of milk to one pound of shelled corn. A bushel of shelled corn when fed with water produced an average of 11.9 pounds of pork, but when fed with 153 pounds of milk, the average weight of pork produced in the same length of time was [illegible] pounds. In many factories the secret of success has been found in the discovery and application of some method of turning former waste into a profitable by-product. The same principle can be well applied to the farm, and farmers should not be slow in making use of any extra milk.

THE SEASHORE.

The Seashore Express that leaves Bonaventure Station every night at 8.30, with electric lighted buffet Sleeping Car and the day train, leaving Montreal at 8.30 a.m., with Parlor Card and Dining Cars reach the unsurpassed districts of Long Island Sound that are environments of New London, Conn., where the attractions are—warm surf bathing, fishing, sailing, driving or tramping.

Block Island, Watch Hill and Fisher's Island are three charming spots for the summer visitor and are swept constantly by ocean breezes—the temperature rarely rising above 75 degrees. A week at any of these places will do as much good as a sea voyage.

There is splendid Hotel and Boarding House accommodation at prices to suit all pockets.

Ask for Seashore booklet giving full information.

LEPROSY CURABLE MAJOR ROST TELLS CONGRESS

Disease, He Says, Chiefly Contracted Through Infected Clothing

London, Aug. 29.—All sections of the International Medical Congress were in session to-day.

"Leprosy" gave rise to an interesting discussion in the bacteriology section. Major E. R. Rost of the Indian medical service, said that after years of experience he had reached the belief that the disease in the great majority of cases was contracted through infected clothing. He emphasized the importance of segregation and of sterilizing all clothing worn by lepers.

Major Rost declared that the word "incurable" might be erased from the text books dealing with leprosy. Since he had adopted the vaccine treatment in 1909 he had, he said, discharged four cases as cured. At the present moment he had thirty cases under treatment by the vaccine method.

Three cases he had treated by the old lepuelin method showed no sign of the original disease and he had received reports from other patients treated in that way who now were in perfect health

BREAD UPON THE WATERS

Windfall of $125,000 as Sequel to an Act of Hospitality

A laborer's wife at Dunston-on-Tyne, near Gateshead, has come in for a windfall of $125,000.

Ten years ago Mrs. Longcon, then of South Shields, befriended a seafaring youth of her acquaintance by taking him into her house and giving him food and shelter when he was in need of help. This action, he said at the time, he should never forget. He went to Australia, and was engaged in farming operations on a large scale. His father, mother, brother and sister, and a friend joined him a few years ago, but they have all died, and the young man himself some months ago met with a fatal accident, his thigh being fractured by a fall of stone.

After his death it was found that by his will he had left all his personal estate, the farm lands, cattle, and a quantity of jewellery to Mrs Longcon. Mrs. Longcon intends to remove to Chili, of which country her husband is a native.

TESTED BY THE ROD

Quaint Ceremonial in Buddhist Temple Near Tokio

A five days' festival was held in Japan in celebration of the anniversary of the death of Keizaru Daishu, the founder of the Soto sect, one of the most important offshoots of Buddhism in Japan. The sect, which claims to be the most profound of all sects, aims entirely at salvation by the elimination of self.

On the last day of the festival was performed the rare ceremony of "amondo." In the Sojiji Temple 700 priests assembled and the Lord Abbot, wearing a gorgeous dress and carrying a short thick stick, presided over the supreme ceremony

Before him knelt 150 priests, who desired promotion in the sect. The first priest approached and, bending his head before the Lord Abbot, submitted to him the question which had resulted from his period of meditation, "What would be the color of the maple leaves in the mountains?"

Up went the right arm of the Lord Abbot. Down came the stick on the shoulders of the candidate. "My son, their color would be redder than the tints of the flowers in May." Up again went the arm, down again came the the stick and the candidate retired.

The second candidate then advanced and bowed before the Lord Abbot. "What," he said in a piping voice, "should we do to escape the heat of summer and the cold in winter?" Down came the stick with a smart crack. "Go where there is neither heat nor cold, neither summer nor winter."

In rapid succession the other candidates followed, the beating with the stick being regarded as a test whether candidates were capable of undergoing hardships in the cause of Buddha.

SUGAR FROM SAWDUST

Pit Ponies Fed on Product Thrived Under the Treatment

That it is possible to produce a valuable commercial sugar from sawdust was the declaration of a well-known scientific authority at London. He declared that though wood in its natural state contained no sugar, still it was possible, by a chemical process, to produce it from sawdust. He had succeeded in closing sawdust in retorts with a weak solution of sulphuric acid. A pressure being applied, twenty-five per cent. of sugar was produced. The production was a valuable feeding for horses, cattle, and sheep, and in a month's experiment with the feed given to the Durham colliery ponies and horses, it had been found to keep the animals in a fine hardy condition.

Mutiny at Sea

The steamer Menepthah brought to Malta eighteen Malay firemen, who had been handed over to the master as prisoners by the British Consul at Algiers, to be tried on a charge of having mutinied and attempted to kill Mr Hergert Silby Rooke, chief officer of the British oil-tank vessel Cuyahoga, to which the prisoners belonged. The second officer, Arthur Floyd, acting in self-defence, shot and killed one of the mutineers.

A Flying Bicycle

A prize of $400 for the first winged motorless bicycle to cover a distance of 16 feet 6 inches at a minimum height of 8 inches was won by M. Paul Didier, the racing cyclist, at the Parc des Princes, Paris. The machine used by M. Didier was an ordinary bicycle, with one plane fixed to the front fork and another fixed at the back of the machine.

ONE MAN IN SIX FACED COURT

Prison Head Writes Book Criticizing German Penal Code.

Dr. Finkelpburg, superintendent of Moabit prison, Germany, published a book in connection with the campaign in favor of a revision of he Grman Penal Code.

The book showed that every sixth man and every twenty-fifth woman in Germany has been punished for some violation of the Penal Code, which has many thousands of paragraphs under which a large number of trivial trangressions of th law have become misdemeanors.

TORPEDOES ADD TO WAR'S HORRORS

Latest Pattern Bore Their Way Into Ship's Vitals Before Letting Loose Destruction

There was a time in the history of naval warfare when under water attack was frowned upon as not being quite in accordance with the ethics of the day. The contrary is true now. The torpedo and the submarine mine are very much in evidence in every scheme of marine attack and defence to-day.

It was only a few years ago that the automobile torpedo had an effective range of a trifle more than a thousand yards, and even at that distance its accuracy of travel was an uncertain quantity. Sometimes it went straight to its target, at other times it swept far off to either side, and once in a while it described a wide loop and came rushing back upon the vessel that launched it.

Admittedly destructive as its warhead charge of guncotton was, still these erratic performances caused grave misgivings. But the torpedo enthusiast was full of faith in his chosen weapon. The principal weakness was the steering apparatus which guided the torpedo after it had left the launching tube. In the last two or three years a good deal has been heard about gyroscopes—technical developments of the tops of our childhood. A type of gyroscope is now available which is strong enough in its corrective powers to control the travel of a torpedo for several miles.

After Longer Range.

But the capacity of the gyroscope outlasted or exceeded the running endurance of the torpedo's reserve of propulsive air. Here was an obstacle that dashed cold water upon the hopes of the torpedo man, but the chilling reacted in the shape of a brilliant inspiration.

Up to a point the metallurgists made it possible to fashion air tanks capable of holding air at a higher pressure; in other words, more air to supply the engines. But this did not add more than five or eight hundred yards to the effective range of the torpedo. This was no answer to the reach and accuracy of the rapid-fire gun.

Air when heated expands, but compressed air when heated is pretty nearly a dangerous double of powder and a lighted match. Just the same, a torpedo engineer devised a way to apply flame to the compressed air in the torpedo's flask, and he did this so cunningly that the rise of pressure above a certain point automatically checked the fuel of the flame and effectually prevented the tension nearing the bursting point. By expanding the air in this manner motive energy for far greater distances was generated, and this was done without increasing the size of the flask or the maximum practicable pressure of the confined air. It amounted substantially to giving the torpedo its second wind.

Turbine Power.

Compact and wonderful as the little reciprocating engine was that so long drove the automobile torpedo, it was only natural that the turbine should supplant it: and this is the motor now used in the latest of these weapons. The torpedo has grown from the 18-inch type of shorter length to the long 18-inch and 21-inch patterns of the present.

Likewise the charge of guncotton carried in the wicked head of torpedoes has increased, reaching to-day in the biggest torpedoes a weight of more than 200 pounds. Battle ranges have gone from 4,000 to 6,000 yards and an effective range of quite 8,000 yards has been promised.

All of these improvements have come to pass within the last few years and the torpedo has not only obliged the installing fo bigger guns on battleships to stand off attack, but it has forced upon the naval constructor hull changes of a vital character below the waterline.

Fighting Same Battle.

The torpedo and the defence against it are fighting the same battle that armor and shell have waged for years. The naval constructor has found ways of strengthening the underbody of big ships, so that the explosive gases of the torpedo's gun-cotton shall be sapped of their first violence by having guarded spaces of sufficient volume in which to expand. In this way the probable area of damage is restricted, the likelihood of a single torpedo's sinking a ship through flooding much reduced and the chance of reaching the very vitals of a craft made well-nigh impossible. And now the latest and most deadly torpedo carries a "gun" which is fired when the torpedo's nose hits an obstruction. The shell is discharged with tremendous velocity and can cut its way through a protecting net and burrow through several inches of armor plate before the explosion proper takes place. The ordinary torpedo explodes upon the instant of hitting the outer plating of a ship but the gun torpedo goes at its deadly work with almost sinister single-mindedness. When it has penetrated far enough the projectile bursts with all of its stored up violence.

Leopard Fish Impaled

A passenger on the Elder-Dempster liner Tarquah describes a strange incident which happened when the vessel was near Seccondee, on the Gold Coast. A big fish, which the sailors described as a "sea leopard," was caught on the bows of the ship right in the middle, the head being on one side and the tail on the other.

The bows of the vessel cut through the flesh to the bone, holding the creaure there so firmly that it could not get free. The speed of the Tarquah was charged, and it had to go astern before the fish was released. The fish then came to the surface and sank. It was 40 feet in length and 20 feet in width.

News and Newslets From Great Britain

An Aged Sea Gull

Attached to one of the legs of a sea gull which was shot at Quimperle, France, by M. Blondeau was a ring with the inscription "English, 1869, return to Zoological Station, Heligoland." In 1869 Heligoland was a British possession. Blondeau preserved the bird in the hope of ascertaining whether it is as old as the date on the ring would indicate.

Burglar Caught Sound Asleep

An attempted burglary took place in a large house recently erected by Mr. Hill, a brother-in-law of Mr. Gordon Place, the laird, as a summer residence in Strathillan, Scotland. But for the carelessness of the burglar, who allowed lights to be seen, he might have been successful in his enterprise. A constable went to the house, and found the burglar comfortably ensconced in the hall with pillows and blankets, sound asleep.

Gift to Mrs. Lloyd George

Mrs. Lloyd George was at Downing street presented on behalf of Liberal women and old age women pensioners of Exmouth with a Holton lace handkerchief bordered with a design of roses, thistles, and shamrocks, and having the emblems of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales worked in the corners.

The gift was enclosed in a satin-lined leather case, ornamented with the recipient's monogram in gold.

Plucky Messenger Girl

The plucky act of a Post Office messenger girl who made her way through floodwater four feet deep to deliver a telegram is reported from Meikleour, Scotland.

The Dunkeld road was under four feet of water, and the Scottish messenger lassie was impressed with the importance of delivering her message at all costs. She had to pass through the water for a considerable distance, but succeeded eventually in delivering the telegram.

Educating Soudanese

Lord Kitchener in forwarding his report on the Gordon Memorial College at Khartoun to the governing body stated that the practical utility of the intitution was securely established and showed very satisfactory results. Over 500 students had passed out of the college, and are employed in various capacities by the Soudan Government. Among them not more than 10 per cent. failed to give complete satisfaction. The whole tone of the natives has been raised by the example set by these educated and trained youths, who now occupy positions of some importance throughout the country.

Preferred to be a Man

When medical aid was called to "James Palmer," injured while working on a wherry at Derwent Lough, near Newcastle, the discovery was made that the individual was a woman.

A stack of iron collapsed and knocked down Palmer in the morning. Other workers promptly came to the rescue, and clearing off he iron carried Palmer into a shed and summoned the doctor. Then the patient, painfully struggling for breath, appealed to the doctor to send the men away.

When the two were alone together Palmer made the astounding confession of her sex. She said she was a married woman with two children.

Prisoner's Daring Dash

The passengers by an express train which left Liverpool for London included Detective-Inspector Fowler, of Scotland Yard, a Liverpool police officer, and a prisoner, a man about 45 years of age. After leaving Rugby, and whilst the train was travelling at fifty miles an hour, the prisoner made a dash for the door of the compartment in which the party were travelling, and succeeding in opening it.

Inspector Fowler seized the man by the collar, and a fierce struggle ensued. Ultimately the prisoner reached the footboard, and, his collar giving way, jumped clear of the train. The man subsequently entered a lonely signal-box, snatched the signalman's cap, and made off across country.

Later in the day, after a description of the fugitive had been circulated, a constable at Leighton Buzzard took the man into custody.

The Queen's Dolls

Queen Mary sent three of the largest and handsomest dolls ever seen in public to the "Truth" Doll Show at the Royal Albert Hall. They were naturally placed in the most prominent position amongst the 5,000 dolls on view.

Her Majesty's dolls each stood 42 inches high, and were specially dressed to the Queen's order to represent England, Scotland, and Ireland. England was in soft white robes, with pink roses in her hair and a branch of these in her hands. For Bonnie Scotland an effective Tartan was used with the scarf over the shoulders and a handful of heather, while Ould Ireland was a winsome figure in dark friese, with a bunch of shamrock. The splendid dolls were intended eventually to be donated to some of the institutions in which Her Majesty is interested.

Servian Carpets

Carpet-weaving is one of the oldest industries in Servia. The product is manufactured principally at Pirot, in southeastern Servia, and the carpets are named after that place. The chief characteristics of these carpets are that they are made of pure wool, dyed with natural colors by local dyers, who pride themselves that the process of dyeing and coloring-mixing is a secret transmitted by father and son, and is known only to the inhabitants of Pirot.

Two pounds of tungsten will furnish material for about 50,000 incandescent lamp filaments.

MAN AND BRIDE IN DEATH PACT

Couple Found In Hotel At Death's Door From Poison

New York, Aug. 29. — Maurice Doherty, 30, and his wife, 28, are in a hospital here today technically under arrest charged with attempting to carry out a suicide pact. They had been married only a month. Doherty was formerly an attendant in the immigration hospital on Ellis Island, and his wife until recently was supervising nurse in the Washington Hospital.

The two were found last night in a critical condition from poisoning in a room in a little eastside hotel. They left a note saying.

"No one but ourselves knows the reason but it is compelling."

There is still some doubt that they will recover.

E. J. CHAMBERLIN

E. J. Chamberlin, President of the Grand Trunk Railway was born in New Hampshire, and was educated in a Methodist seminary. Early in the seventies, when a mere lad, he got a job as timekeeper on the old Central of Vermont. Then he became clerk in the paymaster's office. That shabby little workroom at St. Alban's proved to be a training school for at least two great railroad men; for at the very next desk to Chamberlin's sat a plump, keen-eyed youth who stuck to his work and never minded the clock. The young clerk's name was Charles S. Mellen, now President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and transportation czar of all New England. He became Superintendent of the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railroad; and soon a still more inviting opportunity came pounding at his door. John R. Booth wanted to build a railroad northward from Lake Champlain, to tap his immense forest preserves. It was a rough-and ready piece of construction through almost primeval country. Chamberlin was recommended for the task. It appealed to his imagination, and he undertook it with great success. He lived at the front with his men; slept and labored out in the open. When the road was pushed on to Georgian Bay, it became the Canada Atlantic, and Chamberlin was put in as general manager. He ordered two monster locomotives that could haul a full train a mile a minute. It was not long before the Grand Trunk assimilated the Canada Atlantic. Shortly after he succeeded Hays, someone asked Chamberlin if the Canada Atlantic could haul heavy traffic. The President replied: "Well, I guess so. I built the road myself, and laid down some of the rails with my own hands!" Declining all offers to remain in the service, Chamberlin went to Mexico, and constructed railways there. He loved the adventure of pioneering, and the outdoor life appealed to him. Then when Frank Morse resigned as Vice-President and General Manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, to go to the Alton, Mr. Hays could only see one man to finish the task of blazing the iron way out to the Pacific, and that man was Chamberlin. Chamberlin followed his old tactics, for he went to the front with the men, changed headquarters from Montreal to Winnipeg and was in the thick of things when his chief made that fateful Titanic trip. Chamberlin, like Hays, is a vivid personality. There is something about him that reminds you of his big-boned contemporary, Sir Donald Mann. Both men have the breath of the woods about them, and the look of the eye that comes from facing the sun in the great open places. Where Mann is broad and thick of chest. Chamberlin is tall, lithe, sinewy, and full of latent strength. Both Chamberlin and Mann made their first stakes in railroad construction. A remarkably unruffled person is Chamberlin, too. He always lets the other fellow do the fretting. Here is one instance of the way in which he achieves his ends:

A difficult situation had arisen, in which he was arrayed against half a dozen men. At the very height of the negotiations, he sent for his private car and announced his intention of starting off for a week's shooting in the wilds. When one of his associates asked him why he was leaving at such a critical stage, he answered: "I am going away so that the other fellows will have a chance to wear themselves out. When I come back they will be glad to come to terms."—Globe.

PICTURES AND PAPER SHOULD HARMONIZE

Many Things to be Considered in the Decoration of the Walls

When considering the choice of new wall paper the question as t what will prove the most suitable background for the pictures which are to be placed against it is often lost sight of in the anxiety of the owner to select a paper which can stand on its own merits as a decorative adjunct to the room. From the thetic point of view the paper should be merely of secondary importance the claims of the picture standing paramount.

As water colors, oils, prints photogravures all demand their own especial manner of treatment as re gards their background, it is wise hang only one type of picture in eac room, relegating the oils to the di ing room, the prints to the smokin room, and so on. For the backgroun to the water colors we have Whistler own preference of a pale yellowis brown to guide us. In the cool ligh shades a paper of this tone, with th addition of gold frieze, can be relie upon not to kill the delicacy of th sketches placed upon it, and if slightly deeper shade of the sam color makes its appearance in the flo covering the harmony cannot fail bring out the merits of the picture In the case of the drawing room ther is usually a tendency to indulge a wall covering which is over-ric from the point of view of picture hanging. The shiny surface of sil on brocade is not sufficiently restf for the eye, the play of light upo it acting as a means of distracting th attention from the more "matt" su face of the picture. A coarse line should an alternative to paper be d sired, will be found far more sati factory, especially if it be one of perfectly simple weaving, no pattern any kind being allowed to intrude upo its simplicity.

No Rule For Oils

In the matter of oil paintings have necessarily to take into conside ation the dominant tones o. the pi tures, and it is advisable to ma actual trial of strips of different ton before settling final choice. Thou it is impossible to lay down any ha and fast rule it will be general found that deep tones in preferen to tones that are either light or brigh are the most successful backgroun for oils. The full tones of purple a the faded shades of rose that a mellow and warm without being sistent, accord admirably with su pictures in the majority of cases, a it is a safe plan to keep the paint woodwork of the room as dark as co sistent with the general color schem The exact depth of tone in the w covering must also depend to a gre extent on the direction in which t room faces, the cold light of a n thern aspect making the tone of an thing placed within appear far cru and harder than would be the case the kinder light of a room faci south.

With etchings and engravings have to aim at a rather rich effect order to obviate that coldness whi otherwise is apt to result.

The Leather Effect

A Japanese paper that simulat tooled leather, with here and the the enrichment of a little gold a the suggestion of a touch of rich r the whole effect being subdued, among the backgrounds most co fidently, to be recommended. A pap of this kind makes the black ton of the engravings appear more l trous and throws its effects of lig and shade into relief. If the cha be covered in leather and its tones be repeated in the color of the wa the effect is likely to be good. T warm shades of terra cotta and blue, ranging from the gray-blue do to the full, rich sapphire, give va to the depth of a good print.

Rooms in which it is intended hang pictures of any kind should be hung with paper in which the p tern is either large or bold; it is fair to the pictures! The best p tern, if pattern there must be, is eith a stripe of similar tone (large small, according to the dimensions the room), or an unobtrusive allo pattern formed by the display of shiny surface on a dull one, the sa color being preserved throughout. wall paper which is really in itsel work of art may safely take the pl of pictures of any kind, and, inde deserves to do so if its design coloring are such as to satisfy eye with what it needs for the dec ation of the wall.

Bran For Health

Severe cases of indigestion have been cured by the persistent and daily use of bran. It acts upon the liver and is a general aid to the digestion. It is inexpensive and within the reach of almost every homekeeper.

One of the most palatable ways to eat bran is as a gem. The following is a tried recipe. One-half cup or three-fourths cup of brown sugar, butter or lard the size of an egg, one cup of sour milk or water, one cup white flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, three cups of bran, one teaspoonful of baking soda, dissolved in one cup of hot water, one cupful nuts, raisins, figs—and dates if desired—cut fine; one-half teaspoonful of salt. Flavor with cinnamon. Cream butter and sugar together, add sour milk, sift white flour and baking powder, add cup of nuts and fruit, add bran, add soda dissolved in cup of hot water, salt, and cinnamon, Stir well. Put in well greased gem pans and bake in a slow oven twenty minutes.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

NINE TENETS OF FAITH

Fifty Years Makes No Change in Working Farm Creed

Here is the Canadian Farmer's Creed which, though written fifty years ago, holds good to-day.

I.—We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation.

II.—We believe that soil loves to eat, as well as its owner, and ought therefore to be liberally fed.

III.—We believe in large crops, which leave the land better than they found it, making farmer and the farm both glad at once.

IV.—We believe in getting to the bottom of things, and therefore in deep ploughing, and enough of it; all the better with a subsoil plough.

V.—We believe that every farm should own a good farmer.

VI.—We believe that the best fertiliser for any soil is the spirit of industry, enterprise, and intelligence. Without this, lime and gypsum, bones and green manure, marl and guano will be of little use.

VII.—We believe in good fences good barns, good farmhouses, good stock, good orchards, and children enough to gather the fruit.

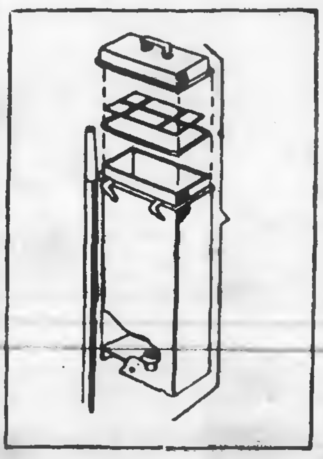
VIII.—We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, and a clear conscience.

IX.—We firmly disbelieve in farmers who will not improve their farms, also in farms which grow poorer every year, in starving cattle, in farmer boys turning into clerks and merchants, in farmers ashamed of their vocation, or who drink whiskey until honest people are ashamed of them

NEW ICE CREAM CAN

Solves Problem of How to Get Cream Out Without Trouble

Most of us have, at one time or another, wrestled with one of these rectangular ice cream moulds in which the cream was stuck. A wide-awake confectioner, however, devised a can also rectangular, from which it is very easy to remove the contents intact. Instead of being made in two longitudinal sections, this can is open at one end, which is the top. There is a hole in the bottom and a false bottom sets over this. To remove the cream, all that need be done is to take off the lid and insert a stick in the hole in the bottom. With this you push the false bottom out and the block of cream, of course, precedes it in perfect condition.



FALSE BOTTOM PUSHES OUT

LOCK FOR HANDBAGS

Makes Them Safe Against the Prying Fingers of Thieves

The ordinary handbag is the joy of pickpockets, as many women know to their sorrow. It is a very simple matter for the nimble-fingered rogues to open a bag and abstract the purse without the owner being any the wiser. A New York man has devised a bag safely closed under ordinary conditions. A spring-actuated, bail-shaped handle is hinged to one side of the jaw of the handbag, while on the other jaw is an interlocking rib and a secondary locking device pivoted to the side of the jaw on which the handle hooks. This secondary device has an opening at the top to allow the handle to pass through and there are clasps which lock the jaws at opposite sides when the bag is closed. Thus fastened, the bag cannot be opened casually, but requires more attention than a thief can afford to give.

Men Who Don't Exercise

SUFFER FROM INDIGESTION, HEADACHES, POOR APPETITE, SLEEPLESSNESS.

Nothing so Sure to "Set Up" a Man Make Him Feel Brisk and Vigorous, as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., one of the best known citizens of Woodstock.

In his convincing letter, Mr. Stephens says:

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, completely worn out. I was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well.

"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The dizziness, langour and feeling of depression passed away, and I fast regained my old-time vigor and spirits. To-day I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits, there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

It was the local police who laid the information.

Ennismore Ingenuity

A farmer from Ennismore was in the city yesterday. A Times scribe noticing that the front and tail boards of his waggon were inscribed with a big letter "B." On being asked what this meant, the farmer explained that the front and tail boards when removed were constantly being mixed. "To determine which is which, I marked one "B" for the back, and the other one "B" because that board goes before the waggon seat.

A Juvenile Inquest

A dear little dead black kitten lay within a foot of the police station yesterday morning, at 10 o'clock. As the kitten was of tender years, it is rumored that a JUVENILE INQUEST, in secret, will be held to investigate the cause of death. The police are said to be very reticent about the mystery surrounding this cat's death. It is thonght possibly the cat may have died laughing at local Juvenile Court proceedings.

Mr. Might's Kindly Act.

On Thursday evening Mr. Fred Might, whose sad loss is deplored by his thousands of friends in this city, brought 16 willing workers who had been employed in the task of recovering the dead and assisting the wounded, to the Oriental Hotel for supper. Mr. Might wanted to pay for their meal but as Mrs. Veeder of Schenectady, N.Y., who was a guest at the hotel, insisted on paying for their meals. Mr. Might will assuredly, Phaenix like, rise from the ashes of the seeming present trouble and once more rise to the prominent position he has always held here.

Women's Art Association.

The members of the Women's Art Association are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, 193 Aylmer street, on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 30th, at 4 o'clock. Miss Crawford, of Warrington, Virginia, has kindly consented to exhibit samples of her work in Norwegian tapestry, and wil, also give a short talk on the Art. The Persian rug of the famous Hunt design will also be on exhibition.

McDonald Case Enlarged.

At yesterday's police Court, Harold McDonald, represented by Mr. G. N. Gordon, pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy. Mr. Gordon explained that this was purely a domestic matter. Mrs. McDonald said her husband is a teamster. It seems that there is a girl in the case, with possibly the green-eyed monster in evidence. She has been at the Children's shelter with her babies. She worked for the money for her clothes. Prisoner is often at his mothers, where the girl lives. Mrs. McDonald said her husband had only contributed $2.35 to her support since June 2nd, and that she stole out of his trouser pocket. The magistrate said that a man who will not support his wife and babies is not fit to live among white men. The case was held over to give McDonald a chance to support his family.

WRINKLES DISAPPEAR AS IF BY MAGIC

(From Denver Republican)

"In the removal of wrinkles I have discarded cosmetics entirely," writes Mme Corann, the celebrated Parisian beauty expert. "The results they produce are deceptive and never permanent. Massaging is only partially successful and it's too slow a method.

"I've never seen anything work such wonders as a simple, harmless solution any woman can prepare and use at home without the least trouble. A half pint of witch hazel and an ounce of good powdered saxolite are all you'll need. Mix the two and apply this refreshing solution to your face daily. The effect is marvelous—instantaneous. The skin becomes firmer, 'tighter'—every wrinkle and sag is affected. You feel so refreshed after using the wash you look refreshed, too; soon you will look ten years younger."

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW ON THE DIAL OF A CITY LIFE.

Peggy Swartz sensational hit over to the shed near the brewery yesterday afternoon, won the Petes the first game.

Operations were conducted yesterday on the surface trains on the south side of Hunter street, west of George.

Yesterday afternoon's first game was delayed for some time waiting for a city garbage cart to cross the east side of the Park.

Yesterday's game showed that the Hamilton players and the Petes, whilst both striving to win, were in the best of terms.

The Salvation Army Captain, who did such splendid work at Thursday's disaster is certainly as great a "corker" at work as he is at trying to save souls.

The Canadian League season in Peterborough will close this afternoon, when the Petes will meet Hamilton. The game is called for 3 o'clock.

To-day Inspector Mowat of the Public Schools, will make his first trip of inspection of the schools prior to their opening on Sept. 2.

Judgment was reserved yesterday morning until next Thursday, in the case of a liquor dealer charged with supplying liquor to an Indian, Sam Knott.

The theft charge against Robert J. Maddiford was dismissed yesterday morning with defendant paying the costs, which amount to $15.

Yesterday Dr. Johnston shipped his mare "Susie L." and Mr. Elmhurst shipped his horse "Black Mack" to Brockville for Monday's races in that town.

It would be a graceful act if the merchants of this city close their respective places of business during the progress of the funerals of the lamentable victims of Thursday's catastrophy.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Robert J. Lyle of Kinmount, was a guest at the Oriental Hotel, yesterday.

Miss D. J. Hall's Private School, 334 Charlotte street, will re-open Wednesday, September 3rd.

Mr. Chas. Armstrong, of Hastings, brother of Mrs. Kelly who was killed in Thursday's catastrophy, was in the city yesterday.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Samuel Stinson, 504 Chamberlain Street, on Wednesday, August 27th, when her only daughter, Mary Etta, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robert H. Guthrie. Only the immediate relatives were present.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Herbert Stinson, was becomingly gowned in champagne colored silk trimmed with lace and silver trimmings and carried a bridal bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The only attendants were two little flower girls, Misses Rena Howarth and Gladys Sanderson, each dressed in white embroidery. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Ola McMullen, of Janetville, counsin of the bride. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain; to the flower girls, gold brooches, and to the organist, a gold bar pin. The Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville, officiated.

After the ceremony about fifty guests partook of afternoon tea, after which the bride donned her travelling suit of tan serge and Panama hat, trimmed with one large tan colored rose and white ribbon, and the bridal party left on their honeymoon trip. Their many friends join in wishing the happy couple many years of wedded bliss.

MILLIMAN GETS TWO YEARS IN CENTRAL

At yesteday's Court, Lewis Millman was charged with stealing $200 worth of furs from Mr. T. Barrie, of Barrie, Limited. Mr. Wood represented the Crown. Mr. Barrie said the prisoner was in his employ on Murray street. Prisoner is a skilled fur grader. The first he knew of his skins being stolen was when Detective Newhall brought some fur for identification. One of the skins had a private stamp. Witness identified all his furs in Court as his. Prisoner had no authority to take the furs to show a friend, as previously claimed. Witness missed 49 mink skins, 9 Persian lamb skins, and two pieces of sealskin.

Detective S. H. Newhall said he, on Aug. 14th, saw the prisoner meet John Pierce. Millman handed Pierce a small parcel. Pierce went into Lech's store. He saw Pierce come out of Lech's with a cheque in his pocket. Pierce answered description of a man the officer was looking for, and he brought him to the station. Here he found the cheque. He then arrested Willman. Willman told the officer he got his mink skins from Montreal. In Millman's trunk, in the Munro House, were 18 mink skins. At Lech's store he got two mink skins. Mr. Barrie identfied the skins.

At the conclusion of the trial the magistrate sentenced the prisoner to two years, less one day, in Central Prison.

Quality of Wheat Was Never Better and Crop Conditions Are Good

Winnipeg, Aug. 28.—The weather has again settled down to ideal harvest conditions, and all the farmers are into the fields with increased energy. Indications are that no frost will appear until the first of next month, and by that time four-fifths of the crop will be out of danger. Reports continue to come in of the splendid milling quality of the wheat. It has not been equalled in years. No weather was experienced that could affect the quality. Dry weather in June stimulated the growth, hail wiped out some crops, but as a general thing, once the heads were formed the best of conditions have prevailed.

Wheat cutting has started 75 to 100 miles north of Regina, at the earliest date in several years. This would indicate that the talk of a late wheat harvest in this locality is premature.

USE CLOSURE IF NECESSARY TO PUT BILLS THROUGH

Democratic House by Binding Caucus Make Currency Bill Party Measure

Washington, Aug. 30.—The currency bill as well as the tariff bill will be passed before congress adjourns. The Democratic House members by a binding caucus have made the bill as reported tothe house a party measure.

The bill will be called up next Tuesday and put through the house by closure if necessary, within a fortnight from that date. By the middle of September the tariff bill will have passed the senate and the currency bill will be through the house.

The bill as it goes to the house from the committee is not greatly altered, the fundamental principles remain intact, namely the ultimate retirement of all bank notes, the political control of the federal board and government control instead of bank control over the expansion and contraction of the currency, it is so far a clean victory for the administration.

Representatives Ragsdale, North Carolina, and Calloway, Texas, served notice that they might not be bound by the caucus pledge. Other Democratic opponents of the bill, including Henry, Texas, preferred to fall into line behind the bill rather than be classed as irregulars by the party.

The bill will be called up in the house for consideration next Tuesday. In the meantime it will be reprinted to show the caucus changes.

The currency bill was so amended to-day that country banks in the reserve districts shall carry 12 instead of 15 per cent. reserves against their total deposits, and that city reserve banks shall carry 18 instead of 20 per cent. reserves. The entire section of the bill regulating these reserves was rewritten by the committee.

ENGLISH WOMEN CONSIDERED HEALTHIEST OF FAIR SEX

Doctors of All Nations Praise the Healthy Look of the English Girl

London, Aug. 30.—Doctors of many nations attending the International Congress on Medicine sang praises of the healthy looking, natural moving English girl.

"London women have improved enormously since the last congress took place 30 years ago," said an English physician.

"Look at that girl across the road. Mark how she walks, the firm, swinging stride. Why, the Englishwoman of to-day is the healthiest and finest on earth."

Grace and Strength.

A German doctor said: "The Englishwoman has grace without langor and strength without harshness. It must be due to athletics. The German girl is equally healthy but less active."

"Your women are not so graceful as ours," declared a Frenchman. "The Frenchwoman has made an art of every movement, but the English woman moves naturally and freely. It is impossible to mistake her robustness, her complexion, too, is so fresh."

The Russian view was that Englishwomen "did not give the impression of great intellect which so often is accompanied by pallor and weakness, but they all have the intelligence which is housed in healthy bodies."

Italy contributed its appreciation. "The English girl walks with an air of freedom. There may not be too much grace in her walk, but there is force. A country which has these girls for its future mothers need have no fear."

"Your women are clearly strong," said a Spanish doctor, "but it is a strength that is not got by exercise. Too much exercise may build up a very fine body, but it may be done at the expense of the general health."

GENERAL DIAZ WILL RUN FOR PRESIDENCY OF MEXICO

It is Not Certain He Will Go to Japan Even if He is Ordered There

London, Aug. 30.—"I am now definitely a candidate for the office of President of Mexico," Gen. Felix Diaz, who recently arrived here from Canada, told the Associated Press this morning.

"My friends in Mexico are working in my behalf," continued Gen. Diaz. "Unfortunately at this distance I am awaiting instructions which may simplify matters.

"Even if I am ordered to proceed to Japan, it is not certain that I shall go there. My action will depend upon coming developments in Mexico."

Gen. Felix Diaz apparently is pleased with the course of events in Mexico. He said the contention that Victoriano Huerta's candidacy for the presidency was barred by the Mexican constitution was quite correct. He declared the fact that he was still an official representative of the Mexican Government debarred him from discussing President Wilson's message or the Mexican replies.

PRINCE GEORGE TOWNSITE

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway announce the sale by auction of the townsite of Prince George situated at the confluence of the Fraser and Nechaco Rivers in Central British Columbia, 450 miles northeast of Vancouver and 467 miles east of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, or midway between Prince Rupert and Edmonton Alberta. SATURDAY SESSION JUVENILE COURT

The Heterborough Cuvenile Court was held in secret session Saturday, which incidentally is not tolerated in Toronto.

After the court room had been surrounded by the military, assisted by two ex-members of the A.O.H., to prevent reporters warning mothers of danger, the session opened.

The first offender was a Mrs. Mary Ann Dingfingle, who was charged by her niece, Fairy Fanny Finklestein, with cruel treatment. The complainant, Fairy Fanny, was a winsome little lady of 49 years. She had red hair, a charming dimple and the chubbiest pair of ankles ever seen in court. She has been twice divorced, but now travels under her maiden name. The cruelty alleged was refusing Fanny to eat pickles with her pie. The magistrate of this Star Chamber, remarked, "I don't like pickles and pie gives me the heartburn. Case dismissed."

A Suspected Reporter.

At this juncture, Detective Sam Hawkshaw brought in a prisoner. The officer said, "I found this man on top of a building armed with a telescope. I suspect him of being a Toronto reporter." When questioned by the magistrate the prisoner explained "My name is Diogenes, and I was out looking for such a quality as common sense." It is rumored that the man, who was discharged, will have his sanity tested for looking after common sense, near the Juvenile Court.

The next case wasthat of Willie Jones, aged 8, charged with exposing on the public street, an indecent article, to wit, a nude purple monkey climbing up a stick. For the defense, Mr. Hornswaggle said "Your worship, we claim that the monkey was clad in purple paint, and as several ladies of this city use paint, and are not arrested, we ask that the case be dismissed.

The magistrate noted the objection but remarked, "The ladies who use paint wear shoes, slit skirts and eye glasses, to cover their forms. The objection was over-ruled.

Owing to the boys tender years, he was let off with 16 years in the Industrial school. The court then adjourned until Wednesday.

WOULD MAKE PIUS X KING OF BOSNIA; QUEEN'S WISH

Catherine, the Last Christian Ruler, Gave Country to Pope Sixtus IV.

Catherine, Last Christian Ruler, Gave Country to Pope Sixtus IV

Sarajevo, Bosnia, Aug. 30. — The orthodox Archbishop received a petition signed by 20,000 Roman Catholics, asking him to consider the union of the Greek Catholics with the Roman Catholics and to end the intolerable situation of the Pope by making him King of Bosnia as provided in the testament of the Christian Queen of that country, Catherine.

Bosnia has about double the number of Greek Catholics at Roman Catholics, but patriotism is believed to be powerful enough to wipe out this difference. There are besides the six hundred thousand Greek Catholics and the three hundred thousand Roman Catholics, 40 per cent Moslem population and about ten thousand Jews in Bosnia. The Roman Catholics are the oldest inhabitants of the country and dominate in trade. The Greek Catholics are the least prosperous and education among them is very poor.

The document submitted to the Archbishop recites the following historic facts:

The testament of Queen Catherine, the last Christian ruler of Bosnia, is dated October 20, 1478, and gives Bosnia to Pope Sixtus IV. and his successors outright, "in recognition of the hospitality extended to her and because her son embraced the Moslem faith."

Catherine, it seems, was driven from her country by the Turks, who carried away her infant sons into captivity. The queen arrived in Rome penniless and was received graciously by the Pope, who placed a palace and an annuity at her disposal. The queen's sons never returned to Bosnia to claim their land, but grew up Moslems and entered the Turkish service.

Bosnia is now an Austrian province and flourishing.

DISASTER'S DEAD LAID TO REST

The funeral was held from her late home 574 Patterson street. Rev. Mr. Grobbe, rector of All Saints' church officiated.

The floral tributes were particularly numerous and beautiful, testifying to the popularity of the deceased and the deep regret felt for her untimely death.

The funeral of the late Miss Sisson another unfortunate in Thursday's horror was held yesterday afternoon at Cavanville, Rev. Mr. Grobbe officiating.

The funeral of Mrs. Brown, who also lost her life in the wreck, will take place this morning from the residence of her brother, Mr. Cameron, grocer, corner of Bethune and Hunter streets. Rev. Mr. Rollins will conduct the service.

"LITTLE MISS FIX-IT" AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

A Mirth-Provoking Musical Gaiety in the Hands of a Splendid Cast.

The season opened at the Grand Opera House Saturday with Miss Lucile Parrish, supported by a talented company, in the popular musical gaiety, Little Miss Fix-It. This sprightly story of society life, pleasingly embellished with fascinating song hits and irresistible comedy and dances, is in exceedingly capable hands this season, commanding capacity houses. The presentation is a clean musical comedy in every respect, and leaves with its audience the desire for a return engagement. Miss Lucile Parrish is a bewitching comedienne and was heard to splendid advantage Saturday night in the popular song hits, "I've a Garden in Sweden," "Laughing Lone," and "Excuse Me, Mr. Moon Man," in which she was very acceptably assisted by Mr. Robert Hall Russell, and Mr. Frank Gilbert. A whistling refrain from the gallery is arranged for "Excuse Me, Mr. Moon Man," and offers a very pleasing novelty. Mr. Walter Edmondson's travestry on the latest imported English swell in search of a richly endowed affinity is intensely humorous and mirth-provoking. His song "My Word," brought down the house, and his interpretation of whole part assigned to his care creates a laugh every minute he is on the stage, "however" one takes him. The whole cast is a splendid one, handling a great favorite international musical gaiety success.

JUDGE GIVES JURY SCATHING REBUKE

Alabama Man Charged With Peonage Declares Self Guilty After Jury Disagrees.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 30. — Because a jury to-day reported a mistrial after two days in the case of Butler Stearcy, a prominent Butler county planter accused of holding Wash Gardner, a negro, in peonage, Federal Judge William B. Sheppard, of Pensacola, presiding temporarily over the Federal court here, reprimanded the jury in most sensational terms.

"This is a traverty on justice," he declared. "I do not see how any intelligent man, hearing the evidence as it was presented, could agree to such a verdict."

He hinted broadly that the members of the jury had carried their prejudices and petty personal influences into the jury room with them. This, he said, in substance, was despite the oath they took and sacred obligations to which they subjected themselves.

"While we hear much of the corrupt judiciary on every hand," he said, "do you not think it behooves every juryman to consider any case brought before him in an impartial light and to render his verdict to the best of his ability, exercising the functions God gave them to their fullest power. I know that had I given you my opinion of the case it would have had little weight with you. I will give it to you now..

"This man is guilty of peonage. Deep down in your hearts you are certain of this fact, but you bring in a verdict to the effect that you agree to disagree."

After hearing Judge Sheppard's scathing rebuke, Searcy, the defendant, arose voluntarily, and pleaded guilty to the charge, despite the fact that two juries heretofore had failed to reach a verdict in his case. He was sentenced to three months in the Montgomery jail.

THE CITY STILL MOURNING THE TERRIBLE ACCIDENT OF THURSDAY

Two Local Contractors Gave the Times Their Opinions on Cause of the Accident

Even on Saturday, three days after the awful catastrophy, when five people lost their lives by the collapse of the Turnbull building, the faces of our citizens were generally characterized by a lack of the usual smiles worn by local people. This terrible calamity has awakened Peterborough people to a realization of what danger they were exposed to and equally acquainted them with the fact that lax methods have prevailed in the past inconnection with building, particularly reconstruction, operations.

Of course, paramount to the placing of the responsibility for this greatest calamity in local history, is the regret as intimated, of our citizens over the occurrence. Lives have been lost, lives of good responsible and respected citizens. The city mourns their loss and sympathizes with the surviving friends and relatives. Still, it must be remembered that most of the dead and wounded died or were injured in a noble cause, the furthering of a Canadian industry or by providing necessities for their families. Again, we say, Peterborough mourns, not only with the outward and visible signs of regret, but with a sore heart and an ndescribable feeling of sorrow.

One of the heaviest losers, as far as mundane affairs are concerned, is Mr. Fred Might, proprietor of the Turnbull store. Of course Mr. Might is in not the most remote degree responsible for the accident. He is simply a victim of adverse circumstances. His actions since the calamity have demonstrated that Mr. Might is not only, as previous to the accident, a wide-minded and progressive business man, but, since the accident a large-hearted and broad-minded philanthropist. There is no possible doubt but that in his affliction, Mr. Might will be recognized at his real worth by the wholesale trade, and, once more rise to the same, if not a better position, in mercantile circles than he occupied before.

Mr. Thos. Rutherford, when asked his opinion, after years of experience in altering similar buildings, intimated that the disaster was probably due to the removal of the inner wall supports before the outer walls had been fixed or strengthened.

Mr. John Carlisle, another local builder of many years experience, informed the Times, that, in his opinion the collapse was due to the fact that the old store foundation, which bore the general weight of the wall, was insufficiently strengthened to stand the weight, under the steel column which replaced the wall.

15-YEAR OLD DAUGHTER OF CORDOVA MINES MINISTER IS TRACED

County Constable Archie Moore Traces Up Erring Girl, Who is Now Back Home

County Constable Archy Moore has been busy for some days tracing the 15-year-old daughter of a minister at Cordova Mines, who fled a week or ten days ago with two men. The girl was traced by Constable Moore to Uxbridge, where he had her photographed. The two men she was with, seem to have got wise that the law was after them, and fled. The girl has now returned home. Her, father, who is a minister, informed the officer that the girl had been hiding in the woods near Cordova Mines since her escapade until the constable produced the Uxbridge photograph, showing she had been in that town.

It is understood that County Crown Attorney Wood is now looking for the two men.

UNEXPECTED MOVE MAY SEND HARRY THAW BACK TUESDAY

William T. Jerome Scores a Big Victory in the Absence of Thaw's Representatives

Sherbrooke, Aug. 30.—Thaw will be produced here in court again on Tuesday morning next on a writ of habeas corpus obtained to-day in behalf of Chief of Police Boudreau, of Coaticook, who arrested him after his flight from Matteawan.

Superior Judge Hutchinson granted the writ on the application of Samuel Jacobs, chief counsel for the New York State interests.

It was an eleventh hour move, taken to defeat Thaw's lawyers, who have succeeded in keeping him in jail safe from the immigration authorities. Those of Thaw's lawyers who were in town with Chas. D. White and Harry Fraser bitterly opposed the application, but Judge Hutchinson said he would thresh the matter out in open court at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Thaw was ignorant of the day's developments. His lawyers even did not learn of it until a report of the contemplated move, sent out last night, was telegraphed back from Montreal. It was reported here that his chief lawyer, J. N. Greenshields, chartered a special train at Montreal in the hope of checking the proceedings. The writ had been issued here before his arrival. Boudreau prayed for the writ on the ground that as the original captor of Thaw, he might be liable to damage should Thaw's arrest prove illegal.

William T. Jerome, who worked out this latest attack, was jubilant. He hopes that the writ will be sustained and that on Tuesday Thaw will be in the hands of the department of immigration for deportation to Vermont.

Any citizen may apply for a writ of habeas corpus when he thinks a prisoner is detained illegally, and as Thaw is locked in the Sherbrooke jail on a faulty committment it was said that those seeking his deportation hoped to obtain a writ from Superior Judge Hutchinson, who came back to Sherbrooke yesterday, unannounced, for his vacation.

William Travers Jerome, formerly district attorney of New York, and commander-in-chief of the New York forces here, was up before 8 o'clock this morning, conferring with Samuel Jacobs, the Montreal attorney, representing the State.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Emulsion. Nugent Drug Co., 385 George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

McNEILL EPIGRAMS

Originality and Wit in These Characteristic Sentences

Here are some characteristic passages from a sermon by Rev. John McNeill, Cooke's Church, Toronto:

The church itself saves no one, the church needs to be saved.

If you want to sleep well at night, be busy during the day.

A bad conscience—What a restless bedfellow it makes—how it kicks!

We are strange beings, and the man who says he isn't, doesn't know himself.

If a man thinks he is strong enough to stand alone, well and good—but he's an awful fool—an awful fool.

The Lord is worth a shout every once in a while. If you don't shout, some one else will.

Slack off your speed, take things easier—don't crowd God out of your life.

There's an old saying that "care kills cats." I don't care how many cats care kills, because I don't like cats—but it kills Christians.

Some people are thankful they were born in Christian land, because idolatry would break their little hearts with expense.

The way some people sing the psalms of David is enough to make him return to earth and take them back.

Always try and have some money in the bank. But you need a little ready cash in your pocket for daily use. So, have some religion for everyday use.

Hindus bring chickens and rice to their idols. You Christians couldn't buy much chicken and rice for a five cent collection contribution. Idolatry costs something.

I have no objection to the eight hour day. But think of the women. If they were to strike for an eight hour day it would be the last strike the world would see.

There are here women with furrows and marks of age, and signs of its concealment, too, and at seventy your mothers had a cheek like a dairy maid, and a bigger family than some of you will ever have.

Of course, we Presbyterians don't shout—that's why the Lord sent the Methodists, and then because He wasn't satisfied, He brought along the Salvation Army.

Fire won't burn you, water won't drown you, death won't kill you, and sin can't damn you if you fix your eyes upon God and the Saviour. And cling to Him like a baby to the breast, or a leech to the wound.

The question about a workingman is not whether he has his coat on or off. There is many a slouch and loafer with his coat off. Some men expend more energy in taking off their coats than they do in the next three hours' work.

Ten Days' Speech

The longest speech ever made in a British court of law was that concluded by Sir John Simon, the Solicitor-General, after he had addressed the Railway Commissioners in the telephone arbitration proceedings for nearly ten days.

"Tweed" Cloth

The word "tweed," as applied to cloth, really means "twilled," and has nothing to do with the River Tweed, although much Scotch tweed is made in the basin of that river.

THE YAWNING CURE FOR TIRED NERVES

Said to be a Splendid Method of Relaxation and a Sleep Producer

We were all brought up with the idea that it is bad manners to yawn. Now we are told that yawning is the latest cure for "nerves." Yawning, it is claimed, is a preventive as well as a cure for this so-called "disease." It prevents the feeling of restlessness which is said to be the main cause of nerves.

If you get into the habit of yawning morning and night in the right way, so that there is absolute relaxation of the muscles, the effect is remarkable.

If you feel irritable, strung up, with every nerve on edge, suggest to yourself that you must yawn and a sense of relief and contentment awakens. You feel rested after two or three attempts. If you are tired out, yawn, absolutely relaxing, and give yourself to the exercise, and the effect is as if you had a restful dose.

If you are suffering from headaches try practising yawning. In the first stage it is said to be a certain cure. If you are one of the people who get depressed try yawning.

Its Beneficial Effect

Now, there is something in the idea. Apart altogether from the effect upon the muscles, yawning clears the lungs, draws fresh air down into the lungs, which purifies the blood, reacting upon the nervous system. Fatigue and depression are both dependent upon poisoned blood, and two or three real good yawns provide a splendid tonic and stimulant to the nervous system without any anger of depression.

Then yawning by stretching the muscles and the relaxation it produces is excellent. The movement provides a sort of internal massage. It is also recommended as a cure for obesity. If you are too stout, yawn. And if you are too thin yawning will do you good in that it improves the appetite and counteracts that tendency to worry which so often affects people who are thin.

Make it a Habit

One deep single yawn is good in itself, but two or three minutes devoted to the exercise several times a day produces quite a remarkable effect.

First suggest to yourself that you are very tired, that nothing but yawning will rest you, and you make a beginning. One yawn leads to another, because yawning is catching, as everybody knows.

If you sleep badly practice yawning and relaxation for a few minutes before you get into bed, breathing deeply and quietly between the yawns and thinking only of how tired you feel when you begin to yawn.

Thus the brain is not allowed to become tense and strung up, and the right condition for restful sleep is quietly induced, the patient's mind being taken up with yawning, which is the natural precursor of sleep.

IF YOU CAN'T GO TO SLEEP

Counting, Reading and Special Diet Are Suggested as Helpful for the Wooer of Slumber.

A sufferer from insomnia retails a number of counsels he has received, of which the first comes from the poet M. Leconte, who says:

"Open your window wide. Lie with your head as low as possible and you will sleep like a post."

"Accustom yourself to take an hour or two's rest in a deck chair after every meal," writes another. "Take down from your shelves some old-fashioned novel of which you have an affectionate remembrance as one of the joys of your youth and read it while you are on your deck chair. The more you are wearied by it the better you will sleep. The secret of a good night is not to tire yourself out in the evening, but to idle away the time."

"An important point, though a difficult one, is to avoid any dread of insomnia. Personally I derive benefit from calculating the multiples of two or three as far as I can go. Or else I 'count elephants;' one elephant and one elephant make two elephants, two elephants and one elephant make three elephants; three elephants and one elephant, and so on.

"Finally, knock off your black coffee, even your morning cup on rising, and take no meat in the evening. For lunch eat nothing but fruit, and for dinner a vegetable soup, vermicelli, mashed potatoes, and one or two biscuits.

"If in spite of all this sleep refuses to come try reading. But don't read anything lively or interesting. In my own case it is very rare that insomnia does not succumb to two or three pages of Plato's 'Phaedo.'

"An eminent doctor of Lyons says much the same thing. Another suggests: 'Count slowly from one upwards. It is very rare one gets up to 200 without going to sleep. It is on record, however, that one victim got up to 16,967, and then it was time to get up!'"

Chinese Birdcages

Some of the antique Chinese birdcages, made of wood and intricately carved, are of great value and eagerly sought by collectors. Other Chinese cages are entirely of metal, with their pagoda shaped top and bands around the sides lacquered in brilliant colors and ornamented with human figures in relief and highly gilded. These are supposed to be appropriate to the popular French [illegible] of decoration, and are [illegible].

MORE LARGER FARMS NEEDED

If farmers were to grow more hay and feed more cattle as well as go more largely into dairying, it would not be necessary for us to import 7,000,000 pounds of butter from New Zealand and the United States. Canada is sadly in need of adopting better intensive farming methods.

Now Cured, and Gives Good Advice to Others With Dyspeptic Tendencies.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins:

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salt or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour and always after eating there was pain and fullness and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter am sure, proves it."

THE COST OF LIVING.

Statistics of the rise in the cost of living show Canada in an apparently worse position than was expected. The rise here has been 51 per cent. since 1900, while in Australia and New Zealand it has been only 16 per cent. This increase appears to be the price which must be paid for prosperity, for Germany, which has made the greatest relative progress amongst European nations, shows an increase of 30 per cent. And these figures apply to food stuff only, and do not show the variation in the cost of housing and clothing, owing to the fragmentary information available on the latter points.

It speaks volumes for the soundness of Canada's position that with such an increase there has been comparatively little hardship. The change in Germany and elsewhere has caused those sufferings of the poor which have often led to riots, and the growth of a bitter class feeling. The fact that better wages are paid here counteracts the increase. The workingman is better off than in any other country. His letters home will counteract any deterring effect on desirable immigration which the mere figures might have.

SYNDICALISM IN CANADA

The reports of the mining strike in British Columbia with the calling out of the soldiers as well as the police, seem to indicate that the new labor ferment which manifested itself in British Columbia about a year ago has been working quietly ever since. This movement, termed syndicalism, in some respects, is one of the most regrettable of labor movements in modern times. The syndicalist believes in no private rights of property; to him the owner of a mine or house has no rights which he should respect. And it is asserted that the syndicalist teaches plainly that a workman is justified in fighting his employer with any weapon within his reach. If he can destroy by his carelessness or in a quiet way valuable machinery, or so direct his activity as to cause heavy loss to his employer, he is only getting even with the man who has selfishly exploited his labor. If by his actions human life is endangered, even then he is only returning a small part of the injury which present social conditions have inflicted upon him. Evidently this teaching is very far removed from the teaching of trades unionism, or even of advanced socialism. It does not seem that this teaching has been accepted very readily by Anglo-Saxon workers, but amongst uneducated and ignorant foreign labor it may well produce startling results. The strength of even this movement lies, however, in the fact that the wrongs perpetrated upon the laboring classes to which the appeal is made are not fancied, but real. The movement will be most effectively met, not by appeals to the military and police forces, but by removal of the manifest injustices which mar our treatment of our brothers. Order must be preserved, and appeals to brute force may be necessary occasionally, but justice is, after all the best preserver of order.

GIRL'S CLAIM TO TITLE

Baroness in Her Own Right If the King Removes Abeyance

Baroness Furnivall will be the title of the Hon. Mary Frances Petre, a child of twelve, if his Majesty decides to call the peerage out of abeyance in her favor. The Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords decided in favor of the claim advanced by Lady Petre, widow of the fourteenth earl, on behalf of her daughter.

The Barony of Furnivall has been in abeyance since 1777, and Lord Ashbourne declared that there was really no controversy as to the pedigree of the petitioner, and it was conceded that she was entitled to the peerage claimed. The only point was the date from which that dignity should be fixed.

The petitioner argued that there had been a summons to Parliament of Thomas, first Baron Furnivall, in 1323, and that although there was no direct evidence of a sitting of Parliament until 1299, yet following the precedent of many other claims, the date of the dignity was not the date of the sitting, but related back to the date of the earlier summons.

A new thrill for Alpine tourists is a ride through midair from one point to another on a suspended cable starting from Chamonix, at an altitude of 3,000 feet, ascending to the Glacier des Bossons at 7,500 feet, with two intervening stations and a grade of 50 to 60 degrees. The line will be finally extended to the Aiguille du Midi, at an altitude of 11,500 feet. Each carriage will accommodate 24 persons, and three cables are used.

THE GRINDSTONE CROP

Bay of Fundy Tide Helps Bring It to Market

From the bottom of the Bay of Fundy come some of the finest grindstones in the world, and the manner in which they are procured is simple and ingenious, the stonecutters making the exceptional tide perform the hardest part of the work. When the tide is out, which happens twice a day, the workmen quarry the stones from the solid rock and fasten them to a big flatboat. Then in comes the tide, a mighty flood rushing in as though the great ocean had suddenly changed its mind. Wonderful sight it is, rising often as high as a house. And now the men have nothing to do. The tide lifts the boat, and up comes the stone with it. Boat and stone are then brought close inshore where the stone is removed at leisure when the tide is out.

New Hard Metal

Some remarkable qualities are claimed for steelite, a new metal which is composed of 75 per cent. of cobalt and the remainder of chromium. It may be cast and ground to a fine edge, is impervious to rust and the action of acids and highly flexible. As a lathe tool it will cut steel at the rate of 200 feet per minute, a speed at which steel would ordinarily burn. Certain modifications of this alloy will cut glass and even quartz crystals. Steelite is said to be particularly suitable for watch fittings.

Block Island, Watch Hill and Fisher's Island are three charming spots for the summer visitor and are swept constantly by ocean breezes—the temperature rarely rising above 75 degrees. A week at any of these places will do as much good as a sea voyage.

RING.

London, Aug. 30.—Jack Johnson's music hall engagements in London have been "postponed" on account of the intense resentment displayed on all sides. It is understood that the "postponement" will be made permanent later, as the licensing authorities have threatened to raise trouble if the engagement of the American colored pugilist should be maintained.

Johnson arrived in London yesterday from Paris. Henry Tozer is the manager of the London syndicate owning the Euston and the South London music halls, at which Johnson was billed to appear to-night. Johnson intended to appear at the two music halls to-night.

NO JUSTICE IN AMERICA.

Johnson said—"I was not going to do much boxing here this time, but give lectures. My salary was to be about $5,000 a week."

Asked if he would go back to the United States, he replied—"I have a good many friends there, but when I meet them I hope it will be in Heaven and not in America. There is no justice for me in America after beating Jeffries.

WOULD NOT LAY DOWN.

"Those in London who know me know I am honest and straight, and know that if I had lain down to Jeffries I could have made enough never to have needed to look at music halls again. I have done nothing to be ashamed. I have been wickedly misrepresented, and when the public knows the facts of the case they will sympathize with me and not condemn me.

AND MRS. JOHNSON.

"Criminal proceedings were brought against me solely on the ground that my wife, being a native of Ohio, had joined me in Illinois."

At this point Mrs. Johnson, who was present, corroborated her husband's statement, adding, "They kept me in a house of detention for five weeks because I would not lie about Jack. They wanted me to say I had been taken from one State to another, but this was not the case."

FOOTBALL

While baseball is acknowledged as one of the most popular Canadian sport, football, the season for which is upon us, is a game eagerly awaited all over the country, and this fall the game promises to be as popular as ever.

The football season is so short that it is difficult to compare it with baseball, which is played at least six months of the year, but the football season, short as it is, usually turns out so successfully for the colleges and high schools, which make this an issue of their curriculum, that it largely supports the rest of the college and high school athletics.

Like many other games, however, football has undergone a great many changes and an oldtimer of 20 or 30 years ago, looking upon the game as it is played today, would hardly recognize it. For many years there was a standstill in the rulings of the contest, but because of a great many injuries, reforms were started, and since that time there have been almost yearly changes of some sort.

Beginning with the old style game, with five yards to go in three downs; no forward pass; in the days of the flying wedge, tandem plays and mass formations, the quarterback kick and the line buck, there were few if any open formations and fewer rules. Flying tackles were applauded, and long end runs were seldom seen, while it was not uncommon for teams to battle for two long thirty-minute periods to a tie, the result of the game usually being determined by a sensational field goal by an expert punter. Those were the days when fast ends were used to great advantage in getting down under punts, for there was no rule against throwing a man before he caught the ball, and the quarter-back kick also came into use for a fast end could many times get away and catch the ball on the fly and carry it down the field for a long gain.

In looking back, it is surprising that they were not really more deaths than resulted from the mass plays and oiled up interferences, while it is now comparatively easy to gain five yards in three downs, the distance having been increased to 10 a few years ago.

AWAY WITH MASS PLAYS.

The tendency has been to open the game and give way to long runs, trick formations and the kicking game; and toward this end the rules committee has been working from year to year, until now the game has about reached a point where serious accidents are almost unknown, while the contour of the play has not been altered to a great extent leaving it even more popular than it has been.

HOW WARS BREAK OUT

Loss of a Man's Ear Made England and Spain Fight

"To the student of history," says a writer in the Glasgow Weekly Herald "there are few things more surprising than the number of wars which had their origin in trifles—trifles often of the veriest insignificance, but which precipitated nations into the throes of strife, aroused all the evil passions of war, and led to conflicts more sanguinary than the mind can possibly imagine.

"Wars involving the destruction of flourishing cities and the ruin of whole nations have been undertaken to gratify the caprices of individuals, and about the most frivolous was the whim of the Persian monarch, who prided himself on being able to fill his banquet hall with the products of his own territories.

"Persia and its vast dependencies produced the best cereals, the choicest wines, spices, oils, vegetables, fish, and meats, gut the finest figs unquestionably came from Athens, and so the ruler of Persia decided to make the area of his Empire include the fig gardens of Athens.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Russia's interference in the Seven Years' War was due to the personal spite of the Empress Elizabeth.

"If we may credit the memoirs of the Princess Radziville the morals of the Tsarina were quite as loose as those of her successor; but she lacked the wit and the magnanimity of the accomplished Catherine, and plotted vengeance against the critics of her extravaganzas. The most outspoken of those critics was Frederick the Great whose supper parties were spiced with merciless sarcasm at the expense of his crowned contemporaries. He quizzed the bigotry of Maria Theresa, the stupidity of King George, the indolence of the Grand Turk, and lost no opportunity to poke fun at the Grosse Catin du Nord, as he called the ponderous lady on the throne of the Russian Empire.

"On one occasion Adjutant Winterfeldt complained of the awkwardness of the famous seven-footers, who were recruited from all parts of Europe. 'There's one fellow who is really not worth the salt on his bread,' said the Adjutant, 'he is seven feet two inches and is heavy as a donkey, but every bit as thick-headed. He has not brains enough to deliver the simplest message and I really do not know what we shall do with him!'

"'Send him to St. Petersburg,' laughed the King. 'I am sure he will make his fortune in half a year. Bulgarian, is he? Well, no matter what language he speaks, he needs only to be seen to be appreciated.'

"A Russian spy reported that conversation in all its original ribaldry, and soon after the Tsarina's reply came in the form of a Cossack Army, reinforced from year to year, and wasting Eastern Prussia, till the total of their havoc could be estimated only by hundreds of millions.

"The loss of a man's ear brought about the war between Great Britain and Spain in 1739. About the year 1730 the Spaniards, encouraged to a great extent by a secret compact with France, began to exercise with great severity their right of search over all British vessels on the high seas which were in any way suspected of smuggling. The rigid enforcement of this regulation was often accompanied by acts of gross brutality towards the crews of examined vessels, and tremendous ill-feeling was caused between the two nations.

"In 1731, a British merchant vessel was boarded by a Spanish guardship and the captain, Robert Jenkins, was cruelly used. After his release Captain Jenkins made his way to England, where the story of his torture by the Spaniards, and the tearing off of one of his ears, evoked universal anger against the molesters. For some reason or another the matter lay in abeyance, but seven years later Captain Jenkins was called before Parliament, and, standing at the Bar of the House of Commons, retold his narrative to the assembled members. Being asked as to his state of mind when the Spaniards began to torture him, he replied:

"'Then sir, I commended my soul to God and my cause to my country.'

"The words caused a thrill of indignation to run throughout the country, and war immediately ensued."

SHYEST OF PEOPLE

Won't Mix With Neighboring Tribes Even For Trade Purposes

No European has ever been able to meet in their own dwelling places the Kukukuhus, a shy, yet ferocious tribe of New Guinea. Other tribes of the country, while they have a great fear of the Kukukuhus, manage to do a bartering trade with them. They bring salt, earthenware, dried fish, etc., and deposit them in a certain indicated place. They then retire for a few hours, being notified to do so by a curious cry from the distance. The mountain dwellers then descend to view the goods offered for sale. If they want them they put down other goods, such as skins, feathers and other jungle produce, next to those articles wanted by them. Then they retire in turn, and when the way seems clear the coast dwellers approach again. If the latter are satisfied with what is offered in exchange, they take the goods put down by the mountain people and go away; if not satisfied, they retire again as before with empty hands.

Chinese in Canada

Altogether there are now about 30,000 Chinese in the Dominion, of whom a little over 20,000 are in British Columbia and some 3,000 in Ontario. The Immigration Department reports that the money to pay the poll tax is being advanced to Chinese either by labor organizations in the Chinese Republic or by relatives who have accumulated a thrifty bank account.

England's Coal Supply

It is said that nearly a million tons of coal are available in England, and at the present rate of consumption this will be exhausted in 175 years.

Americans as Drinkers

The alcoholic consumption per head in the United States is a little less than 22 gallons per year, of which 21 are contained in beer.

HUNGER STRIKERS FOOL GOVERNMENT

According to Mastication Expert a Long Fast is More Beneficial Than Harmful

Horace Fletcher, the famous exponent of the art and science of chewing, says that the hunger strikes of the Suffragettes are pure fakes, and that the British Government has permitted itself to be made ridiculous by forcible feeding. He is rather in favor of the women doing without food, and says it is the best thing that could happen to them. They would emerge from prison in better physical health and in sounder mental condition if they went without food for a few weeks or months.

Mr. Fletcher says that by this time everyone should know that a normal human being can go without food for twenty, thirty and even fifty days. Abnormal persons suffering from certain diseases can do without food for perhaps eighty days, and at the end of the period of fasting both normal and abnormal persons will find their health benefited. In fact it would be a very good thing for the average man to eat nothing for a couple of weeks each year, and thus permit his system to get rid of impurities.

Cured by Fasting

Mr. Fletcher says that he observed an unusually healthy woman who went without food for three weeks. For the first three days she took no water whatever, and after that but very little. Throughout the course of the experiment she suffered no discomfort whatever. This patient was threatened with neuralgic twinges in the vicinity of the heart, and believing that a week's fast would do her good she abstained from food. At the end of the week, however, her sensations were so comfortable that she was tempted to go on for curiosity to learn what the sensations of the starving Suffragettes would be like.

At the end of the three weeks the lady's face was seemingly smaller, but not apparently thinner, and her symmetrical figure was as before. Mr. Fletcher himself went without water for 100 hours, just for the purpose of studying the effects of fasting. He mentions the case of John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Company, who was supposed to be a hopeless invalid in 1904. He was traveling in Italy, and it seemed doubtful if he would live to be brought home. As a last resource he accepted the advice of a medical man and tried the starvation cure for the diseases that were wasting him. He went without food for thirty-seven days, and at the end of that time he was cured.

Made New Man of Him

Holes in the intestines caused by ulcers had become healed, and even a wart that had been upon Mr. Patterson's forehead from boyhood disappeared. His complexion had become like that of a child, and in every respect he was in better health and looked better than for many years before. Mr. Fletcher says many persons imagine that those who go for a considerable time without food become irritable. That may be the case with those who are what Edison has called "food drunk," for with them it is as with the drinker who is deprived of liquor, and according to the experts the fermentation of excess food causes a similar irritability. The mastication authority says that when one has trained the appetite to obey the will there comes a mental exhilaration and that one is far better-tempered without food than with it.

A Defect of Nature

What most of us identify as a sensation of hunger, says Mr. Fletcher, is what he would call "habit hunger." We feel that we want food not because our body requires it, but because it has become a lifelong habit at certain hours of the day to eat a meal. The only way to find out when we should eat, according to Mr. Fletcher, is to begin experimenting and discover how long we can comfortably go without food. The human body is something like an automobile. It will run for a considerable distance with the gasoline supply shut off.

PAINTING THE NEW BARN

Should be Thorough—Use Paint or Whitewash for Old Buildings

Paint adds value to the farm, but paint gives much better service if not put on till the lumber is thoroughly dry. New lumber is apt to be green, and if painted before dry the oil does not get into the wood, and as a result the paint will often blister and peel off. The unpainted new barn doesn't look well. But let it stand a season and then give it two good coats of oil paint, and it will hold its color for years. It will take more paint to do the job then, but it will pay in the end.

And just a word in regard to the old buildings. When real estate men want to sell a building they give it a coat of fresh paint. It pays to have the buildings well painted, even though they are not for sale. A building lasts longer if it is well painted, as well as impressing everyone favorably who looks upon it. A farm never appears prosperous with unpainted buildings. Where paint cannot be afforded a barrel of lime and a whitewash brush will do. Whitewash is the poor man's paint. Whitewash is a germ killer. It purifies and sweetens and lightens up the inside of the barn. It is cheap and easy to apply. Get a barrel of quicklime, put about two pailfuls in a half barrel, fill the half three-fourths full of water, mix with a hoe till thoroughly dissolved, and apply while still hot. Skimmilk instead of water or buttermilk will improve the whitewash. A spraying machine will aid greatly in applying the whitewash, but a brush will do the work all right. Every building on the farm in which live stock are kept should be whitewashed every year.

POULTRY POINTERS

Never use an incubator or brooder that has not been thoroughly disinfected and that is not thoroughly warmed before chickens or eggs are put in.

Buying eggs for hatching is a comparatively cheap way of getting started in pure-bred poultry, or introducing new blood in the pure-bred stock.

Don't set a hen or an incubator in a damp, poorly ventilated, musty place. You will not get a good hatch if you do.

Don't let the small chicks get chilled or overheated. Either will cause digestive and other troubles.

Don't feed old or musty chick feed, for it is almost sure to produce bowel trouble and loss will follow.

Don't fail to give little ducklings and goslings all the water they want while they are eating, at every feeding time.

LIGHTNING ON MOUNTAINS

Much More Severe in the Higher Altitudes

As one climbs up to a mountain top the danger from lightning increases rapidly, and, as a rule, the observatories located on the mountain tops are rather uncomfortable places of residence, as discovered by scientific gentlemen who have had the experience of a winter on a mountain top. It is evident that ordinary lightning rods are entirely inadequate to carry off the enormous discharges of the mountain thunderstorms. There are several observatories on Mont Blanc and at one of them, that of Janssen, there have been bombardments, during which the interior of the place was filled with ribbon-like sheets of electricity and balls of fire which moved silently from point to point. Other observatories have been repeatedly struck, although what was regarded to be adequate protection has been provided. In contrast to this there is another observatory which has never been visited by lightning in the 13 years of its existence.

KING EMMANUEL OF ITALY

Brazil is Progressive

A great scheme of public improvements, involving an expenditure of $20,000,000, has been inaugurated in San Paulo, Brazil, which is the capital of the coffee-growing State which bears the same name. The name of this city is known to comparatively few persons, but it is a thriving place of nearly 400,000 inhabitants, and it is estimated at the present rate of growth the number will reach the million mark in fifteen years. The improvements contemplated include impressive boulevards, asphalted streets and garden effects at different points throughout the city. The place already has an opera house which is as fine as any other in the world, and the old cathedral will be torn down and a two-million-dollar structure erected in its place. The latter item is not included in the twenty millions which is to be devoted entirely to municipal improvements.

POPE PIUS X.

His Holiness, Pope Pius X., known as "The Pope of the Poor," was born Joseph Sarto at Riese, near Venice, on June 2, 1835. He was the child of poor parents, but he was destined to fill the most exalted position in the Roman Catholic Church Talent displayed at an early age and developed to an extraordinary degree, deep piety, broad human sympathy and tireless energy brought about his marvellous success. Until he was 31 he was a country curate. In 1867 he was appointed parish priest of Salzano, and later suffragan. In 1882 he passed to the diocese of Mantua where for two years he was rector of the Seminary. In 1884 Pope Leo XIII appointed him Bishop of Mantua. On June 12, 1893, he was created a Cardinal and three days later he became Patriarch of Venice. When he left Venice in 1903 to attend the Conclave called to elect a successor to Pope Leo the faithful in "the pearl of the Adriatic" hailed him as the next Pope He remonstrated with them, saying that such an event was beyond the range of possibilities. But the seemingly impossible happened and he was elected Pontiff, much against his wishes, however. He took the floor and entreated his fellow-cardinals to desist from the idea of electing him, and he tried to show them that he was absolutely unfitted for the office. But his words had an effect other than that which he intended they should have.

The "Yanking" Habit

The "yanking" mother has a good deal to answer for. Watch her put a toddling youngster on or off a street car. It never seems to occur to this woman to stoop and put her hands under his arms and lift the boy up or down. She merely tightens her hold on his little hand and swings him down, or "yanks" him up.

The delicacy of a young child's tendons and muscles is little considered by the "yanking" mother, and if this child gets to be one-sided with one shoulder higher than the other, or has a crooked back, or a displaced spinal column, it is the mother who grievously wonders why.

If such a person were pulled up a few steps in the fashion she herself employs with tender little children, perhaps she could be brought to realize "why."

THE FLAG'S SUPREMACY A WOMAN'S TRIBUTE

Canada's High Station Won by Toil and Uncompromising Devotion to Duty

At a meeting of the Daughters of the Empire in Winnipeg a fine address on "The Supremacy of the Flag" was given by Mrs. J. A. Henderson. A few brief extracts are given:

"In our early history we have a panorama of shadowy forms. Indians and explorers, missionaries and Jesuits, hunters and trappers, soldiers of France and soldiers of England, moving over half a continent in canoe and through centuries of conflict in time. These were followed by the United Empire loyalists, who came to Canada because they stood by the old English tradition and the old flag. These people were incidentally the founders of the English part of the Canadian commonwealth.

"To preserve for us the British ideals and principles, they suffered hardships, dangers and difficulties so severe and so numerous as to have a permanent place in any history of the world's patriotism. Their patriotism caused the sacrifice of home, country and possessions. With this sentiment and loyalty they soon learned to love the land of their adoption. Their hardships in this new land were many, yet in the midst of it all they felt, no doubt, that they were laying the foundation of a great British colony amid these scenes of forest and waste. The strain of "God Save the King" ringing out through the long years made the lonely and painful life endurable, and the sight of the old flag gave them new strength and more endurance to continue the fight for king and country.

"In order to keep our flag supreme, we, as Canadians, as daughters of the Empire, must see that we build the new nation on a loyal foundation; see that the traditions of the flag are taught and impressed on the youth of our land. They should be taught that empire has been obtained by hard struggles and our commercial position by indomitable pluck, that the world at large sleeps better at night because the Union Jack is supreme on the sea.

"It is our duty and privilege to continue the work of patriotism of these loyal founders, and to assimilate the foreign peoples which are entering our gates by the thousands every year. Under the Union Jack every nationality on earth enjoys the same protection and shares the same citizenship. We should foster and guard our foreign population jealously. If we show an interest in them the first few years of their lives, they may make even more loyal citizens than many of our native born. It is our duty to assimilate them with our civic and national life. Do we look with indifference upon the tremendous task which is facing us?

OTTER AND SALMON

Scotch Anglers Witness a Rare Battle in a River

Undoubtedly it will interest readers to hear of a rare, and rather unique, occurrence witnessed by a party of anglers fishing in the Blackwater, Ross shire. The party in question were fishing up the east side of the river, and crossed over Rogie Bridge and began fishing down the west side of the river, when they were rather startled by a strange commotion going on in the next pool, about 30 yards distant. They stood in amazement looking on at something rushing and splashing in circles at almost lightning speed, and could not very well say what it was, although a fish-tail would be seen at times, but eventually a salmon was seen struggling and kicking up the opposite bank. But the salmon had another fight for liberty, and got back into the water again, when practically the same evolutions were gone through, but towards the end getting feeble, and once more the salmon was taken ashore, when one of the party shouted, and the otter quietly slipped away. The fish was retrieved and examined very carefully which disclosed only a few scratches and one eye pierced. It turned the scales at only 5 pounds. One would have thought he would be 20 pounds at least to put up such a game fight. The otter's color assimilated so well with the surroundings, and the fish was so very dark that we could not see him distinctly.

IT WAS CURIOUS

"Come in."

The door opened to admit a shabby-looking individual, the shine on whose coat would have done credit to the hardest-working shoeblack.

"Are you the gentleman," he began, "who found a purse and advertised the fact in the papers to-day?"

"I am."

"It contained money?"

"Yes, it contained a very large sum of money."

"You mentioned that the owner could recover the purse by giving you a description of it?"

"That is so. But you will have to give an accurate account of the purse, its contents, and how you came to lose it."

"I haven't lost a purse."

"Eh? Then why do you come here and make these inquiries?"

"I called out of curiosity to see what a man looks like who finds a large sum of money and advertises it in the papers instead of having a good time. Good morning, sir!"

GOOD IDEA

Jones was at the theatre, and behind him sat a lady with a child on her lap which was crying unceasingly.

Unable to stand it any longer, Jones turned smilingly to the lady and asked: "Has that infant of yours been christened yet, ma'am?"

"No, sir," replied the lady.

"If I were you I would call it 'Good Idea,'" said Jones.

"And why 'Good Idea'?" said the lady indignantly

"Because," said Jones, "it should be carried out." It was Jones who had to be carried out.

Kaiser's Shooting Record

The chief sporting magazine of Germany has been examining the facts and figures that have been allowed to reach the public concerning the thousand-and-one shots in which the German Emperor has taken part in the forty years that he has held a gun. In the course of this time the Emperor has shot 2,094 red deer; 1,872 fallow deer; 3,442 wild boar; 955 roebuck, 17,988 hares, 3,656 rabbits, 121 chamois, reindeer, 2 mouflons, 6 badgers, an otter, 198 cock, 24 heathcock, 3 "bronze" turkeys, 3 guineafowl 38,573 pheasants, 867 partridges, 9 grouse, 5 snipe, 3 woodcock, 87 wild duck, 836 heron and cormorant, a whale, and 528 under the head of various—a total of 70,845 head.

Why is it that the champions of the bantamweight and featherweight classes, with possibly a few exceptions, never draw anywhere near the money that the stars in other classes do? The little fellows can always be relied upon to put up the fastest kind of battles, but for some reason the average fight fan likes to see the big fellows in action, or if not the heavyweights then the lightweights.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

"Return Trip East," $18.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from all points east of MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton to Winnipeg.

GOING DATES.—AUGUST 18th—From all stations Kingston to Renfrew inclusive and east thereof in Ontario.

AUGUST 22nd—From Toronto and West on Grand Trunk Maine Line to Sarnia inclusive and south thereof.

NOW IT'S LEAD EARRINGS

But They Are Worn Betweentimes to Make Ears Beautiful

Somebody has discovered that an ear, to be truly beautiful, must have a round lobe. It may be a perfectly good ear in its business relations, but unless it droops at the bottom it is of no use as an ornament. As might be expected, women are more agitated over this discovery than men. A society girl has even set about to improve the shape of her auricular appendages through the simple device for attaching weights to them. For this purpose she has had a pair of lead "sinkers" of the type that fishermen tie on their lines made into earrings. These earrings she wears around the house and at night, removing them, of course, when callers are announced. She has confided to her close friends that the result is all that can be desired and she expects soon to have a beautiful pair of ears.

VICTIM OF CLEVER THIEVES

Parisian Jeweler Loses Large Sum Through the Working of a Most Ingenious Scheme.

A remarkable story of international thievery was related in a Paris police court the other day, when a man named Bucking, who had been extradited from London, was placed on trial. Bucking, it appears, began by writing to a famous Paris jeweler under the name of "Mrs. Marchmont," mentioning another wealthy lady customer, and asking for a quantity of expensive jewelry to be sent to London on approval. The request was immediately complied with, and $1,350 worth was chosen and paid for with a check. Three months later "Mrs. Marchmont" ordered $6,000 worth, and also paid by means of a bill on a London bank.

Shortly after there came an order for pearl necklaces to the value of over $25,000 to be sent in order that the customer might choose one of $5,000, and following this the jeweler received another request in the name of an alleged friend of "Mrs. Marchmont" for necklaces, rings, and brilliants, also to the value of over $25,000, all of which were confidingly sent to London. This time, however, no payment followed, and, the jeweler placing the matter in the hands of the police, the pseudo "Mrs Marchmont" was arrested in the person of a German named Bucking.

A KING'S GOLD WATCH

Time-Piece Still Treasured Which Murat Gave to Russian Soldier

In an obituary of a Colonel Tchernozouboff in a Russian provincial paper an extraordinary story is retailed in which is bound up a romatic episode.

Among the colonel's effects was a gold watch, on the case of which was the inscription: "Eléonore à Joachim. Ne m'oublie pas!"

Upon this "Do-not-forget-me" watch hung a tale of the great war. In 1812 the colonel was a simple Cossack, in a regiment engaged in harrying the French retreat; while Murat was King of Naples, and in command of the French cavalry. It was on the eve of Borodino; and Murat, galloping ahead of his squadron, was cut off and surrounded. It looked as though he was doomed.

The range was short and the Cossacks were about to fire, when Tchernozouboff intervened. "Present arms!" he cried chivalrously. "Hurrah for the King of the Brave!" Murat had time to put spurs to his horse, and ride away.

As the King rode off he took out his gold watch, gave it as a souvenir to the Cossack who had saved him. Platoff, the Hetman of the Cossacks, admiring Tchernozouboff's chivalry, gave him his commission, and made him his aide-de-camp.

The watch was thereafter treasured as an heirloom in the Tchernozouboff family, though they received an offer of no less than 26,000 roubles for it.

SUFFRAGISTS DARN SOCKS

Show They Are Good Housewives as Well as Politicians

Minnesota suffragists decided upon a measure whereby they hoped to counteract the impression that women who long for the ballot are not good housewives.

At the State Fair they maintained a booth where men, single or married, might have their socks darned. Having chosen the darning needle as their emblem, the following war cry was adopted:—

Darn the Government, darn the socks
That's the way to the ballot box.
Patch the holes in hubby's hose,
March to the polls and voice our woes

Headache Over the Eyes? Look for Nasal Catarrh

Catarrh Never Stops in One Place—It Spreads Rapidly—Often Ruins Health Completely.

In this changeable climate it is the little colds that drift into Catarrh. Unless the inflammation is checked it passes rapidly from the throat or nose to the bronchial tubes and then to the lungs. You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or toes, but you can cure Catarrh.

The surest cure consists of breathing in the healing balsamic essences of CATARRHOZONE, which is simply a medicated vapor so full of rich curative properties that every trace of Catarrh vanishes before it.

"The soothing piney vapor of Catarrhozone is the most powerful medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. Edmond J. Christime, of Saskatoon. "Every breath drawn through the Inhaler sends a grateful feeling through the air passages of the nose and throat. Catarrhozone cured me of frightful headaches over the eyes, relieved me of a stuffy feeling in the nose, and an irritable hacking cough that had been the bane of my life for a year. My general health is greatly improved, my appetite and digestion are considerably better than before. Catarrhozone has been the means of giving me such health as I always desired, but never possessed."

Even though catarrh has a firm hold on you, and affects your throat, nose or ears, you can thoroughly cure it with Catarrhozone. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00; smaller size 50c.; sample size 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

This disarmed suspicion and they were given the horse and rig. Instead of going home they drove straight to Apsley, with a horse not in condition for such a long drive. The police got busy with the phone and the boys will be brought back to-day.

MUSIC and DRAMA

"THE GIRL AND THE BARON"

When "The Girl and the Baron" is presented at The Grand Opera House on Saturday, Sept. 6th, matinee and night, there will be abundance of variety and quality in this big Broadway musical success.

Of late it has been considered disagreeable not to say impertinent in an audience to expect a plot with the Musical show and this is only one of the many reasons why "The Girl and The Baron" always pleases and has made this production such an immense success. The mere story is a rattling good comedy in itself, and the Music, as Broadway would say, is so much velvet and above the average. The composer has provided any number of catchy and pleasing musical moments.

With beautiful scenery, gorgeous costumes, excellent singing voices and a well balanced cast "The Girl and The Baron" is one of the many Musical Comedies that is praised by everyone. The choris has been carefully selected by the management and is one that can sing and dance.

FEAR OF PUBLIC OPINION GREAT RESTRAINING FORCE

It Applies to Individuals, and Viscount Haldane, in a Notable Address, Suggests That it Might be Adopted by Nations

Montreal, Sept. 1.—In its legal wisdom, its literary style, its ethical tone, and its humanness, the address delivered before the American Bar Association this afternoon by the Lord High Chancellor of Britain, the Right Hon. Viscount Haldane of Cloan, formed the principal feature of a great gathering, which, in its program, contains many items of absorbing interest.

Before an audience which completely filled the Princess Theatre, and included the legal luminaries of this western continent as well as representatives from England and France, the Lord High Chancellor spoke on "Higher Nationality—A Study in Law and Ethics."

It was in many ways an epoch-making speech, dealing as it did with the relationships of three great nationalities. In the purest and most choice diction, largely in simple Anglo-Saxon, the illustrious visitor showed how British law was in the early days largely vested in the Sovereign of the realm, who had also associated with him the Lord High Chancellar as the Executive of the King's justice. That ancient law was based on experience rather than upon logic was the argument, and this fact had influenced the law and constitution of the three great nations, Britain, France and America. The speaker further showed that the great force that actuated mankind in observing the law was not fear of the officer of justice, but fear of public opinion, so that the latter really tended more than arbitrary execution of justice to restrain men from law-breaking. Developing this argument, Lord Haldane proceeded to suggest that the same policy might possibly be adopted by nations, and that the time had come when nations might be as much ashamed to follow ancient methods of settling differences and disputes as individuals had become in late years.

The Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters has been meeting all last week. This session of the Supreme body has been the most important that was ever held in the history of the Society. The adoption of the I. O. F. Bill and the acceptance of Plan No. 1 of that Bill, which provides for the extinguishing of the actuarial deficiency, now places the Foresters in the position of being the largest fraternal insurance organization that is conducting fraternal insurance on adequate rates. Plan No. 1 was adopted by practically unanimous vote.

While the question of actuarial solvency and financial affairs of the Order have occupied the attention of the Supreme body for the first two days of this session, the fraternal portion of the work has engrossed the balance of the time. The Orphans' Home, Sanatoriums, Purple Cross Nurses and a number of other benevolent features of the Society have been under review. During the discussions yesterday many interesting facts were elicited. In one jurisdiction it was reported that some $32,000 had been spent in relief and hospital work, a large portion of this money being entirely voluntary. In another large city it was pointed out that the Subordinate Court employed two nurses permanently to care for and nurse sick and disabled members of the Order, and in another jurisdiction over eight hundred situations have been procured for various members. Another report was to the effect that over $8,000 had been contributed for the relief of the sufferers from the recent floods in Ohio. These are only a few of the many varied and interesting reports which were made in regard to the fraternal work.

A Field to Be Developed

As a result of these reports it is quite likely that in future plans will be devised providing for a more systematic development of this feature of the work that the Society is engaged in.

A striking feature of the convention has been the spontaneous unanimity with which the members of the Supreme Court have applied themselves to the task of caring for the interests of the members at large. The discussions have been conducted plainly with a desire to bring about ideal conditions, as far as possible, for all present and future Foresters. In this respect the proceedings of the present Supreme Court session will undoubtedly have a conspicuous place in the history of the I. O. F.

The elections were held on Friday last. The only changes in the officers of the society are that Mr. Alex. Stewart, Toronto, takes the position of Supreme Auditor and Mr. Robt. Mathison, the distinguished and able Supreme Secretary, takes the position of Supreme Treasurer, and is succeeded by Mr. Darch.

The New Secretary

Mr. Frederick J. Darch, who was elected to the position of Supreme Secretary comes from London, and is a well-known businessman of that city, having been for a number of years senior member of the firm of Darch & Hunter Seed Company. He has also had quite an extensive municipal affairs of his city. His unmore than ordinary ability, when yet a young man he entered public life, taking a prominent part in the municipal affairs of his city. His uncompromising integrity and business ability resulted in the people showing their confidence in him by electing him to the board of the Water Commission in the year 1905. Subsequently, by his colleagues, he was elected Chairman of the Commission, and it was during that period that the Hydro-electric system in London was launched, and much of the success of that undertaking was due to the careful and able attention he gave the project. He served the city for six years as Water Commissioner, but, owing to the pressure of his personal business affairs, he was compelled to decline re-election. Mr. Darch will no doubt make a capable and efficient officer for the society.

Officers for Four Years

The officers who will conduct business for the next four years are:—

Elliott G. Stevenson, S.C.R., Toronto.

Victor Morin, B.A., LL.D., N.P., P.S.C.R., Montreal.

J. D. Clark, S.V.C.R., Dayton, Ohio.

T. Millan, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Toronto.

W. H. Hunter, B.A., S.C., Toronto.

Geo. E. Bailey, Antwerp, N.Y., and Alex. Stewart, Toronto, Auditors.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session Grand Crosses of Merit were conferred on the following: Geo. W. Wants, P.H.C.R., of Chatham, Ont.; W. D. Pettigrew, Winnipeg, Man.; Dr. Gauthier, of Montreal, Que.; W. J. Sutcliffe, Yorkshire, England.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ON THE NAVY QUESTION

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has addressed the following to the Bobcaygeon Independent:

In the last issue of the Bob. Ind., you say as follows:

"Mr. Laurier addressed a very large gathering at St. Hyacinthe on Saturday, and was in fine condition. His statements that the British authorities in 1902 wanted Canada to assume a standing army 10,000 to be under complete control of the war office, or otherwise adopt a permanent contribution to the Navy, shows clearly the way this country is now drifting. Mr. Laurier stands by the same opinion that he held then, the true Canadian opinion, that whatever Canada does, in the way of militarism or navalism shall be Canadian, and free from any friction with conflicting outside authority. That is the ground on which Canada will stand, despite all political flag waving, and subtle diplomacy of Downing street."

So far, so good. We do not mean to sacrifice one jot or title of our independence of course. No one but a mad man would suggest such a thing. But in the event of our deciding to protect ourselves on the sea, isn't it cheaper, and saner in every way for us to make arrangements with some other power or powers whether Britain, Australia, United States or what not, than topuff ourselves up with the idea that we can fight the whole world without help, and then proceed to waste our hard-earned money on a "Canadian Navy" as a consequence. What becomes of all the talk about Downing Street rule in the face of our being able to make or break our proposed alliances at any time. This fear of getting back to the old days of privilege and pocket boroughs is unlikely in the one case as in the other. If you want Canada to get into trouble, then by all means have a "Canadian Navy" with no alliances with anybody. The minute our wonderful "Canadian Navy" begins to parade the stormy seas in earnest, it will be like a tomtit in a cyclone to the first gaping gullet that comes along—and they who will foot the bill?

J. H. Burnham,

Peterborough.

Note—Mr. Burnham's views are always thoughtful, and ably expressed, and in the above, the readers of this great journal will find much for their contemplation, on that intensely controversial question—the Navy.—Ed. Bob. Ind.

TREMENDOUS BLAST COMPLETES THE CANAL

Pacific Waters Now Wash Panama Channel--Twenty Long Tons of Dynamite Constituted the Blast --Hundreds Saw Explosion

Panama, Sept. 1.—The last remaining barrier at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal was blown up by dynamite yesterday. It was an interesting spectacle. At exactly 4.30 o'clock an electric switch was turned on and a moment later the 1,500 spectators including the shriners visiting here and the officers of the British cruiser New Zealand, were rewarded by a wonderful sight. Hundreds of tons of mud and stones were thrown high in the air; there they hung suspended and then fell back, as the thunderous roar of the explosion re-echoed in the nearby hills.

Twenty Tons of Dynamite.

About twenty long tons, equivalent to 44,800 pounds of 45 per cent. dynamite, constituted the blast, which was one of the biggest ever set off in the canal.

The charge which was planted in 541 holes at an average depth of 30 feet, tore a big gap in the barrier, but not to a sufficient depth to permit the water to flow through as the sea level channel was at low tide.

Equally interesting as the explosion was the actual breaking of the barrier in the afternoon, the tide creeping steadily up until it was level with the top of the gap. A workman seized a shovel and made a small trench, through which a rill of water trickled. Gradually it widened until an hour later a raging torrent with a 35 foot fall poured in through an opening 400 feet wide.

UNITED STATES MUST MAKE THE NEXT MOVE

The Situation in Mexico is Still Marking Time—Huerta Steadily Active.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Although officials here are watching with seeming indifference the efforts of President Huerta to arouse patriotic sentiment among Mexican people, they realize that he is making headway in that direction. The advantage that has been obtained by Gen. Huerta through wide publication of his refusal to yield to the proposal of the Wilson Administration that he give satisfactory assurances that he will not become a candidate for the Presidency in the general constitutional elections, to be held next month, is becoming thoroughly understood in Washington, and it does not bring pleasant thoughts to those who are in sympathy with the program of this Government that was entrusted to John Lind, the President's special representative for execution.

TUESDAY'S SESSION JUVENILE COURT

The Juvenile Court that was scheduled for Wednesday, was held yesterday at 10 o'clock, because of the serious nature of changes involved.

Before the secret session opened, the usual search was made for reporters.

The first case was a serious one. Lily McGillicudy Smith was charged with cruelty to animals, to wit, allowing a pet squirrel to operate a wheel in its cage. Lily is 17 years of age. She was told by the magistrate that if that wheel must revolve, she would have to use electric power. The prisoner was discharged with a warning and ordered to destroy the squirrel.

James Hezekiah Slapdoodle, aged 10, was charged with making an improper exposure. The evidence showed that, in Jackson Park, Jimmy had stood on his head thus allowing his trouser legs to fall and display his ankles.

The magistrate reprimanded James and sternly added "that kind of exhibition must be confined to ladies with slit skirts."

Sophronisba Juanita Honeybloom, aged 16, was chargedwith being on the street, alone, at 1 a.m.

When asked by his worship, "How do you elect to be tried?" Sophy said "Judge, you got me kiddo; I don't know nothing about courts!"

Surely, you read reports of the Juvenile Courts held in Toronto. Ah! Ahem! I mean, are you guilty? Sophy replied, "Maw said she guessed I was able to take care of myself. When that sassy cop pinched me, he said the Juvenile court for yours. He told me the Juvenile court is held in secret, because of a fad, but warned me not to use his name."

His worship said, "As your mother let you run on the street, I'll discharge you. These secret sessions are intended to maintain the sweet simplicity of motherhood and to prevent them knowing anything of the harsh realities of life. You may go."

Here the magistrate remarked dramatically, as Shakespeare said of Shylock the Jew, when he demanded a pound of that said merchant's flesh nearest his heart, "the law allows it and this court demands it. By Heck! This dinky little court is going to be held in secret!"

RESCUED BY FIREMEN FROM LOFTY PRISON IN TORONTO BANK

Law Clerks Found Themselves Incarcerated Above Bank Police Refused to Break Open the Door

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Two law clerks caused much trouble for the police yesterday afternoon. They wished the officers to break into a bank where they had been accidentally incarcerated. The fire department was finally called to rescue them. The young men had been locked in the Bank of Toronto building at the corner of King and Bay streets through their own carelessness or through the ignorance of the janitor, who either did not know that they were in the building or forgot that they were working in their rooms over the bank. The young prisoners gave their names and addresses as C. F. Cummings, 2,998 Queen street east, and V. Kilmaster, Hastings and Baird avenues.

The clerks went down to their office in the early part of the afternoon to finish some work. They had intended subsequently spending the evening together. After their work was finished they proceeded down the stairs to a side entrance. They could not open the door of exit. They had no key and started in search for the janitor. This officer was not to be found, as he had availed himself of the holiday afternoon to visit the Exhibition.

Now somewhat anxious, the imprisoned young men telephoned to a friend, but he had no key, and the bank manager who held the only other possibility of freedom, was not at home. As a last resort they telephoned to the police.

THIRTY-TWO THOUSAND MEN IN HARVEST FIELDS OF THE WEST

Sixteen Thousand So Far Have Arrived From East--Twelve Excursion Trains

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Up to the present time sixteen thousand harvesters have arrived in Winnipeg from the east, bound for points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This number represents the burden of twelve excursion trains which came from the Maritime Provinces and eastern and central Ontario.

With between five and seven thousand men who were distributed from the different local points throughout the west, and about ten thousand immigrants who have entered the western provinces this year to engage as farm laborers, there is at present an army of thirty-two thousand men in the harvest fields.

One-Cent Rate Discontinued.

The local rate on the railways of one cent per mile, which was adapted over a month ago with a view to utilizing the unemployed of the western towns and cities in the harvest, was discontinued yesterday and will not be renewed this season. It is felt that the idle element in the urban centres has moved into the country in as large measure as is possible.

Six Thousand More to Come.

The excursions from western Ontario have still to arrive, and by the six or seven train loads that are expected it is estimated by Mr. Bruce Walker, the Immigration Commissioner here, that six thousand men will be added to the harvesting for the west during the next ten days. This additional number will be needed in the more northerly districts of Alberta and Saskatchewan, where the crops have not ripened so rapidly as in the south, and where the cutting has not been so extensive.

Forty Thousand, as Last Year.

Altogether the labor supply to the western farmer this season amounts approximately to forty thousand men which is practically the same number as was employed last year.

AMERICANS STILL URGING THE GERMANS TO TAKE PART

Anxious For Their Participation at San Francisco— An Active Campaign

Berlin, Sept. 1.—Frederick J. X. Skiff, Director in Chief of the San Francisco Exposition, arrived in Berlin to-day. In an interview he said: "I am, of course, deeply disappointed at the refusal of Germany to accept the invitation to participate in the Panama Exposition, but I still have hopes that further negotiations between the two Governments will result in some modification of the official German attitude."

Skiff's arrival in Berlin, after his annual cure at Badenauheim, takes place at the moment when the unofficial movement for a Great German display in San Francisco is in full blast. Half a dozen important manufacturers' and merchants' associations, the most influential journals the The Frankfurter Zeitung and The Berliner Tageblatt, and the Hamburg American line, the North German Lloyd, and even the Socialist press representing the workingmen of the fatherland, are moving actively.

A HERO OF OMDURMAN BATTLE TELLS TIMES OF HIS EXPERIENCES

Yesterday Was 15th Anniversary of Battle When British Army Killed 10,000 Devrshes, Mr. Cooper Wears Medals

Yesterday the Times had the privilege of a chat with Mr. T. R. Cooper, who is in charge, for night work of the big 80 ton cranes at the C.G.E. Co. plant.

As yesterday was the 15th anniversary of the Battle of Omdurman, which led to the fall of Khartoum, Mr. Cooper wore his three medals. Mr. Cooper in this battle when a small British army killed 10,000 Devrshes, and was then a member of 21st Lancers. In this fight, the Lancers under Col. Martin, 320 strong, charged 2,000 of the fuzzy-wuzzies. Of the 320 who charged, 23 were killed and 78 wounded.

In reply to a question put by The Times, "have you ever smelled human blood after a battle?" Mr. Cooper replied, "After the battle, the survivors of our regiment camped by the scene. The stench of human blood became so overpowering, our officers had to move us." In the same regiment was Hon. Mr. Winston Churchill, now first lord of the British admiralty, who fought side by side, as an officer, with Mr. Cooper. At Kehtry Heights, he delayed "A" squadron of the 21st Lancers for many hours whilst he took war sketches and notes for the English Press. Mr. Rene Bull, war correspondent for the London Illustrated News was also attached to the 21st.

Mr. Cooper naturally takes much pride in his three medals. They are respectively the silver Khartoum medal given by the British Government. This, on the clasp bears the word: "Khartoum." The ribbon from which it is suspended is of three colors, with accompanying significance, yellow, sand, red, blood spilled and black, for Gordon's death. Another medal with the word "Khartoum" in Arabic, presented by the Khedive is suspended from a ribbon of yellow with a centre stripe of blue signifying the blue of the Nile River between banks of sand. His third medal of silver was presented for the best man-at-arms in Britain's cavalry. This was presented him in 1903.

The C.G.E. Co. is to be congratulated on having in its employ a man who has fought for England in Egypt, Africa and India.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 356 George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

WORK OF A CENTURY IN WESTERN CANADA

Wonderful Progress Since the First Settlers Arrived at Red and Assiniboia Rivers

More than a century ago the first crop was sown in Western Canada. The acreage placed under cultivation was not large, nor was the harvest which was reaped in the following summer an abundant one, for, the sowers and the reapers were only one hundred and twenty-five in number. They were the Selkirk settlers, who late in the year 1812 had arrived at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers to establish the first colony of English-speaking people in the great west of Canada. Naturally in the spring of 1813 it was not with the thought of producing grain for export that this little community of Scottish immigrants decided to "break" a few acres of land along the banks of the Red River. Need of food for themselves and for a few domestic animals was the impelling force which led to the first wheat crop of the west. Fur-trading was the business of the country one hundred years ago, and little did the early pioneers of that vast portion of Canada think that one day their sweeping prairies would become the granary of an Empire and the home for thousands of farmers. In 1831 the Red River settlement had increased in size to 2,731 people, 2,152 acres of land had been brought under cultivation, and the buildings and live stock comprised 375 houses, 365 stables, 134 barns, 410 horses and 1,442 cattle. To-day the site of that first settlement in the Canadian west is part of the large industrial city of Winnipeg, and from a struggling group of one hundred and twenty-five souls the population of western Canada has grown until it now numbers 1,875,000, and has brought into cultivation nearly 15,000,000 acres of fertile prairie land. And the end is not yet. Only the southern half of the great west has been discovered, conquered and made productive. If there is any one vision which the four ambitious Provinces of western Canada see more than another at the present time, it is the bigger and more mature stature into which they will have grown when the future development of the northern half of the west has been accomplished. Each of the Provinces has its wonderful northland, and the chief task before their respective peoples during the next twenty-five years will be the colonization and development of these last portions of Canada's unexplored territory.

New Thames Tunnel

At the opening of the new foot tunnel constructed by the London County Council between North and South Woolwich, Sir W. Whitaker Thompson, under whose direction the tunnel was built, explained that it was necessary mainly because of the inconvenience by fog, which in the winter time frequently brought about the entire stoppage of the free ferry service, thus preventing workingmen and others from crossing the river.

The tunnel, access to which is gained either by stairs or lifts, is 550 yards long, and cost $300,000.

THE JEWISH METHOD OF KILLING CATTLE

Rabbi Jacobs Says There is no Cruelty in it When Properly Carried Out

Rev. S. Jacobs, the senior rabbi of Toronto was interviewed regarding the Jewish method of killing cattle, and as to whether or not there was cruelty in the method.

"As far as the slaughtering of animals is concerned," he said, "the Jewish law on the subject demands not only that the 'schochet' be well versed in the law, but he must be absolutely skilled in his work. He must pass a most rigid examination before a competent authority, and must also be an expert in examining the knife to see that it has not the least flaw or notch. One who is intoxicated or one whose hand trembles is prohibited from acting as a schochet for several reasons, chief of which is lest he press the knife against the throat of the animal instead of gently applying it. The knife must be twice the width of the throat of the animal about to be slaughtered, the maximum length being 14 finger breadths. The knife must be sharp, smooth, and without any perceptible notch, and it must be thoroughly examined before the slaughtering, and even afterward, for should there be a notch the animal becomes ritually unfit for food."

In touching upon the possibility of cruelty of this method, Rabbi Jacobs continued: "Judaism inculcates the most humane treatment of all dumb animals. This is insisted upon, not only in the Bible, but in all the rabbinical writings. Animals must not be tortured unnecessarily. The Mosaic injunction that the ox must not be muzzled whilst threshing was explained by our teachers of old to be a general precept enjoining us to act with every humane consideration towards all dumb animals. Judaism forbade the yoking of animals of different species or of unequal strength, or of wild and tame animals together, or the slaying of the dam and the young, or the taking of both mother and young from a nest. Even hunting was discouraged from motives of sport.

"The different regulations for the slaughtering of animals are all strictly in harmony with the principles of the prevention of cruelty to animals. This ancient institution of Judaism has been repeatedly attacked, but the Jewish method of slaughtering has been again and again vindicated as far more humane than any other method in vogue. Dr. Dembo has proven this most ably in his work, 'The Slaughtering of Animals.'"

It was shown that the Jewish law, far from countenancing cruelty, enjoins the most loving kindness to all animals, and Rev. Mr. Jacobs gave many quotations to prove this. Beasts were to have their rest on the Sabbath day, and their masters were to first care for them, "and then eat and be satisfied." The words from Psalm I, 1: "Who stand not in the way of sinners," were expounded in the Talmud as being an injunction against associating with hunters who tortured dumb animals by urging dogs against them.

"Yes," concluded the Rabbi, "there is not the least foundation for the charge of cruelty in the Jewish method of slaughtering cattle, if the laws appertaining thereto are conscientiously carried out. With our Christian brethren, we believe in the words of the poet:

'He prayeth best who loveth best
All things, both great and small;
For the dear God who loveth us
He made and loveth all.'"

SCRAPES CORN OFF COB

Curved Blade With Teeth Scrapes Corn Out Sideways

An ingenious little device for removing corn from the cob has been patented by an Illinois man. A piece of wire is bent at one end to form a handle and the projecting stem flattened to form a thin, curved blade. Portions of this blade are cut through and bent downward, to form a series of teeth which extend the length of the concave side of the blade. By drawing this scraper around the cob through each row of kernels the substance is neatly removed. While it is scarcely likely that this implement will cut corn from a cob as rapidly as some other devices, it nevertheless has this advantage over most of the others—it will not put the fingers in jeopardy. With most corn scrapers one is apt to scrape the skin off her fingers as well as get the corn off the cob.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

New York is about to have 500 new policemen added to her other afflictions.

The assault on Premier Asquith by suffragettes indicates that the news that the militant were taking a holiday is too good to be true.

The popular notion is that there are only ten commandments, but every married man can assure you there are many more than that number.

Judging from the reports in the newspapers only the most talented guessers and the most skilled liars can tell us what is really going on in Mexico.

During the recent drouth the people went to church and prayed for rain. But as they did not take their umbrellas along it is reasonable to assume that they did not have much faith in their own supplications.

"What is the difference between Conservatives and Liberals?" asks the Examiner. The only difference we can see is that our friends the Liberals have no reputation to lose.

HE SHRINKING MEAT SUPPLY.

The beef situation in Canada is growing serious. That pric s, which have gone up 40 per c ent in the past year, will jump another 20 per cent by New Y ear, is the prediction not of alar mists, but of men familiar with the situation. ws a matter o f fact, the cattle supply is low er than in many years and on to p of this comes the drouth in he corn belt, which adds to the shortage.

Because o the drouth cattle are being rus ed to the market and cows are being sent to slaughter in su ch numbers as to make certain a great falling off in the calf cro n next spring. This, of course los es no immediate hope of bette ent in conditions as regards beef. Packers ow be- enabled to buy cattle ne make cause of the drouth, will anh large profits next winter spring and will point to the shortage of beef on the hoof as justification for high prices

This wave of prosperity for the packers will, as usual, spell dismay for the consumers. The cattle question, therefore, is one of the serious problems of the time. With fewer cattle and more people than two years ago, the situation is simply that beef must remain high until production has increased or arrangements are made for the importation on a large scale of dressed meats and cattle free of duty.

THE DOMINION'S GRAND OLD MAN.

The expected has happened; Lord Strathcona has signified his intention of resigning the post of Canadian High Commissioner. He will retire early next year. It is said that the Hon. Clifford Sifton will be his successor.

The man who succeeds Lord Strathcona will have no light office. If any reflection can be cast upon Mr. Sifton, it cannot be greater, indeed, than that under which he will pass when he takes up the official duties of his venerable and distinguished predecessor. At present Canada is represented in London by one of the outstanding personalities of the time. Great in the rearing of a life from obscurity to eminence, and conspicuously the possessor of the enduring qualities which enable a man to bear great wealth, high honors, and the affectionate regard to the inhabitants of many countries, without abating the noble simplicity which has sustained him in the changing circumstances of the years, Lord Strathcona is to be reckoned among the great.

It sometimes happens that when men younger than the grand old nonagenarian withdraw from public life, and the interests which have occupied them for years, their natural forces begin to abate with the lessening of the demands made on them; but let us hope that in this respect, as in so many others, Lord Strathcona will win distinction. Canada hopes that he will add to his record of personal chievements and long and high public service, the grace of years of retirement. He is one of the men of two centuries. May the end of his span of life lie far on the other side of the single century limit.

Many Reasons Why Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing ... of Catarrhozone, Which Are Breathed to the Further Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Bring Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing, medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs attacks the trouble at its source disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailments thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches th deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and in fact have been well or some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief but will always cure permanently.. Yours sincerely, (Signed) WILLIAM RAGAN, Brockville, Ont.

LOVE LED TO DEATH

Two French soldiers passing through the Forest of Fontainebleau discovered the dead body of Mlle. Jeanne Eude, the beautiful young daughter of a retired Army doctor. The discovery proved to the awful end of a love story.

A few months ago Mlle Eude left her home in Versailles to visit a relative at St. Quentin. In the evening she telegraphed to her father from Paris that she had missed the train, and would not start for St. Quentin until the next day.

After that nothing more was heard of her, and, on being notified of her disappearance, the police discovered that Mlle. Eude's telegram to her father had been handed in at the telegraph office by a young man whose description corresponded to that of a lieutenant who had been stationed at Versailles, and who had recently resigned.

It was also ascertained that a couple resembling Mlle. Eude and the lieutenant had been seen at La Rochelle. The obvious conclusion was that the doctor's daughter had eloped with the lieutenant. When her body was found an examination showed that she had died of hunger.

It is not known how Mlle. Eude reached the lonely spot where she died, but the police believe that after eloping with the officer Mlle. Eude was abandoned by him, and, not daring to return home and face her parents, and having no money left, wandered about aimlessly until death ended her sufferings.

HE HAS PLAYED MANY PARTS

Before Recognition Came John Masefield Was a Sailor, American Farmer and Clerk.

John Masefield, whose poem, "The Everlasting Mercy," won him the Edmond de Polignac prize of the Royal Society of Literature, was born a little more than thirty years ago near Ledbury, in the west of England. Mr. Masefield has had a varied career. After leaving school he went to sea in the merchant marine (he has since written some fine, breezy verse on the ships and deep waters), spent a few years on an American farm, and subsequently became a clerk in a city office. Gradually his genius as a writer became recognized, and in the last few years his output has been enormous—dramatic plays, essays, novels and poems coming from his pen in rapid succession.

THE I.O.F. TENT VERY POPULAR

Well Patronized by More Attending the Exhibition at Toronto

One of the most delightful retreats at the Toronto Exhibition is that of the Independent Order of Foresters. The large tent overlooking the blue waters of Lake Ontario is surrounded on the outside with shrubs and foliage and presents an inviting appearance. While the exterior is trim and neat the inside is beautiful to a degree. Upon the inside are laid carpets of a rich color, while scattered around are easy chairs of the most inviting description. Bright flowers and fresh looking palms add to the scene, while the pictures hanging from the bedecked poles add a touch of interest that strikes a note of appealing timbre.

Upon the table is laid a register which has been signed by over a thousand people to date. Information with regard to the Order may be obtained at a moment's notice from the obliging and courteous official in charge. There is knowledge to be gathered which will appeal to all interested as well as those who are not already in fraternal societies. To date the Order, which was founded thirty-eight years ago, has a membership of 250,000 and its branches are to be found in Great Britain, Canada and the United States. The triennial meeting of the Supreme and High Courts, which was held in Toronto last week revealed the fact that the numbers added to the organization first year amounted to 29,000 while the numbers added last month totalled 2,180, facts which strikingly manifest the increasing interest in the Order. The growth of the order in Canada is due in a very large degree to the untiring efforts of Brother George Mitchell, of Toronto, the assistant Supreme Chief Ranger. An indication of the faith reposed in the order was given last week, when the Supreme Chief Ranger, the Hon. Elliot G. Stevenson, made a gift of $100,000 to erect and maintain a Home for Aged Foresters and at his death a further sum of $100,000 will be given towards the maintenance of the institution. The recent meeting revealed the fact that the Order is in a splendid financial position and the funds are guaranteed in a manner to satisfy the most exacting. The benefits range from $500 to $5000 and $5 a week is paid in case of sickness. The Permanent Disability Fund provides that seventy per cent of the amount paid shall be paid and when a member reaches the age of seventy the same amount is paid.

It is refreshing to hear of an Order that erects and maintains an institution to take care of its invalids and in this the Foresters are to be congratulated. A beautiful sanitarium has been erected at Rainbow Lake in one of the most beautiful parts of the Adirondack Mountains in New York. Fifty-three Foresters are there at the present time. That the place is doing a splendid work is borne out by the fact that many invalids who have been sent there have been completely cured. The Independent Order of Foresters also have an Orphanage at Oakville at which there are fifty children, while the number of children cared for by the Order reaches the splendid number of 800.

The beautifully-equipped tent at the Exhibition is looked after by D. S.C. Rangers Fl Fgan and James Glendenning, assisted by Brothers John Mogan and J. W. Piynton. The munificent gift of the Hon. Mr. Stevenson to the Independent Order of Foresters this week at the triennial meeting met with a remarkable reception. When the announcement was made the brethren rose to their feet and cheered for minutes on end. The members, apart from the fact that the donor maintains the Institution as long as he lives, wishes the benefactor as long life as possible.

The Sanol Manufacturing Co. Ltd.,
Winnipeg, Man.

Gentlemen,—

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that I have suffered from rheumatism for the last nine years, and particularly for the last five. I have been unable to stand, walk, or in fact, help myself in any way, my knees and elbows swollen, drawn and stiff; could not bend them in any way; I tried everything, went to the Banff Spring three months in 1905, twice to Hot Springs, Arkansas, two months in 1907, four months in 1908 done me no good. I heard of SANOL last September and have been taking it ever since, and I am glad to say the swelling is about all gone. I am going around the house on crutches, also my joints are loosening and straightening, and I fully expect that SANOL will cure me.

I believe SANOL will cure rheumatism, for my case is a hard one, and in fact has been pronounced incurable and if I improve for the next three months as I have for the last three I will be walking in good shape.

I remain.

Yours truly,
John J. Lane.

P.S.—You can show this letter to anyone you feel like, and send them to me as I can tell them better than I can write it.

DANGER IN WATER CHEMICALLY PURE

Continued Use of it May Lead to Tuberculosis—Mineral Salts a Necessary Ingredient

Word comes of investigations carried on by a number of French naval surgeons into the use of chemically pure water as a drink. To make water chemically pure it has to be distilled, and the continued use of distilled water as a beverage reduces the strength of the physical organism, because, while it is free from all germs, it contains nothing but oxygen and hydrogen. The mineral salts are left behind during the process of distillation, and the mineral salts are really indispensable.

"As long as life persists in the body," these surgeons declare, "the elimination of mineral salts goes on, and this means the rapid demineralization of the organism."

Demineralization, it is explained, leaves one's system in such a state that the natural tendency is to become tubercular. It was found that there were numerous cases of tuberculosis among the young sailors of the French navy, and this was, after long investigation by the surgeons of the navy attributed to the demineralization of the water.

The distilled water was used in the belief that it was best for the sailors, and the naval authorities were anxious to make every condition as healthy as possible. Just now the surgeons are studying the best means of treating the distilled water used aboard the ships with mineral matter. Of course, pure [illegible] is [illegible], but as conditions [illegible] it is held that ordinary drinking [illegible] would be even better than [illegible] chemically pure, if the latter [illegible] responsible for the increase [illegible] in the navy.

Few pe[illegible]ly drink chemically pure water, and for this reason the dangers could not well be learned until this discovery was made. There are a number of ways in which the germs in water may be eliminated and at the same time the mineral salts left in the fluid. Distilled water is scarcely palatable at the best, as it is these very necessary mineral salts that make it really palatable.

An effort is being made to provide further proof of the dangers of chemically pure water as maintained by the surgeons of the French navy by means of experiments on animals.

KING OF THE BARBERS

Strange Judicial Position Existing Amongst Barbers of Madras

The sudden death of Chaudri Lala Meah, the head barber of Madras, at Mylapore, disclosed interesting details about the working of the barber fraternity of Madras.

The fraternity has been in existence for over 120 years. Chaudri is commonly known in the North of India as barrister, but the post amongst the the barbers of Madras carries a much higher position. He is their head and judge. He has eight councillors, or jurors, and he decides cases that come up before him with their aid.

The Chaudri's post is a life appointment. When he dies, forty days after his death a mass meeting of barbers is held, and the vacancy filled.

The elected man from precedence should have been a juror, should be a man of good birth, education and character. The barber fraternity of Madras now consists of 160 Mohammedan barbers.

Shot in a Music Hall

During a performance at a Brussels music hall a shooting expert missed the target held by one of his assistants and shot the poor man dead. A panic amongst the audience followed, and there was a wild rush to the exits, which were only kept from [illegible] the strenuous efforts of the [illegible]

THE SANJACK

There's an ear-haunting phrase that's attracted my gaze
In the daily reports of the press,
Though I'm hanged if I see what its purport may be,
I fancy I'm right when I guess
That it means warlike work for the Serb and the Turk
As they fight in the Balkans afar.
For, by all that one hears, it's set them
by the ears—
The Sanjak of Novi-Bazar.

I don't wonder at all if the Sanjak's
a Caliph
In costume piratic and splendid,
Who swanks it through life with a multiple wife,
By a solemn Grand Vizier attended;
With a National Debt and a diamond
aigrette
That gleams in his fez like a star—
If it really means that, then I take off my hat
To the Sanjak of Novi-Bazar.

Or it may be a beast that resides in the East,
A monster with murderous claw,
With a sinister eye and a tail half-mast high,
And teeth like a circular saw;
That roosts in a cave and makes meals
of the brave
Mountaineer—how I'd love from afar
To watch D. Lloyd George in some grim Balkan gorge
With the Sanjak of Novi-Bazar.

But I really don't care though the pundits declare
That the meaning I've failed to elicit.
There's a magic that plays round that mystical phrase
Whatever its value explicit;
There's a breadth and a tone, there's a lilt of its own,
From the S to the ultimate R,
Of all names the queerest that hail from the Near East—
The Sanjak of Novi-Bazar.

ORIGIN OF LONDON NAMES

Some Interesting History and Some Shrewd Guesses.

The stranger who visits London, must often speculate as to the origin of this or that thoroughfare, or wonder how some of the curiously named streets he passes through came by their names.

The origin of Bishopsgate is not clearly known, but it is supposed to have been built by some famous prelate in or about the year 1200, and named after him.

It is a little difficult in these days to believe that the area about Charing Cross was no more than a little village in the time of Edward I. Opinions differ as to the first meaning of the word "Cross" attached to the name of this hamlet, but it is probable that it had the same signification that is to be discovered in other cases of the kind in London and the country. There have probaly been crossroads here from time immemorial, but it is said that in the case of Charing Cross there was a more specific reason. Edward I. is stated to have erected a cross in memory of his queen on the spot where the statue of Charles I. was afterwards set up.

Piccadilly, if we may believe the usual explanation given for its curious name, was so called because the first person to build a house in that neighborhood was interested in "picadilloes," by which name the stiff collars or ruffs formerly worn were originally known.

The religious associations of Paternoster Row are still upheld by the present residence in that quarter of those who deal in publications of that order, but it is said that the place originally derived its name from the fact that it was the favorite haunt of the turners of beads or makers of "paternosters."

Similarly Lombard Street took its name from the Lombards and other foreign merchants who assembled there twice a day to dispose of their wares.

Crutchedfriars has monastical associations a monastery of the Holy Cross having stood there in days gone by.

TESTING EXTREME COLD

How it Feels at One Hundred and Fifty-seven Below Zero

In the course of a series of experiments with extreme cold, carried on at Berlin, Raoul Pictet, an investigator, inserted his arm, bare beyond the elbow, in a chamber refrigerated to a temperature of 157 degrees below zero Fahrenheit and kept it there for several minutes.

He suffered no permanent damage, but experienced a number of peculiar and painful sensations. The chief of these and the most trying was a feeling of pain in the bones of the hand and arm. The pain increased rapidly. It was located chiefly in the interior parts of the arm and was far less severe in the portions near or at the surface. The skin was purple when the member was withdrawn. In about ten minutes a violent reaction set in with violent burning sensation of the skin wherever it had been exposed.

SEARCHED FOR 24 YEARS

Swedish Baron's World-Wide Quest for a Vanished Actress

After a world-wide search for the woman he loved, Baron Axel Taras married Mlle. Isabella Gyllstrom and brought about the happy culmination of a romance of long standing.

Thirty years ago, when Mlle. Gyllstrom was starring on the Swedish stage, Baron Taras, then a young lieutenant, fell in love with her. His parents objected to his marriage, and Mlle. Gyllstrom secretly left Sweden without disclosing her future address.

Six years afterwards Baron Taras' parents died, and he visited every European capital on a search for the actress, and then proceeded to America. His efforts were fruitless, until, a few months ago he learned that Mlle. Gyllstrom was living in Melbourne, Australia, under an assumed name.

He immediately proceeded to Australia, and the couple are now living in Stockholm, happily married.

CANADIAN BOATS AND THEIR NAMES

Some Taken From Scriptures, Others From Mythology—the Whole Comprises a Big Fleet

A perusal of the Canadian shipping list introduces us to the names of over eight thousand sea-going, river and lake plying craft, proud ocean liners, razor backs, canal barges, mud-scows, stone hookers, schooners, sloops and barks. There are not, however, 8,000 several and distinct appellations. Many of these titles are used many times over. But by observing the frequency of various names and classes of names one may venture upon some interesting speculations as to the character, habits and tastes of Canadian mariners, in fact, as to the whole psychology of Canadian navigation.

Scriptural names are found, such as Boaz and Beulah, Dorcas and Sharon, but not to any great extent. Classical history and mythology are written large upon our marine. The Argo, the first ship that sailed the sea—some, of course, will insist that the credit go to the Ark of Noah—is commemorated several times. Autolycus, known to readers of Shakespeare's Winter Tale, is also to be met with. Ajax, who defied the lightning, no doubt indicates a modern sailor's scorn of electrical disturbances. Our ships, show a love of the Muses. Clio, the muse of History, and Calliope, the muse of Heroic Poetry, are now travelling the seas, but not Terpsichore, the muse of Dancing. There are as well some pseudo classics. The ship "Adelphi," the brothers, was probably not launched directly under classical auspices. It may refer to some sailorman's visit to the port of London and the Adelphi theatre on the Strand, which is reminiscent of Shakespeare's Comedy of Errors and the twin sons of the Merchant of Syracuse. Juno, the Queen of Heaven, Ariadne, who was cruelly jilted by a sailor, Romulus and Niobe are other familiar and genuine classical allusions.

Even the Alphabet

The letters of the Greek alphabet are also used to vary the cruel monotony of such numerical titles as 1, 2 and 3. Opposed to the severely classical we find many names in a lighter vein, such as O. Whiz, Idonno, Takit Esy, C. Here and Puffing Billy, Puddle Duck is not an inept description of a stern-wheeler that is doomed to splash forever in the shallows and sandbars of river navigation; but on the whole our sailors are not very successful in their attempts at jocosity.

The true spirit, however, of the sea and the no less tempestuous lakes is seen in such names as Challenger, Relentless, Intrepid, Defiance, The sailor deems no title too magnificent for his ship. There are dozens of Kings and Queens, Emperors and Empresses, Princes and Princesses working daily, hard and conscientiously, in grime and coal dust, in the interests of Canadian trade. The lesser nobility are no less industrious. We find Dukes and Duchesses, Counts and Countesses, Lords and Ladies in the employ of our commerce. When the Angel of Gabriel, hundreds of Saints and a Cardinal submit to service it is not surprising to see King Daniel and King Josiah enlisted in the marine. King Edward and King George as well, are found on board ship and also King Pin, but to what dynasty he belongs is not stated. Not even a Dreadnought could object to such names of high distinction.

A Great Calling

Of strictly nautical titles, Captain, Admiral and Commodore are met with, the latter being the favorite. There are, in fact, a dozen Commodores, including Commodore Jarvis. There is no doubt, therefore, of the Canadian sailor's love for a title, but this, perhaps, indicates not snobbishness, but merely his conviction of the greatness and dignity of his calling. This belief is shown also in other names, sometimes boastful, such as Cock of the North and Beat the Wind, and in the names of heroes and strong men, for instance, Hercules and Samson, and of giants, such as Gog and Magog. Also, in selecting names from the animal kingdom, the sailor seems to prefer the animals that are excellent for strength and swiftness, quite apart from any connection they may have with the sea. Tigers, Lions, Eagles and Caribou plow the Canadian main, but no ship is called the Duck. Beaver, however, is a favorite title for good, patriotic as well as aquatic reasons.

Guessing at Distance

An English police official took an automobile chauffeur into court and swore that he was exceeding the speed limit; but on examination the officer was found to have such a poor idea of time and distance that the magistrate refused to hold the defendant. The officer was tested by asking him the width of the courtroom, and the answer was 30, whereas it was more than 30, feet. His idea of time was just as questionable.

Uncertain Honey Crops

While a Spring report is of value in determining the present prospect of the honey crop, there is no other farm crop so entirely dependent upon the weather conditions from day to day during harvest time. Any sudden change from hot to cold will often check the secretion of nectar in the flowers and reduce the expected honey crop by hundreds of thousands of pounds.

What Becomes of the Rain?

The discharge of the Mississippi River at St. Louis is but little greater than the volume of rainfall over the State of Missouri alone, despite the enormous area drained by the river above that point.

TINY WIRE STRAND CROSSES ICY WASTE

Telegraphic Work in the Far North Means Much Hardship

From Ashcroft, on the old Cariboo road to British Columbia, winding northward for 2,500 miles, runs the Yukon telegraph, the most remarkable and romantic telegraph line on the continent. Its origin was like no other; its operation never had and perhaps never will have an analogy; its service to mankind has certainly never been surpassed.

The visitor trailing his goods into the lone north land seeking a gold claim in the bed of a rivulet, or staking his future on a free farm and a muscular back, may jeer at the low straggling poles with the wire sagging down like the domestic clothesline back home. But when he tastes for a month or two the supreme isolation of that infinite silent wilderness, that pitiful strand of wire will size up as a strand of gold.

The Yukon telegraph was born in the feverish days of 1890, when it seemed that half the country was turned northward to wrestle with the little god of Chance. In those days it had two kinds of stories to deliver, one of the "lucky strike," transforming a penniless tramp into a millionaire; the other of some mute tragedy of the wayside, wherein a discouraged adventurer wrapped himself and his hopes in the snows by the trailside and left the remainder to Providence.

To-day when the reckless glories of that "wickedest camp on earth," have given away to a standard of respectability and a firm obedience to law and order, the little Yukon telegraph tirelessly fulfils its duties. Now, however, it flashes a new code of success, the code of the pioneer farmer whose cottages are fast trailing up the northern valleys, searching out the last choice spots in Canada where the speculator has not stuck his sign board. In a year the Dominion Government loses about $30,000 on the line, but as an old northern traveller says: "It is the best $30,000 ever invested."

Links With the World

The route of the line is almost parallel to that weird and abandoned survey of the Western Union half a century ago, when that company after the breaking of the Atlantic cable in 1859 decided to lay a land line through Alaska and Siberia to Europe. Over $3,000,000 was spent on the line when the company recalled the plans having in the meantime picked up its Atlantic cable again. Some of its engineers and line men were then so far inland that it was nine months from the time the order was sent until it could be delivered to them. For many miles portions of the Western Union wire are now being worked as an auxiliary by the Dominion Government.

At intervals of from 17 to 50 miles the operators live out their lonely and dangerous lives in their roughly built cabins. That each operator should be an expert lineman is a necessity of the task, and those with the long sections located on flat lands are given a horse to assist in the inspections. In the mountain districts much shorter sections are in an operator's care, and in the depth of winter he is called upon not infrequently to tramp on snowshoes across treacherous areas to repair wires.

Lives of Isolation

In some districts winter departs for only two months in the twelve, so that day and night, month by month, the deadening loneliness of perpetual snow threatens to drive a man into melancholia. It is a heavy test of human endurance, not so much in the times of activity as when the monotony of existence turns a week into an eternity. Twice a year the supplies of food are "packed" in, and then the operator and his visitors exhaust the possibilities of conversation. For the rest of the time it is only a break in the line that gives a man a chance to meet his comrades. When that significant accident occurs, he loads his tools on his back and marches forth in search of the interruption.

Two of the worst foes of the mountain operator are the forest fire and the avalanche. Again and again their depredations sweep away poles and wires, demanding heroic service of the linemen to restore normal conditions. An eyewitness of one of these storms described it as an avalanche of ice and snow that had swept great rocks and giant trees like matchwood before it down the mountain side. The slide measured 1,200 feet across and 80 feet deep. It could have buried out of sight a good sized town. Yet when it was necessary to re-establish the wires and poles ripped to shreds in its thunderous course, the linemen took it as "a little incident" scarce worth writing about to headquarters.

Alpine Zones of Silence

Discovery of a "Zone of Silence" in the Alps is said to have been made by workmen employed in the construction of the highest section of the Jungfrau Railway. Heavy charges of dynamite were set off, and, according to account, with surprising results. The detonations were heard within a radius of thirty miles, then within a zone of the next fourteen miles there was silence, but further up to a concentric circle of fifty miles the noise was again heard clearly.

Forty Years' Service

Mr. John Cowan of the Toronto Customs office has an enviable record of forty years in the public service. During that long time he was never five minutes late at his post, and he was not off duty five minutes on account of illness.

Abolishing Sash Weights

In the construction of houses sash weights are being largely dispensed with, automatic devices taking the places of the weights. This innovation is said to greatly simplify and economize the operation of finishing houses.

THE PEOPLE OF MARS

Plenty of Evidence That They are Highly Intelligent and Build Canals to Preserve Race

In 1877 the Italian astronomer Schiaparelli announced that he had detected on the surface of the planet Mars an intricate series of lines which he believed to be canals. Their existence was not universally admitted and it was strongly contended that they were of optical production. Public attention and interest were greatly aroused when Professor Percival Lowell, director of the Flagstaff Conservatory in Arizona issued a bulletin containing photographs of the ruddy planet which he claimed as corroborating the objective existence of the canals and further insisted that it was the abode of a race of reasonable beings. Since then there has been considerable controversy about the canals and in an effort to arrive at a final decision investigations were started on an elaborate scale at Flagstaff under the direction of astronomers and astro-physicists who employed all the most recent methods of research. Dr. James H. Worthington in an article published in an English scientific journal declares "that the explorers of the planet from the standpoint of Flagstaff find abundant reason to believe in the existence of a highly developed and intelligent race making a last stand against the increasing deserts of its world. The famous canals are evidence of tremendous and united efforts to eke out the decreasing water supply to the last drop. In this struggle we see in some sense a forecast of what the earth must also become in the fulness of time." This conclusion is supported in the article by a description of the observations and by much technical reasoning. Dr. Worthington insists that there remains no rational doubt of the existence of a race of canal builders on the planet Mars.

Canada's Plant Wizards

In the popular mind Luther Burbank is the "plant wizard" of the world, and the only one. It is not generally known that there are other men, and many of them, on this continent and in foreign lands, who are working and achieving as well as Burbank. All over the world, where advanced agriculture is practised, men are striving for something new, for things that are better. In Canada there are many so-called plant wizards. Zavitz, at Guelph, on wheats; Groff, at Simcoe, on gladioli; Saunders, at Ottawa, on apples; Macoun, at Ottawa, on many things—these are some, and only a few, of the men who are "creating" new things in plant life for Canada.

TRACES HIS ANCESTORS SEVERAL GENERATIONS

A Canadian Seaman Relates His Experiences During an Adventurous Career

Captain W. Wilbur, a native of New Brunswick, and an owner of tugboats in Vancouver, traces his Canadian ancestry back for five or six generations.

Born in Albert county, New Brunswick, Captain Wilbur was only fourteen when he took service as a boy aboard a coasting vessel at $8 a month. In the course of the years which followed, young Wilbur held every position on board ship from cook to commander. At the early age of 22 Captain Wilbur was given his first command, and with this cargo he voyaged to the French port Havre. During the years that followed he commanded bigger vessels and he knows all the notable English ports intimately, as well as some of the inland towns. He brought the second load of rails from Cardiff to St. Stephen, New Brunswick, for the Grand Southern Railroad.

"One experience," he said, "I had about four miles from where the Titanic sank may interest you. Just there we ran into the iceberg zone one night shortly before dark. There was a thick fog, a light wind and slight rollers. We shortened the ship down to lower topsails and foresails. I stood on the topgallant fo'castle all night and the roaring of the icebergs filled the air all the time. The sea sort of rolled.

We just wiggled on all night. I had all our boats slung out ready to take to them any moment and my wife and kids fully dressed and with everything packed. We expected to take to the boats any moment, but we weathered the night and early next day the fog cleared. As far as the eye could reach there were icebergs everywhere, some as large as good sized islands and others higher than the ship's masts. So strong was the suction from some of the icebergs that the ship would turn right round. There was a long narrow lane of water through the ice in one direction, so we got out the boats and pulled the ship into the lane, set sail and eventually got out safely."

TIMBER AND LUMBER

Vancouver Has Great National Forest Wealth

Vancouver Island is endowed with a wealth of varied timber and diversified minerals. They have been the main source of the country's revenue for many years, and yet not a third of its area has been exploited, so that what present and contemplated surveys may reveal, it is impossible to conjecture. It is perfectly certain, however, that the Island in these respects, as in many others, is only beginning to evolve a splendid future of internal greatness and commercial influence. That the potentials lie within herself is without doubt. Her timber resources surpass those of any other area of similar magnitude in the world. Her forest area is not only vast in extent, but it has a phenomenal growth of abnormally large and splendid merchantable timber. This represents an average, and is not by any means indicative of rare or isolated instances of enormity in size; for the Island's timber growth has aroused the wonder and admiration of travellers from all parts of the world. And still, it is certain, the unrevealed and unexploited interior, has in this, as in other respects, the mightiest and greatest residuum of unrevealed wealth and of commercial and industrial potentials preserved for the brilliant epoch of progress on which the Island has entered. The indigenous trees of the Island include Douglas fir, red and yellow cypress, western white pine and black pine, spruce of two classes, western hemlock and white oak, poplar, maple of various kinds, alder and many other species of deciduous but valuable trees.

MASTER OF ART OF GRAFTING

Representative Burleson of Texas Describes the Operations of the King of Them All.

"No, I won't give you a cent. You are a grafter, and a smooth one, but you don't get me."

Following this declaration just outside the national Democratic headquarters one man made for the elevator and the other entered the general offices of the national Democratic machine. The latter was Representative Albert Sidney Burleson of Austin Tex., and his face was flushed with anger.

"There is the nerviest fellow you-all ever saw in your life," said Mr. Burleson, by way of apology and explanation. "That fellow keeps a hot trail for men in politics and borrows right and left. I don't think he ever made an honest cent in his life.

"I first knew him in the Panhandle section of Texas. There, by sheer nerve, he took over a small ranch and then borrowed money from a bank to stock and run the place. Here is a story that is typical of him: One day he took a horse to a negro blacksmith to have it shod. He induced a neighbor named Peters to accompany him. After the negro had put two shoes on the horse he turned to Peters and said:

"'That's the best work I ever saw a nigger do. By George, he deserves a reward. Give me a dollar for a few minutes, Peters, to give this nigger.'

"Peters forked over the dollar and went away. When the negro blacksmith had finished putting the last two shoes on the horse, this fellow dropped back a few feet and stood looking on in admiration.

"'That's the finest job I ever saw in my life,' he said. 'Any man, even if he is a nigger, that can shoe horses like that can drink with me. Come on, my man, and have a drink.'

"And then he took the negro across the street to a saloon and borrowed the dollar from him on the way over. He is actually the best money getter I ever saw, and I honestly believe if he was stranded on the Sahara desert he would have a harem and car fare to San Francisco before two days. He is surely a wonder."—New York Herald.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

WEDDING RING LORE

They Have Been Used For Ages and in Many Countries

Although the custom of being married with a ring is an ancient one it is by no means compulsory. The Quakers and Swiss Protestants never use rings at their marriage ceremonies.

In Germany and some other countries it is customary for bride and bridegroom to exchange wedding rings, and the same practice is occasionally carried out by Anglo-Saxons.

In Greece the ceremony of betrothal is as important as that of marriage and is conducted by a priest. Two rings are used on the former occasion, one being of silver and the other of gold. Both are consecrated on the altar, after which the gold ring is placed upon the man's finger and the silver one upon the woman's. But after the wedding service the best man reverses them.

In St. Kilda wedding rings are made of worsted.

Most of the women of the Upper Sayanai, on the Congo, wear wedding rings of brass around their necks. The wealthier the husband the heavier is the wife's ring, and in some cases it weighs as much as twenty-five or thirty pounds.

Hebrews in the past used some of the most wonderful wedding rings ever made, but plain rings are now generally worn by the married women of that race. According to their law it is necessary that the ring be of a certain value, and therefore it has to be examined and valued by the rabbi and other officers of the synagogue. On no account may it be a gift or obtained on credit.

It is hard to say where or when the association of rings with marriage began, but it may have come down to us from the Romans, who regarded the bridal ring as a pledge for the fulfilment of a contract.

It is on record that in England the earliest wedding rings were made of grass or rushes, and at one time, during the time of Cromwell, it was forbidden to use wedding rings at all, on account of the heathenish origin of the custom.

The plain gold ring is of fairly modern origin. When Queen Mary, who succeeded her brother, Edward VI., was married, the London City Council requested her to wear a magnificent creation inset with gems, but she refused and wore instead the first plain ring that ever adorned the finger of an English monarch.

Not a great while ago it was the custom that at every important wedding a number of rings similar to that worn by the bride should be distributed among the guests. At Queen Victoria's marriage rings decorated with the Queen's profile were given to the favored few.

AFTERNOON PERILS

Mistakes More Apt to Occur When Body and Brain Are Weary

Late in the afternoon is the perilous hour for all day workers. Not only do statistics prove it, but there is an easily understandable physiological explanation for it. For it is toward the end of a day's work that fatigue comes on, and tired bodies and brains inevitably lead to mistakes and accidents.

"Bank clerks," says the Medical Record, "make most of the errors in the late afternoon; wherefore there is now early closing of these institutions, since bankers have found their employes' mistakes too expensive for the maintenance of longer hours. Every one now knows what dreadful calamity must be feared when railway men work too many hours through many days. As to druggists, to err (with perhaps fatal consequences) in the filling of a prescription is indeed human and hardly blameworthy in a clerk who must be attentively at his post almost two-thirds of thee twenty-four hours. Among industrial workers the desire for drink has often sprung from sheer physical exhaustion.

Gained in Weight, Digestion Restored, Health Renewed

Here is More Proof of Quick Cure For All Folks That are Weak, Ailing, Nervous.

More Praise for Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines today and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box or five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Motored Here From Chicago

Yesterday Mr. Arthur Lauder of Chicago, a nephew of Mr. John Kylie, the Hunter street shoe maker, arrived here in a blue Mercer car, on his way home to the Windy City. Mr. Lauder left Chicago in his car last July. Since that time he has visited Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal Quebec and other Canadian cities. He leaves this week on an interrupted trip to Chicago.

Lucky Duck Shooters

On Monday evening a party of local sportsmen returned from a duck shooting expedition, per gasoline launch, at Rice Lake. The party included Messrs. James Patterson and Herb. Routley. They had great luck, securing many ducks, including a number of magnificent black ones. They report having lost many that fell into the wild rice which is unusually high this year.

Thought Man Was Dead

As a south bound car was passing the corner of Lake and George streets about 4.15, the conductor noted a man lying with his feet on the pavement and his head a foot lower, in the gutter. Thinking the man was dead, the conductor stopped the car to investigate. The man was found to be dead, that is dead drunk. He was still lying in the same place when the car returned.

First Arrival of Horses

The first arrival of horses for the Fall Fair here, arrived on Labor a mark of 2.09¼, the property of Mr. Day. This was "Jerry Diller," with Sam Redpath, of Cobourg. The horse, which will be entered in the free for all class, was brought here by its trainer, Mr. J. W. Donelly, of Cobourg. EASY TO MAKE HAIRS VANISH FROM THE SKIN

(Boudoir Secrets)

Aggravating hair or fuzz is easily removed from the skin by this simple treatment: Mix into a paste enough delatone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply, and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. This treatment is unfailing and leaves the skin smooth and spotless.

Thin eyebrows come in thick and glossy merely by rubbing pyroxin on and if the eye-lashes are straight and stubby, apply some at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. This makes them grow long and slightly curly. Use care and don't get any where hair is not wanted.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT IS HOTLY DENOUNCED AT TRADES UNION

Trades Union Congress and the Dublin Trouble Great Reforms Attained

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 1—Unusual interest is attached to the forty-sixth annual Trades Union Congress, which opened in Milton Hall to-day, owing to the existing unrest in the labor world. The number of delegates is 563, making a record, and they represent a membership of 2,250,000 workmen of various trades.

The first business of the congress was the unanimous adoption of a resolution denouncing in virulent terms British Government and the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland for prohibiting meetings and stranglin free speech in Dublin, and also condemning the brutality of the police.

...James Sexton, mover of the resolution declared that anything done by James Larkin, one of the arrested strike leaders in Dublin, was "white as compared with the hellish blackness of the Irish Unionist leader, Sir Edward Carson, and his associates."

One Hundred Resolutions.

For the first time in the history of the Congress, Canada, Germany and France are represented. Delegates from the American Federation of Labor are also present.

COUNTRY POSTMASTERS WANT THEIR SALARIES RAISED

Ontario Association Decides to Send Memorial to Post-office Department

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Several requests will be submitted to the Postmaster-General as a result of the deliberations of the Ontario Postmasters' Association at the City Hall. In the first place the government will be asked to reimburse postmasters for additional expense incurred by them through the introduction of the rural free mail delivery system, and, in the event of the introduction of a parcel post service, to provide the necessary accommodation and facilities beforehand.

The hope will also be expressed in the memorial to the Post-Office Department that the additional labor due to the rural mail delivery and likely to result from a parcel post service be recognized in the revision of the salary list.

There were many references to the rural mail service. It was agreed that the service was in the public interest, but it was asserted that it had actually reduced the remuneration of the postmasters by eliminating the fee for forwarding mail for small offices in bulk and had added to the duties of those officials by making them responsible for the distribution of the bulk mail.

A number of the members present explained their methods of handling the letters and papers to be distributed on the routes in the country districts.

The Salary Question.

Regarding the negotiations for the purpose of increasing postmasters' salaries, Mr. James Scott, of Clinton, the retiring president, said he had expected to be able to make some definite announcement, but was unable to do so. Secretary H. E. Proctor, of Aurora, believed that an announcement would shortly be made from Ottawa on the question. He felt that the postmasters deserved better treatment from Parliament and the department than they had received, and drew attention to the recent estimates of the increase in the cost of living in Canada. Mr. Proctor reported that the receipts for the year were $93[illegible]93 and the expenditures $720.

The proposal that a monthly journal be published by the association as the organ of the postmasters, was referred to the Executive Committee. That body will report upon the cost of such an enterprise and upon the place of publication. There was some difference of opinion upon the latter point. Some members contended that the paper should be brought out at Ottawa, the seat of government, and the best point for the collection of departmental information

DOMINION GOVERNMENT WILL TACKLE DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Takes Up Question of Prison Reform and Appoints Commission to Investigate--Enquiry to Cover Whole Field

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Government is preparing to carry out a scheme of prison reform in Canada and the first step taken is the appointment of a commission clothed with authority to investigate the whole question of prison administration in Canada. The commission consists of Geo. M. MacDonnell, K.C., of Kingston, Dr. Frederick Ethrington, of Kingston and J. P. Downey, superintendent of the Ontario Orillia Asylum.

The commission will look into modern methods of handling prisoners with a view to finding some system whereby the reform of the convict may be effected and yet mitigate the suffering to which those dependent upon him are now inevitably subject.

Classified Offenders.

Another plan which suggested and which will be inquired into is one whereby the first offender will not be confined with the hardened prisoner. It is claimed that the present plan instead of reforming only makes a still worse criminal of the man who is sentenced for a first offense for a short period.

Much has been accomplished by the Ontario Government with its prison farm at Guelph and that plan will be investigated. It is the intention of the Government to try and formulate the most modern, the most merciful and the most practical method of prison reform available.

Cases of Hardship.

Many cases have in recent years been drawn to the attention of the Government where the innocents dependent on the prisoner have suffered terrible hardship through the head of the household being confined in prison. The suggestion is made that some means be devised, whereby without injustice to the labor world, prisoners could be employed in some way, the earnings could be turned over to the dependents while the prisoner at the same time would be learning a useful trade.

IS THIS WHY ENGLISH BEAUTIES ARE SO FAIR?

(From London Herald.)

Ever since the discovery that mercolized wax would absorb and remove a soiled complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for toilet creams has grown rapidly. 'A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying as high as a guinea a jar for "special creams" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercolized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles American druggists also have great demand for it, in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using is to apply it, like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The saxolite lotion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered saxolite is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a splendid effect in era-

WEDNESDAY SESSION OF JUVENILE COURT

Yesterday afternoon a Juvenile Court was held at the village of Warsaw. Warsaw claims the proud title of "Mother of Secret Sessions." The first secret Juvenile Court was held there in 1489, when the Indian Princess Wawa, which is Chippewa for "the great goose," had her ten year daughter crucified head down for forgetting to switch off the electric light.

Acting Magistlrate Squire Eleazer Vanswiggle took the dais, after having a cordon of the volunteer fire brigade surround the building to guard against a chance reporter.

Just as rge court opened Mr. Vanswiggle heard a suspicious scuffling sound under the floor. "By gum," he remarked, "I'll bet a chew of terbaccer one of them Toronto reporters is hiding there." An axe was procured and six boards ripped up. The cause of the noise was discovered to be a rat having convulsions. The rat had eaten a fish-head that had outgrown its usefulness. It is thought the head once belonged to a bass caught, three years ago, at Bobcaygeon by a Peterborough fireman. After the boards had been replaced, business opened.

The first case called was that of Hulda Gretchen-Xanderpopbottle, suspect'd to hail from Tiperrary, charged with wearing immodest raiment, to wit, a slit skirt. The prisoner is a winsome little lass of 62. An aureole of Titian red hair surmounted a face remarkable for its sky-blue eyes, tip-tilted nose and traces of ringworm.

The magistrate insisted, for the Court's information, that, as Exhibit A., Hulda appear in his presence with the alleged objectionable garment on. Hulda is of somewhat stout build. We are informed, confidentially, by her shoemaker, that each of Hulda's little dimpled ankles measures 14 inches in circumference. The acting magistrate is raising Mullingar fat cattle. When he saw Hulda, he exclaimed "By gum, ain't it lucky we got this court in secret session! The little dear," as he viewed the culprit, "she is an honor to Canadian agriculture. The case was dismissed. The officer arresting Hulda was fined $16,008, with the option of three days in jail.

After paper had been stuffed in the key holes and four rat holes plugged, for greater secrecy, the following letter from the manager of Warsaw Car Works was read.

The Juvenile Court Officials; Gentlemen,—I have always been proud of my native village as the "Mother of Secret Tribunals." However, I cannot but think times have changed since 1489. I might say I consider that you insult the public when you insult the press by depriving them of knowing what transpires. You insult the press when you cut them off from privileges granted elsewhere. You insult the intelligence of the press when you insinuate that the press could not handle Juvenile Court news in a modified way. You insult your own intelligence if you claim that a few reporters in addition to a small army of police officers present, would embarrass women witnesses, when such witnesses are assured that nothing of an objectionable character would be printed or names used. You insult your own intelligence when you claim that mothers, particularly mothers of girls, would not be benefitted by reading in a modified form, reports of the Juvenile Courts. (Sdg.) Jas. Fitzdoodle.

Enterprise of the Independent Order of Foresters

The Independent Order of Foresters headquarters of the Fair grounds still continues to be a much sought for place, it being one of the very few places where the many tired visitors can rest, and while enjoying that rest have the privilege of hearing much about the grand fraternal work that the Independent Order of Foresters is doing.

They rejoice over the magnificent work among the members who are affected with tuberculosis. They have a sanitarium erected in the Adirondacks, and one on the Pacific coast, which gives them the privilege to say to all members, that if at any time they are afflicted with the dreadful disease, they will be taken to one of these sanitariums and treated free of cost. This, you hear members say, is fraternal work, and a work that should commend itself to the people on the outside.

They also care for over 700 orphans, which practically means they are in a proud position to say to every member of the order that a child of a Forester will never want.

Many enthusiastic expressions are heard regarding the Supreme Court meeting, which was held last week. The changes that take effect on October 1 are somewhat disappointing to some who are affected, yet it is gratifying to know that these changes are final and the order is now based on a permanent and solid foundation. No more worry about change of rates, they being sufficient to guarantee and warrant every promise that is made, and it is commonly heard among the members that while they might desire it otherwise, yet they are going into their courts with the determination of fighting more strenuously than ever to build up their membership and give their many friends the privilege of joining hands with this great organization, and while doing this they will not only bless the man they have brought in with sound protection and the inspiration to encourage them in this great fraternal work, but they are helping themselves, for the more the fraternal funds increase, the more help the order will be to the members who are affected through the change.

One man was heard to say: "What a grand thing it is to have a man like the Hon. Elliott G. Stevenson to come forward and let the membership know the true conditions of affairs before it is too late. Had the delayed this much longer, there would be no hope of a fraternal fund being created, and therefore no help for those who are affected.

The members now can go to the whole world and declare that the I. O. F. guarantees every promise that is made by them. The order looks forward to having a large increase of new members, carrying much larger policies than they have been carrying in the past, on account of the soundness of the investment, and it is the intention to let the whole world know the advantages enjoyed by being connected with such an organization.

The record for last year was an inspiration to all, having paid out over three millions of dollars in benefits. Think of what it means to distribute such an enormous sum of money to the homes that have been visited with sickness and death. What a joy it must have been to have known that through the enterprise of this grand order they had brought the message of protection within their homes at a time when the one insured was in a position to accept, and by accepting have been able to leave their family that much better off with the one thousand or two thousand dollars that they carried with the Independent Order of Foresters.

A hearty welcome awaits every member and his friends on the grounds.

SIR EDWARD CARSON FEARS NOT TO BE ARRESTED

Ulster Leader Doesn't Believe British Government 'Will Dare to Do It

Dublin, Sept. 3.—Sir Edward Carson offered to submit hiHself for arrest, if the Government wish to arrest him. It was stated in one of the Irish newspapers that a warrant for his arrest had been issued, and Sir Edward Carson referred to this in a speech which he made at a demonstration of 30,000 persons at Portrush, where he reviewed 3,000 Unionist volunteers and Orangemen.

"I suppose I ought to be thankful that I am allowed to be present here to-day, said Sir Edward, amid laughter and cries of "When will they arrest you?"

"I see an announcement that the government are reported to have issued a warrant for my arrest. It may be true. I know nothing about it, and I care less.

"It may be true they have issued a warrant, but one thing I feel certain of is, that they will never produce it, and they will never execute it.

"I make the government this offer: 'That I should be prepared to attend any place they please so that they may execute the warrant, even if they arrange to arrest me at Lord Pirrie's office, at Queen's Island.'"

ADJOURNED INQUEST ON LATE ARTHUR JONES AGAIN ADJOURNED

The adjourned inquest on the death of Arthur Wood, who is alleged to have met his death by burns received by a live wire, at the C.G.E. Co. a couple of weeks ago was resumed last night. After the usual formal proceedings, the jury all answered to their names. A list of the jury has already been given. Mr. Lowes, assistant to the Chief of the testing department, gave evidence. He knew nothing of the accident, but described how a rheostat had been removed by order of the foreman. There was no current passing when the accident happened. Then other witnesses gave technical evidence as to the character of the accident.

Dr. Sutton, who attended the deceased, gave testimony, stating that Jones died of shock from electrical burns.

Dr. Eastwood, who performed the autopsy gave similar testimony.

Several witnesses gave technical evidence as to the accident.

The inquest adjourned until the evening of Sept. 10, at 7.30 o'clock. The jury will visit the C.G.E. Co. to see the place where the accident occurred.

LAID THE CORNER-STONE OF THE CARTIER MONUMENT

Addresses By Ex-President Taft, Premier Borden and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick

Montreal, Sept. 3.—Irish eloquence backed up by the highest administrative dignity had to acknowledge itself defeated by the skirling of a sextette of Scotch bagpipes at the laying of the corner-stone of the Sir George Etienne Cartier monument this afternoon, when His Excellency the Administrator of Canada, the Right Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, K.C.M.G., Chief Justice of Canada, had perforce to bring an eloquent discourse to a temporary ending whilst a Highland guard of honour worked some of the haunting melody out of their systems.

A feature of the afternoon's events might be said to have been the warm reception tendered ex-President Taft, who was numbered among the speakers.

Mr. Taft in the course of a powerful address, congratulated Canada on the fact in the course of its history it had produced men who were statesmen in the highest sense of the word. He also referred to Canada as a land, unique of all lands, where racial and other differences had been successfully sunk in the formation of a deep and united loyalty to a common Mother Country.

The principal address was delivered by his Excellency the Administrator, while among others who spoke were the Right Hon. R. L. Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, his Grace Archbishop Bruchesi, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Mayor Lavallee, Bonzalve Desaulniers, K.C., J. W. Foster, E. W. Villeneuve, the latter chairman of the meeting.

THE HAGUE COUNCIL FAVORS PLAN OF AMERICAN STATESMAN

Would Have Nations Bind Themselves to Submit Disputes to Commission

The Hague, Sept. 3.—The Inter-Parliamentary Council at its first meeting to-day discussed a resolution proposed by Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, declaring that the conference "aproves Secretary of State Bryan's plan whereby the nations bind themselves to submit disputes for investigation by an impartial commission before resorting to hostilities, and requests the Governments to enter into negotiations to secure such an arrangement."

The debate disclosed a unanimity of sentiment in favor of the general idea, but differences of opinion as to whether the proposed text of the treaty should be approved. Finally Mr. Bartholdt's motion was adopted in an amended form, expressing the heartiest approval of the idea and requesting the Permanent Committee on Arbitration to take it under consideration and incorporate it in the committee's proposals.

IS THE ENGLISH RACE HURRYING FAST TO DESTRUCTION?

Local Divine Thinks Not and Sees Healthy Signs--His Opinion Finds Prominence in the London Daily Graphic

The London (England) Daily Graphic has been publishing a series of articles on "National Apathy," resulting from a degeneracy of the of the English race, and commenting letters thereon generally agree that the British Empire has had its day, and is hurrying to destruction. Canon Davidson, however, rector of St. John's church, this city, while visiting England this summer, wrote The Graphic on this subject in a very optimistic tone, and that weighty English paper published the reverend gentleman's views as follows:

The Homes of England.

To the Editor of the Daily Graphic.

Sir,—I have been interested in your striking articles on "National Apathy," as constituting a useful warning. As a frequent visitor to England, however, and after an absence now of five years, my many visits to English country homes do not lead me to the conclusions of your series.

The vast amount of deep reading and thinking on scientific, social and religious lines by, especially, the refined women of England is a stimulating revelation to a stranger, and hardly betokens indifferences to what is really worth while. The whole tone of country life, while much of it may be largely occupied with (healthful) pleasures, seems to me to be moreover, a more general interest in political developments (particularly among women) than on the other side of the Atlantic; though the disposition, possibly, is merely to look on and not actively to help forward political movements.

England's Depth of Religion.

While church attendance and regard for ordinances is perhaps declining, the moral and vaguely spiritual state of English society generally would appear to be fairly sound. An intelligent mechanic after several years in Canada remarked to me: "There is more church-going abroad, but more religion in England." England has a depth of religion based on centuries of training and rich environment to which the younger nations are as yet strangers as a people.

Such widespread movements as those among the Scourts, Church Lads Brigade, Church of England Men's Society, Vacation Courses of Study for men and women, all so largely supported, would seem to augur well for the future

While it is very right that dangers and deflensions should be pointed out, may not the vast amount of criticism and pessimistic comment publicly and privately made everywhere have a depressing and disheartening effect? I venture to think that Englishmen need to-day encouragement and cheer and hope so that hearts may be put into them. They could gain something of this by viewing England (as I am able to do) from an outside standpoint.

Through manifold expressions England, it seems to me, testifies conviction to her entrusted leadership of the world. Is she likely, through apathy or otherwise, to relinquish an accepted mission of such magnitude? —Yours very truly.

J. C. DAVIDSON.

Catcher McNeal Loses Hat.

Yesterday at 3 o'clock, McNeal, the Petes catcher with three or four of his fellow players, who are now disbanded for the season, were standing at the corner of George and Hunter streets. Mac was the only one wearing a straw hat. His comrades said: "Mac, the season for ball and straw lids is over!" They fell upon that straw hat and distributed it in 17,817 pieces on the street. Mac, with his usual grin, went and bought a cap.

SULTAN DEMANDS 48 BREAKFAST DISHES THEN CHEF QUITS

Cook in Constant Fear of "Sworn Tasters"; Tips 'Em To Save Life

St. Petersburg, Sept. 3.—Ivan Wassili, until recently chef to the Turkish Sultan has arrived here and tells many stories of extravagance in the Constantinople Palace. The whole kitchen crew consists of 400 men and boys, outside of an immense staff of chamberlains, intendants, secretaries, physicians and "sworn tasters," all of whom concern themselves about the kitchen.

"I realized that I must constantly fee the 'sworn tasters,' else they would simulate a stomach ache after partaking of one of my dishes, and I might be killed for attempting to poison his majesty," said the chef. "But that was not all; the Sultan demanded four different breakfasts of twelve courses each, and it was more than I could manage.

"I was told to furnish a twelve-course breakfast in these styles: Turkish, Greek, French and Albanian. Only at the minute of feeding himself the Sultan would decide which of the four styles would be the best for his digestion that morning, and very frequently he would order the whole forty-eight courses brought in and spread on the floor to select from by pointing a long bamboo stick.

"I had to get up at three every morning for the sake of the Sultan's stomach, and that was more than I could stand in addition to the prospect of being sewed in a sack and drowned for some trumped-up charge."

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 25c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 25c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 2[illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

CHILDREN AND TOYS

Costliness Adds no Value in the Youngsters' Eyes

There was a woman, rather prominent socially, who had a pet theory on which she always fell back. Her slogan was "sticks and stones for children." She believed in effect, that children could get along quite well without any toys save sticks and stones, that the fewer playthings they had the better off they were. She argued very convincingly. Of course, when you found out that she had no chick nor child of her own, but was, moreover, a spinster, your faith in her theory perhaps was somewhat shocked. The theory was right, nevertheless, as you doubtless are forced to admit when you ponder on the happiness of the children you know. Without a question toys do not mean happiness.

When Charles the Second, King of England, was a child he "had a fondness for a wooden billet, without which in his arms he would never go abroad or lie down in his bed." This little stick of wood was his most prized possession as a baby. Beside it the beauty and wonder of all the toys in the royal nursery were as nothing.

Modern children are no more sophisticated than the royal Charles. Most of them leave pretty gifts willingly to go in search of some unlovely but not forgotten pencil end or broken doll or some other tattered remnant.

There are many things which an outdoor-loving child can find to take the place of toys. Most children simply left alone in a garden or a field or the woods can find enough to amuse themselves without assistance. If they do need help teach them to look for birds and nests and butterflies and ant hills and wild flowers of as many sorts as they can find and pretty pebbles; teach them to weave baskets and dishes and plates out of grass and twigs and to build little houses of tree boughs and branches. They can be interested in making a collection of weeds, which is beneficial to everyone, for the fewer weeds left growing the better for the lawns.

Very Much So.

"I daresay that grumpy old millionaire did not leave one joiful recollection behind him when he died."

"Oh, yes, he did He left a merry widow."

"I'm with the people!" exclaimed the balloonist, as the rope broke and he fell into the grand stand.

THE BANKS AND CIRCULATION OF PAPER MONEY

By the new bank act which is now in effect an adjunct to circulation is permitted altogether novel. By circulation is meant a medium of exchange which acts as currency or real money. The circulation in Canada is largely made up of real notes of the chartered banks and Dominion bills mainly confined to the $1 and $2 issues.

Under the old bank act the banks were accorded the privilege of issuing a circulation of their own bills up to the extent of their paid up capital. This in round numbers amounted to about $100,000,000 and these bills were kept out in the hands of the public pretty much all the year round. During the crop moving season, when extra money was necessary to handle the country's business, more bills than the law allowed were required and to provide for this under the Laurier government the banks were permitted to issue emergency currency up to 15 per cent. of their combined capital and reserve. This privilege gave a latitude of some $30,000,000 in the new paper money, but during its use, which was limited to six months in the year, the banks had to pay the government 5 per cent. on the amount outstanding.

At the last session of the Dominion Parliament a clause was inserted in the Bank Act by which the banks could issue their own bills by depositing gold or its equivalent with trustees in Montreal.

Most of the gold in Canada is held in the Dominion treasury at Ottawa, and against it have been issued bills of various denominations and which can be redeemed in gold by presentation of the bill or certificate. The Canadian banks for convenience and other reasons carry the Dominion notes as gold in their reserves. These notes, when in large amounts, such as $1000 are known as "legals" and are recognized as a handy method of transferring gold.

With the advent of the crop moving season some interest is aroused as to which privilege the banks will adopt, the emergency circulation, on which interest is paid to the government, or the issue against a gold deposit in Montreal. It is also a matter of much curiosity as to whether the banks will deplete their gold reserves now held in legals and specie by depositing these in Montreal and issuing bills against them.

W. D. Ross, general manager of the Metropolitan Bank, thought the new arrangement for circulation was now in effect, as trustees for gold deposits had been appointed and accepted by the government. We intend to make use of the new arrangement," he told the press, "as we are right up to our limit of issue now."

"Do you think the present reserves will be used as deposits against circulation?" Mr. Ross was asked, to which he replied that the amount of cash reserves held was purely a matter of policy with each individual bank.

Discussing the question with one who is not a banker, the gentleman suggested that the new arrangement savored considerably of what is known as pyramiding of building up two sets of notes on a single gold deposit. "For instance," he remarked, "the present Dominion notes are issued against gold and if these are placed in trust in Montreal and ordinary bank bills issued against them, you have two certificates out against the yellow metal at Ottawa. And, mind you," he stated further, "the government takes care of the gold for nothing, while the banks are reaping good interest on the bills they put out with the public."

AN ETOMOLOGIST

A Yorkshireman's Success in Rearing Butterflies

One of the best-known entomologists in Yorkshire is Mr. H. W. Head, who now lives on his butterfly farm at Burniston, near Scarborough, but who did all his pioneer work while residing in Scarborough. Mr. Head was the first to breed the butterfly in captivity, and to-day he owns the largest butterfly farm in the British Isles, covering between three and four acres, mainly devoted to the breeding of butterflies and moths. In the rearing of hybrids Mr. Head has been remarkably successful. He has raised altogether well on to a dozen, and he recently showed specimens of a yellow form of the green-veined white butterfly, the sale price of which is about $7.[illegible] each. But what he is always on the look-out for are "sports," that is, butterflies or moths of well-known types, but differently marked than the ordinary. There is a good demand for these, and a single specimen will fetch pounds. It is all a matter of luck. Since he has been in the business Mr. Head has tried to breed a black variety of the tiger moth but he has not succeeded. At the haven live butterflies are not supplied. The live stock does not go beyond the caterpillar, or the fertile eggs of any particular kind of butterfly or moth in stock; but his clientele is cosmopolitan and world-wide in extent. A jet black butterfly, valued at $5,000, as big almost as a robin, with wings measuring 11½ inches from tip to tip, was brought to London from New Guinea by A. L. Mock, an explorer in the service of Hon. Walter Rothschild, millionaire owner of the famous private museum at Tring Park. Several new varieties of butterflies, by far the largest in the world, were discovered in New Guinea by Mock. "I had to take up from the coast," he says, "cases of pearl shell, tomahawks and beads of all kinds before I could get the assistance of the natives in capturing the butterflies. The natives shoot them with four-pronged arrows which they use for killing birds. The female giant butterflies are black or brown or white, but the males are splendidly marked in green or gold. I brought back also with me a butterfly which has a hairy body, on account of the intense coldness of the Snow Mountains. A couple of my [illegible] were killed and [illegible] Guinea [illegible] back [illegible]

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The British tax payer is still bearing the burden of naval defence, thanks to the Canadian Senate.

We would suggest that Sir Wilfrid Laurier make a tour of Ontario on the platform of "Senate Reform." That would make a hit.

The Liberal press is exhibiting some anxiety as to when the session of parliament will be called. And these same papers a few months ago were predicting dissolution daily. It's funny what a difference a few months make.

From all accounts Harry K. Thaw's insanity is of the contagious kind and is spreading rapidly among the people of Sherbrooke, who cheer frenziedly whenever a point in his favor is scored in court.

NOT PEACE, BUT A SWORD.

It is only a few days since we were relieved to hear that a truce had been declared between Mrs. Pankhurst and the British Government. The Gmpire was safe for a time and woman almost r?instated in her pre-suffragette glory. But though Mrs. Pankhurst may speak with the tongue of an angel, the temper of her followers is less supernatural. In a word, she forgot to reckon with her hosts; she could not eradicate with honey what familiarity with the hatchet, the torch and the bomb had implanted securely. One of her wicked followers burned a house the other day and two of her foolish one attacked Mr. Asquith recently with an enthusiasm that barely failed to outlast their powers of vituperation. The Premier was but a plaything in the storm. It was a case for his niblick, but chivalry forbade and he was rewarded by the aerival of a doughty champion. Miss Asquith executed so noble a revenge that the suffragettes had already expiated their crime before being taken to jail to satisfy the law.

Where now shall we look for perfect discipline? We sorrowed over Bulgaria which could not keep it; We weep for once over the flouted authority of of the happily exiled mistress of intransigent and incorrigible feminism.

THE BRITISH MILITANTS.

Salt breezes from the Moray Firth keep cool the golf links at Lossiemouth, but what can cool the fevered brains of British militant suffragettes? They prove themselves impervious to all that is cool and calm, and to all that is reasonable and logical. The silly assault which two of them have made on Mr. Asquith is but another symptom of the delirium from which they suffer. It will cause indignation, but it can scarcely cause surprise. The same spirit has been shown repeatedly in the rowdy raids from Trafalgar Square to Downing street, for the purpose of attacking the official residence of the Prime Minister. And if it seems to sink it does not put them beyond its victims beneath contempt, pity. In fact, those who are thus "possessed" are very pitiable.

It takes all sorts to make a world, and even a voting list; yet the suffragettes who glory in violence are not of a sort that any law-abiding people could be eager to enfranchise. It cannot be said that the two who assaulted Mr. Asquith are desirable as citizens. The law, holding them responsible, treats them as criminals. But their mental condition, as betrayed by the outward symptoms, probably renders them positively irresponsible. Their action is not an argument for votes, but rather for straight-jackets. As it damages and hinders the cause which they avowedly wish to advance, it shows that they are incapable of knowing what they do. And while it is a caricature of political agitation it is a degradation to womanhood. If woman suffrage wins, it will be in spite of the militants.

Offensive Breath Caused Usually by Catarrh

Simple Remedy Discovered That Cures Without Drugs.

The American people suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. It undermines more constitutions and creates more sickness than all other diseases combined. It is, therefore, very dangerous.

You can't successfully treat catarrh by internal dosing—you must in some way send a purifying, healing agent through the breathing organs so that the germs can be reached. This you do every time you inhale Catarrhozone. Its rich essences and healing balsams are breathed all through the nose, throat and lungs and effectively destroy every trace of Catarrh. This is a proven fact.

I endorse Catarrhozone because I know of six bad cases of Catarrh, including my own, that it has cured. It is a sensible remedy because it is capable of going where the disease is. I believe it cures quicker than other remedy because it gets sooner to the source of the disease than anything else I know of. I had headaches, bad breath and much stomach trouble associated with my Catarrh, but they have disappeared since using Catarrhozone, which keeps me free from colds, headaches, catarrh and all winter ills." Catarrhozone is needed in every home. Large size lasts 2 months price $1.00; small size 50c; trial size 25c. At all storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Canada.

KING GEORGE AND BIBLE

General Booth Anticipates Splendid Results From Royal Example

General Bramwell Booth, in an interview published in the "War Cry," refers to the King's promise to Queen Alexandra in 1881 that he would read a chapter of the Bible daily, and to the fact that he has ever since adhered to his promise.

Says the General: "I consider this bit of public testimony from our popular King-Emperor may turn out to be one of the important events of our time. The mere courage of the thing in these Bible-despising days is splendid, and I praise God for it.

"Only think of the effect in the Army and Navy of England alone! Talk about armaments! Why, if the King's soldiers and sailors will only do what their King does, I believe that would give to England such an army and navy as the world has not had since the days of Cromwell and the Ironsides!"

"But among the people as a whole, General?"

"Among the people as a whole? Why, if the King's example be followed, I believe the nation will presently have such mothers and sons as have not been seen, except here and there, throughout the world."

"How will this affect the Salvation Army?"

"Well, for one thing, I hope it will touch all Salvationists so that they will pray for the King and the Royal family, and praise God for this outspoken testimony."

According to the "Church Family Newspaper" the King received a large number of letters from men in all stations of life thanking him for the confession he made with regard to his habit of Bible-reading.

DOES THIS SOLVE JOHN ORTH MYETERY?

A curious story reached London from Buenos Ayres of a traveller who thinks he has discovered alive John Orth, otherwise the Archduke John Salvator of Austria.

M. Cenac, a Frenchman, travelling in the country, knocked at a farmhouse door to ask for a drink, and a farm hand brought him water in a silver goblet. As the cup was emblasoned, and the crest on it was a double-headed eagle with an Imperial Crown, M. Cenac asked to whom it belonged. To his master, Don Ramon, said the man.

The Frenchman asked to see Don Ramon, who proved to be a tall, military looking, distinguished, elderly man. After thanking him, the Frenchman suddenly asked Don Ramon, "Did you never know John Orth?" Don Ramon seemed annoyed, and answered with irritation, "Why should I have known John Orth? And, supposing I did know him, what then? He is dead, isn't he? And you might go about telling everybody that the whilom Archduke John Salvator of Austria, who renounced all his titles and his name, is still alive, but nobody would believe you. Dead men don't come to life agoin." M. Cenac is convinced that Don Ramon is John Orth.

Salt Bed in the West

The discovery is reported of an extensive salt bed at Kwinitsa. Mile 45 on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific east of Prince Rupert. The importance of this find lies in the fact that about the only other deposits of commercial value in Canada are situated in Ontario at Kincardine, Goderich, Windsor, Parkhill and on Lake Huron so that, so far as the western Provinces are concerned British Columbia may be the distributing centre for this essential of the culinary art.

AN ANSWER TO PRAYER.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We of Apsley and of its neighborhood, have had a lesson taught us that neither this generation or the generations to come should ever forget, and that lesson is that we are entirely in the hands of God and at the mercy of God. We have been confronted with a great danger, before which we have been utterly helpless. To say that we could control the winds and the clouds would, of course, be utter nonsense and proud arrogance, but it was well for us that there was One who could do so. The fires were drawn up as in battle array, stretching from north to south, and they closed in upon the farms from the westward all along a whole line of many miles of roadway and homes. The fire only awaited the order to advance, with its hungry devouring flames, to consume all that lay before it, and in an hour or two to leave sorrow and desolation in its wake. But the order was never given and the west wind came not instead in answer to prayer a counter order 'Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further; and here shall thy proud waves be stayed." (Job. 38:11). In answer to prayer the westerly wind quickly died down, and gave way to a gentle east wind which grew in the next two or three days, into a stronger south-easterly wind, which affected the double purpose of keeping back the fire and of bringing in its wake the much desired rain that it usually results in.

Had there been a strong westerly wind for even less than two hours the fate of more than one farm would have been sure, and, had the easterly wind that brought the rain continued longer without rain, the fate of others would have been almost equally certain from a fire that was closing in from another quarter, along the line of another road on the eastern portion of another township.

Many were the prayers that were offered up, and just in time came the urgently needed rain, proving once more the truth of scripture: "So they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and He delivered them out of their distress. Oh, that men would therefore praise the Lord for His goodness, and declare the wonders that He doeth for the children of Men." "Boast not thyself of to-morrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." (Prov. 27:1). "For man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live." (Deut. 8:3). By the word of One who could rebuke the winds and say to the waves and winds "Peace be still." He it is that controlleth the clouds and sendeth rain upon the earth. "He doeth according to His will in the army of heaven; and none can stay His hand, or say unto Him, What doest Thou?" Dan. 4:35.

NOTES OF SCIENCE

A scientist of Amsterdam perfected a method by which he secures a very excellent substitute for rubber from sea fish. It is claimed that the product has all the qualities of rubber at one-sixth the cost. Another new source of rubber substitute is the "trucali" tree of Natal. This plant has been heretofore regarded as commercially useless, but recently about one ton per week has been shipped to London, where it is used as insulation for electric wires.

There is a tendency among the automobile manufacturers to make use of silver-plating instead of nickel for covering the exposed metal parts of the machine. The latter has the advantage of hardness, but when exposed to the weather it becomes covered with an oxide which is hard to remove, while silver is whiter, takes a higher polish and when it becomes tarnished it is easier to clean. The difference in the cost of silver is slight.

A funnel has been devised for the use of automobile owners which dispenses with the use of the chamois skin usually necessary to remove the water from gasoline which gets there by condensation and which seriously interferes with the operation of the motor. The funnel is supplied with two copper screens, through which the gasoline must pass before reaching the tank, and these screens are said to be so fine that the water will not pass through the mesh without the least difficulty.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3. — Initiative petitions toward a state law prohibiting long duration boxing exhibition or those professionalized either by gate receipts or prize awards will be circulated immediately throughout California. This was decided by the civic righteousness committee of the Los Angeles Church Federation.

The projected law would limit boxing to four rounds and require gloves at least eight ounces in weight.

TENNIS.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The recent national championship tennis tournament at Newport produced many interesting sidelights, in addition to title holders. The entrants ranged from youths to men of middle age. It was a question, in many matches of skill and finesse of wrist and racquet against the smashing strokes and stamina of youth. Neither extreme came through to the final rounds, but the efforts of both classes were none the less interesting. School boys of 16 and 17 faced gray haired players old enough to be their fathers, and neither asked nor gave quarter. A perfect spirit of sportsmanship marked every match, and the way some of the young men wielded wits and racquets in these court battles argues well for the safety of the Davis cup in years to come.

Winnipeg, Man.
Gentlemen,—

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that I have suffered from rheumatism for the last nine years, and particularly for the last five. I have been unable to stand, walk, or in fact, help myself in any way, my knees and elbows swollen, drawn and stiff, could not bend them in any way. I tried everything, went to the Banff Springs three months in 1905, twice to Hot Springs, Arkansas, two months in 1907, four months in 1909 done me no good. I heard of SANOL last September and have been taking it ever since, and I am glad to say the swelling is about all gone. I am going around the house on crutches, also my joints are loosening and straightening, and I fully expect that SANOL will cure me.

I believe SANOL will cure rheumatism, for my case is a hard one, and in fact has been pronounced incurable and if I improve for the next three months as I have for the last three I will be walking in good shape.

I remain.

Yours truly.
John J. Lane.

P.S.—You can show this letter to anyone you feel like, and send them to me as I can tell them better than I can write it.

THE MONTENEGRINS

The Montenegrins are still an armed nation, and many of their proverbs illustrate their love of weapons. One says, "A man without arms is a man without freedom;" and another, "Thou mayest as well take away my brother as my rifle." The famous traveller Kohn likened the Montenegrins to the Greeks of Homeric times, and the comparison still holds good. "Love of freedom and love of weapons, simplicity of life—remember the love of mutton and wine as described by Homer—hospitality, the superiority of man over woman; all these features, together with the fact that the heroes are themselves the singers of their deeds, are to be found in the Montenegrins, as well as in the Greeks of Homer."—London Chronicle.

The Five Pauls

Here is a good example of what frequently happens in the polyglot Balkans. A man named Pavel—that is, Paul—had five sons; one settled in Athens, called himself Pavlopoulo, the Greek form of Paulson; the second went to Belgrade and called himself Pavlovich; the third, in Sofia, called himself Pavloff; the fourth made his home in Bucharest under the name Pavlescus; while the youngest set up in business in Constantinople, assuming the Turkish form of Pavlobiu.

English Like Lobsters

About 80,000 lobsters are eaten daily during the season in England, and they come mostly from Nova Scotia and Norway.

STRANGE MARKET FOR ODD ARTICLES

One-Legged Men Can Buy a Pair of Shoes or One Sock in London

The things that can be purchased in London for two cents are beyond belief, and no matter what the article, it can be bought more cheaply than in the place where it was grown or made. Everything under the sun is on sale; even that rarest of commodities, the odd article that usually is sold in pairs—an odd glove, an odd sock or stocking, an odd boot, or slipper—and new at that. The thing is not a cast-off; it has never been worn.

To enjoy this advantage to the full it is necessary to go to Old street, in the Parish of St. Luke's. There, under the very shadow of that church, lies the Market of the Odd. Numbers of its dealers sell stockings and gloves singly, and within its borders lies the Mecca of the one-legged, to which cripples make pilgrimages from near and far in quest of a single boot, shoe or slipper. Externally only an ordinary commonplace shoe store, it is actually the national clearing house for odd boots and shoes, and as such is known to many of the one-legged not only of Great Britain, but of the dominions overseas.

In its basements are bins heaped with "singles" in strange juxtaposition. Slippers of all kinds—satin ball slippers, babies' slippers, nurses' slippers, carpet and leather slippers—are lumped together by the hundred. In another section lie a multitude of shoes of the most diverse kinds, from the cheap canvas article to the dress variety, and mixed up with these specimens of every-day footwear may be seen surgical boots, mountaineering boots, sea boots, even boots to which none save the expert dare give a name. And of these strangely assorted articles, numbering in all some thousands, no two ever met before, or may, once they leave the dealer's, ever meet again.

Where Do They Come From

By what channels have they drifted here? Some have journeyed from shops where their fellows having been lost or destroyed they had lain undisturbed for years. Others represent salvage—portions of stock saved from fire. But the majority have arrived circuitously from commercial travelers' bags after undergoing critical inspection by many pairs of eyes, because they were alone in the world. Though samples are made in pairs, a "drummer" carries only one shoe or boot to show retailers, and consequently a "right" may be in one end of the country, while the companion "left" is traveling in the other. One of the two is liable to go astray, and when this happens the other is ultimately consigned to Old street.

They go—where do they not go? Since a single shoe can be bought at this place for about thirty-six cents, cripples living in all parts of England and the colonies come or send to this establishment for their footwear. They somehow discover the place, and then they stick to it year after year, many remaining loyal to the end of the chapter.

Not Cripples Only

But it is not only cripples who make pilgrimages to the Mecca of the one-legged. Londoners with the normal number of nether limbs frequently wend their way thither with a shoe, "right" or "left," divorced from its fellow by one of those numerous mishaps that agitate the family circle. Sometimes a mother reaches the establishment, and becoming confidential on the smallest provocation, bemoans the way that babies have of kicking off their shoes, or explains that Tommy, after achieving the proud feat of coming home from school without missing a single puddle on the way, surreptitiously put his shoes close to the stove to dry, with disastrous results to one of them. In general the mate of a shoe can be found among the dealer's stock, but sometimes a month elapses before the wanted counterpart turns up. Once a year, moreover, there is a sale of "pairs" of "odds" when roughly matched pairs are made up and sold for trifling sums. A hard and fast rule at these sales is "no trying on."

Buried Village Exposed

In the year 1665 the sea rolled up to the village of Eccles, on the Norfolk coast fifteen or sixteen miles beyond Yarmouth, engulfed it, and drowned every inhabitant, covering the whole with tons and tons of sand. Only the tower of the parish church remained above to mark the place where a whole community had lived and worked for centuries. In 1893 the tower collapsed.

Recently, after a violent gale, the covering sand was found to have been swept right away from Eccles beach, leaving the church and village exposed. A similar thing happened in 1890, but later on the sand again covered the place.

POLITICS AND STAMPS

Innocent Little Stickers for Letters Have Caused Lots of Trouble

A piece of careless engraving led to the withdrawal from circulation, on political grounds, of two of the recently issued postage stamps bearing the likeness of King George in robes of state. Among the insignia worn by His Majesty in Mr. McKennal's portrait is the Order of the Indian Empire, in the representation of which a diminutive figure of an elephant is shown. Now, on the majority of the stamps there is not the slightest room for doubt as to the animal that it is intended to represent, but on the two annas and three annas values the elephant was poorly executed, and bore a remarkable resemblance, not to the stately lord of the jungle, but to the humble domestic pig! This fact did not pass unrecognised by the Mohammedan population of India, by whom the lowly porker is regarded as an unclean animal strictly forbidden by their caste and abhorred of all true Moslems. The grave affront to their religious prejudices, arising from the necessity of applying their tongues to this profane image, caused an immediate outcry amongst the native followers of Mohammed, who declined to have anything to do with the despised stamps; and as a concession to their scruples it was decided that the offending values should be called in, and a fresh printing made with the unfortunate elephant correctly delineated.

This is by no means the first occasion on which the postage stamp was the subject of internal and even diplomatic contention, particularly in respect of religion and party politics.

A case in point is proved by the first issue of Sudanese postage stamps. The paper upon which these stamps were first printed was water-marked with a curious device known to architects as a quatrefoil—a cruciform flower, bearing a strong resemblance to a Maltese Cross.

No sooner had the stamps been placed in use, however, than urgent representations were made to the Sirdar, Lord Kitchener, by the local Sheikhs, protesting against the presence of an emblem of the Christian faith on the stamps of the Sudan, and it is said that a native rising was narrowly averted by the immediate issue of an order for the watermark to be changed to the more appropriate star and crescent of Islam.

The first attempt at introducing the ubiquitous postage stamp into Corea in the year 1884, was fraught with disaster, being followed by a severe anti-foreign outbreak, attended with bloodshed and incendiarism.

Diplomatic rupture between Spain and the South American Republic of Colombia arose out of the design of one of the stamps issued by Colombia in 1910 to mark the centenary of her freedom from the Spanish yoke. On one stamp was depicted an incident in the country's history, when a number of citizens of Carthagena were publicly executed by order of the Spanish Government under circumstances of the deepest treachery. Naturally, the Spanish Government did not relish this raking up of past grievances, and threatened to recall the Spanish Minister from Bogota unless the issue was suppressed. This was accordingly done.

LLOYD GEORGE'S DOUBLE

There is in Harborne a man who is exceedingly like Mr. Lloyd George in personal appearance, and who is immensely proud of the fact. He so bored his friends with the subject that they decided to teach him a lesson. They took a devious course. In the first place they challenged him to put on the characteristic top hat and frock coat of the Chancellor, together with his self-complacent air, and amble through the Birmingham General Post Office on a Saturday morning, and cast a benevolent eye upon the queue gathered at the Insurance Stamp counter. A bet also was made. The bogus Chancellor arrived at the Post Office to find most of his friends in the queue. He wandered about and when he came back to the Insurance counter smirked with satisfaction at the thought of public attention bestowed upon him. A post office employe approached him. "Mr. Lloyd George, sir, I think." The friends lingering around became mirthful. "Um-um, what is it?" asked the counterfeit, an exalted pride oozing from every pore. "I must call the postmaster, sir," went on the man, "he'll be pleased to see you." "No, no," said the other, alarmed, but the man made as if to go. He walked across the office. The moment he was out of sight, "Mr. Lloyd George" hurried out, and ran for cover, only to find a half-hour later that the clerk who had brought about his humiliation was in the conspiracy and had not gone for the postmaster.

All stocks, soups and gravy should be boiled up each day or they will turn sour.

Lord Ashton, at Lancaster, on his seventieth birthday, received an ornate casket and an illuminated address from 5,000 employes at his linoleum and cotton mills and paint works in recognition of his undertaking to pay their Insurance Act contributions and to supplement the benefits. Lady Ashton was presented with a diamond and pearl bracelet.

It was announced that each employe would receive three days' pay as a memento of his lordship's seventieth birthday.

Death of an Aged Admiral

Among the numbers of telegrams of condolence received by Lady Dowell on the death of Admiral Sir William Dowell, one from the King said:

"The King is so grieved to hear o the death of dear Sir William Dowell, whom he had known for so long, and he offers you and family his heartfelt sympathy in your great loss."

The late admiral was born in 1825, entered the Navy in 1839, and was in the fighting in Chinese, Japanese, and Egyptian waters from 1841 to 1882.

Irishman's Domestic Troubles

For a second time a man applied at Belfast Police Court for a warrant against his wife.

"My wife," he said, "or my waster, as you will, has been at me again. My son said he would kick my ribs in if I did not pay the rent, and she, my spouse, said, 'That's right, give him a kick.' As the poet says:—

Bathe my feet in boiling lead,
Or place me on a rack;
But save my life while I am here,
From yonder woman's clack.

He desired "an honorable obligation for a few shillings." The magistrate loaned him the money which was to be repaid when the man received his pension.

The woman who flares up quickest doesn't always make the best match.

LUCK OF THE LOTTERY

Woman Loses Ticket Which Proved to be Winner—Was Returned

A tale of the lottery, with more than one stroke of luck in it, is reported from Milan. A ticket was bought, lost, found to be the lucky number, and after that restored to its owner. A woman named Gandolfi, living at Piacenza, was the purchaser. On the way home from the lottery office she lost her handbag and the ticket with it. Hurrying back she asked for a duplicate ticket of the same number, to cover her misfortune, and was given one. The draw showed her to have won some thousands of francs.

The strangest part of the story is that the person who found the bag and the first ticket was afraid to present the ticket when it was found to bear the winning number, and sent it back to the lawful owner. The finder however, kept the bag as a souvenir.

DOCTOR'S PROTEST AGAINST SWEARING

Windsor Man Thinks Foul Language on the Increase—"Polite Cussing" Not Now Tolerated

Dr. James Samson, of Windsor, Ontario, speaking of the language heard on street cars between Windsor and Tecumseh, declares that "a half hour on a late car surpassed in savage hideousness any other that I can recall in my entire life." He calls it a "damnable state of affairs," and goes on to say that "for brutal coarseness, vulgarity, blasphemy, drunkenness, ribald songs, filthy language, and licentious conduct, no place this side of Hades could have furnished a more disgraceful exhibit."

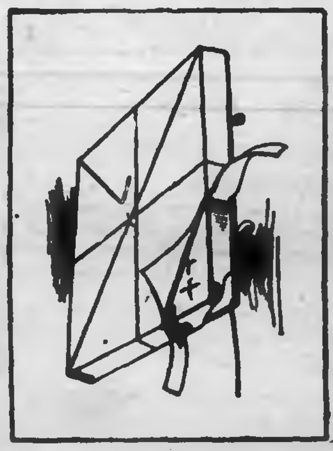
The protest made by this physician recalls the fact that a Halifax man died recently who made it his business to campaign against bad language. He wrote hundreds of letters to the press calling attention to the evils of blasphemy. And a great many people described him as a crank, and alleged that he did not know what he was talking about. His crusade, they said, was unjustified, because unnecessary. Bad language, they were sure, was less frequently heard than when they were boys.

In a measure that is so. In many quarters it used to be the "correct thing" to swear, just as it used to be the "correct thing" to drink. But like the every-day beer on the Englishman's table, the indulgence was mild in its form. It was unnecessary but hardly intemperance. Fewer people may nowadays say "damn" when they prick their fingers, but there is a type of ribald swearing which shows no signs of diminishment.

NEW LIFE PRESERVER

Instead of Ring it is Made in the Shape of a Raft.

A Maryland man has devised a new form of life preserver. Instead of being made in the shape of a ring, to be worn around the body under the arms, this one is square in shape and forms a little raft for the imperiled user to rest upon. The body of the life preserver is of cork-filled canvas, as is customary, but around the entire bottom is a thin iron rod that acts as a bracing frame and keeps it rigid. Otherwise it would promptly buckle up and precipitate the occupant into the water. The whole contrivance is enclosed in an envelope of some thin waterproof material. There are loops along the frame so that a rope may be attached to the block in cases where it is thrown out to a person and then hauled in. Owing to its flat, square shape a pile of these preservers take up little room.



FRAME HOLDS IT RIGID.

THE WAY OF A REFORMER

He was one of those sad-faced men who delight in becoming railway-carriage bores, and when he saw a happy-looking stranger smoking contentedly near by he felt compelled to ask a few questions.

"Sir," he began, "will you allow your boy to smoke cigarettes when he grows up?"

"I have never given the question a moment's thought," replied the stranger.

The sad-faced man sighed.

"And," he went on faintly, "I suppose you have never thought about stopping his drinking?"

"I never have," admitted the man.

The sad-faced man positively gasped.

"Can it be true," he muttered, "that there are such monsters living; such hardened, callous—"

"But I think you ought to know," interrupted the stranger, "that I have been a confirmed bachelor all my life."

BLIND BUT HAPPY WROTE MANY HYMNS

Fanny Crosby, Author of Best Known Sacred Songs in English Language

The name of Fanny Crosby is known wherever hymns are sung, for she has written upwards of eight thousand of them. On her ninety-third birthday this little blind songstress, diminutive as a child of twelve and tremulous under the weight of her great age, granted an interview to a woman reporter at her home in Bridgeport, Conn.

"All my life I have had so much!" she said. "After four score years and ten I know wretchedness only by hearsay; but, oh, I hope I have comforted some who were heavily burdened. That hope spurred me to the writing of the hymns. But I have written so very many that it is impossible to remember most of them. For that reason I have often made laughable mistakes. One morning at Northfield the audience sang, 'Hide Me, O My Saviour, Hide,' and I was so much pleased with it that, turning to Mr. Sankey, I asked 'where did you get that song?'

"'Really,' he replied, 'you ought to know, for you are the guilty author.'

"Generally when the melody is given I choose my own subject for a hymn-poem.

"My mother's death in 1890 suggested:

"'Over the River they call me,
Friends that are dear to my heart
Soon I shall meet them in glory,
Never, no never, to part.'

"Again, the story of a Boston harbor pilot's dying word proved an inspiration. 'I see the light,' he said to those who watched beside him, and, hearing that last word, I wrote:

"'I see the Light, 'tis coming,
It breaks upon my soul;
It streams above the tempest
And ocean waves that roll.'

"That many of my hymns have been dictated by the Holy Spirit I have no doubt. Sometimes it seemed that there was a deep, clear well of inspiration from which I was free to draw. At other times the burden o inspiration was almost too heavy.

"Most of my verses are written i the night. Sometimes a hymn come to me by stanzas, and needs only t be written down, but I never hav any part of a poem committed t paper until the whole is composed.

"The hymn, 'O Child of God, Wai Patiently,' came into being at Nort field. Mr. Sankey played a pretty a and asked me to write a poem, bu my mind seemed a blank. Next mor ing just when we were all going fo a drive, I asked to be excused and i a few moments the words of the hym came in regular order just as the now stand:

"'O Child of God, wait patiently
When dark thy path may be
And let thy faith lean trustingly
On Him who cares for thee.'

"The best of my poems, the one that are my favorites, came as a con plete whole, needing no revision. I April, 1868, and old and dear frien when bidding me good-bye, said, have just forty minutes before m train leaves for Cincinnati. Here is melody. Can you write words for it For twenty minutes I was wholly u conscious of all else except the wor I was doing. At the end of that tim I recited the words to 'Safe in th Arms of Jesus.'"

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

"Return Trip East," $18.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from all points east of MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton to Winnipeg.

JOHNSTON IS MODEST

He is Merely a Hired Man and Works on That Theory

Walter Johnson, Washington phenomenal pitcher is one of the most popular players in the game. The Johnson of to-day is not the Johnson who broke into the American league from Idaho. Then he was an awkward over-grown boy, with terrific speed and little else. To-day he is the finished article. Tall, well-built graceful, he is tremendously powerful and pitches with a frictionless ease which impels the query, "Where does his speed come from?"

WALTER JOHNSON

He pitches to win and wastes no time. He gets his signals from the catcher while returning to his place and is ready to deliver the ball when he steps upon the slab. His games are notably short.

Walter Johnson prefers to submerge himself rather than seek the limelight so pleasant to many players. He regards himself as a workman, employed to win ball games and he sees nothing strange in the fact that he wins them. That is what he is paid for.

Critics unite in declaring him the greatest pitcher of all time, and surely no one could wear high honors with less self-consciousness than this big chap.

NOW MAKING GOOD

Young Englishman Who Wrote Poetry in Prison Justifies His Release

"John Carter," the young English convict who was released from the Minnesota State prison about three years ago because his ability as a poet had won the friendship of influential men, is said to have fully justified the confidence reposed in him and has "made good" in the world beyond the prison walls. Carter is not the real name of the young man who became an international figure because of the appeal made in his behalf by Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of the Century, and others distinguished in the world of letters. He was born in England, of good family, about twenty-seven years ago. At the age of nineteen he went to Canada, and made his way to Winnipeg. Inexperienced and frail, he was unable to obtain employment. It was while attempting to beat his way from Winnipeg to St. Paul that he was put off a train at Karlstad, Minn. Cold and almost starved, he broke into the railroad station and stole $24 and a watch. He was sentenced to prison for ten years, and there, "to kill time and ease my unhappy thoughts," he began writing poems that won the admiration and praise of Mr. Johnson and other editors. Through their influence he was released from prison on his twenty-fourth birthday, and began life anew under more favorable circumstances.

ALL THE DIFFERENCE

"Patience, my dear, patience!" reproved Mr. Bounce complacently. "I'm quite sure Jim didn't mean to upset his cup of tea, and it will be easy to get out a fresh table cloth. Accidents will happen, you know, in the best regulated families—mind your glass, Willie—and it's no good crying over— Careful, Willie! I always think—

"Great Scott!" he shouted. "There goes Willie's milk all over my trousers—and a new pair, too! Get a cloth, somebody! I'm dripping! Heavens! a man can't sit down at his own table nowadays, it seems, without being peppered from his children's plates, and bespattered from his children's cups. Just look at these trousers, Mary! Ruined! Ah, don't tell me he didn't do it on purpose! I'll teach him to behave himself—

"Willie," he roared, as he left the room, "follow me into the study!"

True Type of Great Soldier.

One of the war correspondents in the Balkans writes of General Putnik, commander-in-chief of the Servian forces, a military genius: "I was struck by the extraordinary likeness which he bore to General Grant, both in feature and build. Perhaps, however, if the reader of these lines will recall what Andrew Carnegie is like, then he will have an excellent idea of the appearance of the Servian generalissimo who has organized the marvelously successful campaign against the Turk. Placid and gentle eyed, one of the kindest of men, I should think, he is adored by his staff and by all ranks."

Are You Droopy, Tired Worn Out?

HERE IS GOOD ADVICE TO ALL WHO FEEL AS IF THEIR VIGOR AND LIFE ALL OOZED AWAY.

This Condition Can be Quickly Cured by a Good Cleansing Medicine.

Your experience is probably somewhat similar to that described by Mr. J. T. Fleming in the following letter from his home in Lebanon: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter, and that foul, soft feeling that tells you, "No breakfast needed here this morning.' A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was my only good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dreamt to beat the band. A friend of mine put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think they must have taken hold of my liver, perhaps my stomach, too, because at the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the daytime, but hustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they rebuilt and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to enjoy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Milk Vendors Prosecuted.

Sanitary Inspector Spence yesterday laid information against six milk vendors for selling milk without a city license. The Inspector told The Times that whilst it may seem a hardship for the owner of a cow not to be allowed to sell his excess milk, it is just such persons whose premises are not inspected that are liable to disseminate disease. These cases will be tried on Friday.

Yesterday's Drunks.

At yesterday's police court, a local manufacturer was charged with having been drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 to be paid forthwith. Here enthusiastic speeches were made and cricket given a big boom in Toronto.

Local Contemporary Apologizes.

We are pleased to see that an E.E.C. makes an abject apology to John Smith for saying John Smith was fined $2 for being drunk. The story is that 149 John Smiths bombarded the office of our E.E.C. and demanded that the paper give the occupation of the particular John Smith in trouble. Truly, the enterprise of some local papers would fill a whole library with back century enterprise.

The trustees who put in an appearance were Chairman Dr. Morrison, John Crane, B. D. Ackerman and Dr. Middleton. Considerable urgent business was slated for action, and it is hoped that the members will turn out in full strength at the next call of the Chairman.

Not Mr. John I. Allen.

Mr. John I. Allen, of the Prudential Life Assurance Company, called on The Times yesterday in reference to a report of the police court proceedings which appeared in yesterday's issue, in which a young fellow calling himself John Allen, was fined for being intoxicated while driving an automobile. Mr. Allen thinks that the report was unfair to him on account of the name, and also because he is in possession of an automobile. We can assure Mr. Allen, however, that no one who knows him would dream of accusing him of being guilty of intoxication or joy riding.

MAGNIFICENT CROPS IN WEST MILLIONS OVER LAST YEAR

Minister of Agriculture Declares That Grain Will be of an Unusually High Grade, The Crop Bountiful and Exceptionally Early Cutting Operations Already Completed in Many Sections

Winnipeg, Sept. 4.—Recent rains in the Canadian prairie west have had little effect on the 1913 crop, according to advices to-day from principal points in the Province.

Harvesting is practically completed, and the rain falling on the stooked wheat, dried off as the grain dried out, so that threshing will be taken up just as soon as it would have been under ordinary circumstances.

Some rain fell in Manitoba and a little in Saskatchewan yesterday, but the fall was only spasmodic and garnering of grain will not suffer.

Temperatures taken at midnight showed a good level maintained, with no signs of frost and few clouded skies.

SASKATCHEWAN CROP ASSURED.

Regina, Sept. 4.—"The total grain crop of Saskatchewan, which is now practically assured, promises to exceed that of 1912 by several million bushels," says Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture.

"The crop will be of an unusually high grade and if frost keeps off for the balance of the season Saskatchewan will have every reason to be well satisfied with the results of the years operations.

"To reap a bountiful harvest in a season in the early months of which the outlook seemed far from promising, is exceptionally gratifying.

"Two thirds of Saskatchewan's crop is cut and it is all in first-class condition. The balance will be harvested as fast as binders can be made work, and this uncut grain is in good condition.

"In many districts cutting operations have been completed and where the grain has been later in maturing, from 40 to 50 per cent. has been harvested."

GERMAN ROYAL PRINCESS BRIDE OF EX-KING MANUEL

Every Reigning House in Europe and Some Like Bridegroom Temporarily Out of Power Represented at Brilliant Event in South of Germany

Sigmaringen, Germany, Sept. 4.—Manuel, former King of Portugal, was married here to-day to Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern, by Cardinal Netto, former Archbishop Patriarch of Lisbon, who conducted the religious ceremony and by Count August Zu Fulenburg, Grand Marshall of the Prussian Court, who presided over the civil function.

The religious rites began at half-past eleven in the Roman Catholic Parish Church near the Palace. The road along which the bridal pair passed from the Palace to the church was spanned with arches covered with bright flowers and along both sides were drawn up lines of soldiers and school children.

The little capital of the Principality of Hohenzollern had made every effort to render itself attractive for the occasion, although it was understood that the marriage was to be celebrated in as quiet a manner as possible owing to the political situation.

A gate of honor was erected at the railroad station, where all the royal guests were met by military escorts which accompanied them to the Palace.

Portugal, the Prince of Wales, repre- included the Queen-Mother Amelie, of

FORMER LOCAL MAN FOUND IN AFRICA

Suspected Anthropoid Captured in Jungle Proves to be a White Man.

(Special to The Times.)

Baluway, Africa, Sept. 4. — For some months natives in this district have suffered much annoyance by having their maize and yams stolen. At first the thefts were attributed to elephants. However, it was noticed that fence rails that been let down and carefully replaced. This led to the theory that the depredations were caused by an orang-otang, possessed by almost human intelligence.

Last Monday, a posse, led by a native Shikan, penetrated the dense jungle. Here Abonkir Abdallah spied a human like form, on all fours, making through the bushes. Thinking the creature to be a great ape, the Shikan fired, bringing the animal down at the second shot.

It proved to be a six foot hairless ape. The creature was seriously wounded. Professor Van der Decken Ginswiggle, the German scientist pronounced it the real missing link.

LATER.

The unfortunate man, for it proved to be a man, died two hours later. An autopsy held next morning proved that the creature wore No. 13 shoes. It's head was of enormous size. In fact he could not have survived such an attack of swelled head much longer. The huge skull, on cross section disclosed that the brain pan was filled with mouldy sawdust. A search of the cave occupied by the man contained fragments of an old Peterborough paper showing that the deceased was the originator of secret sessions of the Juvenile Court. He had evidently been chased from a civilized community. The remains were accorded decent burial.

BIG BLACKMAIL SCHEME FOUND

Society Woman's Arrest is First Move in Disclosure of Biggest Fraud in Years

Cleveland, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Margaret A. Carter, a society woman of Glyria, is in the county jail on a federal warrant, charging her with using the mails to fraudulently secure $3,000 from Miss Lillian Hunting on Elyria's wealthiest heiress. Mrs. Carter admitted to-day that the writing in the letter looked "something like" her writing.

"I believe the person who wrote that letter imitated my handwriting to get me into trouble," she declared "and I think I know who the person was."

She denied that she had sent Miss Huntington a letter or will be responsible for any of a dozen attempts to blackmail Wlyria citizens.

Cary R. Alburn, assistant United States district attorney, under whose direction the arrest was made, said to-day that the arrest was the first move in a series of developments that will disclose one of the biggest blackmailing scheme the federal authorities have had in years.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Generally fair and a little cooler.

MR. J.H. BURNHAM QUOTES HANSARD

And Shows Up Sir Wilfred Laurier in True Light

The following letter appeared in this week's issue of The Orange Sentinel, and tells its own story:

In my letter of last week to you in reply to the statement of Mr. Linvingstone, I showed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the session of 1911-12 had supported the Beland amendment to the third reading of the Borden Bill for extending Manitoba's boundaries, and I quoted that amendment, which was as follows:

"That this House is of opinion that Negotiations should be re-opened with the Government of Manitoba in order to define by amicable conference the status of minorities, either Catholic or Protestant, with regard to education in the light of existing laws, in the annexed territory."

This, I presume, makes it quite clear that notwithstanding Sir Wilfrid's professions of 1896 of respect for Manitoba's autonomy, he was quite willing to disregard it in 1911-12, and for what purpose? He voted against Mr. Mondou's amendment to the Borden motion, which, if he had supported it, would have left him in the awkward predicament of having followed the lead of another. Hence it was necessary for him to put up an amendment of his own, and one equally strong. He was fairly strapped and had to show his hand, I think it will be acknowledged.

But what I wish particularly to speak of in this letter is the attitude from 1896 onwards of Sir Wilfrid towards Manitoba, and I will support my remarks by quotations from the revised Hansard. On page 4900 1911-12 session) Vol. 3, Sir Wilfrid says respecting the "settlement" which he made in 1896 which has deceived so many, and which is of great interest to-day in view of the present legislation of the Manitoba Government:—

"The settlement that we made with the Government of Mr. Greenway at that time was that whenever in any school in a town or city, there was an average attendance of 40 children of the Roman Catholic faith they would have a right to have a teacher of their own persuasion. In rural districts wherever there was an average attendance of 25 children they would have the right to obtain from the trustees a teacher of their own persuasion, and a right at certain times and under certain conditions to be determined by the trustees to have religious education in the schools. Children speaking the French language would have the right to receive their instructions in French. That was the tenor of the settlement we made with Manitoba."

These are Sir Wilfrid's own words. What more need be said on that point?

In 1896 Mr. Greenway was in power. Where Sir Wilfrid was "invited" Sir Mackenzie Bowell was fooled into making a threat. At that time Sir Wilfrid was too long-headed for the Conservative party, but "times is changed." He must show his hand now where formerly he kept it in his sleeve.

When the Beland amendment was both put up in 1911-12 and supported by Sir Wilfrid, a different aspect of affairs presented itself.

The Opposition in the debate on that amendment proposed to penalize Manitoba unless the (Catholic or

LOCAL POLICE OFFICER DISCOVERED A FIRE

Yesterday morning at 4.15 as two local watchmen were guarding the derelict Turnbull building, they saw one of Peterborough's "finest" approaching in a great state of excitement. Before he reached them, the officer yelled: "Hoots, mon, dinna ye see the awfu' fire oot east?" The watchmen looked, and, sure enough the eastern sky was ablaze. "Dinna ye ken the whole of East Ward must be ablaze?" Just then the sun rose in his glory over Armour's Hill and the red cloud disappeared. "What d'ye think of that? I've kept oot of ma bed for full yin 'oor watching that fire." The vigilant officer had called up the fire station.

The above story is absolutely true. It is not like a series of imaginary stories we are running re the absurd methods of the local police in connection with the Star Chamber methods conducted in the local Juvenile court. In connection with our local Juvenile court stories, we are given to understand that our contention for modern methods and the protection of the motherhood of Peterborough will be unavailing. The magistrate and local police, we are told, are determined to continue exerting their little petty authority, allowed by law, but not tolerated elsewhere, in keeping the mothers of Peterborough from knowing the dangers that threaten their daughters, and, incidentally, prove to the public of this city that the police and magistrate don't care a —— for those who pay them. Still the stories will go on, whether the mothers of this city are neglected by law (?) or not.

WELLAND CANAL WORK TO BEGIN

O'Brien and Doughney Successful Tenders, to Establish Base of Operations at Thorold

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—As intimated some days ago the contract for the new Welland Canal, involving about $10,000,000, has been awarded to M J. O'Brien and Hugh Doughney. There were ten tenders received and each tender, according to the specifications, was accompanied by a deposit of $400,000. These conditions excluded all but the large operators. The Government demands that the work be completed by April, 1917.

Mr. Doughney leaves for Toronto to-morrow and will start work immediately, with Thorold, Ont., as headquarters. The towns along the canal zone will have a chance to boom during the construction period.

WORKING ON MARTIN MURDER.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—"As yet we have received no word from the police officials at New York as to what they are doing in the matter," said Mrs. J. L. Martin, 48 Concord avenue, mother of William Martin, the young Toronto milliner who was murdered several weeks ago in New York.

"They are still working on the case, however," continued Mrs. Martin, "and we hope soon to have some word from them."

INQUEST OPENS ON THAT AWFUL LOCAL CATASTROPHY

Ald Johnston, Contractor and Mr. Fred Might Tell of Narrow Escapes From Death, Dr. Eastwood Testifies

Last night the adjourned inquest held on Miss Sisson and other victims of the J. C. Turnbull departmental store catastrophy of last week was continued in the Council Chamber, with Coroner Dr. Greer, presiding. The following jury was polled: Messrs. J. J. Lynch, J. W. Carey, W. Fleetwood, W. Carter, E. Waterman, W. Langford, Jr., W. Merrill, A. Robson, F. Clark, A. Weir, Jos. Kelly and A. G. Carruthers, foreman.

After the usual introductory ceremonies had been completed, the first witness called was Mr. Fred Might, who formerly conducted a business in the destroyed property, and to whom universal sympathy is extended. Mr. Might's evidence was held over as his counsel was not present.

Dr. Eastwood said he saw the bodies of Miss Sisson and others at the undertaking establishments. He found Miss Sisson had been killed by a crushing force and suffocation.

Mr. Might then went on the stand. He said he was in charge of the Turnbull store. It was decided last fall to alter the building. He saw Mr. Morrow of the Can. Loan Co., and the latter told him to submit a plan. Mr. Morrow said Mr. Belcher was a competent architect. Another expert, Mr. Langford, said, he thought Mr. Belcher was putting more iron than required. He was to acquire the lease of the Barrie store. We were to take the wall out between the Barrie and Turnbull stores and to reconstruct the Simcoe street wall with windows. A new front was to be put in on George street to make things uniform. The T.S. & L. Co. gave him permission to go ahead. He employed Mr. Belcher as architect. It was decided to do the repairs on day work. When the work was done Mr. Johnston was to send in his bill, after paying the bills Johnston was to buy materials. The dividing wall was removed full length. Everything seemed to go well until Thursday last. He was on the second floor on Thursday morning, in the rear part on the Turnbull side. He did not know where the trouble started. He got out through a door at the back. The floor went down on the show cases. The Simcoe street side of the Barrie store then went down. He went down a fire escape. He saw some of the bodies taken out, but not that of Miss Sisson.

County Attorney Wood said, Mr. Hall, for the city, should have the right to ask questions. To Mr. Hall, witness said he never interfered with the contractor in his work. Mr. Johnston had put in two tenders, but he, witness, thought it cheaper to let Ald. Johnston go ahead and send his bill in later. He had confidence in Mr. Johnston. He told the owners he was going to employ Mr. Johnston and the company was agreeable.

Mr. Langford, Jr., said, Mr. Morrow showed him the plans of proposed alterations and asked him to see if the structure as proposed to be altered by Mr. Belcher, including size and strength of material was safe. Plans, as submitted, produced in court. Witness then gave technical details as to the carrying power of iron girders of different dimensions. He relied on Mr. Johnston's experience and Mr. Belcher's knowledge to see that the repairs would be safely carried out. It was not shown definitely how the upper structure was to be carried on the columns. He did not ascertain what the columns were to rest on. They rested on a very poor brick wall he found later. The building was about 50 years old. The centre of the wall was its worst part. The centre wall gave way first, beyond all doubt. When the centre wall gave way it pushed out

LIBERALS DISCUSS BILINGUAL SCHOOLS AT A BIG RALLY

Say That Children Should Not be Prevented From Learning Their Mother Tongue

Agincourt, Sept. 14.—The bilingual school question was the chief subject dealt with by Mr. William Proudfoot M.P.P. at the Liberal rally last night.

The stand taken by the liberal party is that every child should receive an English education, but it should not be prevented from being taught its mother tongue, said Mr. Proudfoot.

If English onlyi sto be taught in the schools, etc, why is it that so much attention is given to French and German in the collegiate institutes? If bilingual schools are to be wiped out, then the teaching of languages in the high schools will have to go. At Ottawa they have a postmaster-general who has issued postcards with French and English instructions printed on them. I cannot see the logic in a Government holding out the cry that English shall be the only language while a similar form of administration issues French English postcards.

Rev. Dr. Munro criticized Hon. I.A Lucas for breaking faith with his constituents on the temperance question.

Mr. Lucas was the only Conservative member in the Legislature that was pledged to vote against the three-fifths clause, declared Mr. Munro, and he violated his pledge not when he paired off with the Hon. Adam Beck, who was in favor of the three-fifths clause and thus was able to refrain from voting, but when he voted for a measure which was brought foward in direct support of the three-fifths clause, namely the anti-treating motion.

BIGGEST FLOUR MILL IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Calgary, Sept. 4.—A syndicate of local and Minneapolis capitalists will shortly commence the erection of what, it is claimed, will be the largest flour mill in the British Empire. It will be built in four units to cost $1,400,000 each, and when all the units are completed will have a capacity of 6,000 barrels of flour per day.

Eating With His Stomach

That's what the man tries to do who bolts his food without thoroughly chewing it.

This is particularly true when he uses soft, starchy foods, which seldom get the necessary digestion by the saliva, as nature intended, because most people swallow such foods as quickly as possible.

This leads to weakened digestive organs, fermentation, imperfect nutrition, and sometimes appendicitis.

Grape-Nuts

must be chewed, and for this, as well as other reasons, this food has saved many from chronic intestinal troubles and all the misery that means.

If there's one thing about Grape-Nuts of greater interest than its scientific food qualities, it is its remarkable practical adaptability to all weakened conditions of the digestive organs and its power to build them up quickly.

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 386 George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

MUNICIPAL FORMS ALWAYS IN STOCK

MINERAL WEALTH MANITOBA PROVINCE

Agricultural Province Has Important Deposits of Gold, Limestone, Gypsum and Other Minerals

It cannot be said that a great deal of attention has been paid to the possibilities of Manitoba as a mineral producer. This is as might be expected in a province where agriculture has been and is of paramount importance. And yet the soil is not the only natural asset of any country; and a systematic investigation of the mineral resources must always play an important part in contributing to the development of the whole.

If we associate with the name of minerals such ores as are mined for gold or silver or copper, then it is indeed the case that minerals and good agricultural soil are not as a rule found together in nature. But under mineral resources must also be included materials such as clays, shales, sands and gravels, limestones, marls and coals, all of which are frequently found in districts which support a thriving agricultural population, and all of which call for development in the agricultural areas of Manitoba.

Although certain areas of new Manitoba have a coating of clay sufficient to provide an agricultural soil, the possibilities of revenue lie mainly in the mineral resources, the timber, the fisheries and the water power which the new territory will provide.

Cement and Gypsum

Up to the present time it has been found possible to carry out organised geological survey work only along some of the principal waterways, and private prospecting has been but desultory.

In one district, near the eastern boundary of the Province, and forming the western extension of the Lake of the Woods area, gold mining is an assured fact.

If Portland cement were manufactured from raw materials mined in Manitoba, a very considerable saving in freight rates might be affected. Limestones sufficiently pure for this purpose outcrop at various points on Lake Manitoba, and the necessary clay or shale is available conveniently near at hand. The calcareous Niobrara shales provide a suitable material for a natural cement, and future investigations in this direction may result in considerable increased activity.

Valuable gypsum deposits are mined in the vicinity of Lake St. Martin, and in the country between Lake Manitoba and Lake Winnipeg other beds may yet be found. Borings have shown the existing depths from the surface. A pure friable sandstone at the base of the sedimentary strata of the Province will provide a good material for a future glass industry.

Fertilizer Obtainable

A good phosphatic scale which is found in the western part of the Province will come into requisition as a fertilizer when the soil begins to show signs of exhaustion. Limestones are already a valuable asset, not only from the point of view of building stone, but as lime and rubble producers. Extensive northern areas of limestone are awaiting development, and for the furtherance of the "Good Roads" movement not only the limestones, but also the available sand and gravel ridges will be utilized. With regard to fuel, the value of peat is being more and more emphasized in Canada and elsewhere; and Manitoba has her fair share of this commodity. Of lignites, Turtle Mountain contains on a rough estimate 160 million tons; and the formations in which lie the Lethbridge lignites extend into Western Manitoba, and deep borings may yet repay the expense they entail.

NOT HARD TO TELL FORTUNES

Little Need for Soothsayer to Be Fitted With Much More Than Ordinary Intelligence.

The way to tell people's fortunes is to have one list of characteristics, and use it for every one without the slightest variation. It is bound to succeed. For instance, suppose Falstaff and Hamlet had their fortunes told by the same sothsayer. I imagine he would have told Hamlet's character as follows:

"You are not as fortunate as you seem. You have a great deal of sense, but more sense than knowledge. You can give admirable advice to other people. Your judgment is excellent as regards others, but bad as regards yourself. You never value your own good advice. You are fond of your friends. You prefer to talk to action. You suffer from indecision. You are fond of the stage. You are susceptible to female beauty. You are witty, amiable and well educated, but you like coarse jokes. You are superstitious and believe in ghosts. You can make people laugh. You often pretend to be more foolish than you are. At other times you will surprise people by your power of apt repartee. Your bane will be your inclination to fat, which will hamper you in fighting. You are unsuccessful as a soldier, but unrivaled as a companion and philosopher. You will mix in high society, have friends at court. You will come off badly in personal encounter and your final enemy will be a king."

Now imagine him saying exactly the same thing to Falstaff. Doesn't it fit him "just as well? Can't you imagine Falstaff saying: "He has hit me off to a T;" and Hamlet murmuring: "My prophetic soul!" In fact, I believe fortune telling after that of medicine, to be the finest profesion in the world, and the easiest.—Metropolitan.

NERVY CUSTOMERS

Those Who Use Articles and Then "Take Them Back"

The millinery buyer had ordered several model hats from Paris, which were offered for sale at $300 each. One of the best customers of the store ordered two of these hats charged to her account and sent home. The buyer of this department was at dinner that night at the Hotel St. Regis. He saw the lady at a distant table wearing one of the hats. Next day both hats were returned to him. The buyer made an attempt to get the lady on the telephone. After importuning her several times she called in reference to the matter. He told her frankly that he could not take the hats back, as they had been worn. She denied it and appealed to the head of the house. The proprietor requested the buyers to take the hats back as a matter of policy. The buyer became furious and informed the owner of the store that unless the hats were taken and paid for he would resign. The proprietor told him to send the hats to the head office and he would do what was necessary. The buyer received a cheque next day for $300. It was signed by the proprietor of the store.

A lady called upon one of the leading Baltimore houses and requested that an evening wrap be sent to her home for approval. One of the selling staff of the store happened to see the lady at the theatre that night, wearing the wrap. To the surprise of the department it was returned to the store the next morning. The lady was requested to call at the store, which she did. She stoutly denied having worn the wrap. Many places showed where she had sat or leaned against it. She still persisted in her denial.

The firm decided to take the wrap back in obedience to the unwritten law of "policy." As the customer was leaving the store one of the young saleladies rushed toward her and said: "Madam, you have forgotten these," handing her a pair of gloves and a handkerchief that were taken from the pocket of the wrap.

A prominent pin-ticket house has devised a ticket which is fastened like an ordinary price tage to any prominent part of the merchandise, and cannot be removed without being mutilated.

By the adoption of this pin-ticket scheme a large department store reported that within one month its percentage of returns decreased by fully 50 per cent.

Oldest City in World

The great archæological authority Sir William Ramsay, considers the oldest city in the world to be the city of Iconium, or Konia, in Asia Minor. The traditions of the place go back even beyond the flood to the time of King Nannakos, who was told by the oracle that when he died there should come a mighty deluge in which all men should perish.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The second anniversary of Canada's refusal to become an adjunct of the United States is rapidly approaching.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in favor of harmony, but he wants it distinctly understood that he must be the band director.

One hundred years ago a little body of British regulars were instrumental in saving Canada at the battle of Chrysler's Farm. But the Laurierites will tell you that we owe nothing to England.

Saskatchewan is the only place in the Empire where a man who is not a British subject is permitted to exercise the franchise. The reason that this is not allowed anywhere else is that there are no other Scott governments.

The Globe says that picnic parties at night in the cemeteries is the latest fad in some cities by society women. Probably the idea was suggested by the fact that dead men tell no tales.

STARVING TURKEY

The process of starving Turkey into submission has been begun by the European powers. They gave ample warning of their intention to see that financial support should be withheld from the Turkish government until it called its troops back within the Enos-Midia frontier. The first punitive measure named by the president of the ambassadorial conference, in stating the results of its deliberations, was "financial distress." The Turkish ministers laughed. They thought it an empty threat. When had Turkey ever failed to get money when she asked for it? The European nations had always been eager to lend whenever she wanted. Was it not the policy of their governments to support Turkey? It was. But it is not so now in every case. And that is just what the Turks are beginning to be taught.

The British government, for one, has ceased to be a prop of Turkish sovereignty, and is apparently is as willing as Russia that the Turks should be banished from Europe at the earliest convenient opportunity. This is a remarkable departure from traditional policy, but there is no mistaking the meaning of the British foreign secretary's statement that the duty of the empire to its Mohammedan power. So Britain is with the European nations in refusing to let Turkey have any further loan while she persists in a breach of the London treaty.

There is dismay at Constantinople. Bulgaria may send representatives to talk over various questions, but the last word will be with the powers, and its nature is foreshadowed by their denial of Turkey's first need. It is money that is needed—money to meet the enormous expense of maintaining an army of 300,000 men on a war footing in Thrace, money to cover the loss in Asia Minor caused by the enforced absence of so many of the working population, and money to pay the three-months-overdue salaries of the officials in Constantinople and elsewhere. Why does it not come from France? Javid Bey was sent there to get it. But he tells his government that the negotiations with the French government for financial support have failed. No loan can be had, owing to Russian pressure, he says. It is more than that: It is the pressure of the powers, carrying their announced policy into effect. Were Turkey wise she would yield to it quickly and not wait for the worse alternative.

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

NO LONGER ANY NEED TO BE PALE, WEAK OR ANAEMIC.

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

MAY STOP USE OF WOODEN CARS ON UNITED STATES RAILROADS

Something Besides Publicity Likely to Result From Recent Wreck on the New Haven

Washington, Sept. 4.—Evidence became stronger to-day that the Wallingford wreck on the New Haven will result in legislation for the protection of passengers of the railroads of the United States.

"This slaughter by the railroads must stop, and we are going to see that something comes out of this wreck besides publicity," was the comment of Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, who has charge of the enquiry into the New Haven disaster.

As one of the first steps in this general enquiry the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day called on the Pullman Company to submit a statement showing the number of cars of wooden and steel construction in its entire service.

In speaking of what may be done to safeguard the life of passengers as a result of this wreck, Commissioner McChord said:—

"We will before this is ended investigate the entire question of comparative cost of steel and wooden cars their respective lives in their service, the capacity of the country's manufacturers to turn them out and other details. I understand that the cost of the steel car is about one-third more than that of a wooden car of like capacity, but we have no detailed data.

"Neither do we know how long cars of each type will last, or which is the cheaper in the long run. My understanding is that the steel cars have not been in vogue long enough to give an accurate answer to the question of their lifetime of service. On the New Haven, though, we have found cars of wooden construction that have been in use since 1862."

SPLENDID WORK OF FORESTERS

Description Of Their Fine Premises at Toronto Exhibition

One of the most fascinating spots in Society Row, if not in the whole Exhibition Grounds, is the large striped tent of the Independent Order of Foresters overlooking the waters of Lake Ontario. It is surrounded by shrubs and foliage on the outside, while its interior is even more inviting. The floor is richly carpeted, and scattered around are plenty of easy chairs for the comfort of tired visitors. Flowers and palms add to the restful appearance of the tent.

The tent has been the scene of many reunions, and has been visited since the Fair opened by over a thousand Foresters from all over Canada and the United States, according to the names on the register. Mr. George A. Mitchell, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger, assisted by other obliging and courteous officials, is in charge, and information with regard to the Order and the splendid work it is carrying on may be obtained at a moment's notice. It is interesting to listen to the conversation carried on among the visitors, for real, true stories of a work that is building good men out of raw, fatherless boys are often related. There is knowledge to be gained which will appeal to all Foresters, as well as to those who are not already members of fraternal societies. At present the Order, which was founded 38 years ago, has a membership of 250,000, and its branches are to be found in Great Britain, Canada and the United States. The triennial meeting of the Supreme and High Courts, held in Toronto last week, revealed the fact that the increase in membership during the past year was 29,000, while the number added last month totalled 2,180. These facts are a striking manifestation of the increasing interest in the Foresters. The growth of the Order in Canada is in a large measure due to the untiring efforts of Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger Mitchell. An indication of the faith reposed in the I.O.F. was given last week, when the Supreme Chief Ranger, Hon. Elliott G. Stevenson, made a gift of $100,000 to erect and maintain a home for aged Foresters, and at his death a further sum of $100,000 will be given towards the maintenance of the institution. The meeting also demonstrated the fact that the Order is in a splendid financial position, and funds are guaranteed in a manner to suit the most exacting people. Benefits range from $500 to $5,000, and $5 a week is paid in case of sickness. The permanent disability fund provides that 70 per cent. of the amount shall be paid in case of permanent disability, and when a member reaches the age of 70 years a similar amount is paid. It is a notable fact that during the past year this organization has paid out in disability benefits a total of $108,218.60. To beneficiaries it paid no less than $2,400,311.60 in 1912, while the total sum disbursed for old-age benefits in the past twelve months was $552,596.76.

One of the important branches of the Foresters' work is their sanitaria. One of these is located on Rainbow Lake, in one of the most beautiful parts of the Adirondack Mountains. At present there are 53 patients received treatment there That the place is doing splendid work is borne out by the large number of invalids who have returned to their homes completely cured. The treatment is given to members free of cost and every comfort is afforded the patient. None of the expense is deducted from his sick benefits which he is entitled to receive during the time of his affliction. The Order also has an orphanage at Oakville, where 50 children are being cared for. The total number looked after now reaches 800. It is missionary work such as this that begets the enthusiasm these Foresters display. Mr. Mitchell and his associates extend a hearty invitation to every Forester to visit the I.O.F. tent and those in charge will answer any questions regarding the working of the institution.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. JOHN KELLY

Large Concourse of People Assemble to Pay Their Last Tribute of Respect.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Kelly who was killed in the Turnbull disaster, seemed to have drawn people from every part of the country to pay their last respects to the memory of the deceased lady.

The funeral was held on Sunday morning, and was over a mile long, says The Norwood Register. Some state that it was nearly two miles It was the largest funeral ever seen in Dummer, and possibly in the country.

The only son absent was Charles, who is in Michigan, and it was a pathetic sight to see the coffin borne by the other six sons, whose last duty towards their mother was to bear her remains to their last resting place. The funeral was held to the Catholic cemetery, and Rev. Father Kelly preached an eloquent sermon, in which he referred to the deceased lady as a member of the congregation, of the community and as a member of her family. All her duties had been faithfully fulfilled, and not only was the family bereaved but her death was a distinct loss to the congregation and to the whole community. Father Kelly spoke of a man's away in the world, and how it has extended to the control of the various elements, but over death man has no dominion. He pointed out the necessity of always being prepared for the call before God, and stated that Mrs. Kelly had passed away fully prepared to depart this life. This fact should be some consolation to the bereaved husband and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and family constituted one of the most highly respected families in the county, and their friends came many miles to pay their respects. There were people from Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Lakefield, Peterborough, and other centres, and a host of farmers from the surrounding townships. The funeral will long be remembered by those who had places in the lengthy line of buggies.

The utmost sympathy is extended to the family in their great loss.

The deceased lady was 51 years of age, and was married 28 years. She is survived by her husband and seven sons. Her death is the first break in the family. The sons are Charles of Frederick, Mich.; Hugh, at home; Henry Joseph, of the Orillia Branch of the Union Bank, and formerly on the staff of the Norwood Branch; Patrick Oliver, at home; Thomas Vincent and Francis, also at home.

LAST OF BONNOT'S GANG

Loaded Revolvers Taken From Under Pillow of Sleeping Bandit

The French police quite unexpectedly captured the last of the notorious Bonnot-Garnier gang of motor bandits who over a year ago terrorized Paris.

Investigation had been made into a burglary, and the police got on the track of the receiver of the booty. He lived in the Montmartre district, and the officers were warned that he was an Anarchist, and would surely be armed.

They, therefore, waited until they judged he was asleep. Then a locksmith opened the door noiselessly, and they were able to creep up to the man's bedside and remove two loaded revolvers from his pillow before they awakened and arrested him.

He was absolutely stupified when, at the sight of the police, he reached for his firearms, and found them gone; but not more staggered than were the police themselves, when, under a false name and an appearance completely changed by dyed hair and moustache, they found the suspected receiver was none other than a prominent member of the Bonnot-Garnier gang named Noury, for whom they had been searching for months. Arms and ammunition were found under his bed.

Cornwall, Sept. 4. — P. L. Lally, chairman of the Board of Trustees for the Mann Cup, failing to get a reply from the holders of the cup, the Vancouver Amateur Athletic Association, in connection with the various challeges for this trophy, took matters in his own hands and set dates for three series of games as follows—

DATES NAMED.

Armstrong, B.C., September 6 and 10, the Young Conservatives of Winnipeg, September 13 and 17, or 17 and 20, whichever suits the holders, and against the Oak Bay team of Victoria, winners of the Vancouver Island Amateur Lacrosse Association championship, September 24 and 27.

ATHLETICS.

New York, Sept. 4.—A special to the American from London says:—Greatly to the chagrin of the Duke of Westminster, Lords Rothschild and Roberts and the remaining "princely beggars," the appeal for half a million dollars to insure British supremacy at the Berlin Olympic games in 1916 has failed hopelessly; less than $40,000 has been subscribed.

The committee, completely flabbergasted at the utter failure, nas now suddenly called a special meeting for to-morrow in the hope of devising further schemes to induce the public to enter. The chief reason for the national aloofness is that oobody really understands the reason, purpose or necessity of that appeal for such an enormous sum.

Gentlemen,—

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that I have suffered from rheumatism for the last nine years, and particularly for the last five. I have been unable to stand, walk, or in fact, help myself in any way, my knees and elbows swollen, drawn and stiff; could not bend them in any way; I tried everything, went to the Banff Spring three months in 1905, twice to Hot Springs, Arkansas, two months in 1907, four months in 1908 done me no good. I heard of SANOL last September and have been taking it ever since, and I am glad to say the swelling is about all gone. I am going around the house on crutches, also my joints are loosening and straightening, and I fully expect that SANOL will cure me.

I believe SANOL will cure rheumatism, for my case is a hard one, and in fact has been pronounced incurable and if I improve for the next three months as I have for the last three I will be walking in good shape.

I remain,
Yours truly,
John J. Lane.

P.S.—You can show this letter to anyone you feel like, and send them to me as I can tell them better than I can write it.

LONGEVITY IN MEXICO

A Peon 125 Years Old Working in Field—Indian of 127

It is an interesting fact that the most remarkable instances of longevity among the inhabitants of the New World are chronicled of the aborigines. This holds good both of North and South America. Especially great are the ages attained by Indians dwelling in the highland tropics, a fact noted by the observant Baron von Humboldt and by scores of other travelers and explorers.

About two decades ago General William Palmer of the famous Palmer-Sullivan combination who built the national railroad from Laredo to this capital, discovered in the State of Vera Cruz an Indian peon working in the field, who gave his age as 125 years. Some years ago President Diaz during a visit to the State of Jalisco encountered a veteran of the War of Independence, a man of Indian blood, who fought under the patriot Morelos, and was at the time when General Diaz met him 127 years old. He had much to tell the President of those early campaigns.—Mexican Herald.

ROADSIDE ADVERTISING

France Takes Steps to Abate the Sign Board Nuisance

The roadside advertising nuisance, which has afflicted most European countries, appears likely to become unknown in France. A bill has been brought before Parliament under which roadside posters will be taxed so heavily that even the most successful business firms will be unable to indulge in the luxury of spoiling the landscape. A hoarding having an area of about twenty square yards will be taxed to the extent of $6,640 per annum. The tax on even a small hoarding is heavy, and the rate increases as the hoarding grows in dimensions. So far as the towns are concerned, there will be no charge whatever; but, in view of the high taxes to be applied, it is difficult to believe that any business firm will continue to make use of the countryside for announcing its wares to the public.

CALLED TO ARMS IN DEAD OF NIGHT

Wide Awake French Policeman in Little Village Almost Started a European War

If Brigadier Bilon had won back Alsace and Lorraine he could not have placed himself more squarely in the public eye than he did on account of his hurried mobilization of the French troops. This act nearly precipitated a full-fledged European war and sent the Bourses down ten points.

And yet the much-talked-of Brigadier is but an ordinary country policeman who is sergeant of the police of Arricourt, in the district of Luneville, which is situated in that part of the lost Province of Lorraine still belonging to France. Arricourt is only a small town of a few hundred inhabitants. Active, athletic, alert, Bilon owes his temporary fame to the error of a telegraph operator. The War Department sent out telegrams to different centres ordering the troops to go through the exercises of mobilization. These are, of course, as different from actual mobilization as military manœuvres are from real war. But as the air was filled with war and rumors of war, M. Defaut, the operator who received the telegraph at Arricourt, easily concluded that the telegram was an order for actual mobilization. He lost no time in communicating a very formal order to Brigadier Bilon, with the result that the latter became the most famous man in France.

He Moved Quickly

Brigadier Bilon did not stop to reason whether or not some one had blundered. Although it was half-past twelve at night when the order to mobilize reached him he immediately sent notice to the ten little communes under his jurisdiction. Drums began to beat and bands began to play. Women and children got out of bed to help their husbands, fathers, brothers, and sweethearts to get ready to go to the front. The order of Brigadier Bilon was being executed to the very letter and within a few hours the men were all on their way to join their respective garrisons.

The garrisons at Luneville, Saint Nicholas, Nancy, and Toul could scarcely believe their eyes when they saw men arriving on bicycles, in wagons, and on foot during the small hours of the morning. Brigadier Bilon was questioned by the officers but there was the order clear and unmistakable and he was bound to obey it.

But a counter-order came. Then Brigadier Bilon was similarly prompt. He hastened to stop all he could. The original order had been so promptly obeyed, to the great delight of the police officer, that there were not many to be turned back. Of course, there was much emotion caused by the mistake. But it soon disappeared in view of the rapid response of the Lorraine population to the call of the country.

What Error Showed

French military men say that the error was a happy one, for it proved that the spirit of the people is strong and that patriotism is on the quivive in France. It is claimed that the promptness shown by the people of this remote corner of Lorraine would likewise be visible all over France, should occasion require.

Another curious effect of Brigadier Bilon's promptness was that in the neighboring German villages there was a run on the local banks. The peasants rushed to get their money to hide it away. It is stated that in the industrial locality of Warmsdorf in Germany the brigadier's order caused a loss of two million marks.

Evening Gown of Grecian Design

If you are a tall and slender girl and can wear your hair with a Greek fillet, an evening dress along Greek lines will be especially charming.

The model shown here is wearing this kind of a costume, simply a long breadth of pale blue embroidered chiffon gathered about the waist and bound below the hips with a silver cord. The bodice is cut all in one piece and trimmed with silver cords. With this is worn silver slippers and a silver fillet about the waist.

HER QUEENLY STYLE

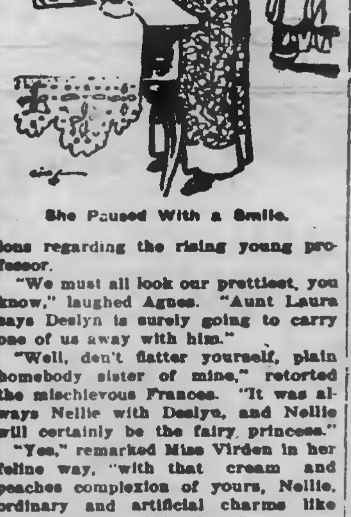
Cream and Peaches Complexion Temporarily Wrecked by Use of Beauty Mask.

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR.

Mrs. Laura Peaslee sat in a comfortable rocking chair in the broad, airy hallway of her home, listening idly to the gay chatter and laughter of a group of merry girls. There were four of them—Nellie Day, her niece; two cousins, Agnes and Frances Wood, and Blanche Virden, the latter a visitor of the Wood girls, whose home adjoined that of Mrs. Peaslee.

Except for the loss of her husband, life had been very pleasant to the wealthy widow. She had an ample fortune and many valued friends, and in adopting her favorite niece she had added a new joy to existence. Her heart warmed as she listened to the pretty prattle of Nellie and her companions. A token of interest was added as she thought of another favorite—Deslyn Moore. He, too, was an orphan, and his mother had been the closest schoolgirl friend of Mrs. Peaslee. The latter had felt bound to interest herself in the lonely boy, and she had given him a good college education. Now she was very proud of the progress he was making as a chemist in a near-by city. Every summer Deslyn spent two weeks at the Peaslee home. He was expected to make his annual visit during the present week.

It was concerning him that the bright quartette of young ladies were making so much noise. They all knew Deslyn except Miss Virden. Even her dark Spanish-like face had glowed, however, with interest at a sight of his photograph, treasured by Nellie. Deslyn had good prospects. He was not engaged. Mrs. Peaslee had hinted that he must soon choose a bride. Miss Virden was "in the market," and she listened with interest to the enthusiastic comments of her companions regarding the rising young professor.



She Paused With a Smile.

"We must all look our prettiest, you know," laughed Agnes. "Aunt Laura says Deslyn is surely going to carry one of us away with him."

"Well, don't flatter yourself, plain homebody sister of mine," retorted the mischievous Frances. "It was always Nellie with Deslyn, and Nellie will certainly be the fairy princess."

"Yes," remarked Miss Virden in her feline way, "with that cream and peaches complexion of yours, Nellie, ordinary and artificial charms like ours will stand little show."

"Artificial!" bridled the circumspect Agnes.

"Oh, on that score the reference was exclusively to myself, dear," explained Blanche. "I confess to the guilt of a make-up, girls. Come, Nellie, you were so kind as to invite me to visit with you overnight, and I brought my toilette case with me. I hardly thought you would be interested, but I look so dreadful when I get up in the morning that I didn't want to terrify you with my wrinkles of care and cross face lines."

Blanche affected to speak playfully, but there was a bitter undertone to it all. She envied the strong, healthy, natural girl, whose bright eyes and glowing cheeks told of sunshine, pure air, a quiet home life and—love.

They had a great time of it as Blanche opened the toilette case. She showed them how she brought the cherry red to her lips, the artistic curve to her lashes, how she brightened her eyes, and pinked her ears, and changed a wrinkle into a dimple. In her dusky beauty she was really radiant, despite the superficial effect. Then she said:

"And at night, dears—you see this muslin cloth. It is a beauty mask. Now look—I saturate it from the green bottle, I lay it over my face, and in the morning when I take it off the skin is clear and smooth as a baby's."

All these maneuvers Blanche went through again that evening when she and Nellie retired. The next morning a hurry call came from Agnes, an unexpected invitation to a picnic. Blanche had to flit early. She left her toilette case behind her. Nellie did not go. Deslyn was expected on the afternoon train.

Mrs. Peaslee had gone to town to secure some household supplies. Nellie arranged her hair and selected her best dress to welcome the expected guest. She paused with a smile as she observed the open toilette case. Then she looked into the mirror.

"Cream and peaches, Blanche said," she murmured. "Perhaps I am so much so I look like a milkmaid. Certainly Blanche has a queenly style all her own. Suppose I take my nap in a beauty mask. Why, I'll try it just for fun."

Poor little wild-rose Nellie! She laughed as she saturated the piece of muslin from a green bottle. Then she settled down to a nap, the beauty mask over her face. Two hours later, just as Mrs. Peaslee entered the house, she was startled by a frantic scream. She rushed up the stairs. There was Nellie, staring into the mirror. Her beautiful face was raw blotches.

It took some time for Nellie to explain. She doubted not that she had destroyed her beauty. A doctor was hastily sent for. He ordered a dressing, examined the toilette case, and discovered that Nellie had used a strong acid used for burning away proud flesh instead of the harmless beauty preparation. He told Nellie that the flesh would have to peel off before those scars would disappear.

That afternoon there came a telegram stating that Deslyn was delayed till the next day. A slight accident detained him, the message said.

Miss Virden smiled softly to herself when she heard of Nellie's mishap. Perhaps she was sorry for Nellie, but that night she used the helpful toilette case to the full limit.

Nellie told her aunt she simply would not meet Deslyn. She mourned her lost beauty. She sat in her own room that afternoon as the carriage arrived. To her surprise her aunt appeared leading Deslyn, who had a bandage across his eyes.

"You can come down, Nellie, dear," announced her aunt, appearing in her room. "Poor Deslyn! While experimenting in his laboratory a chemical exploded, nearly blinding him. The doctor says his eyes must be kept continually bandaged and he must have careful nursing."

Two weeks later Nellie's disfigurement had totally disappeared. A few days later the happy Deslyn was allowed to use his eyes. He viewed his radiant fiancee tenderly. She told him all about her mishap, and her tears and misery over it.

"'Cream and peaches,'" quoted the ardent lover. "Yes, Nellie, and roses and lilies, and all things that are pretty and sweet—that's you!"

Nellie had learned her lesson. At the wedding she did not use even the lightest touch of face powder!

DULUTH'S MANY ODD POINTS

Enterprising and Busy City Has Been Called the Queerest in the United States.

The queerest city in America is believed by many persons to be Duluth, guardian of the great port at the head of Lake Superior. Some one has described it as 20 miles long, a mile wide and half a mile high, which fits the place very nicely. All about one side the hills come down almost to the shores of Lake Superior, that great unsalted sea. Right on the edge of each stretches the Zenith city, made famous by Proctor Knott's speech.

Duluth is the greatest outdoor [illegible] in the world. One can catch trout, shoot bear, moose and deer within its limits. One fall recently, after a forest fire, 30 black bears were killed within its boundaries. In the winter the girls and boys enjoy themselves in Duluth by traveling about on skis. They go 10 or 15 miles into the country and then ski back home, and winter campfire parties are as common there as bridge whist parties are in the east.

Duluth is boastful. It has the biggest boat club and the second biggest wholesale house in America. Its business is immense. This season it has handled 50,000,000 tons of ore and 100,000,000 bushels of grain. Its harbor is a wonder. There is a natural breakwater that is like a darning needle, for it is seven miles long and only a few hundred yards wide. It is made of the sand and silt brought down and piled up by the waters of St. Louis river. Within this breakwater the shipping is done.—Philadelphia Grit.

Her Sense of Smell.

"Is yo' bilin' potaters, Mis' Green?" asked Rose Matilda, coming down from the roof with a basketful of dry clothes.

"Yes," said Mrs. Green. "How did you know?"

"Oh, I'se got a mighty sharp smell," replied Rose Matilda, "an' no one cayn't cook notin' 'round me dat I don't know 'bout. W'y, de od'er night w'en I went to church I ast Mis' Johnsin', mah nex' neighbor, to come an' stay wif de baby w'ile I'se gone. Mis' Johnsin, she one o' dem folks dat ain't awful partic'lar 'bout wot's hers an' wot's mine, Mis' Green. Well, w'en I'se comin' home I felt like in eve' bone in mah body dat Mis' Johnsin she cook a suppe' fo' herself wif mah 'gredients w'ile I's 'way. And sho' 'nuff, w'en I come in, I knowed she'd eat up all mah fresh aigs, 'cos I jes' could smell de ode' o' bilin' aigs befo' I so much as open mah do'!"—New York Press.

The Reason.

"That boy used to be the worst boy in school and now he's the star pupil."

"How did they make him so?"

"They took out his asteroids."

"THE DEVIL'S HORSE"

Just off the main road from London to Cambridge, between Ware and Puckeridge, is a straggling hamlet called Standon Green End. Here in the middle of a meadow, says "Cycling," stands a remarkable monument, known as the Balloon Stone. Under a hinged metal flap is a bronze plate bearing an inscription chronicling the first balloon ascent. Lunardi's ascent created a tremendous sensation, all London turning out to witness his departure into the upper atmosphere. His sole companions were a dog, a cat, and a pigeon. When he was nearing the earth in the field where the Balloon Stone stands, five laborers declined to take hold of his mooring ropes, and swearing they would have nothing to do with the "devil's horse," took to their heels. But for the plucky conduct of a young servant girl from an adjoining farm-house, who seized the rope and summoned assistance, the pioneer balloonist would not have effected a landing.

FOSSILS AND GOLD

In Alaska the bones, and often the entire bodies, of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer, and the bison, are found most abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferous deposits that one scientist, who has just been exploring Alaska, says [illegible] as indexes of the mineral richness of the soil. In ancient times both the gold and [illegible] the bodies of the animals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared. Consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood.

ECONOMY IN FOOD

French and Germans Models of Thrift in Kitchen

Much that we treat as refuse, which actually comes under the head of waste, the French and Germans utilize and the time has come to follow their example and learn to make delicious soups and stews and ragouts from food we have heretofore thrown away or poorly used. The pods of peas make excellent pea soup. The outside leaves of celery, cabbage, and lettuce should not be thrown away, but, utilised for soups, stews, or creamed and served as vegetables. Every single food material seen on the market, or purchased and brought into the house, should be studied for its possibilities and these used to the utmost. But this cannot be done unless you know the value of different foods.

This means that you will learn what to substitute when any one article so increases in price as to become a luxury to you. When potatoes are too high you will substitute rice and macaroni. When fresh vegetables begin to tempt you, you will remember that you are paying purely for flavor and not for nutrition when they are too high and too new. The trouble is that we have forced seasons until we do not now properly distinguish if the food is in season or not. If we could and would return to the old-fashioned way of not using fruits and vegetables, such as strawberries and peas until they were ripening within some few miles of our own neighborhood we would gain in pocketbook. It is not good sense or economy to pay too high a price for such luxuries, but you must be the judge of the time when any single food is properly within reach of your purse or your demands.

The second item of waste, and one emphasized by every man or woman studying present conditions, is the tendency to buy in too small quantities. This is made necessary in the city by lack of storage room, but the custom has spread into places where no such limitation exists. Those living in small quarters may be able to study out adjustments of space which will accommodate many more original packages, in place of the day to day purchase which actually costs just twice as much.

So the adjustments required for meeting the increased price of food materials may be summed up in learning how to purchase and use food. First and formost is a close study of food values. Then a learning how to market with intelligence and forethought.

ASTRONOMY TALK

Prof. Warren Gives Popular Lecture at People's Forum

Many beautiful views of stellar nebulae were shown at the People's Forum, Winnipeg, in the course of a popular illustrated lecture on astronomy by Professor Lloyd Warren of Manitoba University. The lecturer also showed many interesting views of comets, planets, shooting stars and of the sun and moon. Professor Warren suggested that one reason why former generations had found out so much about astronomy was because of the purer atmosphere prevailing before the era of cities and smoke. The ancients had studied the groupings of stars in the sun's path and had given the different clusters fanciful names of animals, birds, reptiles and fishes. This cancigul path they had called the zodiac and they had told the different seasons from the passage of the sun through the different groups. An interesting point about the fanciful figures of the zodiac was the fact that from them it had been possible to discover the country where astronomical study had had its birth. It had been found that the series of animals represented by the signs of the zodiac had only existed in Asia Minor. So far away were the fixed stars, said Professor Warren, that the only possible comparison of them was by the light they emitted. The 20 brightest stars in the heavens were called stars of the first magnitude. These stars were two and a half times as bright as the stars of the second magnitude and the latter, in turn, two and a half times as bright as the stars of third magnitude and so on for the less brilliant stars. The most powerful telescope in existence had never been able to reveal any star as more than a point of light. No disc had ever been seen. The distance of the stars was measured in light years, that was to say the number of years it took for the light of a star to reach the earth. But although light travelled at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, no star was nearer to the earth than three years. The discs, however, of all the planets could be seen as well as the stellites stars. Meteors traveled through the earth's atmosphere at the rate of 40 miles a second, usually burning to ashes as they sped.

TEACH BOYS CARE OF CLOTHES

To keep the coats and other wear from wrinkling, be sure to have plenty of hangers, which may be had very cheaply, two for 5 cents, at many stores; but it pays to get good ones. To remove the dust, keep a small cane or rattan beater, and whip them thoroughly; then lay the garment out smoothly on a table and with a hard bristle brush for mud spots, and a soft brush for ordinary use, go over the garment thoroughly until all mud and dust is removed. If the garment could be hung in the hot sun for a few hours before doing this, it would make the cleaning easier. Begin at the top of the garment and brush down.

If the elbows and knees of the trousers are baggy, and out of shape, lay a damp cloth on them and fold them up for an hour or two; then lay them on the ironing board, or slip a board used for the purpose inside, smoothe with the palm of the hand, until they lie flat; cover with a cloth and press with a hot iron until dry. Do not iron the garment, but press it; there is a difference. If the collars and elbows are shiny, sponge with a damp cloth and press until dry. If boys were taught to care for their clothes while at home, instead of leaving it for mother or sister, they would find the expense of looking well dressed much lessened when they are thrown on their own resources away from home.

Kites vs. Balloons

WHY WOLSELEY WENT TO THE RED RIVER

An Incident in Canadian History Which it is Interesting to Recall

To understand the conditions which made it necessary for the late Field Marshal the Viscount Wolseley to go to the Red River at the head of a military expedition in 1870, one must go back to the early days of Confederation.

At the first Parliament of the Dominion of Canada (1867) attention was directed towards the extension of the Dominion westward to the shores of the Pacific Ocean, and steps were taken to secure the transfer from the Hudson's Bay Company to Canada of Rupert's Land and the North-west Territory.

An address to Her Majesty Queen Victoria was adopted requesting that an Imperial Order-in-Council might be passed (pursuant to the B.N.A. Act) annexing these vast territories to the Dominion of Canada. But the Imperial Government decided that the Company must first be bought out. For this purpose the Hon. George E. Cartier and the Hon. Wm. Macdougall visited England in 1868. Early in 1869 the bargain was completed, the sum of $1,500,000 being agreed upon as the purchase price. By the terms of the bargain, the Company was to retain the land round the various trading posts, and, in addition, two sections in every township—a total reservation of one-twentieth of the entire region. For this cash payment and large land monopoly the Company agreed to give up its trade monopoly and all its claims to government. Canada at once made preparations for the government of the new territory. A Lieutenant-Governor and a small Council were appointed to administer its affairs until a more permanent form of government could be arranged. The Hon. Wm. Macdougall was selected to fill the position of Lieutenant-Governor, and in the autumn of 1869 he started for Fort Garry, intending to enter upon his duties on Dec. 1. On Oct. 30, he reached Pembina.

A Startling Surprise

There a startling surprise waited him. A half-breed served upon him a notice, which had been drawn up by Louis Riel, forbidding his entry into the territory. This notice was the result of the failure of the officials of the Hudson's Bay Company resident in England to consult the officials (factors and traders) resident in Canada. Some time before this the Company had been re-organized and the officials resident in Canada had been made, in a sense, partners in the concern. Their incomes depended on the amount of business done. When the bargain was made in London for the transfer of the Company's property in Canada to the Canadian Government, they were not consulted. They were to receive no part of the purchase money, and the giving up of the Company's monopoly meant, of course, a serious loss to them. The settlers, too, thought that Canada should have consulted them in reference to the nature of the government to be established in the colony; and that, in particular, the claims of the half-breeds, both French and English, to the lands over which they hunted, should have been settled before the transfer took place.

The half-breeds, therefore, becoming alarmed about the title to their lands, formed a "council" to insist upon their rights. It was this Council that approved of the notice served upon the Hon. Wm. Macdougall. This nottice was disregarded by Macdougall who advanced to the Hudson's Bay Company's post within the Territory.

A band of mounted half-breeds appeared and made such a demonstration that Macdougall thought it prudent to go back to Pembina. On Nov. 2 a party under Riel took possession, without resistance, of Fort Garry. On Dec. 1 a "provisional government" was formed, of which Riel shortly afterwards became president. Then followed the refusal of the Canadian Government to pay over the £300,000 to the Hudson's Bay Company until order had been restored, the return of Macdougall to Ottawa, the attempt of Vicar-General Thibault, Col. de Salaberry and Donald A. Smith (now Lord Strathcona) to restore amity and concord, the convening of another convention and the drawing up of a "Bill of Rights," the Kildonan uprising, the threat of Riel to shoot Major Boulton, and the murder of Thmas Scott, against whom, it is said, Riel had a personal grudge.

Aroused Indignation

In Canada (that is, in the original four Provinces) the news of this cold-blooded murder caused the greatest indignation and excitement, and preparations for a military expedition to the Red River were pushed rapidly forward. In the summer of 1870 a force of about 1,400 (of whom less than 400 were British regulars) under the command of Colonel Wolseley, proceeded to the Kaministiquia River on Lake Superior. Thence, by a long and fatiguing journey, partly by canoe and partly on foot, the soldiers proceeded over the height of land to the shores of Lake Winnipeg. Ascending the Red River, they reached Fort Garry toward the end of August. No amnesty had been proclaimed, and for a time threats had been made that resistance would be offered to the advancing troops by the French half-breeds. No steps, however, were taken to carry out these threats, and, on Wolseley's approach, Riel and his lieutenants, Lepine and O'Donohue, fled to the United States. Days of peace and tranquility followed. Within a week after their arrival at Fort Garry the regular troops had been sent back to Quebec. The militia battalions, however, spent the winter in the Province and many of the soldiers afterwards became settlers. The early days of 1871 saw the Province of Manitoba fairly launched on her career.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

DEFIES GRAVITATION

French Inventor Makes Metal Float in Air—Car Without Wheels

Emile Bachelet, a Frenchman, living in obscurity and for a long time near to poverty, but for 20 years a patient, though unschooled delver into the hidden mysteries of electric forces, demonstrated to the wonderment of the scientific world an invention which actually defies the seemingly inflexible law of gravitation. Bachelet exhibited his wonderful device to a party of interested friends in his laboratory and the performance was weird. At the touch of a button they saw a 12 pound metal weight rising in mid-air, resting solidly on an invisible cushion of electric current. They placed their hands on this weight and pressed down. The weight wobbled and squirmed upward, like a hollow ball on water.

Bachelet made these experiments merely to demonstrate the new scientific principle which he adapted to a transportation device so wonderful as to make amagination reel. He explained that the principle is that of electro-magnetic repulsion, just the reverse of the well known electro-magnetic attraction. The boy with his horseshoe magnet knows that it will pick up a needle. Bachelet found an alternating electric current, or wave, that drives the needle away from the magnet—drives it into the air. Bachelet discovered that while the direct electric current strongly attracts metals, the alternating or interrupted current will repel metals, particularly aluminum and brass.

Weight held in mid-air by electric current.

Combining the attractive and repellent forces he constructed a 32-foot miniature railroad on which runs, at terrific speed a car which has no wheels, no motor, no brake, and which moves practically clear of all except atmospheric friction—floating like a ship in the ocean in an electro-magnetic field.

This car weighs 40 pounds and is constructed of aluminum and steel. It is suspended between three grooves, two below and one above. Brushes attached to the car run in the grooves, but there is practically no friction at these points of contact, and these brushes are merely to guide the car.

The car is levitated by alternating currents sent into the bottom grooves from magnetic coils placed at the base of the grooves. The 40-pound weight then rests on the electric cushion, held only in place by the brushes.

At intervals along the track are solenoids, large coil magnets, which loop over the railway, like small tunnels. When Bachelet turned his direct current into these solenoids the suspended car was instantly attracted and leaped toward the next solenoid like a projectile shot from a high-power gun. Bachelet reversed his current and the car sped backward.

The inventor says that it would be possible, though not practical, to run a train of cars 1,000 miles an hour over a railroad so constructed. He says that a train could be run, practically 300 miles an hour.

GORGEOUS CHORISTERS

There are ten boys in London who every Sunday and on state occasions wear suits of clothes that in each instance cost something like $200. The lads thus expensively and brilliantly attired are the choristers belonging to the King's private chapel in St. James' Palace. When arrayed in their state suits they are truly a gorgeous sight.

Scarlet cloth is the foundation of this costume. Bands of royal purple between rows of heavy gold lace are the adornments. Old lace ruffles are worn at the neck and wrists. These ruffles are so valuable and so difficult to replace that they are worn only on the most special occasions. At other times white lawn bands take their place. The boys must take great care of their suits, which must endure three years. The "undress" suits are replaced every eight months.

This choir is one of the historical institutions of Great Britain, and many of its old-time customs, including the dress of the boys, are retained to this day. The choir has numbered among its singers such distinguished musicians as Sir Arthur Sullivan, Edward Lloyd, Sir John Goss, and Dr. E. J. Hopkins.

It is the right of the head boy to demand a guinea as "spur money" from any officer entering the chapel wearing spurs. It is said that when Arthur Sullivan was head boy the Duke of Wellington would always come spurred to the chapel, in order that he might have the pleasure of paying the forfeit to his favorite chorister.

New Treatment Now Advocated For Bronchitis

Is Having Wonderful Success, and is Making Most Remarkable Cures

For bronchitis a different form of treatment is now advocated. It consists of a scientifically devised vapor that penetrates to the uttermost recesses of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Every spot that is sore, every surface that is irritated is at once bathed with soothing balsams and healing essences that make chronic bronchitis an impossibility.

This treatment now so universally employed in bronchitis, throat troubles, colds, etc., is called CATARRHOZONE. It acts just as air of the pine woods acts, as a healing antiseptic remedy for all diseases of the breathing organs.

Just think of it—a remedy that can be carried with the very air you breathe to the seat of bronchial or catarrhal inflammation. A remedy powerful enough to kill germ life and yet so healing that disease flees before it. Catarrhozone is truly a wonderful remedy. In many lands it has won its way, and is affording grand results to sufferers from colds, catarrh, throat weakness, asthma and bronchitis. There is no sufferer from a grippy cold or any winter ill, that won't find a cure in Catarrhozone, which is employed by physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months and costs $1.00 and is guaranteed; small size 50c., sample size, 25c., all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y. and Kingston, Canada.

Interfering With Water Flow.

The construction of a coffer dam at Fenelon Falls is said to be causing considerable trouble on account of holding back the water at that point and causing a lack of it below. Mr. J. H. It is said that the contractor, who is building the new dam at Fenelon Falls had no authority for tampering with the flow of the river.

Highly Honored By King Edward.

Six medals on the breast of a bandmaster is an unusual sight. Yet Mr. Charles Hassell, the conductor of the famous band of His Majesty's Irish Guards, wears six—five silver, one bronze. But one of the silver medals is a signal honor, since he alone possesses it. This is the Medal for Meritorious Service recommended to him by the late King Edward, and pinned on the breast of his tunic by Lord Roberts in the presence of the battalions of the Irish Guards. The thousands who heard the band of the Irish Guards at the Canadian National Exhibition readily understood why their conductor was so highly honored by King Edward. He has never had his equal as a maker of programmes which delight all the people, and the band of the Irish Guards attracted more visitors to the Exhibition concerts than any previous band. Their playing was distinguished by glorious tone, the most perfect phrasing and precision. They made music that was as thunder near or far off or that softly fell on the ear like whispering winds. Much of the popularity of the band was due to the brilliant soloists, Sergeant Hunt, cornetist, never has been equalled, and Sergeant Underhill, wizard of the piccolo made one think that the linnet thrush and nightingale were nearby in the trees, singing, trilling, and warbling for very scaracy. No finer band and soloists were ever heard in Canada.

HOW TO REMOVE HAIRS WITHOUT PAIN OR TROUBLE

(Aids to Beauty)

Here is a simple, effective way to make hairs vanish from lip, chin or cheek: With a little powdered delatone and water mix a stiff paste and apply to hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes, rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. Excepting in rare instances one application only is required.

Eyelashes grow long and slightly curly if a little pyroxin be applied at lash-roots occasionally with thumb and forefinger; and if the eyebrows are short and thin, rub some pyroxin on. This makes them come in thick and glossy. Use caution not to get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Protestant) religious rights of the minority were "protected." As in Sir Wilfrid's "statement" of 1896-5, what excuse can there be for such action? There was no "judgment of the Privy Council" to argue over. There was no case before the courts with a judgment that could be read a half dozen ways to fight about. His action was a gratitious and bold attempt to upset provincial rights and the public school system for all time. It was the most extraordinary act of inconsistency and political wrong-doing ever perpetrated by a statesman of repute in Canada.

But this letter is long enough and I will postpone any further remarks, with your permission, till next week. Your correspondent, I suppose, is aware that the Opposition, one and all, have sneered at the Orangemen during the whole course of this parliament so far. There seems rarely to have been wanting an occasion to the members of the Liberal party in Parliament, and to the Liberal press throughout Canada, of venting their hatred on the followers of King William. One would have thought that they had had enough of that sort of thing; but it seems not. If the truth were known the struggle in Canada, as elsewhere in the world to-day, is not that of political parties, but a struggle between those who favor freedom and democracy on the one hand, and those who want to help the Pope "to restore all things in Christ" on the other. Which party was it that referred the marriage question to the courts? And which opposed it, thus making every effort to leave Ne Temere in full force in Canada?

PRESIDENT HUERTA WILL RUN AS CANDIDATE FOR ELECTION

Will Turn Over Provisional Presidency to General Trevino And Become a Candidate for Full Elective Term, to Which Washington Will Not Object

Mexico City, Sept. 4.—From a source which is authentic, it was learned to-night that it is almost a certainty that President Huerta, within a few days, will turn over the provisional presidency to Gen. Trevino, and himself become a candidate for the full elective term.

This informant has been in attendance at almost every cabinet meeting, and has himself declined numerous offers to become one of Huerta's ministers. "You are safe in saying that Washington is in possession of Huerta's intention, and will interpose no objection to his offering himself as a candidate," said he. "The only stipulation the United States will make is that the elections be conducted honestly and fairly, and that it be thoroughly understood that the man chosen must be supported and maintained in office by the whole country; if need be with the help of the United States.

the outer walls when the top of the later fell in.

To Mr. Hall, if the wall on which the pillars stood had been a good wall the building would not have fallen.

Ald. Johnstoo said he paid his men in the usual way and purchased the material. Mr. Might had Mr Belcher draw the plans and look after the work. Mr. Belcher gave him a blue print showing the beams required. The work, as done, was as detailed by Mr. Langford. He described minor inside changes, such as changing shelving, etc. Work on the walls was begun about three weeks ago. They began on the centre wall full length, between the Barrie and the Turnbull stores. The pillars were capped by "I" beams and rested upon cement footings of the present wall. Here technical description of the operations were given. Mr. John Collins and Mr. John McWilliams removed the bricks. The column's bases were 12 inches square. The cement was laid from two to four days before the columns were placed. He only examined the wall from the top. The wall was not examined by him to judge its strength. He was at work on the day of the accident.

He was just coming out of the Barrie store when he heard a funny sound. Everything seemed to be on the crumble. He acted quickly to get out as he realized the building was falling. He barely escaped. He could not tell then which part of the building had gone first. He afterwards found that the faule must have been in the centre wall.

He helped to lift out Miss Boddison, Mrs. Brown and Mr. Cuffe, all of whom were dead. He saw Miss Sisson taken out.

To Mr. Hall, witness said he had done similar work at Cressman's and other different local establishments without accident. He considers himself as a competent contractor for such work. Mr. Might never interfered with his conduct of the work.

The inquest was adjourned until September 16th.

LIBERAL CLOSURE BILL DID NOT BOTHER THE BLOCKERS

Draft Measure in Existence When Opposition Waxed Vehement on Subject of Free Speech

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—When the Laurier Government went out of office they left behind them a draft closure bill far more drastic in its operation than the resolution introduced by the present Government and passed last session, passed with all the Liberal members waxing vehement in their protest against what they described as stifling "free speech." The Laurier draft closure provided for the shutting off of debate on the motion of any member without notice.

Was There Then.

That bill was in existence when Hon. William Pugsley said in the House of Commons last session:—

"Let me say, Sir, that in the interests of the people of this country and in the interests of the minority, it would be better to apply the dagger than to strangle free speech. If this resolution should pass and we have an attempt made to apply the guillotine, I do not know that the guillotine is any more agreeable than the dagger." . . .

. . . . "I object to the resolution because the rules which have prevailed for centuries have been established for the purpose of protecting the rights of the minorities and ensuring the priceless liberty of free speech in Parliament; I am opposed to it, Sir, because I believe this is an attempt to place the minority of this House absolutely under the control of the majority."

And Then Too.

It was in existence when F. B. Carvell of Carleton, N.B., said in the House last session:

"It is a matter of supreme importance to the people of this country that we should discuss it—that we should do more, that we should fight it. We ought to do everything that free men can do to show the iniquity of this rule being forced upon a free people." . . .

. . . "There must be, I am sure, a few reasonable men on the other side, and I cannot believe there are half a dozen hon. gentlemen in the House, including members of the Government, who had the faintest idea of the real iniquity of the proposed rules as submitted to the House in this resolution by the Prime Minister."

And Murphy Also.

It was in existence when Hon. Charles Murphy, in the course of a speech in the House of Commons on April 16, against Mr. Borden's closure resolution, made the following statement:

"I claim that any rules passed in this way are unconstitutional and unjustifiable, and can have no binding force on the members of this House. I, for one, decline to be bound by them."

Did The Globe Know?

It was in existence when the chief opposition organ, the Toronto Globe said last session:

"All the great authorities on British constitutional law and parliamentary practice are agreed that the adoption of closure has greatly and probably permanently changed for the worse the old time House of Commons, has lessened the dignity and usefulness of the private member, has proportionately and not usefully enhanced the power of the Cabinet, and has aggravated the tendency of the House to become a bear garden. Every member of the Canadian House of Commons must face the responsibility attached to making a similar change for the worse in one of the few remaining parliaments that have kept themselves free from factitious closure."

Here's Another.

It was in existence when the Manitoba Free Press, the principal Liberal newspaper of the prairie provinces said during the closure fight:

"The ground which the Liberals are holding in regard to the question of naval policy is strong ground. Equally strong will be their ground in fighting the imposition of the closure. There is no justification for a resort to the closure at this time."

Ottawa Free Press

It was in existence when the Ottawa Free Press, the Liberal organ at the capital, said during the closure discussion last session:—

"To the Free Press the threatened attack on free speech in Parliament has been of as much concern as has the dangerous policy of direct cash contribution to the Imperial exchequer. We have held to the idea strongly that any attempt to adopt closure in the Canadian House should be fought, constitutionally or unconstitutionally to the last ditch. We believe the Liberals would be justified in turning the Commons into a veritable 'bear garden' should such an attempt be made."

They Never Told.

Hon. Messrs. Pugsley and Murphy had been members of the Laurier Government which had had the draft closure before it. Yet from nothing that Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, during the long battle in the House of Commons was there any hint given to the House that the late Government had gone so far toward the introduction of an even more drastic measure than that they, after their defeat, condemned.

It now transpires that when, during the campaign of 1911, the introduction of closure by the Liberals by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the bill was promised by Sir Alan Aylesworth, by Hon. Sidney Fisher and had actually been drafted. The situation is illuminating.

Organized Rascality

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, in his speech at Moose Jaw a few days ago, exposed an amazing system of organized political rascality. Conservative voters were disfranchised by hundreds, while the voters' lists were swollen with the names of multitudes of aliens. They were encouraged to commit perjury in order to cast their ballots for Liberal candidates. These western election crooks appear to have the late Ross Government beaten a mile in efforts to cling to office and defeat the will of the people. It is certainly time for a change!

BELGIUM ADDS STANDING ARMY

Immense Increase in the Regular Standing Forces of the Kingdom

Brussels, Sept. 5.—Belgium's continued activity in adopting certain well-defined measures of national defence and protection keeps alive the alarming idea that armed conflict in Europe is a thing to be expected. The government does not divulge what it believes or fears; it quietly goes ahead with its preparations leaving the people to speculate as they will.

The Belgian army has been increased to a peace footing absolutely without precedent; never before has the country had so many men under arms in times of peace, and Antwerp on the Scheldt, already one of the strongest fortresses in Europe, is rapidly being strengthened, evidently with the idea of making the city as nearly impregnable as possible. Belgium has a gold reserve of $48,000,000. This is the national treasure. In order to ensure its safety a large part of the money has been moved from Brussels to Antwerp, because the latter city is more secure in case of war.

The national archives who have been transferred to the fortified metropolis for the same reason, a precaution that would not be taken except at a time of national anxiety. These events, considered in connection with the recent mobilization and seemingly tending to show that the international outlook may not be as clear as is generally supposed, have caused much comment in Belgium.

REINDEER STEAKS INSTEAD OF BEEF

Chicago, Sept. 5.—There should be about 900 miles of government built railroads in Alaska in the opinion of Secretary of the Interior Lane, who is here on his way west for an inspection of Indian reservations and several irrigation projects.

"I believe that Alaska should be aided as far as possible in opening up her immense resources," the secretary said. "The first step should be a government owned railroad to the seaboard from the coal fields. Let Congress appropriate money for the first Alaskan railroad and there will be in the next two years a colonization movement to the northern territory which will pale into significance the rush to the government lands within the nation proper.

"Alaska has 65,000,000 acres of land where the grass grows waist high in the summer. It is tillable soil. Thousands of reindeer feed on the moss grown ranges and there is no reason why with proper transportation facilities Alaska should not supply the nation with meat that is more tasty and nourishing than beef.

Secretary Lane also asserted that he would advocate a government coaling station in an Alaskan land locked harbor, where the Pacific fleet could be provisioned for a world cruise.

DROVE SATAN AWAY BUT GIRL'S DEATH WAS FORFEIT

Terrible Tragedy on Farm in France Results From Religious Fanaticism

Paris, Sept. 5.—Religious fanaticism has caused a terrible tragedy at a farm at Ponmieux, near Avignon.

The farmer Julien, his wife, their three children, Marius Rose and Julie, aged 25, 19 and 29, respectively, and the grandmother, of 80, lived there. The family was well off and the farm in a prosperous condition.

One day the eldest daughter, Julie, declared that she was possessed by Satan. Every day she had another tale to tell about the demon in whose power she believed herself to be. The other members of the family with the exception of the grandmother, seemed to have been so worked upon by her statements that at last they believed her.

Finally, she lay on the floor and began crying out, "Go away, Satan, go away!" Suddenly her brother, sister and parents joined in the performance, and all began to cry out for the "demon" to go away. The grandmother tried to comfort them, but they bound her to an armchair. Then they returned to the daughter with chairs and sticks, shouted to the demon to go away, and beat the poor girl's head till it was an unrecognizable mass of broken bones, brains and blood.

When the girl was dead the brother and sister called at the house of the local abbe to tell him they had succeeded in driving Satan away. The priest informed the police, who arrested the family.

FRIDAY'S SESSION JUVENILE COURT

Yesterday a Juvenile Court was held at Norlock. This charming little hamlet, nestling in the hills between Norwood and Havelock, contains 114 people, including the last lot of triplets, three Irish collies and a dyspeptic gander. Norlock has civic pride. It rivals Warsaw in the distinction of setting the example, followed by Peterborough, in regard to secret session of a police court.

After the usual search for reporters was made, to ensure that mothers of girls be left unacquainted with the dangers that threaten their daughters, the Court opened. The first case tried was a charge against 4-year-old Arabella Araminta Zudenowitch, who escaped from Sibera 30 years ago. Her parents are now engaged in drilling for oil in Victoria Park. Arabella was charged with attempted suicide. The evidence showed the child had been calling at the home of a recent Peterborough bride, Mrs. Peter Styvesant Van Dinglefozzle, Bolivar street. It seems that Mrs. Van Dinglefozzle had made her first cake and the child eat a slab [illegible] inches in size. When interrogated by the magistrate, Arabella said "I did eat a chunk of that cake. It gave me an awful pain in my tummy." The Magistrate sternly remarked "I'm sorry for you. Still if you take a chance on eating a cake made by a bride, you must take the consequences. I sentence you to 105 years in Kingston penitentiary for attempted suicide, with 118 years added because you peeked through a keyhole of the Juvenile Court."

Here the little girl began to cry. The magistrate borrowed the Chief's cambric handkerchief and gave "first aid" to the child's nose. He told the chief "I don't like to use my own handkerchief as it was given me by a niece who is cross-eyed and has a touchy temper. I'm afraid I might get the jinx on me if I used it.

It is understood the handkerchief will be placed in the Museum labelled "A relic found on Mount Ararat ten minutes after the Ark landed."

The next case tried was that of Willie Smith, aged 21. Willie was charged with stealing eggs, contrary to the Criminal Code. Willie is descended from Foxy Grandpa,, begot by Nebuchadnezzar, begot by Noah, begot by Smart Alexander. He said, "Mister, I took them eggs from the nest of a neighbor's henhouse. I heard you would not let local reporters get news that might be of great use to mothers. I might come before you some day charged with murder. I saved them eggs to throw at reporters who might snoop round the Juvenile Court." The magistrate's beard wrinkled up as he smiled, and replied "You noble boy. You remind me of Casabianca who stood on the burning deck. By gum, that deck ought to have been burned. The last time I handled a deck of cards I drew to a bobtailed flush of clubs and got a heart. You are honorably discharged."

The Magistrate removed a used-up "chaw" from his mouth and, within 2½ seconds, harpooned a fly with tobacco juice and placed the "chaw" in an Irish collie's eye.

The Court then adjourned.

HUERTA WOULD PAY TO GET AMERICANS OUT OF MEXICO

Residents of United States Won't Accept Generous Offer --Uncle Sam's $100,000 To be Sufficient

Mexico City, Sept. 5.—It was stated at the American Embassy to-day that American refugees would probably not take advantage of an offer of the Mexican government to supply Americans with first-class passage out of the country.

Consul General Arnold Shanklin, who has had charge of the American exodus, said that the $100,000 appropriation by Congress probably would relieve the situation and enable all Americans to leave Mexico first class.

Provisional President Huerta issued a statement to the effect that the Mexican Government would pay from its own resources the difference between first class passage for Americans from Mexico to the United States and the third class (steerage) accommodations offered by the United States Government to refugees.

Huerta Would Help Americans Out

"The Personal sentiments of the constitutional interim President of the republic toward citizens of the United States residing in this country are benevolent and just," said Huerta's statement, "to the extent that their Government having recommended without justifiable cause that they leave the country, and while lamenting the disposition which caused alarm, as well as the fact that many Americans have decided to leave the country, the President has resolved to recommend to the proper authorities, in view of the fact, as stated in the newspapers that the Government of the United States finds it possible to furnish only third class passage, that they offer in a spontaneous and kindly manner to cover the difference which exists and even provide special trains and gratuities to the end that the Americans arrive in their country with greater comfort and means than they otherwise would have."

HARRY THAW NOT TRANSIENT MAY NOT PASS THROUGH CANADA

Board of Enquiry Reaches This Conclusion, and White's Slayer Will be Dealt With as an Ordinary Immigrant

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 5.—Harry K. Thaw is not a transient tourist, as he professed himself to be before the Immigration Board of Enquiry. He is therefore not entitled to pass through Canada as the Jack Johnson ruling. He will be dealt with as an ordinary immigrant.

The question to be decided by the Board of Enquiry of the Dominion Immigration Department in its hearing looking toward the deportation of Thaw is whether the slayer of Stanford White is sane or insane.

If adjudged insane, as is confidently expected, he will be immediately ordered out of the country.

The contention raised by Thaw that he was a tourist travelling through Canada en route to Detroit, Mich., was overruled by the Board of Inquiry this afternoon. The officials decided that Thaw was not travelling the country as was Jack Johnson who had reservations made on a trans-Atlantic liner.

The ruling was the second setback Thaw has suffered to-day. Earlier in the afternoon Justice Hutchinson refused to issue a writ prohibiting the holding of Thaw by the Immigration officials.

As soon as the decision of the Board was announced the board proceeded the same as it would have done in the case of any immigrant. Thaw was again called to the stand and Chairman Robertson questioned him as to his family record.

Robertson had several volumes containing information as to the Thaw family, and following this he questioned the prisoner closely as to his ancestory. Thaw objected strenuously to this line of examination. For the first time during the day it seemed that he might lose his composure.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 5.—At 4 p.m. the lawyers in the Thaw case were still in conference and it looked as though Thaw might be kept here for another day.

M'HARG, CHAMPION OF THE WORLD, IS A VANCOUVER MAN

Wins Individual Palma Match With An Army Rifle At Camp Perry

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Canada once again has made a name for herself in the world of crack shooting.

By winning the individual Palma match with an army rifle, Major M'Harg of the 6th Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, Vancouver, Canada, becomes the individual champion of the world by having a total of 220 out of a possible 225 on the 800, 900, and 1,000 yard ranges. Capt. Neill Smith of the 24th Regiment, Chatham, Ont., was second with a score of 220 and Lieut. Geo. Mortimer of the Canadian Army Service Corps, Ottawa, Ont., was third with a score of 220.

Places were awarded according to merit. The best scores on the long distance range counted for first place the next best for second place, etc.

Won Canadian Honors

Major George Hart M'Harg won the Governor-General's match at Ottawa, at the Dominion Rifle Association meet last week. It is the biggest individual rifle shooting event in Canada.

Following upon the splendid feat of Pte. Wm. Hawkins, of Toronto, who carried off the King's prize at Bisley from the best shots of the British Empire, Major M'Harg's exhibition of fine shooting gives Canada an enviable place in the eyes of the entire world.

CHINESE SAID TO MASSACRE JAPANESE IN CITY NANKIN

Feeling Runs High, and Japan May Occupy Port For Compensation

London, Sept. 5.—A Shanghai despatch to the Times says:

"Nankin has been desolated by looting, which for the most part could not be prevented.

"Eight Japanese carrying the Japanese flag fled toward their consulate. Some of the government troops fired, and two of the Japanese fell dead. A third was wounded, but died after reaching the consolate.

"There is much anti-Japanese feeling among the Government forces, and the Japanese flag hoisted over shops has been no protection."

A Tokio despatch to The Daily Mail says:

"Owing to the alleged massacre of Japanese at Nankin, when the northern troops captured the city, M. Oisshi, leader of the Progressive party and other politicians are urging occupation of Tien-Tsin or some other port until China has paid compensation."

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 10c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Crossman's store.

STARTED OVER AT FIFTY

Out of a Job This Man Studied Law and Made Good

For three decades Nathan P. Allen has been the Chicago underworld criminal's first aid and main reliance. Whether the arrest was for stealing a pig from a pen at the stockyard, for lifting a pocketbook from a visitor in a diva, or for murder, the arrested person's first call was for Allen.

He has defended thousands of criminals, with much profit to himself and much satisfaction to his clients, many of whom believe they would be "on the inside looking out" if it hadn't been for their lawyer's remarkable skill in persuading the jury that black was white.

Yet Allen was a carpenter till he was 50 years old. Now he is within a very few years of 90. The panic of '73 is responsible for making him a lawyer. That panic, among other things, took his carpentering job away from him and gave him plenty of time to look around for other work.

He read law and studied in what had been his carpenter shop. When he was admitted to the bar he hurried to Chicago and spent his last cent furnishing an office. The habit he then formed of sleeping in his office still clings to him.

MUNICIPAL FORMS ALWAYS IN STOCK

THE BATH BEAUTIFUL

Anita Morris Points the Way to Cleanliness and Beauty

Centuries ago the Grecian and Roman women were renowned for their loveliness of form and face. Yet they had not one-sixteenth the resources in cosmetic art of the woman of today.

Instead of relying upon balms and creams and powders for the perfecting of their beauty, they revelled in baths! They knew that the woman who would possess a wild rose complexion and all the other attributes of beauty must keep the body exquisitely clean. Consequently they bathed daily in warm fragrant waters.

What was essential then is twice as essential now, when the air is filled with soot and grime. It is a well established fact that a woman cannot be really beautiful unless she bathes thoroughly once every 24 hours. The bath should be taken at night, just before milady is ready to turn into bed. This quiets the nerves and ensures repose. Another good reason for the night bath is that when the pores are cleansed and open, they more readily absorb nourishing skin creams. Follow up the hot bath with a face, hand, arm and shoulder massage with some pure emollient. It is in this way that wrinkled skins are kept at bay.

After filling your bath tub three-quarters full with nice, hot water, it should be softened by throwing in two tablespoonfuls of the following delightful lotion:

Four ounces of alcohol.
One ounce of ammonia.
One dram oil of lavender.

The lotion will make the bath water delightfully fragrant. Lather the body with pure soap; then seize upon a bath brush and ply it with vigor. Be sure to give your nose and chin particular attention, as there is where blackheads love to congregate. The neck also calls for more than perfunctory attention. When you have scrubbed until you are as clean as a human being can be rinse off the snowy lather with plenty of tepid water.

An enthusiastic rub down with smooth and rough towels now follows, the rough towels being used for the body, while the smooth towels are applied to the delicate skin of the face and neck. Smooth and rub until not a drop of moisture remains.

Take an atomizer filled with jasmine toilet water and spray liberally over the shoulders, neck and hair.

The alcohol bath is the thing for the woman who occasionally feels "too tired to talk." If she will rub an alcohol-soaked palm briskly hither and thither over her body for a few minutes the next time she feels "run-down," she will find that her clouds have suddenly acquired a silver lining.

FIGHT WITH FISTS

Fine for One and Black Eye for the Other

The story of a duel, with the hand and heart of a girl as the prize, was told in a Chicago court. It was not a French duel, with toy pistols or rapiers, nor an Italian duel with the deadly stiletto, nor an Irish duel with shillalahs, nor a German duel with sabers, but a modern duel with doubled fists and hard knuckles for weapons.

Accompanied by two blackened eyes and a crestfallen look, Peter Jenson stood before the bar of justice and told Judge Gemmill the story. He pointed to Miss Ada Christianson, who stood beside Axel Anderson.

"You see, we both went to see the same girl," he said. "I went up to see Miss Christianson at her home Sunday night and found him there. We fought it out to see who should stay, and you can see what he did to me."

"I certainly can," said Judge Gemmill, "and I am going to fine him $10 and costs." But Jenson still wore his crestfallen look when Miss Christianson left with the victorious [illegible].

OUR POINT OF VIEW

From Sherbrooke, Quebec comes the report that Thaw's lawyers can not agree on what to do. But it is a safe bet that they will not fail to do Thaw in the meantime.

The Examiner says that women's skirts will be thicker and more modest this fall. Too bad, boys, but you had better do your looking while the looking is good.

A news item tell us that the new poet laureate of England is seventy years old. He is quite fresh as a laureate, but aged and well seasoned as a poet, it appears.

The doctors tell us that the observance of sanitary rules will prolong life, but Metimop, a Crow Indian, died in Saginaw the other day at the age of 120 and he had never swatted a fly or been guilty of taking a daily bath.

The name of the new Dutch prime minister is P. W. A. C. Van Der Linden. Probably the scarcity of room in Holland made it necessary for him to condense a large part of his name.

The Hon. Sam Hughes is reported to have said that his locating in Lindsay was largely the result of a joke he played on a college chum. But persons who do not like him will contend that the joke turned out to be on Lindsay.

NOT ALL ON ONE SIDE.

The odds are not all on the side of the rich. At a recent Life Insurance Convention the president of the Association made the following statement: "Women in so-called high life are not good risks. Eating rich and indigestible food, drinking harmful beverages, and keeping unwholesome hours, they wreck their health and go the quick route to the grave." They have no need to do these things, but we think it will be found that great riches are just as apt to drive men and women to evil courses as is poverty, and perhaps more so.

HOW THINGS BEGIN.

Two quite insignificant paragraphs announce that Great Britain is landing troops in Muscat, the chief port in the sultanate of Oman. Oman is virtually British territory, although nominally independent. It is quite as important, to Great Britain as Gibraltar, in fact it is more important, now that railway communication is effecting an entrance to the near East by the kitchen door. At the straits of Ormuz it commands the entrance of the Persian gulf.

The sultan of Oman, poor creature, is being annoyed by a gentleman of the name of Abdullah, and Great Britain is obliged to extricate him from his troubles, not only by arrangement, but for the very good reason that she cannot afford to permit anyone else to do so. The sultan of Oman could summon every army in Europe to his assistance, not in alliance, certainly, but he could take his choice.

Great Britain has now two of those miserable little fights on her hands. She must make mince-meat of the gentle Arabian slave traders who cut up a British force some time ago and she must bring this Abdullah person into reasonable subjection. There is no way out, if the Orient is not to be reduced to the conditions of homicidal anarchy in which it weltered for untold centuries.

CANADIAN PACIFIC'S REPORT

The annual report of the Canadian Pacific railway for the year ending June 30, last, has just been received. It is an intensely interesting statement, not only because of the gigantic nature of the corporation, but by virtue of the close association of the company with the development of the Canadian Northwest.

The first item of moment is the statement of the company's assets which total $720,535,465.20. This sum is further augmented by the possession of 6,287,250 acres of land in the prairie provinces valued at approximately another $100,000,000 and by 1,697,994 acres in British Columbia which are not valued in the report. The grand mileage over which the company runs its own cars is 13,280.6 while an additional 4,603.6 miles are made up of the Soo and Duluth, South Shore, and Atlantic lines.

The valuation of railway and equipment is given as $452,320,780.60. During the past year the value of this department increased by almost seventy million dollars. Nine millions were spent on branch lines, over thirty millions were absorbed by additional rolling stock, while the remaining forty millions went into the improvement of property and the shops and machinery.

This year the construction programme will be largely concentrated in the West. The construction of the line between Swift Current and Coronation is to be undertaken for a distance of 115 miles at once, the route to be eventually continued to join the Saskatoon - Edmonton branch at Sedgwick. The Bassano - Swift Current line and the branch between Gleichen and Shepard will likely be built during the present financial year of the company. Double tracking of the main line between Brandon and Calgary will be continued for 178 miles this year, leaving a gap of only 165 miles between Port Arthur and this city which will not be double tracked.

The land sales of the compan aggregated 474, 798 acres which averaged $15.77 per acre. There were 7,944 acres of irrigated land sold which brought an average of $48.88 per acre.

Your Bad Taste In The Morning Is Due to Catarrh

Destroy This Poisonous Disease Before Your Health is Seriously Injured.

Perhaps you haven't thought of calling those unpleasant symptoms that affected your nose and throat by any particular name—but it's Catarrh just the same.

When the attack is severe, your eyes are watery and look weak. Your breath is offensive, due to inflammation in the nose and throat.

At last science has discovered a real remedy, a new scientific marvel which acts like no other Catarrh remedy on earth. "Catarrhozone" operates on a new plan; it is a direct remedy, goes instantly to the source of the trouble. Its rich, fragrant essences and healing balsams are breathed in vapor form through a special inhaler and give instant relief.

Catarrhozone doesn't stop at the relief stage—it goes further—keeps on going till a cure is affected. Bad cases are cured, as you can judge from the following letter:—"Every morning for six months last winter I awoke with a bad taste, an awful breath and stuffed up feeling in my nostrils," writes Rob E. Rutland, of Regina. "It was simply an awful case of chronic Catarrh. Relief first came from Catarrhozone. I used that inhaler twenty times a day and took it to bed with me at night. I am cured, and by the use of Catarrhozone stay well. Now I am free from irritable throat trouble, coughs, colds, headache, or catarrh."

No medicine on earth is so certain to cure every form of Catarrh or throat trouble as "Catarrhozone." Get the large $1.00 size, lasts two months and is guaranteed; medium size, 50c.; sample size 25c. all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PREMIER FORGOT HIS TOOPER HOLD TRAIN NEARLY AN HOUR

Madrid Express Wouldn't Start Until Spanish Count Had Secured His Silk Hat--Passengers Disgruntled at Delay

Paris, Sept. 5.—The story is published here that an express train from Madrid, on which Count Romanones, the Spanish Premier, had reserved a salon, was delayed three-quarters of an hour in starting, because the Premier had forgotten his protesting against the unexplainable silk hat. The indignant passengers delay were told by the station master that the departure of the train was held up for a reason he could not state.

Eventually a breathless messenger arrived from the Premier's house, carrying a cardboard box, which to the obvious relief of Count Romanones, was installed in his reserved salon.

The station master then explained to the passengers that the Premier had forgotten his silk hat.

CRAZED TEACHERS' FRENZY CAUSES THIRTEEN DEATHS

Cerman Murders Wife and Four Children--Sets Fire to Village--Eight Die in Fusilade With Villagers

Muehlhausen, Germany, Sept. 5.—A crazed teacher named Wagner, who murdered his wife and four children at Degerloch yesterday, set fire to the village of Muehlhausen in four places during last night, and in a fusilade with the villagers, who tried to capture him, eight persons were shot and ten wounded.

The maniac took refuge in a stable where he killed all the cattle. He was finally overpowered after he had exhausted all of 250 cartridges with which he had provided himself. The enraged villagers wreaked their vengeance by clubbing the man and stabbing him with pitchforks. He will probably die

The turkey trot has been condemned by the international Association of Masters of Dancing, but according to the report of the snake editor of a contemporary the turtle roll, the pigeon prance, the bullfrog dart, the ostrich hitch, the rhinoceros shamble the pelican gulp, the goose waddle, and a whole menagerie of other dances are approved.

SEA-GIRAFFE SEEN OFF NEWFOUNDLAND

Montreal, Sept. 5.—A real live honest-to-goodness sea-serpent is swimming in the Atlantic Ocean off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

If the reader does not credit this brief capitulation, let him talk to G. Batchelor, second officer of the good ship Corinthian, which reached Montreal last night.

A Star reporter who heard briefly of the appearance this morning, had recurrent memories of the good old sea serpent yarn at first, but a look at Mr. Batchelor and the bearing of his tale removed all doubts.

"A sea giraffe! That is the nearest I can come to naming what I saw," said Mr. Batchelor, who is so far as he knows, after sailing the seas for twenty years, the discovery of a new species.

"One runs across many stories of strange things seen at sea, he said but I have never heard of any beast like this.

CHECKERS.

Binghampton, N.Y., Sept. 5.—The 20th game in the world's checker series between Champion Alfred Jordan, of London, Eng., and M. F. Pomeroy, of this city, was played last night, leaving both men tied, nothing to nothing. Together with ten games privately played between the two men to a draw last winter, this makes a total of 30 tied games, in contrast to the 32 games tied that constitute the world's record. The series continues to-day.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so."

Gentlemen,—

I beg to draw your attention to the fact that I have suffered from rheumatism for the last nine years, and particularly for the last five. I have been unable to stand, walk, or in fact, help myself in any way, my knees and elbows swollen, drawn and stiff; could not bend them in any way; I tried everything, went to the Banff Springs three months in 1905, twice to Hot Springs, Arkansas, two months in 1907, four months in 1908 done me no good. I heard of SANOL last September and have been taking it ever since, and I am glad to say the swelling is about all gone. I am going around the house on crutches, also my joints are loosening and straightening, and I fully expect that SANOL will cure me.

I believe SANOL will cure rheumatism, for my case is a hard one, and in fact has been pronounced incurable and if I improve for the next three months as I have for the last three I will be walking in good shape.

I remain,
Yours truly,
John J. Lane.

P.S.—You can show this letter to anyone you feel like, and send them to me as I can tell them better than I can write it.

LAST OF BONNOT'S GANG

Loaded Revolvers Taken From Under Pillow of Sleeping Bandit

The French police quite unexpectedly captured the last of the notorious Bonnot-Garnier gang of motor bandits, who over a year ago terrorised Paris.

Investigation had been made into a burglary, and the police got on the track of the receiver of the booty. He lived in the Montmartre district, and the officers were warned that he was an Anarchist, and would surely be armed.

They, therefore, waited until they judged he was asleep. Then a locksmith opened the door noiselessly, and they were able to creep up to the man's bedside and remove two loaded revolvers from his pillow before they awakened and arrested him.

He was absolutely stupified when, at the sight of the police, he reached for his firearms, and found them gone; but not more staggered than were the police themselves, when, under a false name and an appearance completely changed by dyed hair and moustache, they found the suspected receiver was none other than a prominent member of the Bonnot-Garnier gang named Noury, for whom they had been searching for months. Arms and ammunition were found under his bed.

MADE OCCASION FOR FEAST

Elaborate and Peculiar Ceremonies Always Form Part of Wedding in Armenia.

An Armenian wedding is not readily forgotten. It lasts for several days and starts with a general meeting of friends and relatives, who are entertained by a band of minstrels and dancers until the arrival of the groom. In the midst of the uproar it is Armenian etiquette that the "happy" man shall totter in with faltering footsteps and blanched face (it has just been whitened with a little powder) in order to go through the ordeal of preparation.

He is first publicly shaved, and then adorned with the various gifts sent by the bride-elect. His brothers next fall upon him, and with such vigor that he speedily stands forth as nature made him. Then they completely reclothe him in new garments as best they can—a difficult job, when one remembers that custom forces them to hold candles in their right hands throughout the operation.

The evening terminates with bonfires, more music and much dancing. Upon the following evening the bride puts in her appearance by riding to church—the bridegroom walks. The priest meets them at the porch and reads them a very seasonable little homily upon the obligations they are about to undertake. They next march in procession to the altar, where their foreheads are bound together with gold chains.

Asphalt on Streets of Babylon.

That asphalt was known to the ancients is a well attested fact, its use as a binder for masonry in Babylon being in point, but of its use other than this we know nothing.

Strabo tells us that as early as 2000 B. C. the streets of Babylon were paved, and so, too, presumably were the great roads leading out from the many gates of that city. Babylon was situated in the alluvial plain of Mesopotamia, and its building material was almost entirely clay, either as such or in the form of bricks.

It seems rather doubtful that these latter were used to pave the streets at that early date. Asphalt was abundant and much used in building operations, and it does not seem improbable that it was utilised to improve the streets.—Dr. E. W. Gudger in Science.

ONTARIO FOX FARMER

Twenty years ago, Mr. L. L. Borrowman of Wyoming first conceived the idea of raising silver grey foxes. In his business as a fur dealer he saw the possibilities in breeding fur bearing animals and after long thought he finally secured, at great expense, two pairs of "silver-greys," which had been dug out of their den when they were puppies. The history of Mr. Borrowman's success is a story of pluck and perseverance. "I spent thousands of dollars," said Mr. Borrowman, "before I achieved results. Twelve years passed before I came upon the secret of successful fox raising and during all that time my neighbors laughed at me, said I was 'a fool with more money than brains,' and other things, not of a complimentary nature. Now they no longer make remarks of this kind.

"My trouble was in placing too many foxes together. I used to have two pairs in the same pen. The females are very jealous of each other and if given a chance will destroy their young. In order to conceal the little ones, the mother foxes bury them in the ground. They do this with the best of intentions but of course the puppies smother. The first year I tried putting each pair by themselves, I got nine puppies and I have been raising them ever since." At the time when Mr. Borrowman's stock consisted of three pairs of foxes a Wyoming paper stated that his farm had netted him at the close of the season ten thousand dollars in cash. Mr. Borrowman's stock now consists of ten pairs of foxes and at the present times foxes which formerly sold for $1,000 now bring from seven to ten thousand dollars. At these advanced prices, it can readily be seen, that Mr. Borrowman's farm represents a large amount of money.

LONGEVITY IN MEXICO

A Peon 136 Years Old Working in Field—Indian of 127

It is an interesting fact that the most remarkable instances of longevity among the inhabitants of the New World are chronicled of the aborigines. This holds good both of North and South America. Especially great are the ages attained by Indians dwelling in the highland tropics, a fact noted by the observant Baron von Humboldt and by scores of other travelers and explorers.

About two decades ago General William Palmer of the famous Palmer-Sullivan combination who built the national railroad from Laredo to this capital, discovered in the State of Vera Cruz an Indian peon working in the field, who gave his age as 135 years. Some years ago President Diaz during a visit to the State of Jalisco encountered a veteran of the War of Independence, a man of Indian blood, who fought under the patriot Morelos, and was at the time when General Diaz met him 127 years old. He had much to tell the President of those early campaigns.—Mexican Herald.

DR. DAVID H. REEDER,

NATURAL DIETETICS: Part 2—The statements referred to in the previous article by Dr. Lindlahr are, of course, contrary to popular notions and to the pseudo-scientific teachings of the schools. They say, "If a person be weak, sickly, and emaciated, stuff him with plenty of rich, nourishing food." This is held to be good and commonsense practice; but what is the usual result? The "stuffed" anemic grows still weaker and thinner and the injudious "stuffing" of the consumptive serves only to stuff him under the green grass. The very abundance of meat and eggs which is supposed to build up the patients, poisons their system beyond the possibility of recovery.

To be sure, starches, sugars, fats and proteins meet certain demands and fill very important functions in the economy of the body, but on the other hand, they produce in the processes of digestion large amounts of poisonous acids, alkaloids, gases and ptomaines.

To these morbid by-products of digestion are added the excretions of faces of the cells. Futhermore, the cells and tissues of the body are constantly changing, building up and breaking down, just like the body as a whole. The broken-down tissue materials also create large quantities of morbid matter and poisons. Practically all diseases arising in the human organism are caused originally by the accumulation of these morbid by-products of digestion and of the tissue changes.

Therefore, in order to insure normal structure and functions, in other words, "good health," these waste products must be neutralized and eliminated from the system as promptly and as completely as possible. This in turn, depends upon an abundant supply in blood and tissues of the alkaline mineral elements, also called nutritious salts or tissue salts. The most important of these are iron, sodium, lime, magnesium, potassium, and silicon.

These mineral elements are found in all the important secretions of the body. Upon them depends the "richness" of the blood and the solidity of the fleshy and bony structures. They are the building stones of the physical organism.

The science of biochemistry deals with the functions of these mineral salts in the life-activities of the ascending kingdoms of nature: the mineral, the vegetable, the animal, and the human. Upon this science is based rational soil feeding as well as the biochemic treatment of diseases by means of tissue salts, vitochemical, homeopathic, and herb remedies. Upon this strictly scientific foundation have been elaborated the Germans of Nature Cure and Natural Dietetics, and in this country the Home Health Club methods of natural living and of treating human ailments.

The medicinal values of the natural foods and remedies depend upon their richness in the positive mineral elements. In a series of articles to appear in the columns of the Home Health Club I shall endeavor to explain the principles of biochemistry, of natural dietetics, and of rational soil-feeding in plain and simple language so as to make the principles involved in these all-important sciences of practical value in the kitchen, at the sickbed, in the garden and on the farm.

CLUB NOTES

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor:—Again I come to you for information. There are some cases in this neighborhood of what is called Rickets. One certain part of the body seems to grow rather fast, while other parts are undeveloped. In children ranging in age from one to four years there are some deaths already recorded. The physicians in this locality do not seem to quite understand that trouble, though they claim it is Rickets. What would the Home Health Club treatment be?—S. G.

Rickets is a disease of the bones due to a deficiency of the Phosphate of Lime. It may be derived from the mother, who, while carrying the child, has suffered from indigestion, or who has failed to take sufficient and suitable exercise; or it may arise from defective nursing, improper food, damp or poorly ventilated dwellings, insufficient open-air exercise, etc.

The fact that there is a deficiency of one of the bodily elements known as Calcium Phosphate gives us the clew to the proper treatment. Supply the system with this deficient cell salt or element, either naturally by the food, or artificially by a preparation of the indicated tissue foods, and a cure is almost certain to be accomplished, providing, of course, that the case is not too far gone. Dietetic and hygienic measures are of utmost importance. The child should be kept in the open air as much as possible and receive proper nourishing diet. Strained boiled oatmeal, to which a little lime water may be added is excellent. Starchy foods and sugars must be avoided. Malted milk can be highly recommended. Children of eighteen months or over may be given broths, soft-boiled eggs bean soup, and fish, egg noggs without alcohol, and thickly buttered whole wheat bread. Plenty of sunlight in the living and sleeping rooms is necessary. I have often suggested allowing the afflicted child to play out-doors in the dirt or in a clean sandpile and good results have invariably been obtained. I attribute these favorable results to the absorption of inorganic materials from the soil.

FUNDAMENTAL BASIS OF LIFE

Protoplasm Has Furnished the Scientists With a Most Interesting Subject for Discussion.

Protoplasm—the literal translation of which means "the first man made"—was the name given by a German scientist in 1846 to the shiny granular, semi-fluid contents of vegetable cells. It looks like the white of an egg, and it can be analysed into four chemical elements—carbon, oxygen, nitrogen and hydrogen. It is now recognised as the fundamental basis for all life; the smallest particle of it goes through what is known as the cycle of life—free motion, feeling, feeding and reproduction. When in some unconscious way it grows membrane for a covering, or a little nucleus, a kernel somewhere within it—science calls it a cell. These cells are the same in plants and animals. Prof. Jacques Loeb showed the importance of this fact. Although plants, he explained, have no nervous systems, they have "instinctive movements." In analysis of instincts, he bound together, in the cell common to them, the plant and the worm at the root of the plant (as some day, perhaps, the tree of life and the serpent may be bound); and he called their reflex actions "tropisms." Then he pointed out that tropisms are mechanical acts—that moth and fly and ivy leaf move, in spite of themselves, in chemical subjection to light, heat and odors (which the scientist calls emanations").—From the Metropolitan.

Proper Way.

"I wish you wouldn't growl so much," declared the wife, an actress.

"Why shouldn't I growl when the meals are cold?" retorted the husband.

"You took me from the stage to be your wife."

"Yes."

"Then if you disapprove of the way I play the part kindly express your disaprpoval by means of hissing."

They Never Speak Now.

Maud—So Jack compared me with something sweet, did he? The dear fellow! What was it?

Marie—I don't think I should tell you.

Maud—Oh, do. I insist.

Marie—Well, he referred to you as "the human marshmallow." You certainly had laid the powder on thick, dear.

USING WASTE PAPER

Many Ways in Which They Prove Valuable in the Home

Tissue and all soft papers are splendid for polishing windows. The texture is firm enough to stand a good deal of rubbing, and as the parts soil they can be thrown away. In this way a clean surface is applied to the glass throughout the operation. In using a duster the soiled part is rubbed again and again on the glass. This small point is worth considering.

Paper is the one great agent for cleaning the outside of frying pans and sauce pans. A brisk rubbing with pieces of old newspapers will remove every trace of soot from the outsides of these vessels after using, then they can be washed readily inside and out.

The inside of a frying pan, too, readily yields its grease and [illegible] color if well rubbed with a piece of paper. When all the grease has been removed it can be washed in the usual way with no difficulty whatever.

Candlesticks, when made hot, will yield all their grease to soft paper far better than to a duster.

When grates and stoves are black-leaded the use of paper daily will keep up a high polish and remove all spots, thus saving more labor in re-black-leading.

Brass work and door plates will keep their lustre longer by being rubbed with paper than with a cloth.

Newspapers put down evenly and thickly under carpets not only make the carpet feel trebly thick and soft under foot, but moths, disliking the printers' ink exceedingly, will not lay their eggs near it. It is also said that moths will not molest furs if wrapped in newspapers when put away.

Shredded and finely cut paper makes a very good filling for cushions and pillows.

Politeness in War

While on a visit to two of his sisters who were attending college at Montreal, Senor Ignacio Muriel, a wealthy young Mexican land owner and farmer, told of incidents connected with the daily life of the country of revolutions. "If a small army comes along," he said, "we know better than to offer resistance. Very politely we offer grain or bullocks, perhaps, and with a flourish the rebel captain will write a note promising to pay in the name of his leader, but the rancher very well knows these will never be redeemed." Senor Muriel speaks good English but uses shoulders, chin, hands and body to give his words better expression.

Hunting by Aeroplane

Hunting game from an aeroplane will likely be one of the recognised field sports. In France an aeronaut was invited to take part in such an event, and while flying about the field he was struck in the eye by a bullet from one of the guns and painfully though not seriously, wounded. He managed to bring the machine safely to the ground, and then had his wound dressed by some surgeons who happened to be among the spectators.

"THE DEVIL'S HORSE"

Just off the main road from London to Cambridge, between Ware and Puckeridge, is a straggling hamlet called Standon Green End. Here in the middle of a meadow, says "Cycling," stands a remarkable monument, known as the Balloon Stone. Under a hinged metal flap is a bronze plate bearing an inscription chronicling the first balloon ascent. Lunardi's feat created a tremendous sensation, all London turning out to witness his departure into the upper atmosphere. His sole companions were a dog, a cat, and a pigeon. When he was nearing the earth in the field where the Balloon Stone stands, five laborers declined to take hold of his mooring ropes, and swearing they would have nothing to do with the "devil's horse," took to their heels. But for the plucky conduct of a young servant girl from an adjoining farm-house, who seized the rope and summoned assistance, the pioneer balloonist would not have effected a landing.

FOSSILS AND GOLD

In Alaska the bones, and often the entire bodies, of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer, and the bison, are found most abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferous deposits that one scientist, who has just been exploring Alaska, says [illegible] as indexes [illegible] richness of the soil. In ancient times both the gold and [illegible] the bodies of the animals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by the action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared. Consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood.

LAUNDRY HELPS

When buying soap, get it in large quantities, as this usually means a considerable reduction in price, and also because soap improves in quality and durability by being kept.

An excellent hard soap can be made at home from these ingredients: Five pounds of clean grease, one can of potash, one heaping tablespoonful of borax, two tablespoonfuls of ammonia and one quart and a cup over of cold water. Dissolve the potash in the water, then add the borax and ammonia, and slowly stir in the grease melted and lukewarm, and continue stirring until the mixture thickens; then pour it into a pan to harden, and when firm enough cut into cakes.

Towels that are very soiled and dingy will become sweet and white if treated in this way: Cover with cold water and set on the back of the stove. Add a little pure, white soap, shaved, and the juice of a lemon. Let the water come to a boil gradually. If very badly soiled repeat the process. Rinse in tepid water and then in cold water.

If a cupful of vinegar is put with the water in which colored clothes are washed, it will prevent the color from running.

To bleach handkerchiefs after washing let them stand overnight in water in which a bit of cream of tartar has been dissolved.

Wheat starch, which can be bought in packages, makes the fabric softer and more pliable than does cornstarch. Cornstarch requires about a quarter more water than wheat starch.

For starching lingerie use one teaspoon of starch, one quart of water and half a teaspoon each of borax and lard or wax.

A sheet of sandpaper on which to smooth the irons will be found useful in the laundry.

Keep a few dress-hangers in the laundry, and as soon as a frock is ironed put it on a hanger, so that it will not lose its shape.

Argentina recently exported its first cargo of tin, a German foundry being the destination.

A dish of charcoal placed in the pantry will keep articles of food sweet and wholesome.

MONSTER HEADDRESSES

Gay French Queen Wore One Nearly Four Feet High

Marie Antoinette had a passion for extraordinary headdresses. One structure that she invented was forty-five inches in height and was composed of many yards of gauze and ribbon. From the folds sprang bunches of roses, and the entire edifice was surmounted by a waving plume of white feathers. It is recorded that when Maria Theresa received a portrait of her daughter wearing this headdress she exclaimed: "This is no daughter of mine! It is the portrait of an actress!"

The Duchess of Chartres determined to surpass the Queen and designed a headdress two inches higher. It was made up of many plumes waving at the top of a tower. Two waxen figures, representing the little Comte de Beaujolais (the brother of Louis Philippe) in his nurse's arms, were worn as ornaments. Beside them a parrot picked at a plate of cherries, and the wax figure of a black boy reclined at the nurse's feet. On different parts of the tower were the initials of the Duchesse's husband, her father and her father-in-law, made from her own hair.

At this time France and England were at war. In a naval engagement of the French frigate Licorne struck her flag, but the Belle Poule, another French vessel crippled the Hector, an English man-of-war. As the Frenchmen were about to board two English vessels bore down to their consort's assistance, and the Belle Poule sailed away. The English fleet returned to Plymouth with two prizes, the Licorne and a French lugger.

The French, although they had lost a frigate, proclaimed a victory. The Queen and her women wore headdresses that represented the Belle Poule under full sail plowing a sea of green gauze in pursuit of the English frigate. This construction was known as the "coiffure Belle Poule."

The wife of an English officer living in Paris deemed the headdress an insult to the English navy and determined to resent it. At the next public occasion therefore she appeared carrying on her head five English line-of-battle ships, a French frigate and a lugger. An arrangement of silk and gauze represented Plymouth harbor, which the English ships, with their prizes, were entering. Each vessel carried a streamer that bore its name, and on the edifice at the back the word "Plymouth" appeared in glittering beads.

The audacity of the spirited Englishwoman struck every one dumb except the chief of police, who invited her to cross the frontier at her earliest convenience.

BOOST TO DOUKHOBORS

Mr. Drayton Says Time Will Make Them Valuable to Country

That the Doukhobor colonies at Kootenay and the boundary district are "a decided acquisition to the population of British Columbia" is the opinion of C. R. Drayton, manager of the Vancouver Financial Corporation, who returned from a business trip to the upper country. "The people," he says, "are frugal, sober, thrifty, industrious and deeply religious and although they have peculiar customs that run counter to twentieth century civilization, I could not but admire the manner in which they have transformed a veritable wilderness into an earthly paradise. I think that these people, despite their ways, constitute a valuable economic asset as they do not ship their money out of the country like many aliens. They are here to stay and time will make them harmonize better with their social environment. They have a good many thousand acres of land under cultivation, own comfortable homes, one thousand horses and large herds of cattle. They work early and late and mind their own business."

"I marvelled at the fine waterworks systems they have installed in their colonies," he continued. "They have organization methods down to a perfect system. It is a mistake to suppose that they are ruled by their so-called leader, Peter Verigin. All matters affecting the welfare of the communities are decided at meetings held every Sunday, attended by two delegates from each household."

WEARING A WATCH

Several Ways to Carry One But Never in a Pocket

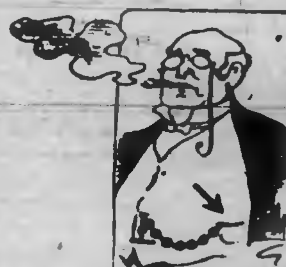
You probably have noticed that the women who wear watches pinned on their breasts are in the minority. Madame Society Matron carries hers in her gold lorgnette. When she is shopping she may wear the watch bracelet. If she is very up-to-date, however, she has a watch set in her card case or vanity bag.

Milady Has Several Choices

Even the young men have decided that watches in the waistcoat pockets, as father used to wear his, are much too slow for them and they have adopted bracelet watches. They wear them, however, in leather bracelets. You can wear your watch any place provided that you make it conspicuously individual. But don't think of wearing it on a chain and tucked away in a watch pocket as grandmother did or even pinned to your breast as mother seemed to think was the right way to carry her timepiece.

WILLIE WEARS HIS ON THE WRIST

Willie wears his on the wrist



Father still wears it in the same old way.

NOT FITTED FOR MEDICINE

Eminent Austrian Counsels Women to Stick to Nursing

Prof. Hochenegg, the eminent surgeon, in an address to the Austrian Women's Association expressed the opinion that women were especially adapted to the profession of nursing.

He deplored the fact that their remuneration was small. The professor dissented, however, from the opinion of others in the matter of women doctors. He said the more he became acquainted with women medical students the more he was convinced that women were not fitted to become medical practitioners. He added:

"This is not meant for censure, but only a statement of fact. A doctor must judge independently and often act rapidly. His whole work demands qualities which are rarely found to be fully developed in the female sex. Despite the great industry and high intelligence shown by many of my women students, they are destined to succumb in the struggle, or at least not to be able to obtain a position corresponding to their work and their sacrifice of the joys of life.

"As nurses for the sick and wounded the conditions are entirely different. Here women nurses possess special power and fitness and are not subject to male competition."

Feathers on Shoes

Here is the feather fad adapted to footwear. And it's distinctly Parisian! Small tips are utilized for this purpose and of course should match or be in strict harmony with the dress worn. Two usually constitute the shoe ornament which is worn just as any buckle or bow would be.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm labourers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West," $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

FAMILY OF FROGS HAS ONLY ONE EYE

Intended for Snake Food, Their Cyclopean Deformity Saved Their Lives

Way out in the valley of the Humber River, Ontario, where silence mostly prevails through the bulrushes and the lowhanging willows, there was discovered a new colony, which is known as the family of One-Eyed Frogs. Ostracised by their double-eyed brethren, they dwelt in a pool of their own, back in the swamp from the Humber River, where the pond lilies winked one eye in sympathy. In many ways nature has contorted herself in an effort to be mystical, but perhaps the most useless joke of all was played upon these little green, amphibious animals of the ge. - Rana. The little creatures were discovered late in the fall, and, destined originally for no higher ambition than food for snakes, this shortage of nature prolonged their life and made them a curio, to be preserved by Mr. William James, Toronto. Mr. James has had a naturalist's leanings for some time, his plans being to keep a black snake as pet through the winter. To keep the reptile, a store of frogs must be provided, and Mr James in search of fodder for his pet, penetrated the marshes of the Humber and there discovered the Family of One-Eyed Frogs. He was first astonished at the ease with which several of these usually elusive animals fell captive, and examination showed the reason. They were built with one Cyclopean eye placed askew.

The remarkable part of Mr. James' searchings was that while all the frogs in the neighboring ponds had been duly equipped by nature with two eyes, all the denizens of this isolated pond had but one.

FAT IS NOT STRENGTH

Exercise and Moderate Eating Necessary for Health

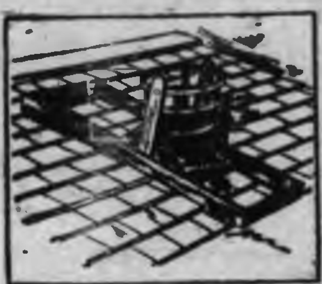
Don't load the body down with fat. Eat according to your needs; not according to your likes. Outside of "looks" which are sometimes in and sometimes out of fashion, obesity is a hindrance to the enjoyment and comfort of life.

When a person grows fat, each organ gets its portion. The consequence is often serious if these fatty deposits grow so large as to interfere with the normal action of the organs. Shortness of breath, palpitation, bronchitis and other unpleasant and unnecessary difficulties are occasioned. The two great causes of obesity are too much food and too little exercise. Strong, able-bodied persons with a moderate amount of time should make it a duty to take enough exercise in the open air to regulate their weight.

Persons who are obliged to sit or stand all day should endeavor to eat strengthening foods—but not fat-producing foods. It is particularly necessary that persons who are disabled should take great care in choosing their diet. Fat is not strength.

For Roof Workers

If you ever find it necessary to repair your roof, you will doubtless be troubled as to what to do with your tools and nails and supplies. That's an easy trouble to dispose of. Make a roofer's basket, like that shown in the sketch, using an old fruit basket for the central feature and an old buck saw blade to furnish the teeth that keeps the frame from slipping. When using this basket see that the teeth are sunk into the shingles. Otherwise the basket will slide off.



Blasting With Lime

You don't have to use gun powder or dynamite every time you want to get a block of stone out of your way in a field or break up a boulder. There are easier and simpler ways. The rock of Gibraltar was honeycombed by the Moors without a bit of powder being used. Lime is the stuff that does the work. A series of holes are drilled in the rock and these are partly filled with unslacked lime. Water is then poured into the holes and the rock is split as though you did it with an axe. Another method is to drive a dry wooden plug into the hole and pour water on it. The expansion of the wood will cause the rock to split.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A Coming Treat

The Seattle Post, in referring to Madame MacKaye, who is to appear in the Grand Opera House here on the 15th, says: "Percy MacKaye's fine dramatic poem "To-morrow" interpreted last night at the Metropolitan by Mme Harriet Labadie, was an artistic triumph—a drama lived, fully and completely, with the absence of those discordant notes which necessarily appear in the most perfect representation of plays performed by a full company."

The Stork Wins

Yesterday a local lady who, some months ago bought a canary at Messrs. Richard Hall & Sons, was telling her husband what a bargain she had got. She said, "that canary is the finest singer I ever heard. It is a splendid bird." Her husband, who has no ear for music, replied, "Your canary is a fine bird, but, believe me, sweetheart, it takes a stork to deliver the goods." If there is any doubt cast on this story ask Mr. Clayton of the Royal Theatre.

Milk Vendors Fined.

At yesterday's police court, J. W. Anderson was charged with selling milk without a license. Mr. Anderson explained that he thought his wife had got a license. He knew a license was necessary. This error of his cost Mr. Anderson $4.60. Henry Cox was handed out a similar dose. Mr. Cox said he did not peddle milk. People came to him for it. Sanitary Inspector Spence said "You had a regular customer." Four more milk vendors, who had taken out licenses since the Inspector had been to their places, but not present, were given similar costs.

HOW TO ABSORB AN UNLOVELY COMPLEXION

(Phyllis Moore in Town Talks)

The face which is admired for its beauty must have a satin-smooth skin, pink and white and youthful looking. The only thing I know of that can make such a complexion out of an aged, faded, or discolored one—I mean a natural, not a painted, complexion—is ordinary mercolized wax. This remarkable substance literally absorbs the unsightly cuticle, a little each day, the clear, healthy, girlish skin beneath gradually peeping out until within a week such blemishes as freckles, moth patches, liver spots, blotches and pimples are discarded with the old skin. If you will procure an ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, use like cold cream every night, washing this off mornings, you'll find it a veritable wonder-worker.

Another valuable natural treatment is a wash lotion to remove wrinkles which can be easily prepared. Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. Bathe the face in this and you'll find it "works like magic."

Farther Particulars Re Fire.

In our issue of yesterday appeared an item, absolutely true and unvarnished about a local cop, who, at 4.15 a.m., on Thursday warned the watchmen at the Turnbull store wreck that there was a big fire in the East ward. Yesterday further particulars were procured. It seems that this vigilant officer rushed to the fire station. He told the watchmen on duty "Hoots mon, what kind of firemen are ye. Dinna ye ken that the East Ward is on fire?" The watchman saw the Eastern sky illuminated and sent the cop up stairs to wake the Assistant Chief. As the officer's little No. 5 boots resounded on the stairway, the watchman warned him not to wake the fireman until the disaster be located. The Assistant Chief said to the cop "You had better find where the fire is located. The cop, helmet in hand, rushed to the Hunter street bridge. In the meantime the watchman called up No. 177, the C.P.R. station and asked the operator "Have any of your conductors recently seen a big fire east of Ashburnham?" He was assured that no such report had been made. The cop returned to the fire station just as the morning sun rose above the eastern horizon and put out the fire, which was only a reflection cast on the clouds by Old Sol. The cop remarked "That's surely got ma angora. Here I've lost yin fu' 'oor's sleep!"

Mr. R. Urquhart, of Glasgow, Scotland, a well known traveller, passed through the city yesterday on a trip through Canada.

The Sanitary Inspector has completed an inspection of Elm street residences and is much dissatisfied with the unsanitary conditions existing in this neighborhood.

At yesterday's police court a young man arrested by Special C.P.R. officer Weller as a vag, was discharged on his promise to "jump town."

Yesterday morning at 7.48 an alarm took the brigade to Albert St. It was a chimney fire, fortunately without resulting damage.

Local milkmen will hereafter demand cash for their goods. No discount is given for the use of water where, if such be possible, it is used in the milk. Still, joking apart, the milk sold in Peterborough is of high grade.

STARTLING EXPOSURE OF ELECTION METHODS IN SASKATCHEWAN

Hundreds of Aliens Allowed to Vote While Hundreds of British Subjects Were Disfranchised

(Special to The Times.)

Winnipeg, Sept. 5.—A complete exposure of the methods by which the Scott government carried the last Saskatchewan elections was made by Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, speaking at Moose Jaw last week. It was a terrible indictment of the methods of the Liberal machine in that province. He proved, and he had facts and affidavits to back up his assertions, that the Scott government stole the election by the most despicable methods.

This is how it was accomplished. When the new election law was passed by the Legislature just prior to the contest it was so framed that to entitle a man to vote all that was sufficient was for a man to have his name on the voters' list. No voter could be challenged either as to his citizenship or his residential qualifications. A voter with his name on the list could not be forced to take an oath as to his British citizenship.

They All Voted.

The object of this amendment is shown by the printed instructions which were sent out by one Liberal candidate Cameron Lochead. His signed instructions to his agents were as follows:

"Remember every name on the list votes and no man not on the list can vote. Every man on the list is entitled to vote whether he is naturalized or not. If his name is on the list no one can stop his voting."

The registration clerks made up the lists and they proceeded to freely disfranchise British subjects while hundreds who were not British subjects were added to the lists.

Mr. Rogers read an affidavit from W. J. Gallon of Weyburn who swore that thirty-one names of aliens were added in his polling sub-division. The Liberal candidate admitted at the time all these men were aliens but said that the onus of proof was on the Conservative.

Aliens Voted.

Mr. Gallon in the affidavit which Mr. Rogers read swore as follows in regard to these thirty-one.

"That at the said registrations I drew the attention of the registrar to the fact that these thirty-one parties were aliens and not qualified to be entered on the voters' list.

"That the said R. M. Mitchell, Liberal candidate, admitted that the said thirty-one persons were not British subjects, but, being on the list, the onus was on us to prove they were not qualified, under the clause of the act provided for striking off names.

"As the only method provided for in the act to have these names struck off the list was to subpoena each one of these persons to appear at the revision at Radville, bringing them from twenty-five miles to thirty miles, and paying mileage and expenses, we could not pursue the matter further along that line, but relied on the oath to prevent them voting on election day, it subsequently developed that the clause of the said oath requiring a voter to swear he was a British subject, had been eliminated at the last session of the legislature.

Thirty-One.

"That the said list of voters for Gladmar polling subdivision, No. 37, contains sixty-one names, of which thirty-one were aliens, no one of whom was eligible to apply for naturalization papers before the revision of the lists.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act.

"Declared before me at the city of Regina, in the province of Saskatchewan, this 11th day of January, A.D. 1913.

(Sgd.) W. J. GALLON,
(Sgd.) J. F. L. EMBURY,
A Commissioner for Oaths."

Another Example.

Again Mr. Rogers read an affidavit from Arthur D. Hodgins who was a concrete worker on the government asylum building at North Battleford which showed that fifty men who were at work on the new structure and had only been a few months in the province were placed on the lists.

Mr. Rogers also presented sworn declarations which showed that in Premier Scott's own county there were no less than five hundred British subjects who were not allowed their franchise while over 200 individuals who were non-residents of the constituency or else aliens were placed on the lists by the election clerk and owing to the elimination of the oath in regard to the British subject from the election act there was nothing to prevent them from voting.

THE SANOL PREPARATIONS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

Attention is drawn to an advertisement in this issue of the Sanol Manufacturing Co. of Canada, Ltd.

This Company, judging by the authentic list of personally signed recommends regarding their preparations, have got a good article. We would call attention, among others to letters from W. D. These two are chosen at random from similar letters and should convince sufferers that the Sanol preparations are worth a trial.

VOL. XL, NO. 209 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, MONDAY, SEPT. 8, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS

UNITED STATES WILL HAVE LOTS OF SURPLUS WHEAT

Latest Crop Figures Make Reciprocity Arguments Still More Ridiculous

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—To the reciprocity priests who were advocating a market in the United States for Canadian wheat, the latest Washington official reports must make interesting reading. The American government report shows that a record-breaking winter wheat crop has been safely harvested in the United States. The yield is 511,000,000 bushels or 18,000,000 bushels more than the big yield of 1906. There is also a heavy yield of spring wheat so that the total American wheat crop is placed at 744,000,000 bushels. This means the republic will have a surplus of at least 150,000,000 bushels for export.

Fine Chance

A fine chance the Canadian farmer would have in that market with this surplus and it is no wonder that the Winnipeg wheat quotations are fifteen cents higher than the Minneapolis.

It is also no wonder that the Liberal journals have little to say these days about free trade in wheat with the neighboring country. In addition, as was pointed out by Conservatives at the time the agreement was being discussed would likely happen the Democrats are giving Canada all the advantage of reciprocity without our opening our market to their surplus. The Democratic tariff as it now stands provides that wheat may be placed on the free list.

It Cannot Be Done

Somebody has started a movement to bridge the two parties together on the naval question. That will never be done as long as the Laurier Opposition determines to make a national duty into a question of party politics. It can't be done while Liberal members are ready to read the Declaration of Independence and talk about a second Boston tea party, in the Canadian House of Commons.

KEIR HARDIE TO DEMAND ARREST OF THE PROCURESS

Leader of Labor Party Publishes a Pamphlet Regarding Piccadilly Flat Scandal

London, Sept. 6.—Undeterred by the silence of The London Press of both parties, Mr. Keir Hardie seems determined to get to the bottom of the so-called "Piccadilly flat scandal" and there are many here who hope that he may succeed, for there is little doubt that conditions in London at present are such that there is the greatest need of a man with the indomitable courage of the late William T. Stead, whose violent articles against the "Maiden Tribute in the modern Babylon" are still remembered by many of the older people among us.

Deprived of every opportunity to voice his indignation in the press, and muzzled when he tried to arouse the house of commons, Mr. Keir Hardie recently published a pamphlet which has been sold by the tens of thousands in the streets of London, and the eloquence of which is equal to the articles which landed Mr. Stead in prison.

Home Secretary Fears.

After showing that the home secretary intends to remain inactive, not because he doubts that a crime has been committed or that similar unspeakable crimes are being committed in this city every day, but because he fears the revelations which might be made during a trial, Mr. Keir Hardie writes:

"My task is done. I do not stop to apportion blame for what has happened. Mr. McKenna appears anxious and willing to defend everything done in connection with the case, while disclaiming any interference by his own department. My contention having regard to all the facts is that there is evidence enough in the hands of the police, on which to base a charge of procuration or what in America would be called "White slavery," against "Queenie" Gerald, and those who paid her large sums of money to procure girls for them. It may be that the evidence would be mainly circumstantial, and that the poor victims themselves could not be traced. Suppose, if you will, that the charge would ultimately break down on this point. The authorities have proof that the woman is a professed procuress and the trial and the revelations connected therewith would be valuable in educating public opinion on the moral depths of degradation which exist in London, and on the powerful and far reaching agencies which are at work to lead young girls astray and would probably lead to a strengthening of the law for dealing with the evil. So long as the man is immune from exposure the real root of the disease will be untouched."

LEGAL CONVENTION TOO BIG A THING FOR MONTREAL TO HANDIE

Only a Handful Had Privilege of Hearing Lord Chancellor --Impressions of Sunday World Representative

Montreal, Sept. 6.—The big meeting of the American Bar Association is a thing of the past. The lord chancellor and the ex-presidents have departed, to say nothing of the viceroys, prime ministers, judges and jurists of repute. It was an event not without interest and not without significance. Its significance in some directions may be over-estimated; in others not seen at all, or but dimly appreciated.

It was king's weather which greeted the chancellor of the king. Except for smart downpour of rain Wednesday afternoon the weather for the week was delightful, "to warm," you may say, but that is a good fault. The city seemed at its best, and Montreal is rapidly becoming a most attractive city; yet it must be admitted that the convention was too big a thing for Montreal to handle.

In the first place there was no hall accommodation. Even one hall however inadequate might have answered the purpose, but the association seemed to have no settled place of meeting. One day it was at a theatre, the next at a hospital and the third in an assembly room of a hotel. Fully five thousand people would have filled a vast auditorium like Massey Hall to hear the lord chancellor. As it was only a handful of people had the privilege. Why any convention so large ever came to a city with accommodation so inadequate must always remain a mystery.

The big hotels were overtaxed to the breaking point, although Montreal is better equipped in this regard than Toronto. As a rule nothing like the anticipated number ever turns up at a convention, and of those only a small percentage stop at the finest hotels. But this convention had the numbers, and they were people who demanded the best and were prepared to pay for it.

Again, the absence of a great auditorium embarrasses the association; less than eight hundred people could be served at the banquet which twelve hundred desired to attend. It is estimated that five thousand people came to Montreal on account of the meeting of the bar association, of which number perhaps twenty per cent. left immediately.

NO SECOND HOCKEY TEAM WANTED HERE

It is generally understood that Mr. Meharry is trying to organize a second local hockey team for Peterborough—the Intermediate League. Mr. Meharry has control of the skating rink. It is to be hoped that Mr. Meharry will realize that the public of Peterborough who have given him such good support in the past, would not favor any such proposed action which seems to carry the earmarks of possibly selfish ends. Peterborough is proud of her hockey team any anything calculated to destroy its efficiency cannot but reflect on the motives of any one starting such a movement.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Unsettled, with showers in some localities.

MISS ALLEN'S RECITAL CONSERVATORY TO-NIGHT

Peterborough has made great strides in musical culture within the past few years. People here whose highest conception of music used to be that presented by mintrel shows, are now seeking a higher grade.

Attention of such people is drawn to the musical recital to be given in the Conservatory of Music hall, this evening by Miss Dorothy Allan, soloist of St. Paul's Church. At this musical treat will be witnessed the result of Miss Allan's study with Clerici, the great Italian Maestro. Signor Clerici expressed in unmeasured terms his appreciation of Miss Allan's voice and vocal renditions.

A special programme is to be presented. This includes selections by Mr. Asa Huycke, the well known local vocalist. Mr. John Allan, organist of St. Paul's, will be the accompanist.

BIG INCREASE IN OCEAN RATES

Government's Action in Ordering Enquiry Meets With General Approval-How Rates Have Grown

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—The action of the Government in making a prompt inquiry into the increase in ocean freight rates in recent years has met of the commendation from all parts of the country. H. L. Drayton, K.C., Chairman of the Railway Commission, is at present in the old country, making a thorough investigation into the subject and is taking the matter up with the British Government with a view to co-operation between the two Governments to compel some control over rates such as the Dominion has over the railway rates in Canada.

Increase is Serious

Just how serious is the increase in rates is shown by the following report by F. A. C. Bickerdike, the Canadian trade commissioner at Manchester.

"During the past few years charges have increased regularly each season for the carriage of goods between Canada and the mother country. Of late, however, the rise has been more rapid. For instance flour from Canadian ports to Liverpool has advanced from 9.75 cents per 100 lbs. in 1911 to 17.67 cents last year, and grain from 6.97 to 13.92 cents. On crockery from England to Canada freights have advanced from 17s. 6d. to 22s. 6d., on hardware 20s. 6d., 20s. to 27s. 6d., and on cotton goods from 22s. to 30s. It is understood in this district that the British Government and the Government of the Dominion are about to investigate the matter."

IRISH GUARDS BAND CONCERT

Arrangements have been completed for the Irish Guards Band Concert in the Brock street Rink, on Wednesday evening next, Sept. 10. The plan and tickets are at Madill's Drug Store and at the Peterborough Music Co. Dr. Orr, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, states that the Irish Guards has drawn the largest crowds of any visiting band and is justly claimed to be the most popular organization in the British Empire.

A BETTER RACE OF MEN AND WOMEN

The building of a better race of men and women is the big theme of Percy MacKaye's drama "Tomorrow" which Mme. Labadie will interpret on September 15 at the Grand Opera House, under the auspices of Ladies' Aid, Peterborough Health Association.

In simple yet never to be forgotten terms, the play portrays the determining power of woman for the betterment of the race, through her choice in love. A bigger and a better and a more perfect race of human beings—will that race ever come? That has been the question of the ages. Much of the greatest literature of the day is built up around this great theme. Bacteriology proves that every known germ disease can be conquered and removed,—eugenics that every racial poison that has accumulated out of the ignorance of the past can be eliminated from the race,—heredity in the mathematical law of Mendel, that we can be the master of our own destiny, that we can produce a race of more perfect men and women, and psychology is fast proving that a more perfect mental and moral spiritual development can be produced which shall give to the world a character equal to that of the greatest revelation we have yet had of the human species.

"Tomorrow" is written by one who has been deeply touched by the new knowledge and its outlook and who has been stirred with a desire to spread the power and inspiration of it. The tense dramatic action of the play is laid in California, and in the development of the stirring love story of Mana Dale, the central figure of the play, the vista opening for the leadership of woman is the greatest ever offered her, for in her almost alone lies the solution and the coming of to-morrow.

Soo, Sept. 6.—In a collision at Blind River last night, the steamer Germanic sank the tug Victoria in the harbor, one man, McDonald, of Victoria, losing his life by drowning. The passengers and crew of the Victoria were taken on board the Germanic, which proceeded to Blind River and arrived in the Soo at an early hour this morning.

BIG CONSPIRACY IS DISCOVERED DESIGNED TO HELP CHINESE

Police Make Important Discovery While Investigating Chinese Murder Case

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Discovery of an "underground railway" for the spiriting away of Chinese fugitives from justice and forming an entrance for Orientals into this country was reported to-day by detectives at work on the murder of Charles Sing, a Chicago merchant.

The alleged conspiracy extended from British Columbia to Hongkong and has branches in many cities of the United States, and at least one in Mexico.

Secrets of the underground were discovered in a raid on rooms at the rear of a chop suey restaurant in North Clark street. The principal find was what the police call the "black book" of the gang, from which the alleged schemes in aid of fugitives will be learned.

Arranged in alphabetical order were the names of the agents of the organization in the various cities, the names of some of the most notorious Chicago criminals in the country, the police say, and instructions written in Chinese characters. The police also found scores of letters from white women.

Among the cities listed in the black book as stations on the "underground" are San Francisco, Seattle, Vancouver, B.C., Ann Arbor and Detroit, Mich.; Boston and Cambridge, Mass., and Ensenada, Mexico.

LADY BARBERS IN BIG DEMAND

London, Sept. 6.—Lady barbers are growing in popularity in London. There is an increasing demand for this class of lady help. Many Americans over here just now are loud in their praises of the appearences of the prepossessing young ladies neatly attired in white, deftly wielding the scissors and razors.

There are quite a number of these lady barber establishments distributed throughout the Metropolis. It is now one of the new wallings about which so much is being written. In the west end there are now recognized as quite necessary adjuncts to the young-men-about town.

Many of the young ladies are experts at manicuring and ladies hairdressing as well, and this kind of employment is being undertaken by ladies to an ever-increasing extent. Some of these damsels earn quite big money.

NEW SPELLING IN THE WEST

Interview With the Commissioner of Immigration in Regard to Spelling Reform

Ottawa, Sept. 6. — An English enthusiast in Simplified Spelling who spent a few months this summer in Winnipeg, Manitoba, had an interview with Mr. J. Bruce Walker, Commissioner of Immigration, on the subject of simplified spelling and its application to the needs of the foreign born population of the Western Provinces each year, 50 per cent. of administration an average of 200,000 persons have settled in the Western Provinces each year, 0 per cent. of whom are foreigners, that is to say, natives of one or other of the countries of the Continent of Europe. The Commissioner of Immigration is, therefore, in a peculiarly fortunate position to speak as to the need of something to bring the English tongue more quickly and clearly within the knowledge of the young foreign speaking child.

In the course of the interview Mr Walker was asked:

"You know something of simplified spelling. Does your experience in dealing with foreigners induce you to favor the new spelling?"

"I am an enthusiastic admirer of simplified spelling. My experience among the foreigners who come to Canada long since brought conviction to my mind on this subject. In the Canadian West, into which the natives of Europe are pouring in ever increasing numbers year after year, the need of some rational, practicable and simplified form of spelling is a pressing necessity."

"What steps are you taking to assimilate this foreign material into your general population?"

Nothing can ever make for the assimilation of these varied nationalities like a common tongue—a common language. We ask these newcomers to acquire the English language with its strange, freakish methods of pronunciation and its odd, barbaric methods of spelling. Is it any wonder then that these nationalities seek to perpetrate their respective mother tongues, which, if encouraged, will eventually re-create the conditions subsequent to the destruction of Babel."

"Then you believe that the common use of the language is going to help digesting and assimilating these diverse races?"

"Yes, the solution of the great national problem of the Dominion of Canada rests upon the common use of a common language, and simplified spelling, based on a reasonable, sensible, scientific principle will achieve that end better than any other effort we could make."

"Do you find any local objection to spelling reform?"

"Well, the matter is not considered. The average teacher struggles and flounders in the labyrinth of difficulties that besets him in teaching the foreign youngster, but he goes

THAW STAYS IN COATICOOK FOR FEW DAYS MORE

Does Not Want to Leave His Present Quarters For Montreal Until the Fourteenth

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Thaw will not be brought to-day to the immigration offices here, though it was said at noon that Harry would not come here until Monday or Tuesday next. There was a report all morning that Harry Thaw would arrive here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but a long-distance phone message from Coaticook at 1 p.m. said Thaw was still there, and there was no signs of his removal here to-day. It was reported there that he would remain in his present quarters until the 14th, then come hear for his hearing at the King's bench, appeal side, on the 15th.

Thaw's case may go to the privy council according to Mr. McKeown, one of his lawyers this morning. He arrived back in the city last night from Coaticook after the turmoil of yesterday, and was wrathy because the deportation verdict was read when word of granting of the habeas corpus writ by Justice Gervais here had been received.

"Everything is tied up now until the 15th," he said. "We intend to take the case through the supreme court to the privy council. The end of the case is not anywhere in sight."

Jerome Didn't Appear.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 6.—William Travers Jerome, arrested in Coaticook yesterday on a charge of gambling, and held for nearly an hour in a cell, failed to appear before Magistrate James McKee for a preliminary hearing to-day, and the case was put over until Thursday, Sept. 11.

His bail of $500 was not declared forfeited.

Magistrate McKee granted the adjournment, but took occasion bitterly to denounce Jerome while a crowd of perhaps 60 idlers in the courtroom applauded.

Jerome meantime was a Norton's Mills, Vt., where he went yesterday by motor, after being admitted to bail.

NEW WHITE SLAVE LAW WILL BE VERY STRICT

Legislation Recently Passed by Government Expected to Fulfil Object

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Several changes in the anti-White Slavery laws come into effect on Sept. 14 as a result of legislation recently put through by the Dominion government, and the changes are expected to fulfil their object in minimizing still further the traffic in human souls, which is more common in Canada than is generally supposed. Any person found in a disorderly house is liable to a fine of not exceeding $100 or two months in prison, and the thugs who act as bodyguards in these houses are liable to a five year imprisonment.

Procurers may be sentenced no matter what age, or moral character of their victims, and punishment ranging from one to five years in prison with whipping for the second offence. Another recommendation of the National committee for the suppression of white slavery, which is being brought into effect, is the penalty of one year's imprisonment or a $500 fine to neglectful husbands and fathers.

OLD FLY PLAGUE OF EGYPT IS NOW BOTHERING LONDON

London, Sept. 6.—The plague of mosquitoes has been manifesting itself during the past few days in various suburban districts of London, especially in the neighborhood of Essex flats.

Wherever there is a marsh land this pest is making itself particularly obnoxious, and the results of a bite are very painful, the symptoms frequently taking the form of an inflamed swelling as big as an egg.

This fact seems to indicate that the mosquitoes are of the true eastern variety, the eggs of which are no doubt brought over in vessels coming from India ports and hatched here.

This, at any rate, was the theory advanced by an old Anglo-Indian. "There is very little doubt," he said "that the insects are of the malaria swamp variety."

QUARREL WITH WIFE ON PHONE COSTS OKLAHOMA NEGRO $11.50

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 6.—Robert Barton, a negro arrested for disturbing the peace of the local telephone company, and placed in jail complains that he is the victim of a sure-enough hoodoo.

"Say, boss, please, sir, I wants to talk to mah wife down in Houston, Tex.," said Barton to the long distance operator. Barton was asked if he had money with which to pay the toll. He exhibited $2.50 in silver, and was admitted to a booth. Shortly afterwards a disturbance was heard on the wire between Houston and Oklahoma City.

"Woman, I tells you to come right on up to dis heah town, and dis am your husban' dat's doin' de talkin'."

"Man, Ise a gwine to stay right heah, an' yeh might as well stop argufyin to me, 'cause I knows who yeh is an' all 'bout yeh."

Barton did not know the value of time in using a telephone wire, and supposed that the fee of $2.50 entitled him to "have it out" with his wife in Houston. When the negro was pulled from the booth and the toll counted, he was found to owe the telephone company $11.50. Barton's eyes resembled two white marbles when he saw the bill.

"Say, man, is all dat jest foh telefoaming?" he asked.

"That's what it costs."

He had only $2.50, which left a balance of $9.

"Boss, ain't yeh got some kind of a job yeh could give me? I sure wants to pay yeh, but I jest ain't got any more money."

Barton was taken to all the different departments of the telephone company, but no job was available. A motor cycle officer was summoned, and Barton was hustled to jail.

"An' I nevah could heah a word dat woman was sayin'," growled Barton as he was locked up.

HIS WAY OUT

An Italian who kept a fruit stand was much annoyed by possible customers who made a practice of handling the fruit and pinching it, thereby leaving it softened and often spoiled. Exasperated beyond endurance, he finally put up a sign which read:

"If you must pincha da fruit—pincha da cocoanut!"

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 75c., and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are composed to sell at low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 75c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 75c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St., directly opposite Cressman's store.

KEEPING BREAD FRESH

Cold Storage Found to Prevent Staleness for Several Days

For thousands of years mankind has been content with allowing its bread to get stale, and this fact has come to be considered unavoidable. It is the more surprising that researches by Dr. J. R. Katz at the Physical-Chemical Laboratory of the University of Amsterdam, should have shown that there is in point of fact no need for allowing our bread to lose its toothsomeness. When kept either at a very low or very high temperature, bread is in fact preserved "new" for some days at least, staleness being due only to the ordinary temperature of bread storage and consumption.

In Dr. Katz's experiments, bread was kept absolutely new for more than 40 hours at a temperature of 60 degrees centigrade, while at a temperature of 30 to 40 degrees it became only "half stale." At ordinary temperatures it of course grew rapidly stale.

Dr. Katz accordingly recommends keeping the newly baked bread at temperatures of 50 degrees centigrade and upward, thus keeping the crumb absolutely new, whereas the crust by absorbing water becomes limp and flexible. If the bread be then put back again into the oven for a short time the crust will give up its water, thus becoming hard and crisp as before. An even simpler course is preserving the bread in cold storage rooms kept at sufficiently low temperatures. If these rooms be sufficiently dry, the crust likewise remains hard and crisp so that the bread even after a considerable time is equivalent to new bread.

Apart from its importance to the housewife this process is of the highest economical interest, relieving as it does the baker of the necessity of baking his bread by night.—Scientific American.

Simple Home Remedy

Simple remedies often prove effective if used quickly and correctly. For instance, if you get a bit of dust, an eyelash or any sort of "speck" in your eye try this method. Turn the eye affected toward the nose as far as you can. Pull the eyelid down as far as you can over the eye. Then blow the opposite nostril hard. This will frequently carry the offending particle down through the eye duct into the nose. Do not rub the eye when there is something in it. That merely inflames the eyeball without effecting a remedy. If something lodges in the eyeball this simple method will probably fail. It will then be necessary to secure proper treatment as soon as possible.

RACE OF PYGMIES FOUND IN PAPUA

A New Tribe Which is Here Described as the Most Primitive Yet Encountered

Under the title "Pygmies and the Papuans," by A. F. Wollaston, the report is presented of the expedition that was sent out by the British Ornithologists' Union to explore the interior of Dutch New Guinea. The report is of considerable general interest on account of the new race of pygmies discovered, the most primitive yet encountered, their civilization being in most respects lower than that of the Bushmen, although they appear to have some sort of instinctive morality that is not possessed by other primitive tribes that might be mentioned. For instance, the explorers found the men to be extremely modest. They were greatly embarrassed when asked to remove the curious bags they carried upon their backs, though they were otherwise destitute of clothing. They seemed to think it an impropriety to disrobe themselves of these bags in the presence of white men, and when they were induced to take them off they invariably retired to the forest to do so, and then bashfully returned to the white men. They are, apparently, an inoffensive race, and there was no evidence of the bloodthirsty characteristics that distinguished certain of the Papuans.

Men 4 Feet 6 Inches Tall

The expedition took measurements of about forty adult men, most of them in the prime of life. Their average height was found to be 4 feet 9 inches, some of them being less than 4 feet 6 inches, and the average being made up probably by the inclusion of a few half-breeds, the product of a union of Papuans and pygmies. The explorers emphasize the fact that they did not look like stunted men who might have been bigger, but like miniature men. They are cleanly built and active, with well-made legs which were in contrast to the thin-shanked Papuans. This feature is explained by the fact that they dwell in the hills and hillmen as a rule have well-shaped, muscular legs. The color of their skin is paler than that of the Papuans, some of them being almost yellow, but since they were one and all indescribably dirty it was difficult to be certain what their natural color was, a black oily mixture that they smeared over themselves making observations on this point fruitless. The hair is short, woolly and black, but some of them mix a sort of lime or mud in it to give a lighter appearance, though Mr. Wollaston is of opinion that he saw some genuine brown hair among the men.

Roaming the Mountains

Oddly enough the men grow bald at a comparatively early age, although most of them wear no covering upon their heads at all. The nose of the pygmy is straight and very wide at the nostrils, and the upper lip of many is very long and curiously convex. The eyes, too, are noticeably large and round, giving the pygmies a somewhat melancholy and dog-like look. The ornaments are few and simple, and tattooing appears to be unknown among them, though they followed the custom of piercing the ears and nostrils, and in the slits carried bits of polished bone and other curious trinkets. These pygmies dwell in no regular villages, which may explain the fact that they have escaped the observation of explorers until the present time, but wander among the hills, subsisting on roots, herbs and such animals as they can snare or kill with their bows. Their huts are remarkably well constructed of palm leaf fans, and the pygmies occupy them in family groups. The only metal tool or instrument they use is a small wedge-shaped piece of iron, one inch by two inches, inserted into a wooden handle. This they use as an axe, and the explorers say that with no other implement they have cleared many acres of dense forest, and have even felled trees of twelve or fifteen feet in circumference after the toil of many weeks.

Tribes Without Religion

They are fire makers, and by friction of a piece of rattan and tinder they can produce a blaze in a few seconds. They are wonderfully expert in this task, and seemed to think the matches of the explorers a small improvement on their crude methods. The Pygmies are on friendly terms with the Papuans of the lower country, and frequently visit them for the purposes of barter. They grow tobacco in the hills, and the Papuans do not, so they are welcomed when they come down with a store of the bitter weed, which they smoke in the form of cigarettes. If they have any religion at all, the explorers were unable to discover it, but of course the absence of a satisfactory medium of conversation would prevent the exchange of ideas on abstract subjects. The Papuans seem to be little better off, for they have no religion either, and the idols they carve are treated with contempt or derision.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The time is soon coming when the straw hat will go into cold storage.

Life is just one trouble after another. A few weeks more and we will escape from the ice man only to fall into the clutches of the coal trust.

"Thirty years ago," says a Lindsay woman, "the old fossils who are now protesting against the fashion in women's clothes were wearing bell bottom pants and alligator shoes." Great Scott! How the girls are getting back at us!

The Hon. Ted Roosevelt's statement that the Hopi Indians are "the most interesting people in the world," convinces us that he has never had the pleasure of meeting the Digger Indians who eat dried grasshoppers and are the lousiest of all the inhabitants of the earth.

The Hon. Jimmy Stratton is said to still have dreams of going to the senate. It may be true, yet we can't help thinking that, as in the past, when the Hon. Jimmy started to go in that direction, somebody managed to strew the path with a few banana peels just in time to cause him to fall some distance away from the threshold.

During the absence of Miss Mary Dunn from Charlotte, N. C., for a period of two weeks a newspaper of that town mourned thusly: "As the spring would miss the beauty and the perfume of the blossoming flowers as the woodland would miss the carolings of its song birds, which entwine every twig with a wreath of song; as the mountain brook would miss the melody born in its rippling tides as they go singing on their journey to the sea—just so will this brilliant jewel be missed." Mary has hit the editor hard and she sure will be missed. It is evident that her absence has left a void, a chasm or gap which seems to be choking with loneliness and gloom. But cheer up, brother, and turn off your gush fountain. Sweet Mary will return.

CHEAPER MONEY FOR WESTERN FARMERS

Despite the fact that the Conservative party in Alberta has urged for many years the inauguration of a plan to provide cheaper money for agriculturists it looks as though the government is going to let Saskatchewan set the pace in this important work. Late news from Regina contains an item to the effect that Saskatchewan will very probably pass legislation at the next session of the legislature to provide for the establishment of a provincial agricultural bank to be operated along similar lines to those which are followed in Germany.

Under this system the farmers, through co-operation, act as their own bankers. They pledge their individual securities jointly to issue bonds that are sold to secure the working funds. Details of the plan which Saskatchewan plans to adopt are not available, but it seems that the bank will extend its facilities only to those farmers who pledge their resources to secure the bonds. In other words the communal bank will be little more than a co-operative mortgage and loan society. Even so, if it provides money at lower rates for agriculturists it will perform an important function.

The Saskatchewan scheme takes all responsibility off the government and places it directly on the farmers.

That Terrible Fatigue Can be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many various symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and billiousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all disease of the stomach liver and bowles. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

FATHER SENT TO JAIL FOR SONS

Hamilton Magistrate Sends Man to Prison for Month in Place of His Children.

Hamilton, Sept. 6.—Altho his sons, 10 and 13 years of age, stated positively that they were guilty of the thieft of lumber from Naylor & Robshaw, contractors, and that their father knew nothing about it the magistrate sentenced the father, J. Spong, to a month in jail. He was charged with the theft, but declared he knew nothing about it, as he was away from home when the boys brought the lumber in.

I am going to believe you did know the lumber was stolen. Some one has got to go to jail, and instead of sending the boys down I am going to sentence you, said the magistrate.

HIS ONE GRIEVANCE

Rich Treasure Found When Young Husband Chopped Down Old Apple Tree.

By CECILLE LANGDON.

"I'll get even with him—if it takes twenty years I'll have it out with Mark Dawson!"

The owner of Hillside Farm spoke the words vengefully. His fist was clenched, his face distorted, and youth, prosperity and the possession of broad fruitful acres seemed to have no force to subdue his angry mood.

"If I may make a suggestion," observed his insinuating companion, Lawyer Dole, "I don't think I'd make my life miserable over a trifle. Why, what more do you want than what you've got, Tom Lacey? The favored heir of old Peter Babson married to the handsomest girl in the district—"

"Bah!" shouted the other ragefully. "What is she or the money to me against the only girl I ever loved? I tell you, Dole, I was robbed of Leila Dallas. When that handsome wife of mine, as you call her, gets in her tantrums, and I realize what I've lost, it about sets me wild. Here Dawson has settled down right under my nose, fairly flaunting his success in winning Leila."

"I reckon it was the only place he had to settle down in, Lacey. The girl liked him best and naturally married him. They're poor as church mice. That ought to be some satisfaction to you. It was a fair deal, the love end of it. As to the business end, you got the bulk of what your uncle left. Be happy over it and smother your spite."

"I'll drive the Dawsons out of the neighborhood before I do!" muttered Lacey darkly.

For a young man with fairly growing prospects in life, Tom Lacey was in an unthankful and dangerous mood. He had nursed his one grievance till it began to tinge everything he did with sombre and tragic gloom. He and Mark were cousins. They had both courted pretty Leila Dallas. Certainly the little lady had given Tom no cause to suppose she favored him. When she married the man of her choice, however, Tom felt bitterly wronged. He refused to even notice the happy pair. Then in a bit of pique he went off and married a flashy, ignorant, but really handsome woman, flaunted her fine clothes and beauty to the view of the villagers, and when his uncle died put on great style as the fortunate heir.

Mark's Face Showed Anxiety.

Old Peter left Tom the big home farm and some comfortable investments. To the surprise of everybody, all that Mark was awarded was "the River lot," "with all thereon," the will read. "All thereon" was little indeed—a broken down cottage, a few farm implements and a great gnarled apple tree past all bearing and dead at the top. People wondered at the unjust discrimination of the old uncle. Some, however, knew that he had always favored the sister who had died, the mother of Tom, and had inherited some means through her, and probably felt it a duty to make her son his principal heir.

Tom Lacey had uttered no idle passing threat to Lawyer Dole. It was early spring when he made it. He had men in his employ mean and unscrupulous as himself. They became willing tools in his scheme of low revenge. Its result was made very patent to brave, patient Mark and his loving helpmate, Leila, at harvest time.

It was evening tide, and husband and wife sat on a bench under the old apple tree. Mark's face showed anxiety, almost discouragement. There were tears in Leila's lovely eyes, but she struggled courageously to hide them.

"It's pretty bad, Mark, I must confess," she was saying. "The whole work of a season gone! Don't fret about it, dear. We will begin all once again."

"What with?" questioned Mark, gloomily.

"Your good clear head and strong hands and my loving help, of course," cried Leila brightly.

For all Leila's encouraging words, the prospect was a dubious one. In a word, the four crops of River Farm were ruined. Early in the spring at seeding time some one had tampered with the well tilled fields. Some one had put in mustard seed and that of a tagly weed, that had choked out the wheat, oats, buckwheat and rye.

"The whole lot isn't good even for bedding," said Mark. "Of course this is the work of Tom Lacey. I can hardly keep my hands off from him."

"We don't surely know that," remonstrated Leila.

"What! after his threats and boastings! Well, I'll try and forget," declared Mark quickly, as he noticed the tears in his dear one's eyes. "I've got a chance to chop wood in the forest half the winter. That will keep the wolf from the door till springtime anyhow."

"Yes, dear," said Leila soothingly, "and I can help out with some sewing. Speaking of chopping, it might not be a bad idea to get the old apple tree out of the way."

"I suppose it will topple over some stormy night and hit the house, if we don't," replied Mark. "The tree is almost as old as Uncle Peter was. Do you remember how he used to 'give it iron,' as he called it, to make it bear fruit? Look," and with a reminiscent smile Mark pointed to great holes in the tree, where his eccentric relative had deposited old files, horse shoes and broken bits of iron.

Mark tried not to think hard of dead Uncle Peter. Still, he had reason to expect a better share in the estate than he had received. More than once that relative had shown him a small tin box filled with a great hoard of stored up banknotes, with his own name scratched upon the box.

"I'm thinking of you, lad," the old man had said. "My first duty is to Tom, according to a promise given but I shan't neglect you."

Then, too, when the will was opened it contained a slip of paper, reading: "Give this letter to Mark Dawson," but no letter had been found.

"The snow is too deep to work in the woods today," said Mark to Leila one bleak wintry morning. "I believe I'll tackle the old apple tree."

"Yes, the fuel supply is somewhat low," answered Leila.

She sang and smiled amid the real comfort of the little home kitchen keeping time to the strong echoing stroke of the axe in the hands of her husband outside. Finally there was a crash.

Then a shout—such a shout! Almost in alarm, fearing that something dreadful had happened, Leila rushed to the door just as Mark came tearing into the room.

"Oh, Leila!" he gasped. "See! The box—the tin box. My name scratched on the cover. Exactly the one Uncle Peter showed me so many times!"

In suspense and wonder Leila stared as the box was placed on the table. Inside was a letter telling all about it, and—banknotes! banknotes! banknotes!

Uncle Peter had selected a queer hiding place for the little fortune he had put by in ready cash for his younger nephew. The enclosed letter settled all question as to legal ownership.

"Why, we are rich!" breathed Leila, marvelingly.

"I always was rich with such a treasure as you; and now," said Mark tenderly, "with the money to give you luxury as well as comfort, I wouldn't trade with a multi-millionaire."

Do You Know

That plants need sulphur? Stick plenty of unburned matches, head first into the soil of plants which begin to look unhealthy. If there should be anything at the roots it will kill them.

That to remove the lime from the inside of your kettle it is best to boil vinegar in it? The acid acts upon the deposit of alkaline matter inside and will cause it to disintegrate and crack off.

That to clean willow furniture salt and water is excellent? Apply with a brush and then rub dry.

That milkly glasses should be rinsed in cold water before being washed in hot water. The hot water, if used first, will coagulate the albumen in the milk, making the glass look smeary when dried.

To the Sanol Manufacturing Co., Ltd.
975 Main St., Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sirs,—These few lines are to add to my testimony in regard to the benefits derived from your SANOL. Although still ailing from lumbago through the lack of proper care of myself I find SANOL a panacea not to equal it for instant relief from excesses of Uric Acid in the blood. The trouble with many of our people we do not give the treatment long enough a trial to make a cure, and sometimes people quit taking the medicine when they should continue it until all the symptoms of pains in the loins, or rheumatic pains have left them.

I have recommended the SANOL to an old friend of mine who is about 70 years old, and who was troubled with his inability to pass water without experiencing excruciating pains. After having taken two bottles of SANOL he got relief; he then ordered a half dozen bottles from your company, and I told him if he would continue he would get better altogether, which to my delight he has done.

I have, certainly, no flattery to make, but it is my duty to report it to the sceptic public that do not believe in a scientific epoch-making panacea for Kidney trouble.

May you live long to manufacture SANOL, and help suffering humanity.

OTTER AND SALMON

Scotch Anglers Witness a Rare Battle in a River

Undoubtedly it will interest readers to hear of a rare, and rather unique, occurrence witnessed by a party of anglers fishing in the Blackwater, Ross shire. The party in question were fishing up the east side of the river, and crossed over Rogie Bridge and began fishing down the west side of the river, when they were rather startled by a strange commotion going on in the next pool, about 50 yards distant. They stood in amazement looking on at something rushing and splashing in circles at almost lightning speed, and could not very well say what it was, although a fish-tail would be seen at times, but eventually a salmon was seen struggling and kicking up the opposite bank. But the salmon had another fight for liberty, and got back into the water again, when practically the same evolutions were gone through, but towards the end getting feeble, and once more the salmon was taken ashore, when one of the party shouted, and the otter quietly slipped away. The fish was retrieved and examined very carefully which disclosed only a few scratches and one eye pierced. It turned the scales at only 5 pounds. One would have thought he would be 20 pounds at least to put up such a game fight. The otter's color assimilated so well with the surroundings, and the fish was so very dark that we could not see him distinctly.

THE HORSE'S COLLAR

It is a crime often laid to the shoeing smiths that they fit the horse's foot to the shoe, rather than the shoe to the foot, but just as serious a crime and often more serious is frequently committed by the horse's owner with respect to the fitting of his collar. Always fit the collar to the shoulder, never the shoulder to the collar. It is a serious mistake to use one collar for two or three different horses with the same adjustment. The horse's shoulder bears the brunt of the work and the collar is the most important part of the harness. A collar which fits badly is a common cause of pain to the animal, sore shoulders and sore necks. It is impossible to estimate the loss to the horse's efficiency due to the results of ill-fitting collars. Every work-horse should have his own collar just as every man has his own shoes.

ROADSIDE ADVERTISING

France Takes Steps to Abate the Sign Board Nuisance

The roadside advertising nuisance, which has afflicted most European countries, appears likely to become unknown in France. A bill has been brought before Parliament under which roadside posters will be taxed so heavily that even the most successful business firms will be unable to indulge in the luxury of spoiling the landscape. A hoarding having an area of about twenty square yards will be taxed to the extent of $6,640 per annum. The tax on even a small hoarding is heavy, and the rate increases as the hoarding grows in dimensions. So far as the towns are concerned, there will be no charge whatever; but, in view of the high taxes to be applied, it is difficult to believe that any business firm will continue to make use of the countryside for announcing its wares to the public.

GIRL IN THE PULLMAN

Simple Country Girl's Story Told to Actress Results in Sensational Episode.

By HERBERT PAUL.

Why the story told by this simple country girl in the Pullman brought tears to Miss Agnes Dare's eyes the latter could not imagine. It was only after she knew how deeply she was moved that she discovered the reason. It was her girlhood story over again.

It is because Miss Dare is so well known that I have called her by this nom de plume. Her married life has been presented to the attention of scandal-loving readers on the front pages of the most popular journals not once or twice, but at least ten times. And if Miss Dare has been more sinned against than sinning, at any rate she has paid in reputation the price of her immense success.

For when an actress overshadows her company and eats into the box office receipts more than any other item of expense, it is success, as people see the term.

Just now she was traveling alone across the continent to open in Los Angeles, thankful enough for the brief respite from popularity which enabled her to assume her real name. But for us she is still Miss Dare.

And this simple country girl had got on with some man whose face Miss Dare had not seen at Fort Tyson, and she was traveling to Denver. Miss Dare, seeing that she was distressed, had sat beside her and the girl had little by little told her the whole story.

She was rancher's daughter, and it was the old tale of a monotonous farm life with no distraction, and the brilliant actor whose fancy she had caught while his troupe played two nights at the county capital. Clarence Montfort—Miss Dare could not recall the name. But he had spoken to her in the street on the first day, and called upon the girl at the house of the friend with whom she was staying that evening; and on the second day he had made desperate love to her; and the country girl was wholly enthralled and thought Clarence the most wonderful man in the world. And they were to be married at Denver. Wasn't it a wonderful romance! And her old father and mother still believed that she was visiting the friend at Fort Tyson, and she would be married long before they knew anything about it.

"What Has It to Do With You?"

Only—well, Clarence had met some cronies on the train, members of the company from which he had resigned in order to be married. Miss Dare could not help smiling a little at that, for the idea of an actor throwing up his position in the middle of a tour to be married suddenly was quaintly amusing to her. But when she looked at the girl's face she laughed no longer.

Yes, Clarence had met these friends of his, and he had told her to sit still and not to speak to anyone, and she knew that she was doing very wrong to disobey him and talk as she was talking now. But Clarence had some important business affairs to settle in the end car, he said. And when, after an hour's obedience, the girl had gone timidly back to the end car to look for Clarence, she found him drinking.

Yes, that was why she was laughing and crying alternately. Clarence had not seen her, but she had seen him drinking, and—well, he was acting like a drunken tramp that had once come to the ranch house and frightened her during her father's absence.

Then Miss Dare found that there were tears in her eyes too. Her mind went back for nearly twenty years to a little farm house in Iowa, and an old father and mother, and a traveling troupe, and a man. . . . Well, she had discovered about his marriage long afterward. And it was years since he had crossed her life. He must be forty now. She would know him if they were to meet, but thank heaven, that had been spared her. If she had met him she could not imagine what she would have done.

She took the girl's hand between her own and began talking to her. Was she sure that she loved him and that Clarence loved her? And was she sure that he was a worthy man? Then, if that were really so, why had he not gone to see her father and mother?

"But my father would never let me marry an actor," exclaimed the girl. "You know, we folks have strange ideas out on the ranches." And Clarence had been the first to explain to her the impossibility of that.

Then Miss Dare began explaining her views until she saw the scared look that came in the girl's face; then she tried to console her. And just then, happening to look up, she saw somebody at the end of the car, walking rather indirectly, and hastily she excused herself and hurried toward him.

She knew him at once, and she knew now that their meeting had been mercifully postponed until she could see him under just such conditions as should lend her strength to face him. She took him by the arm and swung him around. The end of the car was empty and nobody noticed.

The man looked down. "Hello!" he said, smiling stupidly. "Hello! Why! Why!—" Suddenly his face blanched and he sat down heavily upon a seat.

Miss Dare did not let go his arm for an instant.

"Listen to me, you —" she could not find a suitable term of address. "Listen to me," she said. "You know me, don't you? Well, you are going to that little girl in No. 5 and you are going to tell her that you have made a mistake. Do you understand? And then—we shall be at Dry Lake in five minutes. You get off at Dry Lake."

He swore at her. "What has it to do with you?" he sneered. "Why are you butting in? How do you know I'm not free? What call have you to interfere?"

Miss Dare was still clinging to him, because she knew that if she let go she would be unable to keep her hands off him. "You—go—now," she whispered hoarsely. "You know the abduction laws in Colorado? Yes, you go!"

She watched him pass along the aisle and saw him lean over the girl and speak. She saw the girl start up, clinging to the velvet cushions of the Pullman. Then the train slowed down, and the train was pulling into Dry Lake. The girl was going to scream. Miss Agnes Dare got there in time, and a moment later she was knocking Clarence Montfort all over the car.

That was the latest of the Dare scandals, and Miss Agnes's photograph was prominently displayed as usual on the front pages of the newspapers from New York to San Francisco. How persistently luck followed her, they said. To think that, on her way to California, she should meet her first husband and pummel him to her heart's content, thereby materially increasing the box office receipts on the opening night and for many nights thereafter! Would she have pummeled him if she had been plain Miss Dare with no reputation for scandal to maintain? And then, why had she abruptly left the train and disappeared somewhere in the Colorado wilderness, and who was that young girl that she was chaperoning, and was she a worthy person to have charge of her?

Miss Agnes read all that and smiled. Life has its compensations, and there is a letter in her handbag which she reads sometimes when things have gone badly with her. It is from a girl in Tyson; and she reflects that if she has ruined her own life she may have saved another.

WORKERS FOR CANADA

Suggested They Stay Here Only for Summer—Vague View of Winter

That a partial solution of Canada's labor problem may be found in sending to the Dominion large numbers of workmen from Great Britain who would work during the spring and summer and return to the Old Country in the winter, is the belief of Sir Charles Hunter, M.P., as expressed after returning home from a trip to Canada.

The Canadian winter is still a bugbear to many people in Great Britain. Sir Charles is quoted saying that for five or six months the thermometer is down to 35 to 40 degrees below zero, and that the cold is almost intolerable, especially to women.

LOUIS OLIVER TAILLON

It is probable that not many of the younger generation of business men know the venerable Postmaster of the City of Montreal. Montreal's postmaster, with his full white beard, heavy white moustache, and strong face, is still a fine figure of the fighting statesman. In his prime he was one of the most effective political fighters of his time. Gifted with a ringing bass voice and a ready eloquence, he could hold his own on any platform, and stirring indeed were the political campaigns in the province when he took to the field. He began life as a lawyer, and was one of the leaders of the Bar before he plunged for good into politics. He held the position at one time of batonnier of the Bar, and was offered but declined a seat on the Bench. An ardent patriot, he took a leading part in fostering the national pride and self-respect of the French Canadian race, and himself set a fine example in a strenuous, ambitious life that commanded the respect of friend and foe alike.

In his fighting days he wore an exceptionally long and sweeping beard that reached not far from his knees and made him a conspicuous figure. Sir Wilfrid Laurier told a funny story relating to that beard. At one meeting in rural Quebec at which Mr. Taillon was the chief speaker, a member of the audience kept interrupting. He wanted to ask a question. The chairman appealed to him to be quiet. Mr. Taillon asked him again and again to keep his question till the end of his speech, when he would be only too glad to answer anything he liked to ask him.

No, no, that would not do. He wanted to be answered now. The audience took sides, and as the meeting looked like being broken up, Mr. Taillon waived the point, and told the man to put his question at once.

"I want you to answer one question," said the man, "that is all."

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Taillon. "What is it?"

"Well," he said, "I've been puzzling my head to know how you manage when you go to bed at night. Do you put your beard inside the bedclothes, or outside?"

The meeting rocked with laughter, in which Mr. Taillon joined, and not all the efforts of all the speakers could get the people sober enough again to listen to serious politics.

THE JEWISH METHOD OF KILLING CATTLE

Rabbi Jacobs Says There is no Cruelty in it When Properly Carried Out

Rev. S. Jacobs, the senior rabbi of Toronto was interviewed regarding the Jewish method of killing cattle, and as to whether or not there was cruelty in the method.

"As far as the slaughtering of animals is concerned," he said, "the Jewish law on the subject demands not only that the 'schochet' be well versed in the law, but he must be absolutely skilled in his work. He must pass a most rigid examination before a competent authority, and must also be an expert in examining the knife to see that it has not the least flaw or notch. One who is intoxicated or one whose hand trembles is prohibited from acting as a schochet for several reasons, chief of which is lest he press the knife against the throat of the animal instead of gently applying it. The knife must be twice the width of the throat of the animal about to be slaughtered, the maximum length being 14 finger breadths. The knife must be sharp, smooth, and without any perceptible notch, and it must be thoroughly examined before the slaughtering, and even afterward, for should there be a notch the animal becomes ritually unfit for food."

In touching upon the possibility of cruelty of this method, Rabbi Jacobs continued: "Judaism inculcates the most humane treatment of all dumb animals. This is insisted upon, not only in the Bible, but in all the rabbinical writings. Animals must not be tortured unnecessarily. The Mosaic injunction that the ox must not be muzzled whilst threshing was explained by our teachers of old to be a general precept enjoining us to act with every humane consideration towards all dumb animals. Judaism forbids the yoking of animals of different species or of unequal strength, or of wild and tame animals together, or the slaying of the dam and the young, or the taking of both mother and young from a nest. Even hunting was discouraged from motives of sport.

"The different regulations for the slaughtering of animals are all strictly in harmony with the principles of the prevention of cruelty to animals. This ancient institution of Judaism has been repeatedly attacked, but the Jewish method of slaughtering has been again and again vindicated as far more humane than any other method in vogue. Dr. Dembo has proven this most ably in his work, 'The Slaughtering of Animals.'"

It was shown that the Jewish law, far from countenancing cruelty, enjoins the most loving kindness to all animals, and Rev. Mr. Jacobs gave many quotations to prove this. Beasts were to have their rest on the Sabbath day, and their masters were to first care for them, "and then eat and be satisfied." The words from Psalm I, 1: "Who stand not in the way of sinners," were expounded in the Talmud as being an injunction against associating with hunters who tortured dumb animals by urging dogs against them.

"Yes," concluded the Rabbi, "there is not the least foundation for the charge of cruelty in the Jewish method of slaughtering cattle, if the laws appertaining thereto are conscientiously carried out. With our Christian brethren, we believe in the words of the poet:

"He prayeth best who loveth best
All things, both great and small;
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all.'"

Kites vs. Balloons

In exploring the air in the interest of meteorology box kites have carried self recording instruments to altitude of 12,000 feet, while balloons have taken them up nearly 60,000 feet.

"Autoists' Ankle"

A fatty degeneration of the ankle and leg muscles of men who use automobiles in preference to walking has been described by a physician as a new disease chargeable to motoring.

"Is he a man of his word?"

"Only when he gets to singing 'I won't go home till morning.'"

WHY HE FLIES LOW

An Interesting Chat With a Famous Aviator.

"Why do you always fly so low?" I asked Captain Thomas S. Baldwin.

At my question the sixty-year-old sky pilot laughed good-naturedly. Then drawing me aside he whispered: "My boy, it is because I am afraid—afraid. I don't want to be a dead hero. This martyr game doesn't appeal to me."

"Well," I went on, "how do you know when you are up high enough?"

"See this lump in my throat?" he explained, placing his finger on his Adam's apple; "well, when that gets into my mouth I know it's time to come down. That's my barometer—and it never fails me," he added.

Captain Baldwin says he is known to more heathen than all the missionaries in the world. He has been going up into the air for the amusement and edification of millions of people in all corners of the world for more than forty years. He invented and demonstrated the first parachute. He has been blown over mountain ranges and out to sea. He has traveled all over the Far East, visiting Japan, China, Siam and India, first with a dirigible and later with his biplane, the "Red Devil."

The "Old man of the Air" is the most popular aviator in the game. He is frankly a showman. He assumes no airs. He built the first all-steel biplane in the world. Mostly he flies for a living. Sometimes he goes up for the pure joy of the thing.

Red Hair is Disappearing

Red hair, the real thing, not the Titian tinted, is disappearing, and there are comparatively few persons to-day who possess it. Dye has probably something to do with its departure.

Red-haired persons need never feel any misgivings. On the contrary they ought to feel proud when they remember that Sylla, Cato, Columbus, Sir Philip Sidney, Bayard, Wolfe, Oliver Cromwell and Ben Jonson all possessed red hair, while even Shakespeare inclined that way. Swinburne was very proud of his red hair.

The curious thing is that Anglo-Saxons ought not to be dark haired according to a census made recently. Dorsetshire contains more red-haired persons than any other county.

But even in Dorsetshire the number of men and women with red hair is decreasing. There are still quite a lot of men and women with light hair, but a woman with the proper shade of red hair (her own) is very rare. Most people to-day have darkish hair.

Motorists' Telephones

Telephones are being installed in small houses along the main highways in England by an organization of motorists to enable members to summon aid or repairmen when their cars meet with mishaps.

Telling the Time

To permit a person to tell the time while lying in bed an Englishman has invented an electric clock which projects a magnified reproduction of its face on the ceiling when a button at the end of a cord is pressed.

Simple Reflector

An extremely simple reflector has been invented which can be snapped upon an incandescent lamp bulb and freely moved to any position around it.

GOSPEL OF THE BOY GIVE HIM A CHANCE

Inspiring Talk of Jacob A. Riis a Warm Friend of the Boys Everywhere

Jacob A. Riis, the well known philanthropic worker, New York, gave an address in Toronto which might well be defined as "The Gospel of Boy."

"A boy is a steam boiler with steam always up," he said. "He has a safety valve. You can sit on the safety-valve if you like, but if you do you are an awful fool. Gangs are formed because there are no playgrounds. The pregnant hours of a boy's life day are from 7 till 9. If you know what your boy does within those hours your boy is safe. We are rehabilitating the whole of our democracy. The young seek bad pleasure because the good ones have been denied them. Don't put a policeman in charge of the boys' games. The worst of all is to leave nobody in charge of them. The boy in the playground is on solid ground. Play is the normal occupation of the child, which gives him the best grip upon character. You learn by doing. I would go into the saloon and get drunk and stay drunk rather than live in the old style of tenement. "The boys' club is better a hundred times than the policeman's club." "When you put stripes upon a boy of sixteen you kill a citizen." "When you grow ideals in the slums you have the slums on the hip." "A boy can't be both good and bad at the same time."

The greatest thing in the world was to give the boy a chance, for it is impossible to make a whole man out of half a boy. Give them a chance, and they will generally do for themselves. Further, he mentioned that, in providing these playgrounds, especially those along the water, which he thought to be extra good, wholesome trysting places were made for the young couples who otherwise met only at the dance halls or on the street. He also asked that people should not get the idea that immigrant children were not as good as those born in this country.

Mr. Riis thus described himself: "Forty-three years ago a young man, an immigrant, was walking homeless in New York. His only companion was a poor black-and-tan dog which followed him everywhere and was his only friend. At night when he lay down to sleep a policeman would come along and tick his hand in his ribs and with rough voice bid him 'move on.' One October night it was so cold that unless he could find selter in some place he would freeze to death. The only place left was the police station, and there he went and implored for a night's rest. He had to leave his dog outside. In a foul room, amid toughs, thieves and bums, with vermin crawling all over the place, he lay down and tried to sleep. He slept for a short time and awoke with a start. He knew something had happened. He felt for his mother's locket which was around his neck, and it was gone. He tried to get the Police Inspector to do something for him, but the only satisfaction he got there was the query, 'Where did you get it?' Something broke loose within that boy and he told the Inspector what he thought of the whole place and the Inspector ordered the doorman to put him out. He was pushed out, and there on the doorstep was his little dog, which had waited all night for him. The dog sprang at the doorman and fastened his teeth in his calf. With a shriek of pain he seized the dog, and, whirling it above his head, dashed it to the ground. What did the boy do? Well, I will not tell you what he did. I was that boy."

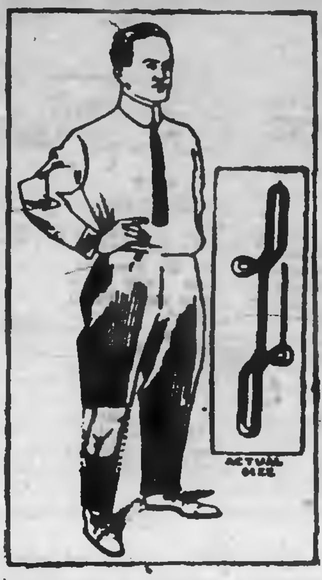
A NOVEL GARTER



Here's the newest thing in garters, tie clasps, sleeve holders or what not. A patent was recently granted on this little twist of silver wire that makes the place of a pin or a rubber band in half a dozen different ways. It can also be used by the shopper to hold up her skirt.

Busy Night After the Election.

"Well, no, Mr. Slickun," said the landlord of the Skeedee Tavern, addressing the encyclopedia agent. "I am afraid you can't do much business here, just at this time. The people who might be expected to appreciate your books are all otherwise engaged. Pip Maudlin has set out to roll a peanut eight miles with a toothpick and won't be back for some time. Claud Fidd will commence in a few minutes to parade solemnly up and down all day with a portrait of Taft displayed wrong side up on his back. Judge Ramsbottom is heading a procession of twenty-eight consecutive wheelbarrows, each with a successful patriot in it and an unsuccessful one pushing it, or vicy versy—for nobody really knows who gets the worst of it in a wheelbarrow ride—twenty-five or thirty gentlemen are now buying the same quantity of hats for an equal number of other gentlemen, and practically all the rest of the voters are either sleeping off their triumph or disappointment or planning how they can get the postoffice. So, as the people who ordinarily would be interested in your valuable works are mixed up in the usual after-election pursuits, I don't s'pose you can get their undivided attention."

Started Important Industry.

Living on a pension in London is W. H. Wickham, the man responsible for the introduction of rubber trees in India at the risk of his life. The agricultural department of East India sent Wickham to gather the seed of the Para rubber tree in Brazil. Wickham lived in the jungles with the natives and won their confidence. Slowly he collected seeds until he had 75,000 of them. He put them in bags and smuggled them aboard a ship, which was short of cargo and funds. That was the beginning of the rubber growing industry in India, and now millions of dollars are made annually from the rubber plantations in Ceylon, Malaya and other East Indian provinces. Wickham ran the risk of a long term in prison, for a Brazilian law prohibited the removal of seeds from the country.

Novel Device Shows Plainly Speed of Motorist

Speed indicators for automobiles have been invented without number during the past few years, but the newest kind is a speedometer that not only shows the speed to the driver of the machine, but to the people on the street, as well. A portion of the windshield on the machine is ruled off into squares, and each square marked with a figure, indicating the number of miles per hour. Each square is a compartment and is equipped with an electric light. Under the hand-needle of an especially prepared speedometer, electrical contacts are placed, connecting with the various figures. As the car gathers speed, the needle moves around the face of the speedometer over the contacts which cause the lights to flash. The device has been patented and is said to give good service, as it settles all controversy as to speed, since the only figure that is visible is the figure showing the actual speed of the car. The device is not believed to be very useful for work in daylight, but it will work satisfactorily at night.

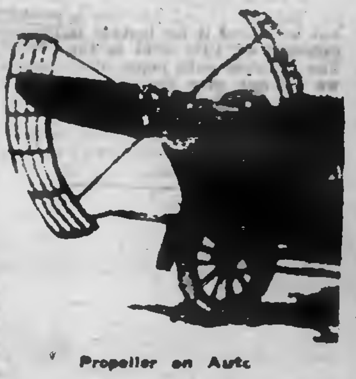
BLOWS ITSELF ALONG

Frenchman's Auto Uses Wind as Motive Power

Bertram De Lesseps, a brother of the famous airman, has his brother's liking for flying. Only he wanted to do his "flying" safely on terra firma, and so he rigged up an aerial auto to do it in.

Except for the general outline, the machine resembles the automobile very little. Instead of gasoline as a motive power, it uses the wind. A "rotary wing" aerial propeller, the shape and curve of which are based upon those of a bird's wing, drive the machine along at a fairly good speed. The propeller is placed a little to one side of the machine's rear so it can be turned towards the wind. The wings are protected at the sides by shield bars.



Propeller on Auto

Not only has it to be blown along roads, up and down hill, but it has been lashed upon a scow which carried a load of 270 tons and it succeeded in propelling the scow at a speed of five miles an hour down stream and two miles and hour up stream. The scow was as manageable as if driven by the ordinary machine propeller, turning, backing and going forward again under perfect control.

BALKED AT THE WOMAN JURY

Ship's Captain Derided Federal Regulations, but Dire Threat Brought Him to Time.

The prospect of facing a woman jury in muncipal court was more effectual in making Capt. Brown of the American steamer Leelanaw, comply with port regulations than was the threat of Federal prosecution when Harbor Patrolman Bakesy went to the ship to ask him to display port lights and rig a proper gangway. From his berth, whither he had retired early, Capt. Brown commanded the patrolman to a "warm climate."

Bakesy replied that there was a federal fine of $300 for the offenses; the captain grunted from his berth. Bakesy threatened arrest; the captain snored.

"They have a woman jury in municipal court," suggested Bakesy, "and you will have to face that." Instantly the captain raised his hand to his whiskers and the watchman came running.

"All hands on deck," commanded Capt. Brown, "and order the gangway changed and proper lights hung. I won't face a woman jury in any court, and me 60 years old."—Portland Oregonian.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN REQUIRED

Farm Laborers' Excursions — This Year's Wheat Crop Will Be The Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

A WISE MAN'S BRAIN IN IMBECILE'S HEAD

Remarkable Story of Wizard Doctor's Operation to Restore His Son's Mental Balance

In London, England, there is said to live a man with a stolen brain. In his head is the brain of an intellectual giant; his own has returned to dust along with the body of the man whose brain was stolen. If it be true, then the greatest surgical triumph of all ages has been wrought. The brain of a genius can have immortal life on earth. When death impends an operation can remove his brain and in its place put that of an ignorant man, while at the same time the brain of the wise man is transferred to the other's head.

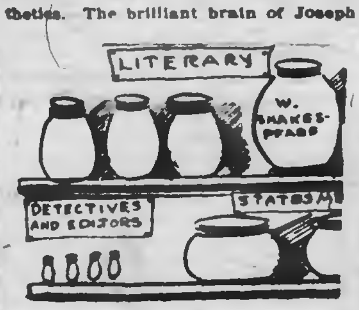
Thus without years of study and experimentation the erstwhile ignorant man starts then and there at the very point of wisdom the first man had reached, and thus future substitutions may pass along that brain to future generations, it growing wiser as the snow ball grows bigger by going on and on.

Several years ago Joseph Warschawski—there is no doubt as to the correctness of the name—a youth of humble origin, but of brilliant intellectual attainments, mysteriously disappeared from London. His father, a furrier, alarmed at his son's long absence, communicated with the police. They were unable to learn anything of the missing young man.

Four years ago Joseph Warschawski was found quite by accident in a wretched East Side tenement in New York. He was then a semi-imbecile, unable to tell what had happened to him. But he could not have arrived in New York in that condition, as he would have been rejected as an undesirable alien. Shortly afterwards a famous surgeon whose remarkable operations from time to time astonished humanity, died. Among his papers was found one labelled "The Case of Joseph Warschawski."

In the document, the surgeon confessed that he had, while in London, heard of the brilliant intellectual attainments of a poor young Polish Jew. He made the acquaintance of the young man, and invited him to some rooms he was occupying near St. Thomas' Hospital. There he administered a potion causing the youth to lose all knowledge of his own identity. He then took passage for himself and his victim by the next boat to New York.

The doctor was a widower with one son, stricken with brain trouble and rapidly approaching imbecility. A few days after the doctor's arrival he performed an extraordinary operation. The imbecile son and Warschawski were placed under anaesthetics. The brilliant brain of Joseph Warschawski was transferred to the head of the doctor's son and the diseased brain of the doctor's son was transferred to the head of Joseph Warschawski.



Is this a possibility of the future?

Both recovered. The doctor's son rose from his bed a genius and Joseph Warschawski was turned out into the streets a partial imbecile.

The doctor's son, says the report, became an eminent novelist and dramatist. Two of his plays were produced with great success in London. He admits, however, that there is no truth in the story of his father's astounding operation.

Reprinted by Request.

An editor in the Blue Grass state has been trying for a long time to inject himself into politics and get elected to something. At last he was made a delegate to the state convention of his party. The day on which the convention opened was also the date of issue of his militant weekly newspaper; and in the excitement of the moment, he had forgotten to write his usual burning editorial. He was reminded of his dereliction just as he was leaving town for the convention.

"Oh," he said to the genial factotum of the mechanical department, "just reproduce last week's editorial, and state that it is reprinted by request."

The intelligent foreman followed instructions, and the editorial was served up to the amazed readers under the startling caption:

"Reprinted by Request of the Editor."

If Breathing is Difficult, If Nostrils Are Plugged You Have Catarrh

At Last a Remedy that already has Permanently Cured Thousands.

Perhaps you haven't heard of the new remedy—it's so pleasant to use—fills the nose, throat and lungs with a healing balsamic vapor like the air of the pine woods. It's really a wonderful remedy—utilizes that marvelous antiseptic only found in the Blue Gum tree of Australia.

The name of this grand specific is Catarrhozone, and you can't find its equal on earth for coughs, colds, catarrh or throat trouble. You see it's not longer necessary to drug the stomach—that spoils digestions—just simply inhale the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone, which are so rich in healing that they drive out every trace of Catarrh in no time.

"I look upon Catarrhozone as the most valuable medical discovery of recent years," writes R. V. Potter, of Prince Albert. "As a long sufferer from nasal and throat catarrh I was obliged to take considerable medicine and, although it helped me, my digestion was always disturbed and the catarrh didn't go away. With Catarrhozone it was different. It cleaned my nose and throat of all phlegm and discharged a stuffy feeling in my nose and frontal headaches. To-day I am entirely free from Catarrh, and I use my Catarrhozone Inhaler a little every day in order to prevent the disease from returning."

With Catarrhozone experimenting ends. A permanent curative action results. The large size costs $1.00, begins. Lasting relief from Catarrh last two months and is guaranteed. Small size 50c.; sample size 25. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Lindsay, Sept. 6.—An interesting liquor case was heard and dismissed at the police court this morning. Lindsay Burglar Sent Down.

Lindsay, Sept. 6.—For his age, Benjamin J. Madison has, perhaps, few equals in his vocation of a criminal, for such seems to be his profession. It was in the category of criminals that he was class by Police Magistrate Jackson this morning, when he appeared to answer to the charge of burglary. Madison pleaded guilty, defending himself, and was sentenced to serve two years, less one day, in the Central Prison. When asked if he had anything to say, he requested Magistrate Jackson to send him to Kingston penitentiary instead of to Central, as he had just secured his release from the Toronto jail. Madison in his past career also served time in the Industrial School.

A Local Contractor Chased.

A well known local manufacturer, on Saturday gave away the following story. According to his statements, which are not guaranteed, a local contractor has the contract for building cement sidewalks in North Monaghan, near the Brinton Carpet Works. The contractor who had made a good job of several sidewalks south of the city, brought his cement mixer to a recently opened street, and started operations. The Reeve, noticing his contemplated work, remarked, "there is no sidewalk to be built on this street. If you go ahead with this work, you will not be paid for it." In the contractor's employ are 17 Italians, one of whom speaking English, heard the Reeve's remarks. He drew his compatriots to one side and held a conversation with them. Inside of three minutes the 17 Italians, who thought, if the contractor was not paid, they would lose their wages. 17 stilletos and Jack knives flashed under a September sun. The contractor, our informant tells us, took to the tall timbers. He jumped a five-foot snake fence, alighting in a nice juicy marsh. However, the peace of the community has once more been restored.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

James Bird.

A terribly sudden death occurred on Saturday night, at the residence of Mr. John Corcoran, corner of Park and Romaine streets. Mr. Corcoran had been out to the stables and on his return to the house found his brother-in-law, Mr. James Bird, sitting dead on a chair by the dining room table. Mr. Bird, who was about 69 years of age, had been ill for some considerable time. He used to work as cook in the shanties. He was unmarried. His brother, Mr. Michael Bird was formerly known here as an expert runner. The latter is now caretaker of the McKinnon Building, Toronto.

The funeral will be held this morning to St. Peter's cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

Boyd — St. George

Bobcaygeon Independent: A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Christ Church, Bobcaygeon on Wednesday afternoon, September the third, when Miss Marjory Sterne St. George, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sterne St. George, of Saint Louis, Mo., was married to Mr. Winnett Wornibe Boyd, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Mossom M. Boyd. The ceremony took place at half past one, the Reverend Edmund Greaves officiating. The church was prettily decorated with ferns and white flowers. There were two maids of honor, Miss L. Doris Boyd, sister of the groom, who wore white shadow lace and a blue niniche hat. Miss Katharine St. George, sister of the bride, who wore pink charmeuse and a pink niniche hat, both carried shower bouquets of pink roses. The groom was attended by his brother, G. Oust Boyd. The ushers were Messrs. Thornton Boyd, Stanley Mills, Joseph Walton and Geoffrey O'Brian. The bride who entered the church with her father looked charming in a gown of white charmeuse and shadow lace. Her tulle veil was most becomingly arranged with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. A small reception was afterwards held at the summer home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd left Bobcaygeon on the afternoon train for a brief honeymoon trip. Their future home will be in Toronto.

MUSIC and DRAMA

"THE GIRL AND THE BARON."

This nonsensical musical mixture was presented at the Grand Opera House Saturday night to a fair audience. The costumes are beautiful, varied and numerous; the figure dancing and parades graceful and pretty; and the vocal numbers catchy and well rendered. The comedy interpolations are more in keeping with a wild-west melodrama than a musical aggregation, and do not show to advantage in this presentation. However, the production is called a nonsensical musical mixture, and the title is well applied. The piece is acceptably staged, and the night scene of Old Broadway, New York, is superbly presented, reflecting great credit on the company's management and the facilities offered by our Opera House for scenic productions.

NEW SPELLING IN WEST

through with it because he knows no easier method. I am in hopes that the propaganda of the Simplified Spelling Society will permeate the educationalists of our West and awaken them to the need of some common basic principle of reasonable, if not phonetic, spelling that will catch and train the eye of the child and penetrate the understanding."

"Do your teachers complain of the difficulty of teaching the foreign child by the present cumbrous methods of English orthography?"

"Yes, they complain constantly and bitterly, but until there has been a public awakening amongst the leaders of education in the country they must persist to labour with the old antiquated tools of the present method, and the little child will continue to fret and fume and wrestle with the absurdities of English spelling, because of the aim he has in view of speaking English and writing it so that someone else can read it. I believe the teachers whose profession brings them in closest constant contact with a foreign child would gladly welcome the simplified spelling system, if the men higher up, who, because of their influence are proportionately conservative, were really anxious to formulate some system that would bring to the child a ready and effective means of reading, writing, and understanding our common English."

"Can we do anything to help you?"

"Certainly," said Mr. Walker, with a smile. "You can help us very materially. An aggressive reform spelling campaign in Western Canada would find a fruitful soil, a progressive and keenly alert people, and a golden opportunity for the accomplishment of much work, and to do this I would suggest the establishment, through the London Head Centre, of Simplified Spelling Societies in the leading Western cities and towns, and that these local organizations be encouraged to keep up a continual bombardment of the educational authorities until they awaken to a sense, first, of the need of some reform, and secondly, a recognition of the simplified spelling reform as being a ready and effective means waiting at their command."

Free literature can be obtained on application to the Secretary of the Simplified Spelling Society, 44 Great Russell Street, London, W.C., England.

VOL. XL, NO. 210 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, SEPT. 9, 1913 PRICE TWO CENTS

EFFECT OF SPLENDID YIELD ALREADY REFLECTED IN BUSINESS

"Years Crop Will Put Farmers and Merchants on Their Feet" Says High Government Official

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Two hundred millions bushels of wheat seem assured from every report that has reached Toronto from the West. From all quarters the indications are for by far the largest yield that the Prairie Provinces have ever produced, and 85 per cent. of it will be the best milling wheat.

In his recent report compiled from 400 reports from grain elevators throughout the west, Mr. Frank O. Fowler, Secretary of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association, estimated the crop at 176,850,800 bushels, but nearly all the grain exchanges, and authorities on crop conditions are convinced that the yield will be from 20 to 30 million bushels larger than his estimate.

"This year's crop promises to be the best ever raised as a milling crop," declared Mr. C. W. Band, manager of the Toronto office of James Carruthers and Company. "All the advices we have received from our Winnipeg office state that it looks as if 85 per cent. of the total yield will grade 1, 2 or 3 northern, the largest percentage being first and second grade. Usually a big percentage of the wheat has been used for feeding, but the crop is so good this year that nearly all of it will be marketable. Last year there was considerable low grade and tough wheat that sold anywhere to 30 cents below the market price, but the 1913 crop is uniformly excellent."

"It looks as if there never has been a better crop," declared the local manager of the Ogilvie Milling Company. "From all our 40 elevators come high estimates of the crop and the marketable yield should total 200 million bushels."

Military Promotions To Be Deserved

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Every encouragement is being given by the Minister of Militia to competent officers of the force for promotion and under the present administration zeal and efficiency are being recognized. Formerly political pull was the lever used for promotion. That is now being abolished and the new regulations issued by the Minister of Militia indicate that searching inquiry into the records of officers will be made. Competent officers mean competent men and an economizing in the public funds. The present minister is achieving good results for the money spent.

A Weak Heart

"An interesting British report suggests that science has prolonged the lives of very young city folks, but not of the middle-aged. A series of tables compiled from reports of the Register-General and covering seventy years shows that for males between five and ten years of age the deathrate has declined sixty-four per cent. while for those between forty-five and fifty-five years of age it has declined only three per cent—and for that decade there is an actual increase of mortality. For both men and women between the ages of forty-five and sixty-five there is no decrease in the deathrate. Doctor Newsholme finds that for both men and women in this period of middle life diseases of the heart and blood-vessels were registered as the causes of about one-third of the total deaths.

"Apparently, then, for those who reach middle life in fairly good physical condition the heart is the chief source of danger. Fortunately everybody knows that excessive use of intoxicants and tobacco and coffee weaken the heart.

"At this season, when New Year's vows are falling like leaves of autumn, we abstain from urging anybody to stop drinking or smoking or overindulgence in coffee. Go ahead—if you think your heart will stand it!"

MISS DOROTHY ALLAN'S VOCAL RECITAL A SUCCESS

Last night the Conservatory of Music was well filled by an assemblage of Peterborough's discriminating lovers of high grade music. It is a tribute to the growing appreciation that of such music should attract so large an audience. The occasion was a vocal recital given by Miss Dorothy Allan, soloist at St. Paul's Church. Miss Allan, as noted in yesterday's issue, is a distinguished and esteemed pupil of Signor Clerici, Hon. R. A. M. Florence Miss Allan's fine soprano voice showed both its pristine excellence and the results of training under distinguished masters.

She was ably assisted by Mr. Asa Huycke, whose fine baritone voice is heard, as soloist, in Murray St. Baptist Church.

Mr. John Allan, organist of St. Paul's Church, was accompanist. It is unnecessary to comment on Mr. Allan's abilities as either an organist or pianist. He is too well and favorably known here and either capacity, to require any criticism.

THE PROGRAMME

The selections were all of high grade, including selection from Il Trovatore, Teschemacher and others. The whole concert was marked by frequent applause and a visible appreciation by the audience.

MANSLAUGHTER NOT PROVED

Londoner's Daughter Died of Diphtheria While Being in That Faith

London, Ont., Sept. 8.—The point whether the father is guilty of manslaughter following the death of his daughter if he relies solely on the services of a Christian Scientist practitioner during a serious illness was decided in the affirmative by Justice Rowlatt in the Central Criminal Court to-day. Though the case was actually tried, the defendant was acquitted because the charge was not proved.

The verdict of manslaughter was returned on August 9th last by a coroner's jury against Benjamin Jewell, whose seven-year-old daughter died from diphtheria while undergoing Christian Science treatment. Jewell to-day pleaded not guilty, declaring he was not aware that the child was suffering from diphtheria.

Justice Rowlatt directed the jury to acquit Jewell on the ground of insufficient evidence, but warning the defendant he admonished him to be more careful in future, saying:

"If the case had been proved I certainly would have passed a heavy sentence. Christian Science or no Christian Science."

ROWELLS CAUSE GETS ANOTHER BLACK EYE

Toronto, Sept. 8.—It would seem that Mr. Rowell and his little party cry of "Abolish the bar" is not popular with the people of Ontario. In East York the election was very strongly contested by the seemingly moribund forces of Mr. Rowell. At 10 o'clock, with 30 places heard from Henry, the Conservative candidate is elected over Chamberlain, the Liberal standard bearer by over 400 majority.

NO SURRENDER TO LIQUOR INTERESTS

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—A vigorous denial is given in official circles today to the story published in the Liberal press that there has been any surrender to the liquor interests in the proclamation appearing in The Canadian Gazette this week, revoking the operation of the criminal code in regard to the sale of liquor along the Transcontinental Railway between Winnipeg and the Quebec bridge.

During the construction of the Transcontinental Railway as along the Hudson Bay Railway now, the code in the criminal law respecting the sale of liquor on or adjacent to public works was brought into force.

It is the general practice when construction is completed to withdraw the enforcement of the code and to put the districts affected directly under the Provincial laws. The Transcontinental Commission has reported that the road is completed for sections as far as construction is concerned, and hence following the usual practise, a proclamation has been issued withdrawing the enforcement of the criminal code.

BRITISHERS POURING INTO THE PROVINCE

The population of Ontario is growing with leaps and bounds. To-day 500 immigrants from Britain arrived in the city, all intending to remain in Ontario. During Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of last week, 800 reached the city from the British Isles. This makes a total of 1,300 British immigrants alone who have settled in Ontario during the last eight days besides other new arrivals from foreign countries.

CITY MUST APPOINT AN INSPECTOR OF ELECTRIC WIRING

Hydro-Electric Commission Empowered by Legislation to Enforce Such Appointment--A Combination of Inspection Officers May Result

The City Fathers met in special session last night, Mayor W. H. Bradburn presiding. There were also in attendance Aldermen Anderson, Gillespie, Duncan, Langford, McIntyre, Duffus, Gordon and Buller.

Engineer Strickland, of the Hydro Electric Commission was present and asked that this municipality appoint an electric wiring inspector to enforce the rules and regulations governing wiring drawn up by the Commission. There has been, he said, considerable loss by fire and very serious disasters resulting from defective wiring. Consequently government has empowered the Hydro-Electric Commission to make rules and regulations in this connection and insist that Ontario municipalities shall appoint an inspector to enforce such rules and regulations.

To the Council, Mr. Strickland said a wiring inspector must of necessity be a competent, practical man in electric wiring.

A charge will have to be made for inspection of all new electric wiring.

The Commission has a uniform bylaw governing inspection and wiring applicable to all municipalities alike, and embodying a schedule of fees, thus eliminating any trouble to a municipality in this regard.

Mr. Strickland said he is convinced that an awful number of fires are the result of defective wiring. The minimum charge for inspection is 50c for a small cottage; for even a fair-sized modern residence the fee would be but a dollar or two. A number of contingent towns are sometimes grouped under the supervision of one inspector. In the case of Peterborough at least, Norwood, Port Hope, Lakefield, and Lindsay might be inspected by the former's inspector.

Ald. Buller contended that a good builder with a fair knowledge of wiring, after two or three weeks' training in wiring in Toronto would make a competent building and wiring inspector.

Mr. Strickland offered that the wiring inspector must be a good man to prevent interference on the part of the underwriters.

Ald. Duffus favored the appointment of one man to combine the duties of both building and wiring inspector. "We should call for applications for this position." This matter was referred to the Property and Fire, Water and Light Committee to report on the following suggestions: The appointment of a building and plumbing inspector combined; of a wiring and building inspector combined; or of a wiring inspector apart from either of the other two positions.

Ald. Duncan offered that merchants on George street are asking that the sidewalk blocked through the collapse of the Turnbull building be cleared away as soon as possible, as their business is being interferred with. This will be attended to at once, commencing this morning.

THE GOVERNMENT UNTANGLES THE NATURALIZATION LAWS

Legislation Has Been Prepared Providing for System of Uniform Naturalization

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Thanks to the efforts of Premier Borden and Hon. C. J. Doherty the Government has come to a satisfactory agreement with the British Government over the question of Imperial naturalization which has been a subject of long negotiations between the two countries and the bonds with the mother land are to be drawn still closer.

As matters stand at present the the naturalization act of Great Britain is much more rigid than that of Canada. Great Britain requires five years residence before naturalization is granted, while Canada has required only three. The United Kingdom as a result has refused to recognize Canadian naturalization laws. By the new agreement the British law will require five years residence in the British Empire only the last year to be spent in Great Britain.

Legislation to this effect will likely be passed at the next session of the British House and Canada will pass concurrent legislation. The Canadian law will require also five years residence in the Empire, the last to be spent in Canada. The practical effect will be that Great Britain will recognize the Canadian law and Canada will recognize the British law and the anomalous situation which has so long existed of a man being a British subject in Canada and not in Great Britain will be done away with.

FARMER FOUND VICTIM OF GUN

Hired Man Informs Authorities His Employer Was Waiting for a Mink.

London, Ont. Sept. 8.—Herbert Purdy, aged 60, one of Aldboro's wealthiest farmers, who was found dead in his barn to-day with his face shot off.

According to the story told Metcalf the hired man, Purdy took the shot-gun and went out to wait for a mink, which was killing chickens, Metcalf went with him, but Purdy says he sent him back.

Metcalf says when he heard the gun go off, he rushed out and found Purdy dead. An investigation is to be made. Purdy's wife died two years ago, and he lived with his two little children and Metcalf.

THAW WILL NOT LEAVE CANADA UNTIL TWO YEAR FIGHT ENDS

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—W. D. Scott, Superintendent of Immigration in Ottawa, has returned to the city to grapple with the Thaw farce. Asked concerning T. R. E. McInnes' charge that the lunacy inquiry had not been conducted in accord with the Act, Mr. Scott said: "Lawyers can pick flaws in any Act."

The officials take no stock in the opinion of the immigration law just expressed by McInnes, although he was employed as draftsman when the measure was being prepared for Parliament. He is not in a better position than any other lawyer to pass upon the constitutionality of the measure.

It is now agreed that a long legal fight is bound to take place. The case undoubtedly will be carried through the Canadian Courts to the Privy Council in England. The Dominion officials do not expect that the courts will authorize them to deport Thaw until the Privy Council gives its decision. It may take two years to obtain the decision from this court.

LESSON IN SCIENTIFIC COMPLEXION RENEWING

(From The Family Physician.)

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad" complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

REINFORCEMENTS.

PETITION KING GEORGE TO WITHOLD THE ROYAL ASSENT

Authoritative Opinion, However, Says His Majesty Would Do No Such Thing--Balfour Worries; Blames Asquith

London, Sept. 8.—It may be confidently asserted that the King will not accept the advice which prominent Unionists such as Mr. Cave, K.C., M.P., and a section of the Unionist press are publicly urging upon him, namely to refuse Royal assent to the Home Rule Bill.

It is Mr. Redmond's confident prophecy that the Irish Parliament will be set up in Dublin next year, which so deeply stirs the Unionists, especially Ulster, with alarms and indignation, that they declare in the words of Arnold White, the well known publicist, that the King only can now save the United Kingdom from dismemberment and Ulster from anarchy and civil war. A petition to the King is being organized today.

Mr. Balfour declared in a speech at Haddington, on Saturday:

On Verge of Great Events.

"We are on the verge of great events. I am not sure that everybody realises how near we are to difficulties that may prove insoluble or almost insoluble to British statesmanship.

"I am right we shall soon be in the thick of conflict. Let us then make every preparation for that great event."

FORESTERS AT EXHIBITION

Enterprise of The Independent Order of Foresters

Yes! A Million, A Million, A Million! has been the watchword of the President, Directors and all who are interested in Canada's Greatest Exposition. This no doubt has been heralded from sea to sea, and will be a great advertisement for Toronto and Canada throughout the country of our neighbors to the south of us and the British Empire.

This is something worth achieving, but in our praises of this accomplishment, let us not forget that years ago, when the Fair was but a little more than a local institution, there was another organization that was not only bringing Toronto and Canada to the attention of the world but was conferring great blessings on humanity into whatever land it entered.

This organization is known as the Independent Order of Foresters, and there is hardly a part of the civilized climes of the world that it has not entered, and its pathway, is easily discernible by the munificent benefits it has conferred in the true spirit of brotherhood.

It has a record of 38 years and can boast to-day of a membership of 250,000. During these years it has distributed in benefits to the widows and orphans over $50,000,000 and now has a reserve fund of nearly $25,000,000.

One may imagine the immeasurable suffering this fraternal organization has prevented and the joy it has brought to the thousands of homes where hardships and gloom would otherwise have prevailed, had it not been for the timely aid rendered by the Independent Order of Foresters.

The Supreme Court has just closed its session, and the amended constitution, as it now stands, makes the Independent Order of Foresters one of the soundest, safest and most reliable of all fraternal insurance societies in the world.

It stands to-day as one of the greatest munificent forces on this continent, and not only provides insurance, but it is also caring for all orphans of deceased Foresters who cannot care for themselves. It has in its orphanage, including a number of those cared for in their own homes nearly eight hundred children, who are being educated and fitted for the battle of life.

Another feature of this work is the care free of charge of members affected with tuberculosis. This organization is fighting the white plague among its members by the establishment of sanitariums in the Adirondacks and on the Pacific coast. This is, indeed, brotherhood work in earnest.

The enterprise shown at their beautiful tent in Society Row during this year's Exposition is but another instance of the thoughtfulness for their members and the public generally, for here it was that thousands rested and enjoyed the lake breezes, besides learning something of a great blessing distributing force that has brought Toronto and Canada to the forefront in the eyes of the world.

Mr. George A. Mitchell, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger, of Toronto, and his assistants are to be congratulated upon the success of their hospitality and provision made at this year's Fair for the thousands of visitors who called at their tent.

A HABIT TO CULTIVATE

Devote Much Time to Mental and Physical Exertion

Discontent and disease of mind and body are frequently due to an aimless, half-filled life! The reason for this is very much more rational and natural than might at first be supposed. The proper state of mind is activity. The proper state of the muscles is activity. A mind with much leisure easily becomes dissatisfied. A body not properly exercised loses its full powers, becomes flabby and susceptible to disease germs. So the best policy of the individual who would live long and well is to practice the habit of "busyness." If you haven't regular work to do make some duty yours to perform. And this should be a daily mental duty, as well as a merely physical one. The individual who is not systematically busy a share of every day soon finds time to cultivate an ache or pain; to let the sunshine of life slip by unnoticed and to make mountains out of molehills, of trouble. This condition gets the body and the mind into a [illegible] state and paves the way for disease to take possession. Cultivate the "busyness" habit. It can be acquired and perfected just as the laziness habit grows.

Search for Welsh Antiquities

A number of archaeologists, including a Cambridge professor, are engaged in exploring the caves of Gower in search of antiquities. Their exploration has so far been rewarded by the discovery of many bones of prehistoric animals, similar to those discovered some years ago when the caves were last [illegible] explored.

HANDY ELECTRIC STOVE

New Invention Also Has Fireless Cooker Attachment

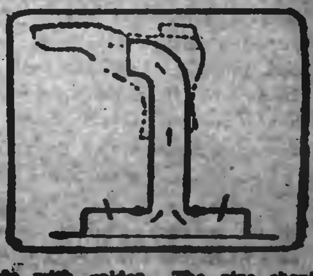
A combination electric stove and fireless cooker has been patented by a Western man. It is said to use electric heat only and to give off practically no heat in a room. The stove is in upright form and the cooker has an opening into the oven instead of at the top. The oven is made of heavy sheet copper with joints double seamed and soldered outside and the heat from the current is applied directly to the radiator in the oven. It is claimed that in 15 to 20 minutes enough heat can be accumulated in this radiator to cook for half a day. In a small home, a stove of this type would be ideal, both because of being fireless and because it does not give off so much heat that a small kitchen is made almost suffocating.

DOES NOT HEAT UP ROOM.

DRYING WET SHOES

Get After the Inside First and It Is Easy

In wet weather the matter of drying out water-logged shoes is as much of a problem as it ever was. The great trouble is to get the shoes dry inside. It's easy enough to put them in the oven of the kitchen stove and dry them outside, but that doesn't help much. The dampness still remains within. However, there are easy ways to dry them inside for the ingenious housewife. A drier for shoes that will do the work is made from a piece of tin pipe and an old wash basin or baking pan. A hole is cut in the bottom of the pan to receive the pipe and the pipe is firmly fastened in the hole with solder. The pipe should have an elbow or turn in the end away from the pan and should be about a foot long. Put the shoe on the open end of the pipe as you would put it on a last and stand the pan on the stove. It will readily be seen that the heat from the stove goes up the pipe and into the shoe, drying it out thoroughly and quickly.



NO SPLASHING

Simple Device to be Attached to Pail in Everyday Use

A partly filled bucket has a habit of splashing when more liquid is poured into it, and many a good, clean floor has been soiled in this way. An easy way to prevent it is to attach two or more strips of metal to the top of the bucket in a sloping position similar to a window shutter. Clips may be used to attach the strips and it will be found that any liquid can be poured into the bucket by pouring it on the strips and there will be no splashing.

Workmen's Hair Cutting

The hairdressers of Dowlais and Penydarren, Wales, are agitating against a rather peculiar practice on the part of the workmen employed at the Dowlais Works and the Dowlais Collieries. The workmen cut each other's hair; in some cases a charge of 4 cents is made, while in other cases there is a reciprocal contract. The various trade unions to which the workmen belong are being appealed to.

The discovery in Sweden of a loaf of bread made from pea flour in the time of the Vikings has disclosed the fact that peas were cultivated in Europe more than 1000 years ago.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

OUR POINT OF VIEW

OUR POINT OF VIEW.

We are sure that the Toronto woman who says that the male form is handsomer than the female form has never seen some of our friends in bathing suits.

The young man in Maine who hung himself because some persons found fault with him established a bad precedent. If the practice becomes general the trees and telephone poles would be fringed with preachers and editors.

The Toronto World wonders if pretty women are disappearing from Canada as they are said to be in England. The editor of the World should come to Peterborough and take a stroll on George street.

"What is an ultimatum?" asks Miss Sadie Tilbury, in a Toronto paper. The poor, dear girl, lacking experience, doesn't know that it is the last thing a wife says to her husband before going to sleep.

Chicago's Health Commissioner advises young men to kiss whenever the girl is willing, regardless of alleged germs that roost on her ruby lips. That commissioner is our notion of a sensible man.

"When will this country escape from the drink curse?" asks a Toronto preacher. Not being able to answer the question we pass it on to the Amalgamated Association of Canadian Boozers, whose drink bill is said to amount to several million dollars annually.

SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS.

The Dominion Educational Association in convention at Ottawa recently discussed a matter of vital concern when it took up the question of uniform and free text books for the schools of the whole Dominion. Any person who has followed educational development in Canada is quite familiar with the benefits that would follow the introduction of uniform and standardized text books. At present we find different books in use in practically every province, but this is not the real difficulty. In the past text books have been changed so often that it is a drain upon the resources of many families to keep pace with the whims of the various departments of education.

Under the present lack of system text books are a by-product of pedagogues. The alacrity with which new volumes are added to the list which pupils must possess suggests that educational authorities work hand in hand with authors and publishers to insure the circulation of each new volume.

Uniform text books throughout the Dominion would eliminate this objectionable feature and would provide the highest standard of works. If an arrangement could be made for the free distribution of these books a doubly progressive and advantageous step in elementary education would be accomplished.

Old Winter Coughs Now Easily Cured

A New Remedy Now Cures Without the Use of Cough Syrups or Drugs.

Just think of it—you can clear away that hard, racking cough, drive it completely out of the system, make yourself perfectly well by the new breathing cure that employs no medicine at all.

You wonder how; a very simple plan; you simply breathe in through a Catarrhozone Inhaler rich balsamic essences that heal and soothe away the cough in a few hours' time.

In using Catarrhozone you bathe the lining of the nose and throat with that powerful antiseptic of the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, which is probably the surest cold and cough cure in the world to-day.

Clarence E. Cromwell, writing from Medicine Hat, says: "To cure a running cold in about ten minutes the one thing I know of to do it is Catarrhozone. To relieve an irritated throat quickly, nothing can excel Catarrhozone. It simply eats up a cough or cold of any kind. I know of colds that have hung on for months that Catarrhozone cured quickly. Nearly every man I know carries a Catarrhozone Inhaler with him day and night, and in this country it makes a wonderful protection against all winter ills."

Get the dollar outfit, including the hard rubber inhaler, and medication to last two months; medium size 50c, sample size 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE LAW CONCERNING UNFIT FOOD

At present our Canadian law seems to deal in a most peculiar manner with the sale of articles of food which are unfit for public consumption. In a recent Farmer's Advocate the matter is discussed at some length by H. H. Miller, ex-M.P. of Grey County, Ont. The case arose over the sale by a farmer to a butcher of a couple of pigs which were found, upon slaughtering, to be unfit for food. The butcher sued to recover the money which he had paid. The judge before whom the case came decided that the farmer fully knew the condition of the animals, but as there had been no warranty asked or given the butcher could not recover. The law seems that if the butcher sells a piece of tuberculosis meat to a customer he really warrants that meat to be fit to eat, but when a farmer sells a diseased animal to a butcher, and knowing that animal is to be killed for food, the buyer must bear the loss of the same unless an express warranty has been given by the farmer. Mr. Miller argues, and we think correctly, that this state of affairs is not for the good of the public. The farmer, for instance, has no more right, knowingly, to sell a diseased animal to a butcher than the butcher has to sell diseased meat to his customers; and if the farmer is allowed to sell such meat, there is practical certainty that the public will be compelled unwittingly to partake of it as food. As the law stands to-day, however, it is possible for any man to sell to another an animal which he knows to be diseased, and the other has no recourse. This certainly seems to put a premium upon dishonorable business. In the interests of the public, as well as in the interests of justice, the law might well be changed.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

APPEALS TO RACE AND CREED

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is at his old tricks. The opportunist who flings his hands to heaven, and calls upon the people of Canada to bear witness that he is the Prince of Conciliation, went down to St. Hyacinthe the other day and appealed for support to the French Canadians of the Province of Quebec, because, forsooth, he was of the same race and creed as they. It is easier for a leopard to change its spots, or for Hon. Frank Oliver to sing the National Anthem, than for Laurier to cut away from this miserable business of appeals to race and creed. On the slightest opportunity he casts aside his mask of Conciliation, and stands revealed as the Demagogue. "Anything to beat Borden," is his slogan, and therefore he calls upon his compatriots to vote on racial lines.

When Laurier by his servile majority in the Senate—a majority which he created—prevented Canada from taking her share in the naval burdens of this Empire, and from playing a man's part, he proved that his much vaunted affection from Britain and British institutions, was a mere pretence. By his action he alienated the sympathy of the vast majority of loyal Canadians, who believe we should do something more to show our appreciation of the privileges of Empire citizenship, than by making speeches about it. And on the very first occasion, Laurier tells the people of his native province that they should support him—not because of any progressive policy he has to offer, but merely because he is one of themselves. Could anything be more paltry or petty? It is the same old game, and like all games of that nature, it will be lost in the end. The people of this great Dominion are not to be led away by the frantic appeals of a vainglorious and defeated politician.

INSULT TO OUR NATIONAL GAME SAYS PAPERS OF JEROME ARREST

New York, Sept. 8.—Following are excerpts from to-day's editorial comment on the William Travers Jerome arrest in Canada by New York newspapers:

Canada Like Gov. Sulzer.

The World: "The arrest of William Travers Jerome as a common gambler seemed more like a boisterous joke than like the deliberate operation of Canada's machinery of justice—there was a time when Canada—like Gov. Sulzer—used to boast that it was poor but honest."

Who's Loony Now?

The Herald: "There are wags, and not mad ones at that, who would strike hands with the witness who said of his Nemesis, 'I knew he would come to a bad end.' Thaw should receive a duplicate of the medal struck for the author of 'who's loony now?'"

Two Great American Games.

The Tribune: "It is hardly probable that Jerome will be deported as an undesirable. Rather, since the long hand of Montreal had intervened and snatched Thaw for more extended and expensive consideration, Jerome will spend considerable time teaching two great American games, poker and spending Thaw millions, to all Canada."

National Game Insulted.

The Times: "An insult has been offered to our national game on British soil—'Mr. Jerome was playing penny ante. The prosecutor calls it gambling. Under the inviolable British constitution gambling implies taking chances. Jerome had not a ghost of a chance with the newspapermen assembled in that social pastime.' Canada has not covered itself with glory thus far in treatment of the Thaw case."

A Good Joke on Jerome.

The Press: "It will be a pity if a single citizen of the United States explodes with indignation or disgust over contrast between the Canadian treatment of Thaw and the Canadian treatment of Jerome. It's too good a joke to be spoiled with a sneer or even a frown. It's too good a joke on Jerome, who, as judge and district attorney, fought such long and mighty battles against rich and powerful gamblers in their palaces."

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't hesitate! A laxative is necessary if tongue is coated, breath bad or stomach sour

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

DUCHESS OF FIFE TO BE WED IN GOWN OF PURE WHITE SATIN

Though Much Has Been Said and Written About [illegible] "Elaborate Clothes" Her Wedding Dress Will Be [illegible]

London, Sept. 8.—The young Duchess of Fife, who will be married in October to Prince Arthur of Connaught, is busily engaged with her mother, the Princess Royal, in the preparation of her trousseau.

The making of the wedding gown has been entrusted to the same court dressmakers who have made the young Princess's dresses since she was a child, and they have been instructed that simplicity in design is to be the dominating note.

Much has been written already in various journals as to the nature of the dress material, and rich brocades, Irish poplins (out of compliment to the bridegroom's title) cloth of silver, and all lace has been suggested as likely mediums; but when the young bride appears at the Chapel Royal, St. James, for the wedding ceremony, it will be seen that her choice has fallen upon the simplest of white satins, perfect in texture, and of English make to the last thread.

MUSIC and DRAMA

BOWSTER'S MILLIONS

The most interesting plays produced in recent years are those which have been made from popular novels. One becomes interested in reading a book and the characters at times seem as living, breathing friends. It is, therefore, easy to understand how, after having followed the adventures of a popular hero or heroine of fiction and having been taken into the confidence of these personages that one should have a desire to meet them, as it were, face to face. It is the one form of familiarity that does not breed contempt, and in renewing the acquaintance of old friends made over from cold type into flesh and blood, one feels a satisfaction not easily described. It is something akin to a psychological phenomenon.

It is perhaps not too much to say, George Barr McCutcheon's story, "Brewster's Millions" has had as many, if not more readers than any American work of fiction recently published. It is, therefore, natural that the combined armies of fiction readers and theatregoers will look forward to the appearance of [illegible] in Frederick Thompson's [illegible] production of this celebrated story at the Grand Opera House Saturday, Sept. [illegible], matinee and night.

Within the bounds of probability, Mr. McCutcheon's story has an intensely fantastic scheme. It turns the mad chase for dollars topsy-turvy and disposes entirely of the almost universal belief that money is essential to either happiness or contentment. Frederick Thompson's name as sponsor for the dramatic presentation of "Brewster's Millions" is sufficient warrant for public confidence in the excellence of the company and the completeness of the pictorial surroundings, and [illegible] indications the demand [illegible] entirely commensurate with the merits of the attraction and the high standard of its producer.

A Boon to Humanity

Read the Following Letter Re SANOL From Professor Auguste Devoune.

Altona, Man., July 7th, 1913.
To the Sanol Manufacturing Co., Ltd.
975 Main St., Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sirs,—These few lines are to add to my testimony in regard to the benefits derived from your SANOL. Although still ailing from lumbago through the lack of proper care of myself I find SANOL a panacea not to equal it for instant relief from presence of Uric Acid in the blood. The trouble with many of our people we do not give the treatment long enough a trial to make a cure, and sometimes people quit taking the medicine when they should continue it until all the symptoms of pains in the loins, or rheumatic pains have left them.

I have recommended the SANOL to an old friend of mine who is about 70 years old, and who was troubled with his inability to pass water without experiencing excruciating pains. After having taken two bottles of SANOL he got relief; he then ordered a half dozen bottles from your company, and I told him if he would continue he would get better altogether, which to my delight he has done.

I have, certainly, no flattery to make, but it is my duty to report it to the sceptic public that do not believe in a scientific epoch-making panacea for Kidney trouble.

May you live long to manufacture SANOL and help suffering humanity.

BETROTHAL GIFTS NOT RECLAIMABLE

Should They be Returned in Case an Engagement is Broken Off?

Should presents given during the period of betrothal be returned if the engagement be broken off?

This question was raised by a case in a London police court in which the magistrate found that a sailor, named Harry Morgenstein, who had given his fiancée two rings, could not claim their return, although his fiancée had broken the contract to marry.

A well known barrister was asked his opinion on the subject.

"A present is a present," he said, "and I know of no law that could enable a man to insist on a woman returning his presents given during the period of engagement. Even the engagement ring is not given conditionally, but only as a sign that there is an engagement. A man cannot demand the return of an engagement ring if the parties agree not to continue the engagement. If I go to a jeweller and buy an article of jewellery, that jewellery becomes my legal property, and if I present it to my fiancée it becomes her legal property, passing out of my possession entirely."

This is the legal aspect of the question, but the personal views of men and women in different positions of life are given below.

Miss Cicely Hamilton, the well known dramatist, said: "I think if the man behaved very badly the fiancée's most natural feeling would be to get rid of anything that reminded her of him. On the other hand, if he were a particularly mean kind of man she might keep the gifts in order to punish him.

"Another aspect of the case is that if the presents a woman received were very nice and she liked them, I think she would be quite entitled to keep them if she wished."

Said a youth of twenty: "I certainly should not want any presents given back to me. In fact, if I gave a girl presents I should consider that the pleasure I had enjoyed in her society was quite sufficient to repay me for any money I had spent on her."

Here is the view of a well known war correspondent: "No girl with any self-respect would keep presents that a man might show any signs of wanting back again. On the other hand, a present is a present, and if a man gave a man friend a dog he would not expect it to be returned to him if he and his friends were to quarrel."

A business man considered that the presents should be returned: "If a girl obtains lavish presents from a man on the strength of her promise to marry him she ought morally to return them if she jilts him."

A novelist thought that the meaning of a present must be taken into consideration: "Presents are given during engagements because of sentimental reasons, and are accepted because of these reasons, not because of their monetary value," he said. "Therefore I cannot understand any girl wishing to retain presents after a rupture with her lover, merely because of the monetary value."

THE NEW TARIFF AT WASHINGTON

How it Compares With the Old Tariff and the Reciprocity Schedules

The new United States tariff which is being put through its final stages in the Senate at Washington makes greater reductions on Canadian farm products than were expected. Not only this! In many respects the schedules will be more favorable to the Canadian farmer than was the reciprocity agreement of 1911. A long list of farm and other products which would have continued to pay duties under Reciprocity will now go into the States free, if the present bill is enacted. Many other articles and commodities will pay much lower duties than would have been charged upon them had the Washington agreement gone into force.

Cattle, swine, sheep and lambs, rye, potatoes, fresh milk, fresh cream, eggs, corn, grass seed, and buckwheat were all to enter the American market free under the Reciprocity arrangement and they are to have the same treatment under the latest draft of the Wilson-Underwood Tariff.

Our wheat will be free-listed by the States if we abolish our duty on American wheat. If we do not, the usual United States duty of 25 cents a bushel will be changed to a ten per cent. ad valorem duty which would be equivalent to 10 cents a bushel on dollar wheat. Remembering the large quantity of wheat which the United States is growing for export, and recalling the fact that during nearly all the past crop year Winnipeg prices have ruled from two to fifteen cents a bushel above the Minneapolis market, it may be questioned if many Western farmers would be benefitted by free trade in wheat yet awhile. Had the Canadian duty been off during the past few weeks, Eastern Canadian mills would have filled their bins with cheap and early harvested American wheat before the Western Canadian grain grower whose crop ripens later could have got his grain to market.

Fresh meat, lard, bacon, hams, preserved meats, tallow, bran, cornmeal, buckwheat flour, wool, wool waste, flax straw and condensed milk were all to pay varying duties under Reciprocity, and now they are to go on the free list. Flour is to be free if Canada will make it free; otherwise it will pay 45 cents per bbl. Under Reciprocity the duty was to be 50 cents per bbl. The new tariff makes marked reductions below existing duties, upon the following among other farm products: oats, barley, horses, poultry (dead and alive), cheese, hay, straw, beans, peas (dried) turnips, onions, cabbages, honey, dried apples, peaches, wild berries, fresh apples, pears and peaches.

GRAIN ON THE HOOF PAYS THE COUNTRY

A Striking Statement of the Toronto Globe Regarding Canada's Foreign Trade

The Toronto Globe says that one of the most suggestive features of Canada's foreign trade returns for the past year is to be found in the large exports of grain. The Globe continues:

"The advice to sell grain on the hoof is being disregarded, and the results must tend ultimately to lessen and exhaust productive capacity. Exports of breadstuffs increased from $91,000,000 in the previous year to $137,000,000 in the year under review. Wheat exports increased from $62,000,000 to $88,000,000, which shows that the West is fulfilling predictions, and wheat flour increased from $14,000,000 to $20,000,000, which shows that our power development is promoting secondary industries. It is evident that immediate returns are sought more eagerly than perpetual fertility, and that the loss through the exhausting of farms is not being considered sufficiently. It is suggestive, in this connection, that exports of bacon and hams decreased from $7,000,000 to $5,000,000, and of butter from $6,074,000 to $200,000. Cheese exports totaled $20,000,000, which is but a slight decrease from the previous year's record. These important items show the need of diverting effort toward stock-raising and lines of production which restore fertility."

Would Keep Money Here

Last year Canadians bought 7,200 motor cars in the United States, paying $9,000,000 for them. How much better for the country it would have been if all this money had stayed in the Dominion, and gone to Canadian manufacturers and operatives in Canadian automobile factories!

The Frampton Soap Co. of Seattle have decided to open a factory in Moose Jaw.

FIGHTING A TRUST IN BINDER TWINE

Statement of the Grain Growers' Guide With a Logical Deduction Therefrom

In the Grain Growers' Guide appears an interesting article on binder twine. Dissatisfied with the high price of twine the Grain Growers' Association for a year past has been investigating the cause, and as a result has come to the conclusion that the American binder twine manufacturers have created a corner in the raw materials, and established a monopoly. This, says The Guide, is a serious situation for the Western farmer, who has to have the twine at any cost, as there is nothing to take its place.

"The Secretary of the Grain Growers' Association," so we are told, "has had the problem under consideration for a long time, and last fall he took the matter up with some British capitalists and manufacturers with the object in view of starting a British binder twine industry in competition with the American trust. It was then that the investigation of the real conditions started, but the project had to be dropped, because it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of the investigators that the United States binder twine trust had such an absolute monopoly on the necessary raw material that effective competition was out of the question."

The Guide adds: "There is reason to hope, however, that the Western farmer soon will be independent of the American binder twine trust. The investigation by the Grain Growers' Association and the British manufacturers resulted in an attempt now being made to introduce machinery using flax straw instead of the present material. If this experiment is successful it will mean the establishment of a new industry in the Western Canadian Provinces, a big saving for the farmer, and, besides, let him out of the twine trust's clutches." So far so good! But while struggling to free the farmer from one American combine, the Guide advocates a fiscal policy which would enable two or three score United States trusts to drive competing Canadian industries out of business and then advance the prices of many necessaries of life at their own will all over the Dominion.

CATTLE AND HOGS NEEDED FOR MARKET

Scarcity and High Price of Meats Point to Profitable Opening For Our Farmers

In the high price of meats and the scarcity of cattle, sheep and hogs the Canadian farmer has a strong incentive to go in for livestock where he has not done so before, and to go in on a larger scale where he already has made a beginning. The population is growing far faster than the meat supply both in Canada and the United States and the new American tariff will, it now appears, admit Canadian cattle to the States free of duty. It would look as though the Canadian farmer has a profitable source of pretty high profits right at hand.

That extensive sections of the West appreciate the situation is indicated by the statement that one man has brought 8,000 young steers from Mexico. It is said that Alberta alone will have 500,000 hogs ready for market this year and that the Lethbridge district will yield 1,000,000 pounds of wool. There is plenty of room for progress along this line.

Six or seven years ago Canada and the United States were both considerable suppliers of cattle and meat to European countries, particularly Britain. In 1906 Canada exported to Britain 163,713 live animals, and the United States 414,000. In 1912 Canada exported to Britain 6,800 cattle, and the United States 30,007. The North American countries have dropped out of the cattle and meat exporting business on account of their increasing home population and an ever diminishing quantity of stock.

Packing Plants

Writing from Moose Jaw to his paper, [illegible] Lambert, Western representative of the Toronto Globe, says:

"Already plans are being made by public and private interests for the accommodation of the increased volume of [illegible] farming products which will be [illegible] in this Province in future. The Gordon-Ironsides-Fares Co. have [illegible] to build a large packing [illegible] at Moose Jaw, and Hon. Mr. M[illegible], Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan, is now talking of the establishment of a packing plant and abattoir on a co-operative basis, similar to that of the elevator and creamery companies in Saskatchewan.

FUTURE OF WEST

Mixed Farming Will Greatly Increase Agricultural Prosperity

Mr. F. Maclure Sclanders, commissioner of Saskatoon recently said: "The farming crops in Central Saskatchewan are of the pioneering agricultural type, viz., wheat, oats, barley and flax. Every new district starts with such crops; in due course mixed farming is thereafter evolved. It is interesting here to remark that practically everything we have so far accomplished in this Great West has been done with such pioneering crops, which, as all who are familiar with agriculture will know, are the least profitable that can be raised upon the land.

"Take wheat, for instance, and then remember that it involves the annual summer fallowing of one-third of our agricultural land. Think of about one-third of the cultivated land in this West doing and producing absolutely nothing each year! And then imagine if that is possible, what this West will be when even 60 per cent. of our arable land shall be producing not merely wheat but all the infinitely more profitable crops which may be grown anywhere in a similar latitude, and which we have conclusively demonstrated can be produced here to very remarkable advantage.

"It is very encouraging for those who have the best interests of our country at heart to contemplate the splendid increase in the growing of oats and barley. The increased production of such crops confirms the fact that our people have at last awakened to the wisdom of mixed farming, and to the necessity of working twelve months of the year on the farm, just as business men must do in their offices."

MIXED FARMING

Is the Need of the West Says Premier Sifton

Premier Sifton of Alberta who has been in the east lately, is reported as having told a Toronto newspaper man that mixed farming is the great need of the Canadian West. In part he said:

"The Western Provinces will be even more prosperous when the farmers go in for mixed farming. Our demonstration trains are fast bringing this view home to the minds of the farmers with conviction.

"There is an economic reason for impressing this truth on the minds of the farmers. It is this. All grain farming is speculative. If weather conditions, and all else, remained calculable from year to year, grain farming would have no evils. But one year the crops are all A No. 1; then comes a poor year; next, an average good year; again a big year; then a failure. Under such conditions a man may be rich one year and a pauper another. But if the farmers went in for mixed farming, other crops besides grain and cattle and horses, there would be a balance of fortunes, and Western farmers would always be in a well-to-do position, with nothing to worry about."

Premier Sifton admitted that some of the discontent in the West was caused by bad farming. "But," he said, "on the whole the farmers are satisfied with the land and with the climate. Those who grouch most are the speculative farmers who want to get rich quick and fail to do so."

HAMILTON FACTORIES

Immense Growth of Industries Under the National Policy

Hamilton, Ontario, known throughout the world as one of Canada's great industrial cities, has been celebrating its centennial. One by one, the city has magnetized new industries, until to-day, it has 384 factories and shops, representing capital invested of $80,000,000 and turning out products every year worth over $60,000,000.

A large number of United States companies have their Canadian branch plants in Hamilton, and several others have their commercial eyes turned that way. The citizens and the civic industrial officers have the knack of drawing prospective manufacturers to the so-called Ambitious City, which now deserves a new nickname, having realized so many of its high ambitions.

A table gives statistics of the industries of Hamilton as compiled during the latest census. The figures show that over 16,000 people are employed in the factories of Hamilton, where they earn $8,000,000. The cost of the raw material used by the 384 industrial establishments in 1910, was $30,000,000. Hamilton makes everything from a paper bag to a threshing machine, from a biscuit to a boiler, from a bottle of "pop" to a railroad bridge. It is a city of diversified industries as the census facts show. Also it is an outstanding proof of the value of moderate protection.

WHEN BUYING MEAT

Some Points to Remember About the Healthy Article

When buying meat it is important to remember that the meat inspector is likely to have a rather lower standard than that set by the fastidious housewife. Also that animals may have been out of condition or actually diseased. In such cases the meat has a dark dry appearance and is flabby; the fat has a reddish and oily look, and frequently a disagreeable fetid odor.

Red meat should look bright, have a clear, cherry-red hue, be firm yet elastic, moist but not wet, and have fresh not disagreeable odor. In well-fed cattle the muscles are slightly interspersed with fat, so that the meat has a marbled appearance. The fat, which may vary in color, from an almost pure white to a nice yellow, should be firm and dry, be slightly greasy to the touch, and have a fresh tasty flavor. In well-fed, healthy cattle the kidneys, heart, etc., are covered with firm fat. In young cattle the fat is light in color; it darkens with age, and is also of a richer red in stall-fed cattle.

[illegible] firm and [illegible] but not wet. It is pale in color, not marbled [illegible] and the fat firm and white or light yellow.

[illegible] is liable to pass on many serious disease germs, notably the germs of consumption. For these reasons pork should always be very thoroughly cooked.

THE CANADIAN OYSTER

It is Declared to Be the Finest in the World.

It is worthy of note that the Canadian oyster is the finest in the world. And yet Canadians are not making the best of their opportunities in the direction of oyster culture. In a report Ernest Kemp, oyster expert, says on this subject: "Another season has passed and no arrangements have been arrived at with regard to leasing water bottoms, for the purpose of cultivating oysters, to those persons who would like to venture into this industry. Our oysters and natural beds are slowly but surely decreasing and something must be done to counteract and check the loss sustained. The greatest wonder is that under prevailing circumstances our natural beds have stood the strain so long. The loss is not only from excessive fishing, for when once a bed has been raided by the farmers, they utterly destroy the bed for future use. What puzzles me is that while there are so many thousands of acres of unoccupied land under the sea which could be made revenue-producing by royalties from their lease for oyster cultivation a number of persons anxious to go into the business are deprived of the opportunity of thus making a living or increasing their income, simply for want of an amicable arrangement between the federal and provincial governments. When we look around at all the other countries where oyster cultivation is carried on, and see how their trade is increasing, does it not make us feel as if we are debarred from a privilege that every citizen is justly entitled to?"

IF GULF STREAM WERE DIVERTED

Would Work a Tremendous Change in Northern and Equatorial Climates

Mr. Carroll Livingstone Riker, the engineer of the Panama Canal, has published a book on the "Power and Control of the Gulf Stream," in which he discusses the problem of preserving to the universe the benevolent warmth of the Gulf Stream and the destruction of the cold of the Arctic. He concludes that a jetty of rocks, loosely thrown together, about 200 miles long across the shoals extending eastward from Newfoundland, near Cape Race, would stop the Labrador Current, whose cold, it has been estimated, is capable of making 2,000,000 tons of ice every second, from running right into the Gulf Stream, whose heat, it has been calculated, is equal to the burning of 2,000,000 tons of coal every minute. They meet now on the Grand Banks, where the water is only about 250 feet deep. The Gulf Stream is split up and spreads out over millions of square leagues of the Atlantic. But, if such a jetty were built, the Labrador Current coming down from the Arctic would be turned eastward, and would be sunk so far when the Gulf Stream met it that the latter warm blue river of the ocean would pass over the great cold river from the North Pole. The warm Gulf Stream would continue in almost undiminished volume to the northward, and the Labrador Current would run a mile deep through the great depths of the Atlantic, making the torrid zone about the equator cooler, while the Gulf Stream would require only three months to melt every inch of ice around the pole. No more icebergs in the steamship lanes, no more fogs about the meeting of the cold and warm currents, storms reduced to a minimum, and the whole of eastern North America a garden of paradise with no great cold or heat, are some of the results Mr. Riker foresees from building the jetty. Cape Hatteras, he believes, would disappear through the increased speed of the Gulf Stream, which he estimates would flow closer to the Jersey coast and incidentally re-deposit along the coast about 6,000,000 acres of land. The melting of the Arctic ice cap, he estimates, would shift the equilibrium balance of the globe, and the then preponderating weight of the Antarctic ice cap would make what is now the North Pole point shift toward Northern Europe, with the result of producing a nightless summer in the area of Scotland without a dayless winter. Mr. Riker shows that the material for the jetty is ready at hand, that the Labrador Current will itself build up with its sand scoured from its Arctic course, the barrier, to its conflict with the Gulf Stream. Thus, as "Science Siftings" puts it, it would "cost less than $200,000,000 to make Siberia a summer resort, turn ice fields in Labrador, give Scotland an all-year summer, with a temperature like Japan's; change the climate of the frigid Atlantic coast of America to one like that of Southern California, melt all the ice on and around the North Pole, and open it to market gardening. To do so will be much cheaper, much easier, and twice as quickly done as to build the Panama Canal."

FROZEN YET ALIVE

Remarkable Experiments That Have Been Made With Fish

Fishes belong to the class of animals that have variable body temperature, depending on the temperature of their environment. In extreme cold they assume a rigid condition, in which all of the vital functions are suspended, while life still remains present. During several months of each year some of the great rivers of Siberia are frozen solid to the bottom, but many of the fishes imprisoned in the ice retain their vitality, and resume their active life when the ice melts in the spring. This fact has suggested experiments in the freezing of live fish for transportation. Many years ago the celebrated physicist Pictet, of Geneva, put fresh water fishes into a tub of water, which he kept liquid at the freezing point for 24 hours and then allowed to freeze slowly into a solid block of ice, which afterward was cooled gradually. When the ice was melted, a month or even two months afterward, the fishes began to swim as briskly as they did before freezing, and showed no symptom of ill health. Similar experiments have recently been made in France. The fishes are placed in water which is kept near the freezing point for a few hours, then at the freezing point for 12 to 15 hours, and finally frozen by immersing the vessel in a freezing mixture, producing a cake of ice a few inches thick, in which the frozen fishes are embedded. This cake is wrapped in cloth and surrounded with a heat-insulating packing, to prevent melting during transportation. It is necessary to thaw the ice very slowly and to keep the water near the freezing point for several hours in order to preserve the life of the fishes. Even those which do not survive are in a perfect state of preservation.

RACE OF PYGMIES INTEREST

In People Recently Discovered in Papua, Scientists See a Connection With the Stone Age.

In a race of pygmies recently discovered in Papua, scientists see another connecting link between the savage strange races of today and primitive man of the stone age. Tapiro is the name given to this pygmy race. The men are extremely small, but well molded, strong and active. In contrast to the Papuans, they have chunky, well-made calves instead of the thin, straight legs of their neighbors.

Unlike most savages, they do not practice tattooing or cicatrization. Their needs for comfort are few. Each man may carry all his portable property in a sort of haversack, which is slung over his shoulder. This contains his sleeping mat, fire stick, rattan for kindling a flame, tobacco and other odds and ends.

They are remarkably skilled in hewing rough but absolutely balanced canoes from the heavy trunks of trees. The craft are beautifully carved and are propelled by paddles with long shafts and wide blades. Skilled as they are in the making of canoes, their only implements are stone axes and bone knives.

In disposing of their dead they wrap the body in mats and place it in a rude coffin usually constructed of broken canoes. The coffin is raised on a sort of trestle and left until decomposition is complete. The skulls of the dead are kept by their relatives and friends, and in a short time become worn smooth from handling.

YET THEY WANT TO VOTE

They stood outside the busy shop,
And gazed at things displayed;
At hats and gowns and lingerie,
For widow, wife and maid.
"A pretty thing," he said at last,
And pointed at a hat.
"A pretty thing!" she quick returned,
"Why no one's wearing that!"

He remained discreetly silent,
Till he saw a tailored suit.
"There!" he cried, "is a corker,
That's what I call a beaut!"
She turned on him a glance of scorn,
A glance that crushed him flat,
And the verdict that she uttered was:
"They all are wearing that!"

WHEN BIRDS MIGRATE

Humanitarian Invention to Prevent Devastation of Flocks

Every spring thousands of migrating birds are dashed to death on the lighthouses that surround the British coasts.

A Dutch naturalist has invented a contrivance to prevent this destruction, and experiments are being made with it at the lighthouses at St. Catherine's, on the coast of the Isle of Wight, and the Caskets, in the English Channel. Both of these are on the principal migration route, and annually account for the loss of great numbers of birds.

The naturalist takes the view that the birds are not stunned or killed by the impact with the lantern, but are attracted to the light, and keep circling about it until they perish. He accordingly has devised a series of resting-places, which fit on the lantern itself.

Experiments already conducted show the value of this invention, in one instance reducing the mortality from thousands of birds nightly to a hundred during the whole migration period.

TO CURL FEATHERS

The fashionable ostrich feather, although it is not so tightly curled as the old-fashioned plume, looks even more bedraggled and forlorn when it is out of curl than the old one did. Yet fogs and mists or rains are as frequent as ever, and ostrich feathers are worn at all times of the day and night, regardless of the weather.

There is only one thing to do if you wear ostrich feathers, and that is to learn how to curl them. When the moist hat with feather trimming is removed, put it, if possible, near a fire. Heat often restores a good deal of the lost curl. When this is not possible, let the feather dry thoroughly and then recurl it with the edge of a teaspoon. This is not so sharp as the much-used knife, and is less likely to injure the fibre.

Work with one or two of the fronds of the feather at a time. Catch them between the thumb and the spoon near the stem of the feather and slowly and firmly draw the thumb and the blade along the fronds to the edge. If necessary, go over some of the feathers twice.

It is surprising how rapidly this curling can be done; and if it is carefully done after a little practice the feather will look quite as well as if it had been curled by a professional.

Dainty Gingham Dress

There's nothing much more serviceable for a little girl's dress than gingham. It always looks so fresh and new when crisp and clean.

The striped gingham dress worn by the little miss in the illustration is made in the Norfolk sailor style with black patent leather belt. The fashion is a particularly suitable one for children because it gives them plenty of room in which to exercise and grow.

Plain goods are used for the collar and cuffs, and a chemisette with standing collar completes the garment. The bands down the front of the coat are cut on the bias.

HOW TO INDUCE SLEEP

Many Different Schemes Suggested For Victims of Insomnia

A sufferer from insomnia retails a number of counsels he has received, of which the first comes from the poet M. Leconte, who says:

"Open your window wide. Lie with your head as low as possible and you will sleep like a top."

Another very well known man writes:

"Accustom yourself to take an hour or two's rest in a deck chair after every meal. Take down from your shelves some old-fashioned novel of which you have an affectionate remembrance as one of the joys of your youth, and read it while you lie in your deck chair. The more you are wearied by it the better you will sleep. The secret of a good night is not to tire yourself out in the evening, but to idle away the time, to get comfortably bored until the time comes for going to bed. The more your brain is dulled the better night you will have.

"An important point, though a difficult one, is to avoid any dread of insomnia. Personally I derive benefit, though it may have just the opposite effect on another person, from calculating the multiples of 3 or 7 as far as I can go; thus 3—6—9—12—15, etc. Or else I count elephants: one elephant and one elephant make two elephants, two elephants and one elephant make three elephants; three elephants and one elephant, etc.

"Finally take no meat in the evening. For lunch eat nothing but fruit, [illegible] for preference, and for dinner a vegetable soup, vermicelli, [illegible], and one or two biscuits.

"If this does not do the trick, as a last heroic remedy put a damp napkin around your head at night covered with a piece of oilskin and tied on with a bandage. Sleep should come in ten minutes. But I look upon this device as calculated in the long run to impede the natural action of the organs of the body."

Does Your Looks Quite Satisfy You

IF YOUR COLOR IS BAD, IF YOU SUFFER FROM PIMPLES, HERE IS GOOD ADVICE.

Fine Results in Two Weeks

Miss Mattie E. Callaghan, a well-known young lady in Middleton, writes as follows: "I was afflicted for two years with a rash and ugly looking pimples that spread over my face. My color was poor, and my blood evidently completely out of order. Certainly it was a most disquieting sort of a case, because various treatments did but little to help me. A friend of mine in Toronto, Ont., advised me to get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I sent at once for five boxes. In two weeks I felt like new—looks improved, spirits rose, and I felt I was getting well. I have used this remedy for a long time, and now wouldn't be without it."

If you are in ailing health, have blood disorders, stomach trouble, or headaches, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will help you quickly. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c. per box, five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Mr. A. H. Stratton Sold Cheap.

We note, in last night's Review, that Mr. A. H. Stratton has been sold to Mr. Harry Baker for about $35,000. We certainly thought that "Ab." would have brought a higher price than that. Still the Review Editor is to be congratulated on his enterprise.

Real Estate Deal.

A. H. Stratton, the proprietor of the Peterborough Planing Mill, has sold that property to Mr. Harry Baker, contractor and builder, of this city. In exchange, Mr. Stratton has taken nine houses from Mr. Baker on Reid street. The total deals together amount to about $35,000.

Last night Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church was tendered a reception by members of the congregation. Mr. C. H. Pennefather, manager of the Peterborough Branch of the Union Bank, had received one of the letters upon the strength of which "James Ray" gathered in $10,000 in twenty-four hours from Berlin, Galt, Guelph and Lindsay. It would have been more fun than a barrel of monkeys to have seen that swindler's face three seconds after he tried to "touch" Mr. Pennefather.

An Important Real Estate Deal

A deal was consummated yesterday, whereby Mr. John Bell, the well known local bard, purchased the property owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clementi, at 451-453 Water Street, in front of Victoria Park. LOCAL POLICE SLUR PUBLIC THRO' PRESS

Yesterday for the first time in the history of Peterborough, representatives of the local press were refused admission to the [illegible] room of the local police station, whilst waiting for the police court to open. Just outside the police station the following conversation was accidentally overheard:

"I hear the police have shut the reporters out of their old time privilege of entering the [illegible] room." In answer to this, the following reply was heard:

"Ai, ye are richt! [illegible], old Glasgie, police methods are observed as they were in the days o' King Arthur. In Glasgie, the police 'don't care a bawbee for the public or for the press.' It's time, mon, that Peterborough adopts that system. If they reporters are sae canny I'll see they are kept frae the police court, too. I hae read that the reporters always leave the room when a lassie is in wi' business, but the local police has become, evidently, the guardians o' humanity in this city!"

[illegible] Police [illegible].

[illegible] heretofore accorded them here as well as every police station on the continent of North America. It is said that a Scotchman, recently appointed to the force, is the cause of this insult. This Scotsman some time ago "squealed" on two brother officers, getting their discharge. It is thought that this cop is looking for the Chief's job. The general idea in this village, is that the Chief of Police has made a grave error in listening to the Scotsman, who has no sense of humor and took offence at a joking allusion he saw in the "[illegible]" regarding a dog fight. It is thought that, as the village reporters have consistently refrained from mentioning anything tending to interfere with the administration of justice, they will now print each news as is NEWS. The Chief here is a good fellow, a good officer and a most capable investigator of crime. Still he has made a sad blunder in trying to antagonize the press, that [illegible] as a perfect understanding [illegible] the ends of justice are concerned, and of great assistance to the police."

CONDEMNS PROPOSED RAID ON WATERS OF ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

Where Borden Makes a Big Hit in Conserving the Water For Canada

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The condemnation by the Conservation Commission of the project to dam the Long Sault Rapids for the creation of a power monopoly, justifies the position taken by the Conservatives in the memorable parliamentary battle of 1909-1910 when the late Government was forced to abandon its effort to charter the Long Sault Power Transmission Company with a monopoly of power development at the Long Sault.

The late government always encouraged private interests in the exploitation of important natural resources and occasionally water powers were alienated for the benefit of American corporations. The Conservative party in this instance [illegible] and won the battle of the people.

Had it not been for this opposition the Canadian public would have been robbed of great water power benefits.

Big Monopoly.

The Canadian charter was wanted as part of a wider project, originating in the United States, having for its aim the creation of what was described as a monopoly of 800,000 horse power in the interests of the Aluminum Trust. The scheme was vigorously opposed by the shipping and navigation interests of Canada, the Ontario Government and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The bill as introduced in the House of Commons was championed by Hon. William Pugsley and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but the then Opposition succeeded in having its monopolistic features eliminated.

[illegible]

The proposal of the Long Sault Development Company involved the damming of the St. Lawrence at Barnhart and Sheek Islands. The report of the Conservation Commission declares it to be quite possible that serious damage would result from the construction of the proposed works.

Fifty Per Cent.

The proposed diversion of water by the dam between the Long Sault Island and Barnhart Island would take from the main navigable channel between Barnhart Island and the United States mainland about fifty per cent. of its water. The effect of such a diversion of water from the navigable channel is impossible to estimate. It can, however, be stated with certainty that the navigability of the channel would not be improved by such diversion. The construction of the dams in question would result in compelling navigation (other than by the Cornwall Canal) to follow a new route known as the South Sault Channel.

Inferior Route.

Experienced navigators are of the opinion that this route will be much inferior to that now followed. The time will undoubtedly arrive in the history of Canada when deeper navigation upon the St. Lawrence will require to be provided by the Canadian Government. Should the works proposed by the St. Lawrence Power Company be constructed the Government would be under the necessity of expropriating the works paying an enormous sum by way of damages.

Short End for Canada.

Another objection to the scheme of the St. Lawrence Power Company in the opinion of the Commission of Conservation is that it proposes to make the Canadian side merely a backwater. Only a small portion of the contemplated expenditure would take place in Canada and only a small part of the total power developed would be developed in Canada.

Difficult to Explain

Closure was premeditated and drafted by the Minister of Justice in the Laurier government. The only reason he did not put it into effect was his party's defeat at the polls in September of 1911. Over half of the Laurier ministers in the last campaign openly promised the introduction of closure rules after polling day. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his friends should have some difficulty, in view of this, explaining their fierce opposition to Hon. Mr. Borden's closure measure of last session.

Not a Factor.

"Looking at the whole scheme," continues the report, "it does not appear that any serious attempt can be made to show that Canadian requirements or Canadian interests are an appreciable factor in the plans of the company. The plans contemplate the absolute monopolization of the whole power available from the rapids with a minimum consideration of Canadian interests.

Pugsley the Champion.

The proposal has been condemned by the Dominion Conservation Commission. It will be remembered that Hon. William Pugsley, when Minister of Public Works, made every attempt to force the Transportation Company Bill through the House. He was closely questioned by Conservative members then in opposition. The power raiders were discomfited and the outrageous proposals never went through. In defeating the reciprocity measure the Canadian people also prevented the alienation by foreign concerns for generations to come of great national interests.

WILL SKIP BOARD BILLS NO MORE

Last year Detective Newhall suggested to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., the great need of having a clause put in the Criminal Code to reach those people who defraud lodging and boarding house keepers—often women of slender means.

The member wrote to the Minister of Justice accordingly, and a very stringent regulation was placed in the Code last session, and appears in the new edition recently issued.

Detective Newhall has already pinched some of those who played the old game once too often.

It is astonishing that this need should have been so long neglected. It will have the effect of saving many a hard-earned penny to a deserving class of people, and will remove much common fraud.

MINISTER OF JUSTICE ENTERS THAW CASE

Hon. Charles J. Doherty Will Confer With the Two Defence Lawyers.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 9.—Hon. Charles J. Doherty, Canadian Minister of Justice, who has charge of the Immigration Department, is expected here this afternoon for a conference with Messrs. Robertson and Marechal over the Superior Court proceedings next Monday with regard to the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Harry K. Thaw.

GERMAN STRATEGY WON.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—German strategy and tactics, after the bravery of the Greek soldiers, were responsible for the Greek victories in the Balkan war, according to King Constantine of Greece, whose speech on September 6th, when he accepted a field-marshal's baton from Emperor William, was published to-day.

BLAMES GAS PRESSURE FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—Before Judge Snider to-day at the hospital inquiry Mrs. Robinson a resident of Mount Hamilton, told the circumstances in connection with the death of her child, which was being treated for diphtheria. Her doctor told her the child was making good progress and should be home in a short time. Then one night the boiler in the steam tent bubbled over and the child was scalded. Three days later it was dead. The woman said she would not swear that scalding caused death but she thought it had. Her husband decided that the scalding of the child was due to negligence and carelessness.

The nurse, Miss Bell, testified that they were short of nurses at the time. Both she and Dr. Langrill blamed the gas pressure for the accident. Other witnesses complained about the dirty condition of linen in the institution.

TARIFF CHANGES MEAN LITTLE TO THE BIG CANADIAN MILLS

Mr. C. B. Watts Says That There's Nothing Revolutionary Due to Happen--Both Countries Seek Same Market

Toronto, Sept. 9.—When Uncle Sam at 4 o'clock this afternoon, adopts free wheat when it comes from free trade countries and reduces the present import duty of 25 cents a bushel to 10 cents when the wheat comes from Canada, where a duty prevails what effect will it have on Canada?

C. B. Watts, the Toronto grain buyer, sees nothing revolutionary in the innovation from the Canadian standpoint. As to the other end the U.S. terminus, that's another story.

"Why," said Mr. Watts, "Canadian prices are higher at the present time than the prices in the United States. The September price for No. 1 Northern at Minneapolis at the close of last night was 861. The Winnipeg cash price was 89 cents. Of course, our wheat of the same grade is a better quality, although the Americans say that their No. 1 Northern wheat will make as good flour as our No. 1 Northern, if not better.

"If free trade prevailed between the two countries, there would be one price.

American Sometimes Higher.

"It happens now and then that the American market is higher than the Canadian; it's the old question of supply and demand. Speaking generally, however, the American wheat yield is sufficient for home consumption and a large export trade. When the spring wheat yield is light the winter crop is heavy."

COL. HUGHES MAKES CHANGES AT COLLEGE

Minister of Militia to Revise Curriculum, Following Conference With Faculty.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 9.—The Minister of Militia is dissatisfied with the syllabus of the Royal Military College, which he thinks is not up-to-date and will see that it is improved. He is not satisfied with the work being done by the military staff of the institution. The curriculum is behind the times, and the college does not give the educational training that it should.

Col. Sam Hughes had a conference in Ottawa with the Acting-Commandant and Prof. Iva E. Martin, the latter for years in charge of the mathematical department.

Prof. Martin is to report to the Minister as to changes essential in the syllabus. He will likely be made director of studies. It is said that some military professors scarcely give lectures, merely directing practical work.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MET IN SPECIAL SESSION LAST NIGHT

Will Deal Liberally With St. George's Choral Society in Regard to Use of P. C. I. Assembly Hall--Routine Business

The Board of Education met last night, Chairman Dr. Morrison presiding. There were also present Trustees B. F. Ackerman, V. Eastwood, J. J. Turner, Jr., W. H. Hill, Col. Miller, L. M. Hays, Dr. Middleton and Dr. Burnham.

It was decided that the two new schools shall be officially opened to which function the Minister of Education and the Deputy Minister will be invited to attend, and the public given an opportunity of inspecting the new buildings. This was sent along to the Building Committee to arrange for the event when schools are ready for occupancy.

H. P. Lindsay and Wm. Might wrote, asking for a share of the insurance on the two new schools—Referred to Finance Committee.

The Directors of the local Exhibition asked that schools be closed on Friday afternoon next to permit of the children attending the exhibition—granted.

The trustees of Grace church complained that the Queen Alexandra School pupils amuse themselves by pegging stones through the church windows and insisted that the Board have a line fence erected between the two properties. Referred to the Property Committee to report. The fence, however, will probably be erected.

Architect Bartlett recommended that coal vaults be erected at each of the new schools (outside the buildings) at a total cost of $450. Each vault to hold 50 tons of coal. Mr. Bartlett pointed out that by reason of the length of the boilers, sufficient room has not been provided in each of the buildings to hold more than a car load of coal being received at one time. And on receipt of each load of coal the whole building would be filled with coal dust, necessitating intermittent "house-cleaning," and more or less injury to the schools' interior. The architect respectfully offered that the erection of exterior coal vaults would be an economic measure in the long run. This matter, together with half a dozen communications from Mr. Bartlett in reference to the new schools, was sent to the Building Committee.

To Assist St. George's Choral Society.

Messrs. R. J. Devey, C. Coleman, and B. Read were a deputation from the St. George's Choral Society, and asked that the Board give the Society the best possible terms this season for use of the Collegiate Institute assembly hall, in which to practice their next production, "Judas Maccabaeus." Mr. Devey urged that the Board recognize this Society as an educational factor doing work which will some time in the future fall to the supervision of educational boards, and to co-operate with the St. George's Society as liberally as possible in regard to the use of the hall.

The members of the Board were a unit in recognizing the reasonableness of the deputation's request, and morally committed themselves to give the Society the use of the hall this season at a fixed sum to merely cover cost of light and janitor's service. The matter, however, had to go to the Supervision Committee, pursuant to the Board's written law regarding such questions.

BOARD OF HEALTH HOLDS SHORT BUT INTERESTING SESSION

The Board of Health met yesterday morning. There were present, Chairman Dr. Young, and Messrs. Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Duncan and Marty. Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., was also in attendance, as was Sanitary Inspector Spence. The matter of ploughing and manuring the Isolation Hospital grounds was considered. It was decided to have this done. A number of accounts were ordered to be paid.

Mr. Rush and others petitioned for a sewer on Maude street. The matter was left over until the proposed trunk sewer is constructed. There was no use in building a sewer on Maude street as there would be no outlet. Mr. Bloome was given permission to build a septic tank on Harvey street.

Dr. McPherson noted that one patient was in the Isolation Hospital at the end of August. Of six cases of typhoid, most were from out of the city and no cases were traceable to use of city water. There were no cases of measles or diphtheria. He asked that the health by-laws be published. This is for use of the Board, the Sanitary Inspector and the police. It was decided to have them typewritten. He then brought up the anti-spitting by-law. He said this by-law should be enforced on street cars and public places, such as the market building. He wanted notices of the law posted throughout the city. Mayor Bradburn said the by-law is so broad it is impossible of enforcement. It was decided to get a price on 100 enamelled tin signs.

HOW TO RID THE SKIN OF OBJECTIONABLE HAIRS

(Toilet Talks)

Make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water and apply to hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and it will be smooth and free from hair. This simple treatment banishes hair or fuzz without pain or inconvenience but care should be used to get the delatone in an original package.

Applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger causes the eyelashes to grow long and slightly curly, and if the eyebrows are thin, rub pyroxin on frequently and they will come in thick and glossy. Be careful and don't get any where no hair is wanted.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and about the same temperature.

PARLIAMENT WILL NOT MEET UNTIL EARLY NEXT JANUARY

Departmental Business Much in Arrears, Due to Absence of Cabinet Ministers During Summer

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—It is now practically certain that the third session of the twelfth Parliament of Canada will not be called until after the new year.

Owing to the protracted and frequent absences of members of the Cabinet from the capital during the summer, departmental business is very much in arrears. In addition, it is stated, that Western and Maritime members object strongly to coming down to Ottawa for one month prior to Christmas, only to be compelled to return to the capital for the holidays.

It is urged by the advocates of the late session that little business is ever done before Christmas anyway, and that with the closure in force there will be economy in business. Opposed to this contention, however, is the fact that the Naval Bill was launched last session before Christmas, and a large part of the debate on the speech from the throne was also disposed of. All this must be regarded as sessional business.

THE TOWN OF COATICOOK FEELS THE JUDGE'S STINGING REBUKE

Town Chastened at the Scathing Arraignment--The Atmosphere is Cleared

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 9.—William Travers Jerome, acquitted last night on a charge of gambling, was the chief topic of discussion to-day among the 3,000 odd residents of Coaticook, though opinion was divided as to the verdict. However, the scathing remarks of Magistrate Mulvena, who apologized to Jerome for the indignity offered him, and declared the charge had been justified by neither law nor fact, had a sobering effect, and even those who had been most bitterly opposed to Jerome in his efforts to get Harry K. Thaw back to Matteawan were inclined to admit that the court action had cleared the air and straightened out a situation which might have grown embarrassing.

Jerome Leaves for Albany.

Accompanied by Deputy-Attorney-General Franklin Kennedy, Jerome was on his way to Albany, N.Y., by motor to-day. He will drop Kennedy at Albany on his way down to New York, returning to Montreal by rail on Sunday next, preparatory to Thaw's production Monday before the King's Bench on a writ of habeas corpus. The arguments on the writ may mark the beginning of a legal battle of many weeks, and even months' duration.

MYSTERY ENVELOPES KILLING OF MERE BOY NEAR BRANTFORD

Lad of Fourteen, Well Dressed, Found With Head Almost Severed From Body

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 9.—Late this afternoon the body of the murdered boy found early to-day was identified as that of Charles Dawson, son of Thomas [illegible] of Echo Place, just outside this city.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 9.—An unknown lad, twelve to fourteen years of age, was found in the ditch on Blossom avenue, sometimes called the River Road, a branch of the Hamilton-Brantford road near the farm of William Tuttle, about one mile from Cainsville early to-day.

Mute evidence of the ghastliest crime ever recorded or committed in Brant county was plentiful.

Only a maniacal murderer or a member of some society exacting a terrible vengeance could have committed such an awful outrage on a lad, whose face, even in death, wore a smile that would break the heart, one would think, of any villain.

Terribly mutilated, the body showed the head to be almost severed from the trunk, this being the cause of death, and in the opinion of the coroner, the first wound inflicted.

Then, having seen the dreadful result of his fury, the murderer was overcome by a frenzy, and stabbed repeatedly. There were three stab wounds in the head, twelve in the chest, many of which penetrated to the lungs and the body was then disembowelled by a long sweeping cut.

It was thought that the body was brought to this lonely spot by the murderer from the scene of his atrocious crime, lowered into the ditch and left exposed, the clothes having been drawn down before the wounds were inflicted.

Coroners are of the opinion that the lad may be a foreigner, but the fact that he was carrying around a copy in English of Robert Service's poem, "The Call of the Klondyke," in excellent writing and that he had dark brown hair and blue eyes militates against the fact. There is no boy missing in Brantford or in the section where the body was found.

THE DOCTOR'S GIFT.

Food Worth Its Weight in Gold.

We usually expect the doctor to put us on some kind of penance and give us bitter medicines.

An Eastern doctor brought a patient something entirely different and the results are truly interesting.

"Two years ago," writes the patient, "I was a frequent victim of acute indigestion and biliousness, being allowed to eat very few things. One day our family physician brought me a small package, saying he had found something for me to eat.

"He said it was a food called Grape-Nuts and even as its golden color might suggest it was worth its weight in gold. I was sick and tired, trying one thing after another to no avail, but consented to try this new food.

"Well! It surpassed my doctor's fondest anticipation and every day since then I have blessed the good doctor and the inventor of Grape-Nuts.

"I noticed improvement at once and in a month's time my former spells of indigestion had disappeared. In two months I felt like a new man. My mind was much clearer and keener, my body took on the vitality of youth, and this condition has continued."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FOUR NELSON LETTERS NOT BEFORE PUBLISHED

What the Famous Admiral Wrote to Countess Spencer in 1797 and 1798

The London Times published through the courtesy of Lord Spencer, four hitherto unprinted letters that Lord Nelson wrote in 1797 and 1798 to Countess Spencer, wife of the second Earl, who was then First Lord of the Admiralty. The letters were lately discovered at Althorp, and appear to be the sole extent of the remnant of voluminous correspondence, which the second Earl destroyed shortly before his death, to bear witness to the friendly relations between Nelson and Lady Spencer.

Nelson's first letter, dated September 22, 1797, which pays a graceful compliment and offers a present of a vanquished Spanish captain's sword, shows Nelson had already won a high place in the lady's esteem. The second [illegible] together with one of Lord St. Vincent's, which follows and elucidates them further, show the esteem [illegible] to bear fruit. It is a family tradition that it was Lady Spencer who prevailed on her husband to recommend Nelson at this period for a high independent command in the Mediterranean. The letter of Lord St. Vincent seems to leave no doubt she applied the same sort of persuasion to Nelson's immediate Commander-in-Chief.

Nelson's fourth letter of date, Sept. 25, 1798, belongs to the period of Nelson's [illegible] still I am vain enough to believe [illegible] he thought [illegible]."

Nelson then pays a glowing tribute to the wisdom and goodness of the Queen of Naples and the beauty and accomplishments of Lady Hamilton. Referring to Lady Hamilton, he said "She shows all who come near us that she thinks the scars on my carcase are more valuable and precious than the richest diadem that has adorned a Monarch. She holds my honor and that of our country so dear that she would give her heart's blood sooner than one or the other should be tarnished. The incomparable person is the wife of my much honored old friend, Sir William Hamilton. I can say with truth that it would not have been in my power to render such essential services to their [illegible] Majesties but by the private [illegible] of Sir William and Lady Hamilton [illegible] their Majesties and Sir John Acton. With these friends about us you will believe that Nelson will always be found where the honor and interest of Britain requires his services."

[illegible]

was him to suggest in 1799 that his health did not permit him to be with the fleet and ought to return home. Soon after this Nelson returned, making amusing progress across Europe in company with Sir William and Lady Hamilton.

PROTECT THE HOME

The Advisability of Caring For Unfortunate Mothers and Children

J. O. McCarthy, Toronto, in addressing the Canadian Club, Kingston, said in part:

"No mother left with her little family to support should have to leave them uncared for while she goes out to earn bread for them. The neglected child on the street soon becomes a delinquent. Let the childless mansion help care for the state's fatherless children. It would be a wise policy for the government to spend some of the money spent in getting emigrants from the world over in caring for the orphans who are generally speaking born of the best and will make the best citizens in the days to come.

"Wife desertion is nine times out of ten child desertion also. I wish I could find some place hot enough for the despicable wretch that deserts wife and children, and yet in this country the State must share the blame. Under the present law the family must be in want, paupers, before the deserter can be punished. The law should be changed and desertion made a criminal offence. Let the women of Canada make the law for the deserter; we men haven't much to be proud of in this connection.

"A dollar and costs or thirty days is not the same or 20th century treatment for the inebriate. Protection and care rather than punishment should be the thought. The hospital is more needed than the cell. Every muscle, every tissue, every brain cell of the inebriate is sick. Instead of the cell put him on an industrial farm in the country where with work, food, sleep and God's fresh air and sunlight he will rebuild mentally and physically. You thus save dollars and you save a man to the community and to his family. Some glad day the State will stop creating inebriates and then treating them as criminals."

YOUR OLD SKIRT

How to Renew the Life of a Favorite Article of Dress

We all know that it is to possess a skirt to which we have become attached, but which, in spite of our care, is beginning to look old and shabby. To any woman desirous of rendering such a skirt almost new again, the following hints will be both useful and practicable, as they have been tried and proved.

The first thing to do is to have the skirt cleaned or washed. It is quite easy to wash a serge skirt at home. Get a tub of warm soapy water, put the skirt in it, and "dolly" it. If you have not a regular "dolly," a very good plan is to turn the wash board upside down, and, holding the legs firmly, thoroughly pummel the skirt with the top end of the board.

Rub soap on the dirtiest parts, and give them special attention. Two washes will be sufficient, and two good rinses in warm water. Shake thoroughly, and hang to dry the right way up. On no account hang by the hem. When dry—by-the-by, it should be dried in the open air—you must set about the work of renovation with needle and thread.

First darn any holes there may be in the body of the skirt. Do not attempt to mend the band, as this will receive attention later. When you have done this, you can start on the bottom of the skirt. This should be bound with narrow binding, put on much in the manner of a false hem.

Now you must see what can be done to the top of the skirt. First you must carefully unpick, not cut off, the old waistbelt. If you find, when you have done this, that the pins which pin your skirt have torn holes in the [illegible] below the waistbelt, get some material and lightly sew patches underneath the holes, then neatly darn down on the outside.

Fit the skirt on, and if, as sometimes happens, the stuff has stretched, pin darts towards the back of the skirt; run up and cut open, damp the seams, and iron flat with a hot iron. Next, cut your webbing for the waistband, and tack on, inside and out. If you have a machine, it will be stronger if you stitch on the band by machine, but it will do quite well if done by hand.

Lastly, tack and iron down any pleats that are in the skirt. It is not necessary to iron the skirt itself, as if well shaken before being dried, there will be no creases.

Take out any tacking threads you have put in, and the task is finished. You will be surprised to find how fresh your skirt looks, well repaying you for the trouble you have taken. As will be seen, the cost is trivial, and if followed carefully, these directions will prove very useful to the girl who has only a very modest dress allowance.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The recent Dublin riot in which five hundred were wounded suggests a rather hot Irish stew.

No one ever accused Laurier of being a flag waver. He never loved the flag sufficiently well to give it even a feeble flap.

Laurierism is that peculiar brand of politics which teaches its adherents to believe that all this country wants is Independence.

It is some consolation to know that if ever the British Empire is in danger, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will rush to her defence with a speech.

The peace palace at the Hague having been completed at a cost of $1,500,000 and properly dedicated, the European nations will now proceed to increase the military taxes and build more warships.

Our local contemporary, The Review, says that "a split skirt reveals a cracked brain." They are apparently determined to let him know that they don't carry their brains in their legs.

The Toronto World says: "Some people tell the truth only when they want to shame the devil." Quite true; but we happen to know a few persons who are without any desire to shame the devil.

TOO SCIENTIFIC

Robert Donald, editor of the London Chronicle, and president of the British Institute of Journalists, recently painted a striking picture of the newspaper of the future. He prophesied that there would be fewer journals, but that modern science and invention would quicken the method of distribution and vastly increase the area of circulation. Airships and aeroplanes would be used in delivery to the more distant centres and electric trains and motorplanes on special tracks also will be utilized. In the large cities papers would be distributed by electric or pneumatic tubes. News would be collected by wireless telephone and reporters would carry portable telephones with them on their beats. If people become too lazy to read, news would be served to them by [illegible] or some other [illegible] instrument.

All this may come about in time, but when it does the human race will have undergone an extraordinary transformation. Individuality will have disappeared along with mental and muscular activity. Life will be too much of a picnic, and will become an intolerable bore. Its problems and activities will have become so effectively disposed of by mechanical artifices that everybody will suffer from ennui.

It will not be a well informed race, either, because if news is served every day as gas and water are now distributed, no doubt it will be metered and of course, subscribers will keep their eyes on the register. Paterfamilias will say to his son, "Willie, turn on ten cents worth of news. Give us the stock quotations." Materfamilias, however, and her daughters will insist upon hearing the society news, while Willie himself will want the sport reports. And there we should have the makings of a fine old family row at the breakfast table. Perhaps we are looking on the dark side of the shield, but we cannot help thinking that it will be a sorry day for mankind when splendid human initiative, ambition and enterprise, with their accompanying mental and physical activity, are rendered unnecessary by the march of inventive progress.

Do You Feel Moody, Irritable, Depressed?

Then That Languid, Loggy, Easily-Tired Feeling Comes, Your Liver is Slow

Tells How to Cure Quickly.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those fell feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and helpful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in clearing up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvelous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all other, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

WINGED DEATH PLAN OF BOY

Wonderful Discovery Made by Boy in Utah

Salt Lake City, Sept. 9.—In the presence of electrical experts, federal officers and detectives here to-day was demonstrated what was declared to be perhaps the most remarkable death-dealing machine invented in recent years.

The invention is the work of W. L. Cummings, 20 years old, who confessed to federal and municipal officers when he was arrested that he had threatened to use it to destroy Miss Dorothy Bamberger, a wealthy society girl, unless she gave him $1000.

The invention it is said can be turned to saving of life by preventing train or ship collisions.

Electricians took the machine into a steel and concret vault in an office building. Another part of the contrivance on which was mounted a bell and an incandescent globe was placed in a closed room across a hall. There, the electric current of the machine was turned on. On the unattached box in the other room the bell rang and the lamp glowed brightly.

SAMUELS SILENT ON POSTAL QUESTION

Refuses to State If Reductions are Coming in Press Cable Rates.

COMING TO TORONTO ON RETURN

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 8.—Postmaster-General Samuel, of Great Britain and Pelletier, of Canada, reached the city from the East at noon to-day, but refused to be interviewed. Pelletier, however stated that the first business meeting they would hold to discuss postal and other matters of interest to the two countries would be at Toronto on their return from the Pacific Coast which will be made through Chicago. Asked point blank whether he would give any information as to the prospect of reduction in press cable rates Samuel said to answer would be equivalent to an interview, and he [illegible] no newspaperman on the continent could get an interview out of him!

I am speaking before the Canadian Club here this afternoon on relations of component parts of the Empire, he said to writing newspaper men, but this does not mean you are to write my speech for me.

HUNTERS FEAR THE BUSH FIRES HAVE DRIVEN DEER AWAY

Orillia, Sept. 9.—Deer Hunters are becoming anxious lest the bush fires have spoiled their hunting grounds and scattered the deer from their old haunts. The Longford Hunt Club has received word that their quarters and equipment were destroyed, although at first reported safe. The Red Tam Club has sent men into their camp to ascertain whether the fire did any damage and to see if the deer are still feeding in that neighborhood.

The bush fires this summer have driven many wild animals into the open country and settlers are coming across them in parts they do not usually frequent. Word comes from Ragged Rapids that Mr. George Page, Superintendent of the town's power plant, met a bear three or four miles below the Ragged Rapids and killed it the first shot with a 22-calibre rifle, the only weapon he had with him. The bullet went through the animal's heart and lungs. Mr. Page showed considerable courage to attack a bear with so small a weapon. Bruin weighed 190 pounds.

Mr. Strachan, in charge of the Government work on the Severn, shot a cub weighing 100 pounds a few days ago.

POWDER PUFF BAN ANGERS U.S. CLERKS

Washington, Sept. 8.—Indignant women with shiny noses are threatening the peace of the treasury department as the result of an order issued by Assistant Secretary John Skelton Williams forbidding clerks to carry handbags, lunch boxes or other packages into the big treasury house of the government.

This has been accepted by the 800 women clerks as a direct attempt to eliminate the powder puff. Assistant Secretary Williams retorts that the order is a precautionary one solely.

"How on earth can a woman keep the tip of her nose or her pink presentable," demanded an indignant woman clerk.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST CANADIAN INSPECTORS

Bridgeburg, Ont., Sept. 8.—Sigismund Rosenthal, claiming to be an American citizen, has made a complaint to the immigration department, Washington, D.C., that he was illegally ejected from Canada last June by Canadian immigration officials.

United States Consul J. H. Harvey of this district has been notified by the authorities at Washington to investigate. Rosenthal makes a total of 22 charges against the Bridgeburg immigration officials, claiming that Inspector Constance Borbeck took a revolver away from him, and also asked him among other questions, "How long have you been separated from your wife?"

Doctor's Opinion of Diabetes Cure

Believes No Remedy So Effective As SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES.

In the treatment of Diabetes Mellitus we distinguish between remedies for the disease itself, and those for complications which may arise. Within the last few years numerous preparations, promising complete cures, have made their appearance, but none of them have been able to reduce, or even eliminate, sugar secretions as effectually as SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES. This preparation is successfully applied in cases where sugar remains in spite of a diet free of carbohydrates. Experience has proven that this remedy has caused no bad effects, whatever.

The above paragraph is made up of extracts from a written statement of one of the most eminent physicians of the Continent of America. We strongly request anyone suffering from this dreaded disease to write to us for a copy of his letter. We can also send testimonials from some of the most prominent people in nearly any town in Canada who think it a privilege to be able to recommend a medicine which brings such relief to any person who has suffered like themselves.

This remedy is manufactured by the Sanol Manufacturing Company, of Winnipeg.

Price $2.00 Per Bottle.

NO DRINK AT MEALS

Doctor Winslow on Danger of Becoming Fat

Never drink at meals and your figure will remain slim and supple.

This roughly was the advice given at the British Medical Association meeting by Dr. H. F. Winslow, of London.

He emphasized the error of drinking at meals, and said bluntly that nobody—but the pig and the cow—ever took liquid with meals. The result, he said, of taking such drinks was that the body ran to fat.

Too much haircutting was suggested as a cause of baldness by Dr. F. H. Barendt, a Liverpool skin specialist.

"Why is it there are so many bald men and so few bald women?" he asked. "I believe it is because men will not let their hair grow to a proper length. The average man wears his hair about an inch long, whereas it should be at least thirteen or fourteen inches."

DID NOT WANT ONE-ARMED WIFE

Ironworker's Refusal to Marry Fiancée After an Accident

That a wife with one arm was no good to a working man was the excuse given in court by Howard Pugh, a Flintshire ironworker, for not marrying Miss Amy Jones.

Miss Jones had gone to see him off at Flint Railway Station and had an accident, being dragged between the train and the platform. The result was that she lost her right arm.

She sued him for breach of promise and was awarded £[illegible] as damages.

SAVE THE PIECES

Save the small ends of candles. They smooth boiled starch when added while cooking.

Save the water in which unsalted rice has been boiled. It makes the best starch for lingerie waists.

Save the paraffin off tops of jelly and jams as the latter are used. Wash it all up, melt and put away for next season.

Save the pieces of lemon and orange peel. Dry and powder for flavoring or cut into shreds and boil in a white syrup.

Save the broken bread. The larger pieces can be made into toast points for creamed meats and fish. Smaller pieces may be made into bread or chocolate pudding. Or roll and keep the bread crumbs till wanted.

Save the pieces of cold potato and make a salad out of them.

Girl's School Outfit

This school jacket for a little girl is made of black and white goods costing 70 cents a yard, and it is lined with plain blue alpaca at 50 cents a yard. Button molds and cords made of the same material finish the yoke and sleeves. It takes 1½ yards of plaid material and two yards of plain.

It can be made for less than $2, though it could hardly be purchased ready made for three times that price.

The Road to Happiness

This is the road to Happiness:
Start Now, from Where You Are;
"Turn to the Right and Keep straight on."
And you'll not find it far.

Along the Path of Willing Feet
And over Heartsease Hill,
Across the fields of Sweet Content,
The stream of Glad Good-will;
Then through the lane of Loving Heart,
The gate that's called To-day,
And down the steps of Living Things
Into the Common Way.

And take the Cloak of Charity,
The staff of Wise Employ,
A Loaf of Bread of Daily Grace,
A flask well filled with Joy;
A word of cheer, a helping hand
Some good to give or share,
A bit of song, a high resolve,
A hope, a smile, a prayer.

And in the Place of Duty Done,
Beside the Door of Home,
You'll find the House of Happiness—
For Happiness does not roam.

UNTIDY ATHLETIC GIRL

Her Methods Sometimes Very Crude, Says a Colonel

The "athletic girl" came in for a "dressing down" from Colonel Sir Thomas Holdrich, in distributing prizes at the Princess Helena College, Ealing. Nowadays, he said, there was a tendency in sport to mistake the means for the end, and games now ought to be the whole end and aim of one's existence. The "athletic girl," for instance, was not altogether worthy of imitation, for if she did not wholly succeed in getting in the front rank she was too apt to show her disappointment. She was not always as tidy as she might be, her methods were sometimes exceedingly crude, and her manners—well, she had none. He did not by any means consider such a girl the most adorable of her sex.

WHAT IS A LADY?

Anglo-Indian Novelist Propounds an Interesting Question in England

Unless one has visited England one will find it difficult to understand the interest created there by a question raised by Mrs. Perrin, the Anglo-Indian novelist.

Mrs. Perrin spoke at the Savage Club ladies' dinner, and, in the course of her speech, tried to answer the old conundrum "What is a lady?" Now, nearly every woman in England would like to be a lady, though quite a number of British men do not yearn to be gentlemen; and yet nobody really seems to know what a lady is. Definitions there are in plenty, but none of them are satisfactory. Here, for instance, are a few:

A lady is a woman who does not work with her hands.

A lady is a woman who buys her clothes at the most expensive stores.

A lady is a woman who keeps two servants and a toy dog.

A lady is a woman who keeps a carriage.

A lady is a woman who can faint when required.

A lady is a woman who has been presented at Court.

A lady is a woman who moves gracefully and is bored with things.

A lady is a woman who can afford good clothes and knows how to wear them.

And this last is, after all, the definition most generally accepted to-day on this side of the Atlantic.

AT SCHOOL AT 71

Lessons for Widow Who Only Absorbs Sensational News

"It's never too late to learn," is a variation of a maxim that Mme. Orjeant has apparently made her own. Mme. Orjeant lives in Liége, she is a widow seventy-one years old, and she has just begun to go to school.

Madame wanted to learn to read newspapers with the particular object, she says, of reading reports of crimes and accidents.

Her daughter used to read the news to her, but the daughter got married. So, on the advice of a neighbor, she went to the Adults' Commercial School, that the world's news—and the police court news—might not be a closed book to her.

The result was surprising. In a few weeks madame made such good progress that she can now read newspapers almost with ease, and, further, she was invited to attend the annual prize distribution because she had made such good progress that she had won a prize.

"I much prefer reading about a murder or an accident in the newspapers to a book of fiction," she said. "I also find the advertisements in the papers very interesting. Before I went to school I often wondered what they were all about, now I read them all."

ROYAL MUSIC LOVERS

Queen Alexandra Loves the Opera and Queen Mary Sings

Queen Mary has a sweet singing voice, and loves tender and sentimental ballads, but is seldom heard beyond her own circle. Queen Alexandra loves music, is (when not in mourning) a constant opera-goer, and often plays the piano in her own boudoir. Princess Christian sings well, and in old days has sung at charity concerts in Windsor.

Princess Henry of Battenberg composes music, is a brilliant pianist, and a clever accompanist. Prince Leopold of Battenberg plays the violin, and Prince Alexander sings comic songs with much effect. Countess Gleichen has a fine singing voice, and his sister, Lady Valda Machell, is a finished musician.

Princess Pless and the Duchess of Westminster have good voices, and the Duchess of Marlborough sings coon songs with verve and distinction.

A NEW SHOWER

A "sweet and sour" shower is useful to given bride-to-be. Each guest brings two jars filled with something good to eat. One, for instance, may contain strawberry jam and the other mixed pickles. Each jar bears the name of the donor and a sentiment to suit the occasion, which may be read aloud. The jars will not be labeled otherwise, so the newlywife always have a surprise as long as there is one of the "sweet or sour" jars to open.

A New Use for Sandpaper

HUGE IMPORTS FROM THE STATES

We Should Keep at Home More of the $415,000,000 That Goes Across the Line Annually

According to a Washington government report the United States during the fiscal year 1912-13 exported $415,000,000 worth of goods to Canada, an increase of $84,000,000 over the previous year, and of nearly $100,000,000 over the year before that. That is to say, in three years our imports from the republic have practically doubled. In that period our purchases of American freight and passenger cars have jumped from $500,000 to $5,222,000; our imports of automobiles from $5,226,000 to $9,254,000; copper pigs, bars, etc., from less than $1,000,000 to over $4,500,000; steel rails, from less than $1,000,000 to nearly $4,000,000; cotton cloths, from $750,000 to $2,500,000; locomotives, from $250,000 to over $1,000,000; structural iron and steel, from less than $2,000,000 to over $3,000,000; metal-working machinery, from $222,000 to $2,222,000; agricultural implements, from $3,222,000 to practically $7,000,000; pipes and fittings, from $1,500,000 to over $4,000,000; leather boots and shoes, from $1,250,000 to over $2,000,000; and illuminating oil, from about $500,000 in 1910 to over $1,000,000 in 1913.

In raw materials and foodstuffs the increase is less pronounced. Raw cotton, of which the exports to Canada amounted to nearly $9,000,000 in 1913, shows practically no increase in value during the three years in question, though a slight increase in quantity. Corn, which amounted to $4,000,000 in 1910, was $4,750,000 in 1913; unmanufactured tobacco, $1,750,000 in 1910, $2,750,000 in 1913; lard, $1,250,000 in 1910, $1,250,000 in 1913; wheat, $2,000,000 in 1910, $750,000 in 1913; coal shows a marked increase from $31,000,000 in 1910 to $52,250,000 in 1913, the value being about equally divided between anthracite and bituminous.

Now that the United States has overtaken its internal demand for manufactures, its industrial concerns are entering more decisively into the competition for foreign markets. But for a protective tariff Canada would have been the first to feel and suffer from that policy. Even as it is, the course of trade shows that the contiguity of the Dominion has to a considerable extent counterbalanced the effect of import duties. No patriotic citizen wants to see the Dominion exchanging raw materials for manufactured products. His desire is to have these raw materials utilized in Canadian industries.

It will be a great thing for Canada when we can produce and manufacture a greater proportion of this $415,000,000 worth of goods here at home. The proved policy of moderate protection is our chief guarantee that we shall be able to do so. It is forcing American capitalists to invest millions of dollars in industries all over Canada.

FACTORIES COME BECAUSE OF TARIFF

How the Canadian Policy of Moderate Protection Brings Industries

If the American manufacturer establishes a branch, let us say in France or Germany, he may do so because he has to meet the peculiar tastes and demands of a people who want the article made their way or at least in a different way from what appeals to the tastes and meets the conditions of the American consumer. He may also be influenced by the inconvenience in distributing to a country on the other side of the world from his factory.

But he is not compelled to establish a branch factory in Canada by the above reasons, either of which might be effective in the case of countries upon another continent. He has an identical constituency in Canada and the United States. When he comes to Canada he does not experience difficulty to meet any peculiar taste or demand. So far as pleasing his trade is concerned he has no difficulty in selling in Canada what he makes in the United States.

Neither have we observed any cession three thousand miles wide between the United States manufacturer and the Canadian consumer. The manufacturer can distribute to Canadian customers just as conveniently from Boston or Minneapolis as he can from Halifax or Winnipeg.

It is moderate protection which preserves the Canadian home market. The American manufacturers say that they build factories here because they cannot manufacture in the United States, pay the duty and compete in the Canadian market with the Canadian manufacturer. They probably know what they are talking about.

CRAZED TEACHER SLAYS 13 AND FIRES TOWN

Muehlhausen, Germany, Sept. 9.—A crazed teacher named Wagner, who murdered his wife and four children at Degerloch yesterday, set fire to the village of Muehlhausen in four places last night and in a fight with the villagers who tried to capture him eight persons were shot and killed and ten wounded.

The maniac took refuge in a stable where he killed all of the cattle. He was finally overpowered after he had exhausted all the 200 cartridges with which he had provided himself. The enraged villagers wreaked their vengeance upon him by clubbing him and stabbing him with pitchforks. He probably will die.

When he entered Muehlhausen it was not known that he was a fugitive murderer. It was only after the wild scenes which had been enacted here that the police went to his apartment in Degerloch, where he has been teaching, and found the bodies of his wife and four children.

GUARDS HIS CLOTHES

An Old Raincoat Put to Good Use by Motor Cyclist

As collectors of dust and mud motor cyclists are unequalled.

A young man who was rather particular about his clothes, and who disliked to stalk into a hotel after a motor cycle ride covered with all the earth his wheels could throw upon him, found a way out of the difficulty.

He secured an old raincoat, split it up the back almost to his waist and equipped it with snap fasteners on each side so that he could fasten it about his legs when riding.

It doesn't look very nice, but it keeps off the mud and dirt, and does not cost very much, either, as the cheapest sort of a raincoat was used.

Fresh Air the Best Tonic for The Tired Feeling

Cool, fresh air stimulates the brain. A warm room, above normal temperature, in which several persons have breathed the air over and over, deadens the intelligence and mental activity just as it tires the physical body.

A class of children who have been growing duller and duller in mental comprehension in several successive classes can be stirred and awakened in five minutes if the teacher knows the cause of their mind weariness.

Fresh air from the open windows and brisk exercise in this new life-giving ozone will make new children of them.

Men and women who are closely housed in an illy-ventilated workshop, factory or store lose mental "snappiness" as the day wears on because the air supply is not sufficient. A woman who spends the greater part of her time housed up in a warm building or room gets the same brain tired, listless look.

A student who is obliged to use his brain at night and feels the first signs of drowsiness creeping over him, invariably turns to the window for his salvation. He opens it wide, lets his room get cool and well-filled with fresh air, fills up his lungs and then goes to work again. His brain is awake again. The cool, fresh air has revived it.

If your brain feels tired and doesn't work as well as usual, size up the air supply; see if the windows are open.

Weight and Height

The ratio of weight to height is as follows: One should weigh from one pound and four-fifths to two pounds and two-thirds for every inch of height. Divide the number of pounds you weigh by your height in inches. If your weight exceeds two pounds and a half to every inch of height then reducing diet and exercise are to be considered.

Banana Sauce

If a banana is reduced to pulp and added to the milk or cream used as sauce over apple dumplings, a delightful flavor is imparted.

CARE OF MILK AND CREAM

It is impossible to produce clean milk and cream unless the cows, stable, milker, utensils, and separator are clean.

To wash milk utensils use, first, cold water for rinsing; second, warm water containing a small quantity of good washing powder for cleaning; third, boiling water or steam for sterilizing.

Use a metallic strainer; it is practically impossible to keep cloth strainers sweet and clean and free from bacteria.

Skim the milk as soon after milking as possible, and cool the cream at once.

Skim a cream testing from 35 to 45 per cent.—the richer the cream the better it will keep. By skimming a rich cream, more skim milk is left at home for feed, and there is also a smaller bulk on which to pay express charges.

Do not mix warm, new cream with cold cream until it has been cooled.

Keep the cans of cream in a tank of cold water until time of delivery.

Wash the separator thoroughly after each separation.

Deliver the cream to the creamery or cream station early in the morning.

Deliver the cream not less than three times a week during the summer, and twice a week during the winter.

Protect the cans of cream from the sun by covering with canvas or with a wet sack while en route.

FORCIBLE FEEDING

Painful and Dangerous Operation at Best of Times

The following extract is taken from Sir Victor Horsley and Dr. Agnes Savill's report on forcible feeding, which appeared in The Lancet:—

The danger of forcible feeding is increased by the accidents liable to accompany the passage of tubes down the nose or throat. In several instances the oesophageal tube was passed into the larynx. Even in cases who did not offer resistance great pain and suffocation was caused by the clumsy use of the nasal tube when it coiled up in the back of the throat or came out of the mouth, and then had to be reinserted several times. The severe choking and vomiting which sometimes accompanied the passage of the tube led to danger from the entrance of food into the larynx.

The injection of food into the lung actually occurred in the case of one unresisting prisoner in whom the operation immediately caused severe choking, and vomiting was followed by persistent coughing. All night the patient could not sleep or lie down on account of great pain in the side of the chest. She was hurriedly released next day, so that the authorities discharging her obliged her to sign a statement that she left the prison at her own risk. On her arrival at home she was found to be very ill, suffering from pneumonia and pleurisy due to the food passed into the lung. Being fortunately a young and strong woman, she escaped with her life.

First Aid in Scrubbing

Make a stout platform 22x27 inches. Put a good steel revolving roller at each corner. Kneel on this platform when you want to wipe up the kitchen linoleum or to scrub the floor itself. The board is easily moved about by the motion of the hands. [illegible]

CARE OF THE TEETH

Absolute Cleanliness Necessary to Prevent Decay and Preserve Health

Good teeth are not accidental. They are our birthright. If by reason of lack of early training we failed to preserve our birthright, for the sake of our children let's not let the coming generation have poor teeth. Let's teach them habits of cleanliness as regards their teeth. They will thank us for it later.

Teeth kept perfectly clean cannot decay. Decay is caused by bacteria which find lodgment in protected places on tooth surfaces and, by breaking down the sweets and starches of food remnants, produce an acid that demolishes the tooth substance.

It is regarded as impossible to avoid all decay without constant attention for the purpose of keeping all tooth surfaces absolutely clean, but with such care as can be given by proper brushing and rinsing the teeth and mouth three times a day and the use of silk floss once a day, it is possible that 75 per cent. of the decay in children's teeth may be avoided.

It is highly important to protect the teeth of children, for with decayed teeth food cannot be properly chewed, and improperly chewed food cannot be properly digested. As a consequence proper body development is impaired, progress in studies is retarded and resistance to disease is rendered below par. Constant swallowing of the foul products of decay, combined with the lack of proper assimilation of food, produces anaemia, tonsillar disease, rheumatism and a number of ailments classed as "school diseases." If "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" it is manifestly worth while to avoid these conditions by remedying the defects of teeth which so commonly cause them.

To properly brush the teeth and accomplish the most good, select a medium stiff brush with tufted bristles, and in brushing place the brush with bristles up beside the upper teeth and rotate so that the bristles will cleanse both gums and teeth. Brush the opposite way when cleansing the lower teeth. To cleanse the inner surface of the teeth use the end of the brush. Also use the brush on the tongue and palate and finally rinse the mouth thoroughly, forcing the water between the teeth.

The most important tooth in the mouth and the one most frequently lost through decay is the first permanent molar. The "baby molars" should not be lost until the sixth year of life, but the first permanent molar, which comes in at six years of age, should not be lost at all.

USED WOODEN BULLETS

Turkish Soldiers Too Stupid to Recognize Manoeuvre Cartridges

New light is thrown on the rout of the Turkish troops in Macedonia by the discovery that, besides being badly organized and badly led, they were in great part provided with dummy cartridges and dummy bullets. Mr. William Le Queux found such bullets on the battlefield, and Mr. Frank Magee, another war correspondent, brought back to England from the battlefield of Kumanovo cases of these cartridges thrown away by the Turks in their flight before the Servians. The cartridges were packed in clips of five, and had ordinary metal cases, while the wooden bullets were painted red.

It is stated that the cartridges were supplied to Turkey by German firms. They were intended solely for the use in manoeuvres with the Turkish Mauser rifle and were labelled "wooden manoeuvre cartridges." By what means they came to be served out to soldiers facing the Servian shells and bullets is unknown. Wooden bullets should be harmless at any distance over a few yards.

A remarkable, yet simple enough explanation of these wooden bullets was supplied by Mr. Frederick A. Harrison, of the English firm of Maxims and Co.

"I don't know," he said, "whether there is some veiled suggestion in the report that these cartridges were 'made in Germany.' As a matter of fact, they were only put together in Germany. My firm supplied not hundreds, but millions of these wooden bullets to Germany, as well as most other countries in Europe, from our factory. They are made to be used at manoeuvres only and were certainly introduced for that purpose into the Turkish army by the German instructors. Owing to the confusion of the war and the ignorance of the Turkish army store officials, some of this manoeuvre ammunition evidently was served out for use in the field.

"The painting red of the bullets was intended, of course, to distinguish the 'wood' from the real bullets, though the weight should have been a sufficient indication to any but the newest recruit."

The Device of a Milwaukee Crook and How It Was Operated

In the current number of Popular Electricity, a newspaperman who happened also to be an electrician tells the story of the crookedest roulette wheel ever built, and how it was operated to swindle some very wealthy and fashionable plungers out of fortunes near New York. The wheel in question was made by a crook in Milwaukee, a man who knew the game of roulette as well as he knew the science of electricity, and he produced a table that gave the player no chance whatever. It has been calculated that in fair gambling games, that is in games in which the bankers take no advantage that the game itself does not afford, the chances of "beating the banker" vary from two chances in five to one chance in ten. It may be taken for granted that no "square" game that attracts professional gamblers gives an even break, or anything like an "even break," to the plungers. For instance, it has been calculated that in the flipping of a coin, where no art is used at all, and where it would seem as likely that "head" should turn up as "tail," the man who "calls" the turn of the coin is at a disadvantage.

Psychology of Gambling

Carrying the operation over a hundred tosses, he cannot call it right more than twice out of five times. Nor does the fact that "head" has turned up ten times in succession mean that any odds should be laid against "head" turning up for the eleventh time. If "head" has turned up for one thousand times it is just as likely to turn up for the thousandth and first time as is "tail." Psychology is involved in this calculation but it may be taken for granted that the banker, the man who leaves it to his opponent to do the guessing, has a decided advantage. In the game of roulette, however, the bankers have not been content to let psychology give them their margin. The Milwaukee man, as mentioned, invented a wheel that would surely break every man who played against it. If a score of them fought it at once they would be robbed none the less surely. The only difference would be, if they varied their bets, that one would be plucked sooner than others. In the end the result would be the same. The wonderful wheel first came to light in Cedarhurst, Long Island. It was located in a cottage on the outskirts of this fashionable resort, but news of the presence of a "game" in which there was no limit spread quickly among the wealthy and idle members of the community. So well did the wheel do its duty that it had been in operation only a few weeks before the police were quietly informed, and swooped down. They missed the proprietor, but they secured the wheel, and it was later examined by the electrician who gives the story to Popular Electricity.

An Electric Wheel

He tells of the partial dismemberment of the machine and continues:

"Our next move was to remove the [illegible] from the top of the table, and [illegible]

[illegible] desired. The ball itself, while presumably of ivory, had a metal core which was susceptible to the magnetic attraction exerted by the battery, and all the dealer had to do was to look around the table and choose the pocket or hole that had the least money bet on it. Into that pocket he would cause the ball to drop. Of course, others than the banker might be enriched, but however lucky a man seemed to be, he would be "cleaned out" if he remained long enough at the table. The wires were so skilfully concealed that when the table legs were unscrewed they revealed nothing. The surface of the cloth was as smooth as glass. Only the fact that the customers were so speedily ruined, one of them dropping not less than $125,000, led to any suspicion being aroused, and even after the raid, if it had not been for the fact that the owners of the wheel refused to give the Milwaukee manufacturer his "bit," the true inwardness of the crookedest roulette wheel ever made would not have been revealed. The moral of the tale would seem to favor dominoes.

LITTLE GERMAN "TRUST BUSTER"

Piling nickles into fortunes is the business of Carl Laemmle, the president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. He is about 45 years old and about 5 feet tall. A few years ago he was a poor German boy without money or friends in a strange country. To-day he is one of the most important men in the moving picture business. Incidentally he is the man who broke the "film trust" by organizing the small independent companies who objected to the heavy charges levied on them by the monopolists in the moving picture business. Laemmle, of course, got the presidency of the new concern as he was the originator of the idea.

ICELESS REFRIGERATOR

Chest Has Filling of Salt Between Its Two Shelves

A food preserving chest that is in effect is an iceless refrigerator has been invented. The whole secret lies in a filling of salt which keeps the temperature of the interior regular. This chest comprises an outer shell of wood and an inner shell of some open mesh material and spaced apart from the outer shell, providing plenty of room for the salt filling. The surface of the inner shell is corrugated so that its area is increased and the action of the salt filling facilitated. Food kept in such a chest is not affected by the warm temperature of the room in which the chest is. That salt is a great agent for the protection of cold bodies from the heat is best exemplified to the general mind by the example of the manner in which the fee [illegible] ice cream is salted.

THAW LODGED IN COLEBROOK JAIL AWAITS ARRIVAL OF THE N.Y. POLICE

Matteawan Lunatic Rearrested After Brief Dream of Freedom—New Hampshire Police Act on Instructions From Acting Governor Glynn of Empire State

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 10.—"I issued the warrant for the deportation of Thaw which has been acted upon this morning. I did it in pursuance of my duty as Acting Minister of the Interior," said Judge Doherty, Canadian Minister of Justice, this morning. "I assume full responsibility for the deportation. The action has been taken after careful consideration. What was done was merely to carry out the law."

Judge Doherty explained that the Canadian Immigration Law directed the seizure of persons who are suspected of being undesirable, their examination by a board on inquiry, and the deportation of such persons. "Thaw was suspected, seized, examined, condemned as an undesirable, and now has been sent back to whence he came, and by the same route," added Judge Doherty.

Three Hours of Freedom.

Colebrook, N.H., Sept. 10.—Harry K. Thaw wandered about the hills in Coos County, N.H., for three hours to-day after being thrust across the Canadian border at Norton Mills, and was arrested by Sheriff Drew of Coos County, at Little [illegible] House, five miles from Colebrook, just before noon. Thaw made no resistance and was brought immediately to Colebrook.

Thaw in his wanderings was accompanied only by newspaper men. He did not know where to go. Leaving Norton Mills he stopped for a few minutes at Averill, Vt., and having there doubled back to Canada, re-entered Vermont at Canaan, then crossed the Connecticut River at Stewartstown. No one attempted to detain him. He was planning at this time to strike a railroad and buy a through ticket to Detroit. Vainly he tried to get in connection with his lawyers at Montreal. Failing in this he resumed his blind journey until detained by Sheriff Drew. The Sheriff had no warrant, but he held him as a fugitive from justice.

Thaw Arrested.

Colebrook, N.H., Sept. 10.—Harry K. Thaw was arrested by New Hampshire authorities upon his arrival here this afternoon, and will be held for the New York State officials, who wired here [illegible] apprehension.

The Matteawan fugitive was dropped over the border by the Canadian authorities into Vermont, alone, dazed and free. The newspaper men followed him, took him into their car, and are now travelling with him. Already they have passed from Vermont into New Hampshire.

Predicament Strangest Yet.

The predicament Harry Thaw finds himself in to-day is by far the most extraordinary that has marked the progress of his sensational case since he fled from the Matteawan Insane Asylum August 17th. Believing this morning that he was being kidnapped, he resisted forcibly his removal from Coaticook, only to find that the outcome of his quick dash in an automobile to American territory was to bring him a brief [illegible] and place him in the hands of the men who up to the present time had devoted their energies to the reporting of his case. Thaw was dazed at the suddenness of the events of the morning, without his array of legal counsel he did not know where to turn for advice. After brief consultation with the newspaper men, the automobile hired by the reporters with Thaw in it, went on to Averill, Vt.

Crosses to New Hampshire.

Here a brief stop was made and by ten o'clock he had crossed the Vermont line into New Hampshire.

In the absence of a statement from the Canadian Immigration authorities, no definite understanding of the sudden removal of Thaw has been obtained here. The idea has been advanced that the Canadian Department of Immigration, embarrassed by the presence of Thaw in Canada, and the charges that they were in collusion with the authorities of New York State to return Thaw, practically a prisoner to New York, [illegible] themselves in getting him out of their jurisdiction.

BRANTFORD INDIAN CONFESSED CRIME

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 10.—The horrible mystery of murder which the police authorities of Brantford and Brant County faced Tuesday morning is to-day no longer a mystery.

James Taylor, an Indian half-breed known in police circles as "Taylor the Spaniard," has confessed.

Taylor has told the authorities that he killed Charlie Dawson. He did it shortly after nine o'clock on Monday night and he did it at the very spot where the body was found. The knife with which Taylor did the deed has been found and is now in the possession of the police.

Conducted Police to Spot.

In fact, Taylor himself escorted the police to the spot where he threw the weapon early Tuesday morning. He had been employed at the waterworks and while tramping there threw the knife away in the grass on the waterworks property. Coroner Dr. Ashton found it in less than five minutes' search, he having directed the doctor and the police to the very spot where he discarded the death dealing instrument.

The confession of Taylor winds up inside of 24 hours one of the worst crimes ever committed in the county of Brant.

CABINET MINISTERS VISIT WEST OTHERS TO GO THIS FALL

Members of the Dominion Government Study Western Conditions First Hand

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The members of the Dominion Government are determined to know the country whose destiny has been placed in their hands. This is as it should be. Members of the late administration displayed a lack of interest in the parts and provinces of Canada represented by their colleagues. They travelled as little as they could, learned as little, and as a result, had not the advantage of personal knowledge of the places and conditions with which they were called upon to deal. This was not at all as it should be, but there were a whole lot of things about the late Government that were not what they should be.

Different Now.

The record of the present Government in this respect is a good one. Confident that the trust which has been given to them by the people of Canada will not be withdrawn for many years they are preparing to acquaint themselves at first hand with the problems with which they must meet in the administration of their departments. Hon. Robert Rogers, himself a westerner, has just returned from a tour of the prairie provinces in the course of which he personally satisfied himself of the needs of the different localities and of the progress which is being made upon the important public works already under construction.

Mr. White Going.

The Minister of Finance, Hon. W. T. White, who is just back from England, proposes to visit the west this year, to meet the people of the west, to study for himself the western conditions. Mr. White is the man who holds the purse-strings of the country, who finds the money for the great undertakings of all branches of the Government in all parts of Canada. He should know the country, and he intends to know it.

Mr. Doherty Also.

During the present month Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, will pay his first official visit to the west. Mr. Doherty, as head of the important Department of Justice, has charge of all the penitentiaries of the Dominion and has just [illegible] inquiry having for [illegible] vested [illegible] in the direction of prison reform.

Inspected Fisheries.

Hon. J. D. Hazen has just returned from a trip through the west and up the Pacific coast, in the course of which he saw for himself the work of the Marine and Fisheries Department in western and Pacific waters. He has returned by boat down the Great Lakes, forming his own judgment of the progress of the fresh water fisheries and of the navigation development and needs on the lakes.

Hon. Louis Coderre, Secretary of State and Minister of Mines, is on a visit to the west. Hon. Dr. Roche Minister of the Interior, after a necessary rest in England, has lost no time in revisiting the western provinces and seeing that the work of the Department of the Interior is being properly done.

Col. Hughes Was There.

Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes knows the west as well as he knows the east, but this summer found him in the prairie provinces and British Columbia, visiting the training camps and satisfying himself that proper progress is being made in the work of housing the militia.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor also went west during the summer, noting labor and industrial conditions and widening his knowledge of these matters. All this shows that the present Government is composed of men who intend to know what they are doing, who are not afraid of work, and who have a real interest in the task of government. They are not mere politicians; they are builders.

CORONER'S JURY CENSURE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC

Last night the adjourned inquest on the death of Arthur Jones, who is alleged to have died from burns received at the C.G.E. Co., a few weeks ago, was held, with Coroner Dr. Greer presiding. The jury was polled and all found present. The first witness was Mr. Harry Shadd Tyson in succession followed Messrs. Robt. Dobie, Mechanical Superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Works, Hason Ritchie, G. B. Wilson, both of the C.G.E. Co., H. O. Fisk, Cortez Fernandes and W. Yost.

The whole trend of the evidence was almost purely technical. A few minutes after 12 the following verdict was brought in:

We, the jurors, empannelled to inquire into the death of Arthur Jones find that he came to his death on August 20th from injuries received in the test room of the Canadian General Electric Company, on Aug. 19th, while in the performance of his duties and under instructions from the proper authorities, he received an electric shock which was directly the cause of his death.

We further believe from evidence produced that the accident would have been avoided had more modern methods of insulation been used on the lead wires, or work of this nature done while the works are closed down.

ARCTIC CLUB EXPERTS DOUBT ESKIMOS KILLED EXPLORERS

If Radford and Street Were Victims Over Year Ago It Was One of the First Instances of Display of Savagery

New York, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Members of the Arctic Club here are surprised at the report of the murder of H. V. Radford of New York and George Street of Ottawa by Eskimos at Shultz Lake near the Arctic ocean. The members of the club declared that if the report of the killing of Radford and his companions was true it was one of the first instances of display of savagery among the Eskimos.

Radford Fellow of the American Geographical Society and member of the Arctic Club of New York, left left this city on Feb. 12, 1909 for a four years trip of exploration in northern Canada.

Newspaper Gets Letter.

He planned to cover about 6,000 miles through Northwestern British Columbia, Northern Alaska and the east cape of asia.

Coincident with the telegraphic report of the death of the two explorers, there arrived at a newspaper office here yesterday a letter written by Radford on June 5th, 1912 the day he is supposed to have been killed. It appears that the letter was forwarded from Bathurst Inlet by the same Eskimo Chief, named Akulak, who brought the news of the alleged murder of the two white men to the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. In his letter Radford told of the success of his mission and announced that he and Street were starting for the MacKenzie Delta.

Found Primitive Tribe.

He said he believed that he and Street were the only whites who had entered Bathurst Inlet since Franklin's expedition in 1821. Radford said that within two weeks he hoped to complete his inspection and mapping of the last strip of continental coast remaining unexplored, to make complete and continuous the coast line of North America. Regarding the Eskimos of Bathurst Inlet, he said:

"We found a very primitive tribe, who have no intercourse with whites. They possess no rifles and hunt as of old with bow, spear, and harpoon." He said he had already arranged with two of these natives to accompany him westward towards the MacKenzie Delta.

CLEVER WOMAN OUTWITS POLICE

Paris, Sept. 10.—A woman hotel thief escaped capture by the French police at Vichy the other day by disguising herself as a maidservant and walking out of the hotel unrecognized. The woman who described herself as a countess, arrived some days ago at a fashionable hotel and secured a room, which she occupied only for a few hours. On her departure, visitors occupying adjoining rooms complained that they had been robbed of jewels and money. The police identified the pseudo-countess as a clever thief who under another name, had been twice sentenced to imprisonment.

The adventuress was traced two days later to a small hotel in Vichy, but when she saw the detectives approaching she asked to see the manageress. Bursting into tears, she explained to the manageress that she was running away from her jealous husband, and that the detectives were coming to fetch her.

"Give me a cap and apron," she said, "and I will pose as a servant."

The manageress touched by her appeal, complied with her request and thus the adventuress was able to leave the hotel. But it was found later that she had ransacked the rooms of the visitors and taken away all the spare money she could find.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair, but some local showers by night.

BAD DAYS FOR POOR FIDO.

GEORGE ST. CHURCH DEPUTATION WINS POINT AS TO NEW WALK

Board of Works Will Recommend That Concrete Sidewalk be Laid Along-side Church, North Side MacDonnell Street, Outside the Trees

The City's Board of Works met in regular business session last evening, Chairman Ald. Buller presiding.

There were also present Mayor Bradburn, Alderman Duffus, Anderson, McIntyre, Johnston and Gillespie, and City Engineer Parsons.

Messrs. Dumble, Shortley, R. F. Ackerman and Stabler were a deputation from George street Methodist church, and asked that the concrete sidewalk on the north side of Macdonnel street be laid outside the tree line, so that the curb is on the graded street line. The object of this request, Mr. Dumble explained, is to permit of more grass ground on the Macdonnel street side of the church, thus beautifying the corner in general. The other members of the deputation endorsed Mr. Dumble's address in favor of the project.

Mr. Stabler offered that a number of prominent citizens had suggested that the new sidewalk should be laid outside the tree line to improve the appearance of the corner.

His Worship—"Has anyone took into consideration the looks of the street." As the sidewalk on the south side is within the tree line, to put the north walk outside the tree line you will have a lop-sided street.

Mr. Dumble contended that uniformity is not beauty; the Lord never made things in straight lines, nor uniform. "But if you want uniformity, the walk on the north side of Macdonnel street, east of Water, is outside the trees, then why not continue the new sidewalk alongside the church as near in line as possible with that east of Water—outside the tree line to George?" Mr. Dumble added that were the concrete walk laid where the old wooden one is it would interfere with the trees, and were the concrete one built in a line with that east of Water street, it would likewise be too close to the trees. Hence, he contended that the new walk should be laid further outside the trees than the one east of Water street, to avoid injury to the trees. This, of course, would create a jog which cannot be avoided.

This is what the Mayor and Ald. Buller strongly objected to—another jog on the street.

Messrs. Stabler and Shortley thought their purpose would be answered were the walk laid in a line with that east of Water, without serious injury to the trees.

Ald. Johnston and Anderson did not see any objection to this.

The Chairman offered that the whole Board and Council were anxious to meet the wishes of George street Methodist church, so far as consistent with the city's general interest, and safety of traffic.

The deputation here retired. Ald. Buller here read City Engineer's previous report that this sidewalk should be laid inside the trees, where the present wooden one is situated.

Ald. Johnston here took exception to the Engineer's report being adopted.

His worship pointed out that the walk on Macdonnel street south side from Water to George, is inside the tree line and that on same side, east of Water and west of George on the outside. Hence laying the walk petitioned for outside the trees would create several unsightly jogs within a short distance.

Ald. Johnston and McIntyre here moved that the walk alongside the George street church be laid outside the tree line, as petitioned for. This was supported by Ald. Anderson.

The Mayor moved in amendment, that the Engineer's report that the walk should go inside the trees be adopted. He was seconded by Ald. Gillespie and supported by Ald. Duffus.

This tied the question and it was consequently up to Chairman Ald. Buller to cast his vote and break the deadlock.

Ald. Buller offered that he was convinced that the walk should go inside the tree line as recommended by the Engineer. But as on more than one occasion when he had stood to his guns, according to his convictions, in opposition to requests from churches, he had been thrown down when the matter came up before Council, he was going to give it to the Methodists this time.

The Mayor—"What does that mean, do you vote for the motion?"

Ald. Buller—"Yes, but I am convinced the walk should go inside the tree line."

The Mayor—"Then why not vote according to your convictions?"

Ald. Buller—"What's the use? the Board's recommendation would only be turned down by Council, as customary in similar cases. And we might as well settle the question now. I vote with Ald. Johnston."

Accordingly, Ald. Johnston's motion was carried on a vote of 4 to 3, and the walk will go outside the trees in compliance with the church's request.

A Beginning in Sight!

Engineer Parsons reported that the Provincial Board of Health will approve of his plans for new outfall sewer and sewage disposal this week. Consequently he would like authority to advertise for tenders for sediment tanks and material so that the work could be started at the earliest possible moment. This authority was voted the Engineer.

In the meantime, until the work is done, temporary sewerage and drainage facilities will be provided for the DeLaval premises.

Action is at last under way to furnish sewerage for the Harvey street district.

To Pay Cost of Running Car.

The Board will recommend that the maintenance cost of running the city Engineer's car on the city's business be borne by the corporation. This was the motion of Ald. Johnston and Duffus.

Steam Roller Caused Trouble.

Dunsley Delaney, Lakefield, P.O., rural route No. 4, is asking $25 for damages to himself and buggy, on July 29th, through his horse shying at the steam roller on Concession street. The engineer reported Delaney at fault, and the claim was sent along to the Legal Committee for decision.

Crossing to Marble Co. Works.

On motion of the Mayor and Ald. Anderson, the question of a crossing on Marie street, to the Marble Co's works, was left with the City Engineer and Chairman, with power to act.

Water for Prince St.

Council will assure the Water Commissioners that a sewer will be laid on Prince street within one year. On strength of this assurance the Commissioners will lay a main on Prince street.

KAISER PLAYS FIDDLE SOLO WITH KIDS

Potsdam, Sept. 10.—The Kaiserin received a picture postcard the other day, representing the Kaiser in the centre of a hundred or more little boys and girls in more or less primitive bathing costumes. The picture was taken in one of the Baltic seaside resorts which the Kaiser visited unexpectedly in company with the chancellor. William spent an hour with the "kids" telling them of the time when his own children were small and of his grandchildren.

Finally a little girl took heart to say: "Are you a great conductor, Uncle Kaiser? We can sing if you play the fiddle."

The Kaiser had a fiddle brought from the schoolmaster's house and played a lot of patriotic songs for the children.

Blind Man Follows Game.

"Seeing" a baseball game by sound is something that the average baseball enthusiast cannot understand, but there is in Pittsburg an enthusiastic a rooter as exists, who since 1881 has attended [illegible] and never seen a play. He is Charles Knight, whose blindness cannot dim the charm of the game. "My acute hearing enables me to follow every detail of the play," he said, recently, in describing his method of enjoying the game. "You see, my sense of hearing is far better than that of persons who have to use their eyes, and I can hear the ball strike the players' gloves and tell exactly what part of the field the ball is in. By the yells or groans of the crowd which follow good plays, hits, errors, etc., I am able to keep track of the event, and by quietly listening to the conversation of fans about me I am kept posted on the score."

GARDEN YIELDS GRIM SECRET

Skeleton Discovered in Tiled Pathway—Story of a Missing Son and a Quarrel

The discovery of the skeleton of a man under the garden path of a house at Poole has caused a great sensation in the Dorsetshire town. Until recently the house was in the occupation of a retired prison warder named Alfred Westbeare, who lived alone. When the discovery was made neighbors recalled the fact that a few years ago a son of Westbeare, who had been staying with his father, suddenly disappeared, and it was inferred that the skeleton was that of the missing man.

John William Rowlands, the landlord when the skeleton was found, told the court that when Westbeare was seriously ill he did his best to get the address of the man's wife, but he declared: "It is no use. She is too old. She is seventy-two years old, and no use to me. My son and daughter I do not think will care about coming, and they cannot afford to do it." Referring to being separated from his wife, Westbeare said: "We could not get on, and decided to separate mutually and peaceably."

Josiah Brown, builder, said he had done some repairs to the house occupied by Westbeare, and, when completing the inside of the house, he asked Rowlands if he could see what was the matter with the back yard. Eighteen inches below the surface he came across several human bones. They were covered with a layer of broken bricks. He gave information to the police. Next morning he removed other remains.

Maud Mary Westbeare said that her brother, Alfred Charles had, some years ago come to visit his father but disappeared. Her mother later wrote to her father about the missing son, and the father replied something to the effect:

"You need have no fear; your son is at rest."

On her father's death Miss Westbeare and her brother Frederick went to Poole for the funeral. They found in the house two suits of working clothes, and a best suit belonging to her missing brother.

Dr. Oliver, police surgeon, Poole, said the skeleton found in the yard was that of an adult male. There were no signs of any fracture of the skull or injury to the bones, upon which there was little flesh. The body was buried 2 feet 6 inches deep, and was lying full length face upwards, with the arms straight by the sides. Under the shoulder-blades some fragments of clothing were found. The body must have been buried some years.

Levi Luckham, who stated he had lived next door to the house for fifteen years, said Westbeare was a queer man and very seldom spoke. Some years ago Luckham noticed that the old man was frequently pulling up the tiles outside the back door and relaying them. At one time the old man had all the tiles up and piled against the coal-hole; for a long time witness thought he did it for amusement. Westbeare also used to screen off that part of the place with a curtain, and had sat in the yard in a chair, sometimes all night, as though keeping guard.

Westbeare used to walk about in his room the whole night. Luckham did not believe he undressed for years; he always had his boots on.

The jury returned an open verdict, the foreman stating that there was no evidence of identity nor of the cause of death.

THE COUNTRY BOY BEST FOR BASEBALL

Fresh Air and Varied Work Make for Stamina and Resourcefulness

Other things being equal—and by "other things" I mean natural ability, baseball brains and nerve—I would pick the country boy in place of the city chap for my ball team, says the famous Cy Young. In making this statement I am dividing th[illegible] into two classes—cities and country—including in the latter division the villages and small towns, which in reality are nothing more than the country, for in them boys have [illegible] advantage of country life, [illegible] plenty of work and fresh air.

I am not saying this because I [illegible] from the country and [illegible] the slightest provocation. Still I [illegible] lieve the fact that I was born and raised on a farm is largely responsible for my success as a pitcher. I was naturally rugged, and my farm work as a boy tended to make me more so. I have seen other pitchers who seemed to have a lot more stuff than I had, fail, for the reason that they were lacking in reserve power.

They would go along splendidly for a few innings, but when the real test came they were lost sight of, and [illegible] are all but forgotten, whereas, had they had the same early training [illegible] [illegible] they might have remained in the game as long as I have. The argument that city boys [illegible] and are more independent [illegible] good one. In fact, I believe it is entirely wrong. The country boy [illegible] think as fast and as often as the boy in the city, and he is thrown on his own resources much oftener.

All in all, give me the boy from the country—the boy who has survived the hard knocks—for [illegible]

OUR POINT OF VIEW

Distance lends security to Mr. Lemieux in his attacks on Commander Roper.

This is September, the most dismal month in the calendar of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Two years ago Canada refused to be an adjunct of the United States.

The Liberal platform of 1893 would have been twenty years old if it hadn't been abandoned by its parents.

It pains us to observe that the advance demonstrations of Irish home rule look very much like the Balkan article.

A news item says four thousand deaths are caused each year in Mexico by scorpions. It appears that the vicious little things are far more deadly than the revolutions.

We don't know what is going to be done about it, but the concert of Europe is being seriously disturbed by the Turkish theatre drama in Adrianople.

GOOD WORK OF C. P. R.

Calgary Herald: The big colonization scheme announced by the C. P. R. to bring ten thousand experienced farmers into the Lethbridge district will give the southern city a tremendous impetus. Unfortunate circumstances over which the city had no control have frequently delayed the development and growth of Lethbridge, but it is a logical metropolis, and nothing can prevent its ultimate expansion into a great city. Calgary wishes its southern sister city well, because she deserves it, and The Herald believes that the colonization plan of the C. P. R. will do much to offset earlier obstacles which have impeded the growth of Lethbridge.

CANADA'S BEST IMMIGRATION YEAR.

Statistics of immigration for the first four months of the year indicate that this is to be the best year from an immigration point of view that we have ever had. Even if the splendid rate of increase is not fully maintained for the twelve months, Canada will have gained nearly a million within the year. But it is not in figures alone that the statistics are gratifying. In a sense Canada knows no nationality while it throws open its gates to the immigrant. We place no barriers in the way of any man because of his nationality. But there are some that we welcome just a little more heartily than those from any other land, and they are the Britishers. We like them because they come to us with British ideals of justice and liberty, and freedom; because they are imbued with our ideals of private and political morality; moreover, we like them because they are of our own kin and blood. It is a hopeful and encouraging sign that they came to us in the first four months in numbers so much greater than those from all other countries except the United States. They should make a strong leavening force in the mass of "foreign" immigrants that finds its way to our shores and that needs instructing in new world ideas of civil and political liberty. The promise of good crops at home doubtless operated to check the tide of immigration from the United States, but the failure of the corn crop and the falling off in other cereals combined with the magnetic influence of the bumper crop in the Canadian West this year, will doubtless start the northward trek again next spring. Next to the Britisher we like to see the American settler. He needs no breaking in—he adapts himself readily to conditions as he finds them, and soon becomes in fact, as in effect, he is from the first, a citizen of our country. We are sorry to note a falling off in his numbers.

Weary Tiredness Changed to Vigor

THAT PLAYED OUT FEELING WAS QUICKLY REMEDIED AND HEALTH RESTORED

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced — eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared, and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Military Bandmasters.

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir,—When listening to the splendid concerts given last summer in Victoria Park, by the 57th Regimental Band the thought suggested itself to me that military bandmasters in Canada should be granted Commissions. They should, I consider, be given the rank of Lieutenant at least. These men are, almost invariably, men of high musical ability, gained by years of study and attention to their art. It does not seem to me fair that a military band master should rank lower than a Sergeant who probably could not play a tune on a Jews' harp, and who, in some cases might not know the difference between "God Save the King" and "Yankee Doodle."

Splendid Band Gave Citizens a Great Treat Last Night

Last night the Brock street rink was crowded by a large audience of our citizens who appreciate good music. Great credit is due to Mr. R. Gliddon for assisting to secure such a splendid attraction as the Band of His Majesty's Irish Guards.

Yesterday the members of this band were seen on the streets in their scarlet tunics heavily decorated with gold lace and massive epaulets.

As was generally expected by those who listened to the band at the rink it was heard to much better advantage in this large auditorium, where the softer passages were not lost, and where the more delicate tonal tints could be given their proper effect.

The programme given by Conductor Charles H. Hassell was well chosen. In the Overture to "Tannhauser," the splendidly mellow and smooth quality of the brass was at all times evident, especially in the glorious passages of the concluding triumphant march. The "Caprice Italein" (Tschaikowsky), requires a variety and a lightness of color that makes the selection one peculiarly suited to an orchestra rather than a band.

The ever popular overture to "William Tell" was given with excellent effect, and the band was also impressive in its rendering of the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin." The bandmaster's "Musical Snapshots," and the band showed its nationality by giving a collection of Irish airs.

Sergeant Hunt gave a cornet solo, "The Better Land," and later in the evening he was heard again with Mr. H. Smith when they rendered the duet, "The Moon has Raised Her Lamp Above." Sergeant Underhill contributed a piccolo solo, "Harbinger of Spring." Several of the most popular selections of the evening were given as encores, and these included Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and the dainty little "Baby's Sweetheart," with its melody taken by the piccolos.

SON OF VICTIM TO KILL TEACHER

Muehlhausen, Baden, Germany, Sept. 10.—A son of one of the victims of Wagner, the wholesale murderer, attempted to-day to kill the teacher in a hospital. Guards balked him.

The number of Wagner's victims reached 16 to-day by the death of another of the villagers he shot.

Wagner's wholesale slaughter yesterday was the sequel to six years' planning for vengeance inspired by the villagers' interference in his marriage plans. He had hoped to kill more persons than fell beneath his aim after he murdered his wife and children according to the memoranda found among his papers.

HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE MEAN MUCH TO CANADA

Dr. J. A. MacDonald and Ex-President Taft Speak to Big Audience at Put-in-Bay

Put-in-Bay, O., Sept. 10.—A towering shaft of white marble, erected in commemoration of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's victory in the Battle of Lake Erie and the one hundred years of peace between United States and Great Britain, was formally dedicated to-day by former President William Howard Taft. Inaugurating the dedication ceremonies, cannon boomed at the hour of the firing of the opening gun as the battle fought one hundred years ago today within the view of the Put-in-Bay shores.

"A century ago to-day this Bay was made famous by a battle," said Mr. Taft, "and to-day we meet to dedicate a great and beautiful monument to those who took part.

"In the retrospection of one hundred years we can weigh its significance. Nothing has developed in those years to diminish the courage, patriotism and skill of the commander and his men as they appeared to their contemporaries, but the consequences of the battle and the war of which it was one of the bright spots in the field of glories, were strikingly beneficent and promise to grow even more so in the second century upon what we are now entering.

Not Celebrating a Victory.

"We celebrate the centennial of this battle, not in the spirit of triumphal victory of arms, but in the deep gratitude that one hundred years has not seen its repetition. No historical review can give as much satisfaction to him that hopes for a permanent, international peace as the contrast between the attitude of the two peoples then and now."

Dr. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto, spoke for Canada and his remarks were well received.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If tongue is coated, or if cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

HELPED PRETENDER

Death of Peer Who Dressed as Spanish Don

After a long illness the Earl of Ashburnham died in Paris, in his seventy-third year. The late Earl of Ashburnham was a member of a Sussex family, which, according to Fuller of the "Worthies," is of "stupendous antiquity," and another writer adds that it was "of good account in England before the Conquest." Sir John Ashburnham attended Charles I. on the scaffold at Whitehall, and at the family seat, Ashburnham Place, near Battle, are some curious relics of the execution—the watch and white silk [illegible] of the King, and the sheet thrown over his body.

Lord Ashburnham inherited thirty-four years ago perhaps the finest private collection of manuscripts and early printed books in the kingdom, but they have nearly all been dispersed. Many extremely valuable volumes crossed the Atlantic. While in London he often affected the long cloak and wide-brimmed sombrero of a Spanish don, and during the Carlist activities in Spain he contributed generously to the funds of Don Carlos, the Pretender to the Spanish throne, with whom he was on terms of intimate friendship.

The Ashburnham title, from its creation in 1689 to the late holder, always descended from father to son—in fact, it is believed, without parallel in the British peerage—but the fifth earl had no son. The heir to the title is the Hon. Thomas Ashburnham, brother of the fifth earl, who was formerly a captain in the 7th Hussars, and served in Egypt in 1882. He was born in 1855.

RESPECTED IN DEATH

Frederick Hitch Who Participated in the Famous "Rorke's Drift"

Not for many years has a military funeral attracted so much public attention, and homage for the dead man, as the burial of Frederick Hitch, one of the recipients of the Victoria Cross, and one of the noble band of heroes who thrilled the world by their bravery in the great fight at Rorke's Drift. The old hero suddenly and peacefully collapsed, passing away in the arms of a friend.

At the funeral, full military honors were accorded to the dead man. The remains were placed on a gun carriage, drawn by four horses. The coffin was borne from the house where the hero died on the shoulders of six of his comrades from the old regiment and was received with a salute by the firing party, which had been drawn up opposite to and facing the gun carriage. Then the Union Jack was draped over the casket, and the procession moved off at slow march, the drums softly rolling out the introduction to the sweetly solemn strains of the band, playing the Dead March.

According to a German statistician only two per cent. of musicians are rich to 16 per cent. of men in other intellectual pursuits.

CASTLE FOR THE NATION

Finely Preserved Relic of the Norman Attack Upon Wales

Weobley Castle, which dates back to the Norman attack upon Wales in the eleventh century, has been presented by Miss Talbot to the nation. The old castle, which stands on the Gower Peninsula, bears a most imposing appearance when approached from the estuary, of which it commands fine views. It is a splendid specimen of a castle, and possesses beautiful architectural features, including round and hexagonal towers in almost perfect condition.

Weobley Castle was built by Henry Beaumont de Newburgh, who also built Swansea Castle, and was for centuries the property of the Delabere family. In the sixteenth century it fell into disuse, and a farmhouse was built within its great hall.

The farmhouse will be cleared away as a blot upon its surroundings. Every stone in the castle walls will be recemented and grouted, and the loose ones replaced. Arches will be opened up, angles finished on, and the building generally made thoroughly secure.

WANTED TO STARVE

Woman Who Ate Nothing For Twenty-one Days Saved by Police

Marie Mercuf, a middle-aged woman, was found starving in her flat at Courbevoie, said a message from Paris, having lived for twenty-one days without a morsel of food. Questioned, she explained that her daughter had run away and abandoned her. She then made up her mind to die of hunger, and lay on her bed without food, taking nothing but a few drops of water squeezed out of a damp cloth. When taken to the hospital she protested vehemently, saying she wished to be allowed to die in peace, and physical persuasion had to be used to make her take the journey.

FANS LIKE BASE STEALERS

All the Managers Are Out After Speed Merchants

Baseball fans like clever pitching, delight in plenty of slugging, enthuse over sensational fielding, but enjoy no feature of the game more than the art of base-running. Nothing excites the fans more than some bit of daring on the base lines. What could be more thrilling than a cleverly executed steal of home, with the winning run of the game.

Speed, properly converted, is the main asset of every successful team and the crying need of every club that is in the rut. A team that always needs a bunch of hits to get only a few runs is a club that will not be at all dangerous in the long run. It is the team that is always taking chances on the bases, the club that makes its opportunities, that generally cuts in on the world's series melon. When a baseball club is going badly inject a little speed into the aggregation and it will usually take on renewed life and energy at once.

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use.

MUSIC and DRAMA

MISS MAY ROBSON IN A NEW COMPANY.

Miss May Robson, in a new play, "Mrs. Mat Plummer," by James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady," "The Travelling Salesman," etc., etc., will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House for one night only, Tuesday, Sept. 16th.

As an actress, May Robson may be classed among the exceptionally few, and definitely as the most ingenious of the limited number assuming the role of eccentric characters. With all due regard omitting comparisons—one might speak of Miss Robson as a humorist endowed with a rare sense of the ridiculous, without being grotesque, or uncouth. This evidence is clearly demonstrated in her impersonation of the unique character of the mother in "Mrs. Mat Plummer." Her cleverness in the stage development of distinctive types of character, together with her inimitable "make-up," and pleasing expression, wins immediate recognition and commendation, fixing her identity, as the most ingenious in the portrayal of odd and extremely funny characters.

"Mrs. Mat Plummer," the character impersonated by Miss Robson, is a type of the Western woman, a sweet old lady whose heart goes out in all fullness of love for her wayward son, and generous of all whom she loves (and she loves everyone). She is never so contented as when she is in the company of young people.

Miss Robson is extremely funny in the part of the mother and does things just as a real mother would do for the son she loves.

There is nothing improbable in the story, nor is there any attempt at coarse humor. It is one of those simple plays that refreshes and never wearies. Certainly no one will ever tire of Miss Robson, nor will they forget her. She is undoubtedly one of the funniest women on the stage.

STOP SLAUGHTER OF GAME IN NORTH

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The Government is determined to stop slaughter of game in the north country.

Notices of an order-in-Council prohibiting the carrying of firearms of any description by persons employed in connection with the "construction, improvement or maintenance of any railway or telegraph line or public work", have been sent north.

The order will be strictly enforced by the game officials and provincial constables.

LIFTED HIS FEET INTO LADIES LAP

Toronto, Sept. 10.—While returning to his home near North Bay, John Summers was very disorderly on a train near the north Parkdale station. He used bad language and insulted women passengers.

"You know you can't get drunk in Toronto and lift your feet into the laps of ladies." Magistrate Ellis said to him in the police court this morning, in imposing a fine of $1 and costs or thirty days.

His worship changed his decision, however, when he found that Summers had no money, but was in possession of a first class railway ticket. "I find you guilty of being disorderly and will remand you for sentence." he said.

PORTABLE REFRIGERATOR

Ice Compartment in Top and Water Reservoir Below

An ingenious invention in the form of a portable refrigerating case is this longitudinal receptacle which has a drawer running its length. Above this drawer is another, smaller drawer, designed to contain cracked ice, preferably sprinkled with rock salt. At the bottom of the box is a water reservoir, and when the receptacle is closed a nipple from the bottom registers with an opening in the reservoir and the melted ice goes into the latter. In a refrigerator like this articles may be kept ice cold for hours at a time, and it is especially convenient to carry ice-cream, or similar perishable things for long distances. There is a handle at the top, and when the case is closed it resembles a long grip more than anything else.

HANDY TO CARRY ICE-CREAM

The baby girl found in a railway carriage at Liverpool street station some months ago with a piece of paper attached to her clothing on which was written, "Jean, Church of England," was ordered by the London guardians to be handed over to a married couple who were willing to adopt her, the child to be "brought up in the Protestant Faith." She was named Jean Church.

Outrage at a Cathedral

An outrage at Kildare Cathedral aroused feelings of deep indignation among all classes in the district. One of the lights of the Archbishop Trench memorial window was smashed, and an entrance being effected some chairs were knocked over and a portion of a table top and a drawer in the robing were broken. The damage was estimated at $300.

Interesting Point Under Shop Act.

An interesting decision was given by Sheriff Laing at Aberdeen. It was in connection with the prosecution of a merchant for an alleged breach of the Shop Hours Act in selling a clock on the watchmakers' half-holiday. The contention of the defence was that although the accused sold an ornamental clock he was not a watchmaker or jeweller. The sheriff upheld this view. The defendant said he was a fancy goods merchant.

A Deserted Village

The fishing village of Crawton, Scotland, about two miles south of Dunnottar Castle, is now left without a single inhabitant, the last fisherman to leave it being an old man named Davidson, who moved to Stonehaven. The village is a very old one, and had within its bound at one time a prosperous fishing community, but within the last forty years it has lost favor, chiefly through failure to keep pace with the altered conditions of the fishing industry, and gradually the men left and property decayed till now it is a truly deserted village.

ASQUITH'S BIRTHPLACE

Received Freedom of the Borough of Morley—Childhood Memories

Mr. Asquith received the freedom of the borough of Morley, his birthplace, one of the textile towns clustered in a triangular tract of country formed by Bradford, Leeds, and Dewsbury. Mr. Asquith was born at Croft House, Morley, on Sept. 12, 1852, and there he lived for seven years. His ancestors are said to have lived in the town for over 400 years, and the Asquith family were the trustees of the Old Chapel, now the St. Mary's Congregational Church. The future Prime Minister attended, with his parents, the Rehoboth Chapel, and some time ago, in referring to [illegible], remarked that he recollected, as a small boy, taking part in the Sunday school procession and carrying a banner on the occasion of the rejoicings at the declaration of peace in the Crimea.

Both the chapel which he attended and the house in which he was born are still utilized. The house, which stands in its own grounds, is within 100 yards of the main thoroughfare, but it is almost hidden from view by mills and other buildings erected in the streets abutting the estate.

When Mr. Asquith was seven years old, his father, Mr. Joseph Dixon Asquith, a manufacturer, died at Mirfield in the prime of life, and Mrs. Asquith removed to Huddersfield with her children, who were sent to the local Grammar School. Subsequently Herbert Henry Asquith attended the City of London School, and having obtained two scholarships, went to Oxford in 1870 where his great talents manifested themselves in even greater degree. From that time his career has been one of unending brilliancy.

Killed by the Dead

An extraordinary occurrence is reported from Cremona. In the upper story of a house in that town lay the dead body of an old woman. Suddenly the floor of the room collapsed, and the corpse fell on a group of men in the room below. One of the men died from the injuries caused by the falling body, and the others were severely hurt. The man who was killed had gone to the house to present an outstanding account, not knowing that the debtor had died.

RED-HAIRED GIRLS

Quick to Marry But Poor Mates for Red-headed Men

Are red-haired girls more popular than their sisters? If not, then think of the number of red-headed spinsters you have known. You will have to scratch your head a long time before you can remember a single Titian-haired wall flower. The brilliance of women with red hair has been proven by history—Queen Elizabeth, Marie Antoinette, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy.

Prof. C. B. Davenport, who has carried on extensive research work in eugenics, says:

"A curious antipathy is that of red haired persons of opposite sex for each other. Among thousands of matings I have found only two cases where both husband and wife are red-headed and I am assured by red-haired persons that the antipathy exists. If, as it is sometimes alleged, red hair is frequently associated with a condition of nervous irritability, this is an eugenic antipathy."

Red hair is a funny thing, the authorities say. It will turn up generation after generation. It is a known fact that at times the child of two black-haired parents develops a full crop of red hair.

Scientists try to explain why hair is red. They say it is from a superabundance of iron in the blood. The color of hair is due to a pigment called melanin, which is secreted in the roots of hairs. Absence of this coloring matter makes white hair. Melanin is formed by oxidization. A variety of organic compounds may undergo oxidization into melanin pigments ranging in intensity from yellow to black; the greater the oxidization the darker the product. And iron, when oxidized, inside of the body as well as out of it, produces red. This explains the freckles which so often either mar or put an extra touch of daintiness to a red-haired woman's beauty.

Husband's Presence of Mind.

Judge M. L. McKinley was talking about presence of mind at the State's Attorneys' association banquet.

"Two West siders," he said, "were riding on a street car with their wives one day when there was an accident. None of the party was hurt. A few days later one of the men learned that the other had just settled with the street railway company for $1,500 for injuries to his wife. He went around to see him.

"'When was your wife hurt?' he asked.

"'That day we were in the street car accident together,' was the reply.

"'Why, she wasn't hurt. She wasn't even scratched. I saw her walk home with you.'

"'I know,' replied the other, 'but when I got her home I had the presence of mind to put my foot in her face.'"—Chicago Tribune.

CRUELTY TO HORSES

Military Man Makes a Plea Against the Docking Habit

Lieut. R. S. Timmis of the Royal Canadian Dragoons made a slashing attack upon the practice of docking horses' tails, in the course of an interesting address upon "The Horse," at Toronto. Docking, he said, was due mainly to "horse show maniacs."

The contrast between horses with long, silky-looking tails and what the lecturer termed the "hat-peg variety," was exemplified by lantern pictures. In California and some of the States to the south the man who docks a horse's tail is sentenced to two years' imprisonment. A list of the docked horses in the State is kept in a book and when a horse is found with its tail docked the owner has to explain the circumstances.

Lieut. Timmis said that the Society had photographs of horses in the city of Toronto which had been docked recently and they were going to make examples of some of the offenders.

The lecturer gave some valuable hints as to the care of the horse, stating that each animal should have at least 1,500 cubic feet of space, and the stable should not be too hot.

PLAN YOUR KITCHEN ON SCIENTIFIC LINES

Modern Conditions Demand That It be Run on the Principle of a Factory

Perhaps no part of a new house has quite such an allurement for a woman as has the kitchen—and if the house be old this is very apt to be the point from which all plans for rejuvenation begin. The little drawers, the cupboards, the flour bins all delight the feminine heart, so much so, also, that the housekeeper is prone to multiply these unnecessarily. Every drawer, one should remember, is an additional care, every cupboard and every locker a place that must be dusted periodically—washed frequently. This takes time and strength. It adds minutes to the length of each working day—hours to the net result of energy wasted during the year.

Not that drawers, cupboards and lockers are undesirable. On the contrary it is these very compartments, intelligently designed, that make of the kitchen a practical place in which to do the work of the house, but these appointments must be used understandingly. Too many or too few seriously cut down the efficiency of the kitchen. They add to the complexity of the business end of the house when they should eliminate friction and reduce the amount of labor required.

There is only one way to successfully plan a kitchen and its accessories which is to follow out the same method employed by efficiency engineers when they take hold of a man's factory, store or office and convert cumbersome methods into a simple, frictionless system, highly organized to do work efficiently. This way consists in carefully analyzing the requirements of a business and then designing the simplest apparatus with which to do that business.

In small houses a "buffet kitchen" is frequently installed and has proved itself almost a necessity to the housekeeper who does her own work. This combines every function of the kitchen, pantry and serving-room in one room and has proved itself practicable in houses accommodating a family of as many as six people.

A very unique plan carried out in a number of bungalows is that of completely eliminating the dining-room and dividing its functions between the kitchen and living-room. The main idea of this innovation is to provide at small cost a house where the mistress can do her own work. This is made possible by a pivoted arrangement of the partition between kitchen and living-room. When meals are ready to serve this partition is opened and the small dining-table, ordinarily kept in the kitchen, is pushed into the living-room, which becomes for the time being the dining-room. At conclusion of a meal the process is reversed, the table being pushed back into the kitchen where the dishes are washed and put away.

As to the sanitary equipment for the kitchen much is to be said for glass shelves, glass covers and also for oilcloth wall covering. These, however, are quite expensive, and any housewife can work wonders in a kitchen, even an old kitchen, without them. All that is absolutely necessary is a clean floor with a hard, smooth surface, well-painted walls and woodwork in some light color, a can of white enamel paint for shelves and pantry, a judicious selection of modern, labor-saving devices, the daily use of the common household chemicals, plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

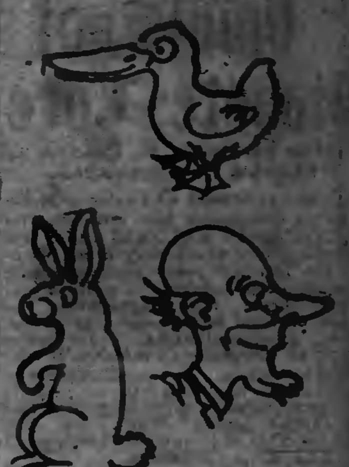
WHAT DO YOU SEE IN A CROOKED LINE?



Here's an idea for entertaining a party of young folks with materials always at hand—pencils and paper. Let each member of the party draw at random on the center of his sheet of paper a short, crooked line. The line should not cross itself at any point. When this has been done all the guests exchange papers and each tries to make a picture on the paper he receives, using the crooked line as part of the outline of his drawing. The pictures shown herewith were made in this way, the original line being distinguished by being made heavier than the rest.

AS A SYMBOL OF AUTHORITY

Wedding Ring Really Has a Significance Apart From That to Which Sentiment Is Attached.

For ages the wedding ring has been a token of binding authority. The gold symbolizes the purity of affection; the circle the endless love; the price paid for it takes the place of the ancient purchase money. If the ring is lost it is a warning that the husband's love will soon pass away; if broken, that he will die soon.

Tradition has been responsible for many stories concerning the wedding ring; one of these is that the first ring was made by Tubal Cain for Prometheus. This ring was of iron and adamant, the iron signifying lastingness and the adamant perfect concord. The early Romans commonly used a plain iron ring, while the poorer English, even in the nineteenth century, used the ring for the church door.

It has not always been customary to wear the ring on the third finger of the left hand, but there is a reason for this modern convention. Besides being less used and therefore less exposed to danger, and being the weaker finger and therefore symbolizing the wifely dependence, the third finger of the left hand has been supposed from the days of the Egyptians to be connected directly with the heart by a vein called the "vena amoris." It was indeed the finger of life, and consequently it is most fitting that the wedding ring should adorn it.

Love in the Home

The love which should exist between husband and wife includes devotion, kindness, unselfishness, respect and admiration in each person for another. Where this exists in marriage the life, even if one of privation, is happy. No discords can arise, for the reverence of each for the other is so great that it gives the most perfect love. But ordinary, simple admiration, like beauty, is not love. Love is more than this. It goes to the very core of the being, while the other is superficial, [illegible] fleeting.

A Beautiful Woman

She cast aside the bitter things of life,
She had no time for malice or for strife,
So much there was to fill her heart and mind

HOW TO CARVE

[illegible] Properly It Adds Zest and Enjoyment to Meal

The art of carving is a simple, dignified accomplishment, not difficult to acquire, yet comparatively rare. Hacking spoils the joint, discomfits the carver and makes it unpleasant for the guests.

Roast fowl, including turkey and chicken, should be placed on platter with breast up and neck to the left. Pierce the fork across the breastbone

TURKEY

Cut thin slices between leg and body close to the body. Force back the leg with the knife and separate it by running point of the carver through the joint. Do the same with wing. Remove both legs and wings before carving breast. Cut the latter crosswise in very thin slices.

Leg mutton or lamb—The small end of the roast of mutton or lamb should be placed at left on platter. Carve in thin slices across grain to bone. Begin at large end.

Rib roast of pork should be cut into individual chops. Loin of roast should be cut cross grain in medium slices like chops, through the tenderloin. Serve a small part of the latter with each cut.

ROAST PORK.

A roast of veal should be placed flat side down. Cut across grain.

Steaks should be cut through to platter with grain of meat, close to bone. A porterhouse steak should be cut crosswise half an inch thick.

[illegible]

Roast of beef should be placed on platter, ribs down. Cut slices with one stroke of knife right through to rib bone and at right angles to it. End of roast or rump should be carved with grain of meat.

A saddle of mutton should be cut across the grain of meat parallel to backbone. Put knife into meat close to the ribs to separate the slices from them.

[illegible]

As a Woman Thinks

COMING TO CANADA

Loose Methods of Racing Across Border Sending Horses Northward

The American thoroughbred industry seems to have been shot to pieces. There are statistics that in the states of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia where the thoroughbred formerly flourished, there are not enough thoroughbred race horses left to make it worth talking about. And this state of affairs has been brought about entirely by the loose methods of conducting race track meetings and the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. There is no immediate indication that the thoroughbred will amount to anything very much in the near future in the United States. When horses of the breeding classes there are left are gradually finding their way to Canada. They find their way into the hands of Canadian owners and their [illegible] will be [illegible] Canadian [illegible]. And chances are that by the time the racing laws of the United States have been remodeled the Americans will have to look to Canada for their horses, and much good money for the Canadian owner should be the result.

Peary's Journey.

Admiral Robert E. Peary was in the [illegible] compartment of a train leaving New Orleans for the north. A fussy young man, evidently a commercial traveler on his first trip, came in and sought to make conversation.

"Well," he said, "we're in for a long, tedious journey."

"Yes," answered Peary.

"I'm going clear through to Atlanta," observed the young man.

"Indeed," said Peary.

"Yes, clear through to Atlanta. Long, tiresome trip, eh?"

"Yes," answered Peary.

"Maybe you're not going as far as I am," said the young man.

"Maybe not."

"How far are you going?"

"Oh," said Peary, "I'm only going to the North Pole."

PETER THE GREAT GUIDES RUSSIA

The Will of the Czar Who Died in 1725 is Believed to be a Living Influence

For nearly two centuries Russia's political activity has been guided by a program formulated by Peter the Great. When he died in 1725 the great emperor made a prophecy that some day Russia would rule the world, and in his secret will he traced the steps the future czars must travel to accomplish that end. In the years since Peter's death many of his prophecies have come true. He said in his will:

"We must progress as much as possible in the direction of Constantinople and India. He who can once get possession of those points is the real ruler of the world. With that view we must provoke constant quarrels at one time with Turkey and at another with Persia * * * Moreover, we must take pains to establish and maintain an intimate union with Austria, apparently countenancing its schemes for future aggrandizement and all the while secretly rousing the jealousy of the minor states against it. In this way we must bring it to pass that one or the other party shall seek aid from Russia and then we shall exercise a sort of a protectorate over the country which will pave the way for future supremacy."

No diplomat of to-day could summarize Russia's activity in the Balkan war more clearly. Servia, Montenegro and Bulgaria are jealous of Austria's creeping power and have turned to Russia for support. That is the protectorate. And as for future supremacy? Poland once turned to Russia as the Balkan States do to-day.

To Eliminate Austria

Peter the Great's dream was to make Russia mistress of the world. His entire plan worked to that end. First, he said, Russia must get Finland, Poland, the Baltic Sea and the Black Sea. These conquests are a matter of history. Then India and Persia were slated for overthrow. Russia has spread around the Caspian Sea, made Turkestan a subsidiary province and only last year went into Northern Persia. Only Afghanistan remains between Russia and India. Russian princes have taken German princesses as their consorts as Peter the Great counseled. Then he comes back to Constantinople. "We must make the house of Austria interested in the expulsion of the Turks from Europe, and we must neutralize its jealousy at the capture of Constantinople, either by preoccupying it with a war with the old European states, or by allowing it a share of the spoil, which we can afterward resume at our leisure."

Peter the Great's plan to make Russia master of the entire world was:

"When Sweden is split, Persia vanquished, Poland subjugated, Turkey conquered—when our armies are united and the Black Sea and the Baltic in the possession of our ships—then we must make separate and secret overtures, first to the court of Versailles and then to that of Vienna, to share with them the dominion of the world. If either of them accepts our propositions, which is certain to happen if their ambitions and self interest are properly worked upon, we must make use of one to annihilate the other. That done, we have only to destroy the remaining one by finding a pretext for a quarrel, the issue of which cannot be doubtful, as Russia will then be already in the absolute possession of the East and of the greatest part of Europe.

A Good Dreamer

How nearly that dream materialized makes one of the most interesting chapters of Napoleon's life. The French Emperor and Czar Alexander I. met on a raft in the middle of the Niemen River at Tilsit and drew up plans to divide the world. Austria was then a cat's paw for Napoleon through his marriage with the archduchess, Marie Louise. But England was too strong on the sea and Napoleon began to play Russia false so Alexander broke his pact with the French Emperor.

Peter believed the future supremacy of Russia was ordered by providence. He saw the star of empire working its way north—Egypt, Chaldea, Babylon, Greece, Rome, France, England and then the hordes from Russia and Northern Asia. He said:

"I look on the future invasion of the eastern and western countries by the north as a periodical movement ordained by providence, who in like manner regenerated the Roman nation by barbarian invasions. These emigrations of men from the north are as the reflow of the Nile, which at certain periods comes to fertilize the impoverished lands of Egypt by its deposit. I found Russia as a rivulet. I leave it a river. My successors will make of it a large sea, destined to fertilize the impoverished lands of Europe, and its waters will overflow in spite of opposing dams erected by weak hands if our descendants only know how to direct its course. I give these counsels to their watchfulness and care, as Moses gave the Tables of the Law to the Jewish people."

Catarrh or Colds Never Quickly Cured By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrups, Tablets, etc., go to the Stomach, Perhaps Sicken It, But Don't Kill the Germs of Catarrh.

The Direct Breathing Cure is Best.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to root out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essence that ease, heal and cure.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. C. R. Root, a well known resident of Bridgetown, W. I. "My head ached terribly, I sneezed almost every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

To the Farmers of West Peterborough.

Gentlemen:

The U.S. has put wheat on the free list. That means, however, that countries like Canada must pay ten cents per bushel duty on wheat shipped to the U. S. unless the Canadian duty is abolished. If the farmers of this constituency are desirous of having our duty abolished and will officially notify me to that effect, I will be glad to advocate it. I may say, however that in an interview The Toronto Star (Liberal) points out that the U.S. besides having the advantage of an early ripening, shipped 145 million bush. of wheat abroad last year and that our market is in Europe, not in the U.S., and also that the market price of the same wheat is considerably higher in Canada. But people are entitled to make up their own minds and I feel that it is my duty to seek the farmers' opinion in this matter accordingly.

I am, Gentlemen,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Corinne: I think you are unduly worried about your skin. Most users of face powders have more or less similar troubles. Here is a simple, home-made lotion which is better than face powder and when on some part of the skin, to which it gives a soft, velvety texture and a beautiful, natural color. Get four ounces of spurmax, dissolve in ½ pint hot water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Stir well. You may apply this freely to face, neck and arms. It is a cheap, liquid beautifier which will work wonders to purify your skin and hide its imperfections.

Jane: Electric treatments for removing hairy growths are expensive and seldom satisfactory. Try this simple method: With water and powdered delatone mix enough paste to cover hairy surface. Apply and in two or three minutes rub off and with it comes every trace of hair. Washing leaves the skin soft and clear. No danger results with the delatone treatment.

Almeda: Your thin, straggly eyebrows will come in thick and glossy by rubbing pyroxin on frequently, and short, straight eyelashes grow long and slightly curly if pyroxin be applied at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where the hair is not wanted.

Lis: Your letter leads me to believe that to remove the yellowness of eyes and skin all you need is a good blood tonic. Here is a fine one that will brace you up and clear your complexion and (like everything I recommend) is easily made at home at slight cost: Mix together ½ cup sugar, ½ pint alcohol (not whiskey) and one ounce kardene. Add enough hot water to make a full quart, and take a tablespoonful before each meal. I know nothing better for the general rundown condition.

Mrs. R.: Yes, you are over-fat, and I am glad I can tell you how to reduce without the risk of dieting or the discomfort of walking long distances. Try this remedy: to 1½ pints hot water add four ounces of parnotis. Let dissolve and cool. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This is a safe and sure treatment and has the big advantage of reducing the flesh evenly and gradually, so there will be no sagginess or loss of tissue strength.

Miss J.: You can't expect to keep your hair healthy or free from dandruff without care or by brushing only. For years I have treated my head regularly with this simple home-made tonic, which keeps both my hair and scalp perfectly healthy and so has given me a fine growth of lustrous hair. Dissolve one ounce quinzoin in ½ pint alcohol and add ½ pint water. Massage this carefully into the scalp once a week. It will induce a natural, healthy, luxuriant growth of hair and give it richness and glossiness. For an excellent, home-made shampoo, see recipe given Curly Locks.

Doris: Your wrinkles can be quickly, easily and permanently removed by the use of this stimulating jelly-cream. It is a vegetable preparation which will not grow hair where used and is easily made at home at small cost. From your druggist get one ounce almozoin and dissolve it in ½ pint cold water, adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Stir and let stand one day. This is fine to fill out wrinkles and hollows and will also tone the skin to fine, clear health and beauty. You will feel its stimulating powers on the first application.

Vegona: You are on the road to serious eye-trouble if you continue to neglect that weak, dizzy vision. Try this tonic for a while and it will remove the red appearance and give back the clearness, strength and sparkle of your eyes. Mix one ounce crystos in a pint of water. Use 2 or 3 drops in each eye, night and morning. This natural tonic will soothe the tired nerves, rest [illegible] and beautify the eyes.

Curly Locks: No, the canthrox mixture is a simple home-made shampoo and is not a hair bleach or a dye in any sense. The "blonde" effect your friend spoke of was probably due to the fact that this preparation takes out all excess oil each strand so thoroughly as to keep the lightest hair from turning dark. To use it, simply dissolve one teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This is plenty for a thorough shampoo with beautiful, fluffy results. I know no shampoo which compares with it.

smokes all of 11 cigarettes a day, would stick a half consumed cigarette in his mouth and drop an inch of ashes on his tongue. This ash would be wiped off on a new handkerchief and thus demonstrating that the smoker had lost all sense of touch or feeling. That particular wipe sold for 75 cents. A hat pin would be borrowed from a lady in the audience and be sterilized. To show this cigarette fiend had lost all sense of feeling, he would thrust the pin through the skin of his leg. Of course the poor fellow is paralyzed from the hips down and didn't feel the pin. Oh no! we had a moral lesson but no fake."

HOW TO KEEP FACE YOUNG AND ATTRACTIVE

(National Hygienic Review.)

The way to ward off old age is not to fear it, not to allow one's self to be oppressed by the dread of advancing years. Use only legitimate preventives and avoid trying experiments with preparations not indorsed by physicians. An entirely safe and very effective way to keep the complexion young-looking and beautiful is to apply ordinary mercolized wax at bedtime, using it like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. This gradually absorbs the withered, faded cuticle, which is replaced by the more youthful, pink-tinted underskin. One ounce of this wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to completely rejuvenate a worn-out complexion.

Crow's feet and other wrinkles, the first signs of advancing age, may be removed by a simple, harmless preparation made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. It is used as a face bath.

CANADA NOW IN FRONT RANK ON COMMERCIAL MARINE LIST

Important Statement of Hon. J. D. Hazen Regarding Our Fisheries

(Special to The Times)

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Canada's development as a Marine nation has been strikingly brought out in a recent speech by Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. Facts and figures given by him show that Canada is making rapid strides under wise administration and as a fisheries nation ranks first among the other countries of the world, while in commercial marine she ranks tenth.

Figures Show It.

In 1912 there were 8,300 vessels of 800,000 net tonnage registered in the Dominion, while 60,000 men and boys found employment in vessels plying in Canadian waters. In 1868 there were only 200 lights for the guidance of mariners while to-day there are 1,300 lights and 1,000 keepers.

Hon. Mr. Hazen pointed out that the policy of the present Government was to make navigation safe and referred particularly to the increased number of life stations built by the present government.

Permanent crews are engaged during the winter, and their numbers would be increased.

More Hatcheries

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries instanced how he was endeavouring to increase the value of fisheries by means of hatcheries. There would be 85 hatcheries in Canada by the end of the present year. By means of cold storage fish could be supplied to all the provinces in a fine condition at a reasonable price. The value of Canada's fisheries in 1911 was $29,000,000.

Enforcing the Laws

Hon. Mr. Hazen spoke of the Government's work in fishery patrol, which is different from fishery protection. The object of the latter is to keep poachers outside the three mile limit while the former is to enforce Canadian laws and regulations within that limit. Two big cruisers are now being built and the Minister stated that if these and the present fleet were found inadequate to protect the fisheries he would ask Parliament for more cruisers. The fisheries must be protected.

May Withdraw

But the Minister's most important statement was in connection with the fishery protection treaty with the United States. In 1908 a joint commission was appointed to investigate and report upon fishing condi- ternational boundary line. Professor tions along and contiguous to the in- Prince represented Canada and Professor David Starr Jordan the United States. They made their report, containing many suggestions, which and confirmed by treaty in 1910. Ca- were approved by both governments, nada ratified this treaty three years ago, but in spite of the efforts of President Taft, the United States legislative authorities have not yet completed their share of the contract. The consequence is that the fisheries are being depleted in these contiguous waters. When in Washington last year Mr. Hazen notified the American government that unless they acted quickly Canada would withdraw altogether. They asked him to wait until after the next session of Congress, which he agreed to do, but nothing is likely to be done until the the United States Tariff Bill is disposed of. If the United States will not then join in protecting the fisheries, the Minister plainly intimates that Canada will no longer consider herself bound by the treaty.

The speech by Hon. Mr. Hazen shows clearly that much has been done since his accession to office to place the marine and fisheries interest of Canada on a sound basis.

FROST IN WEST CAME TO LATE

If Any Farmer Has Not His Grain in Stook by Now it is His Own Fault

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—Frost was pretty general last night over Alberta and Saskatchewan and the Northern part of Manitoba. The lowest point recorded was [illegible] with ten degrees, but from one to four degrees was the extent in most districts affected. With harvesting practically completed and threshing in full swing all over the country, frost has come too late to do any material damage. If any farmer has not wheat in stook by now, it is his own fault. Conditions could not be better for threshing and country roads are in good shape for marketing.

MAYOR GAYNOR DIES ON "BALTIC" FROM ALLEGED HEART FAILURE

New York's Reform Mayor Never Recovered From Bullet —Big Campaign Had Just Opened

New York, Sept. 11.—William J. Gaynor, Mayor of New York, died in mid-ocean on the steamer Baltic at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon of heart failure.

News of his death was received here in a message sent by wireless and cable to Robert Adamson, his secretary, by Rufus W. Gaynor, his son, who sailed with him.

The message read as follows:

"Father died Wednesday at one o'clock, due to heart failure. Notify mother."

Death Due to Bullet.

Mayor Gaynor's death was indirectly due to the bullet which James J. Gallagher fired into his neck in August, 1910, on board a ship in Hoboken.

The bullet lodged in his neck and gave him great discomfort. Recently he had suffered severely from it.

The bullet caused him to suffer repeated fits of vomiting, which weakened his heart and generally broke him down. He had been forced to remain at his country home much of the time.

The shooting took place on board the liner Kaiser Wilhelm, which was prepared to leave dock.

Mayor Gaynor sailed for Europe last Thursday. He was in a very weak condition and taken aboard the boat secretly.

Next Monday, when the case comes up in Montreal the Immigration Department will be represented by counsel and it will be explained why it is impossible to comply with the demand for the production of Thaw.

AUTO ACCIDENT IS FATAL, MISS COX EXPIRED TODAY

Stepped From Curb and Was Struck by Mudguard of an Automobile.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Struck by an automobile driven by A. N. McIntosh, of the McIntosh Granite Company, Miss Edith Cox, 25 years of age, living at 204 Cottingham street died in the General Hospital this morning from a fractured skull and possibly internal injuries.

The young woman, who was employed in her brother's jewelry store in Yonge street, had stepped from the curb in Bloor street near Balmuto street at 10 o'clock last night. As she had been standing close to a large tree it is believed that the tree obscured the approach of the motor car.

She stepped from the curb directly in front of the machine, the mudguard throwing her with considerable force to the car tracks. Dr. J. W. McRoch, who was a witness of the accident, assisted in placing the young woman in the auto, and she was rushed to the General Hospital. According to the report of other witnesses, Mr. McIntosh did everything in his power to stop the automobile, but there was no time.

The body has been moved to the morgue and an inquest will be held.

GIRL WAS FORCED INTO CONVENT

Girl, However, Had Proven Incorrigible, and the Police Sanctioned Action

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Winnie McShane, an adopted child, 16 years of age, was responsible for considerable excitement in front of the Good Shepherd Convent, on West Lodge avenue, Parkdale, late yesterday afternoon, when her struggles with her adopted father, Mr. W. Richardson, and her loud cries for help attracted the attention of a large crowd which collected before the convent.

"The young girl was adopted by the Richardson family some years ago," said Inspector Verney of Cowan avenue station. "Her sister, Elizabeth McShane, and the Richardsons are her legal guardians. Of late, her adopted father told me, the girl has been incorrigible. Mr. Richardson made arrangements some time ago to have the girl taken into the convent as soon as he could locate her. Yesterday afternoon he found her, and she accompanied him to the convent, but as soon as they arrived at the gates she began to struggle."

When the father saw that he was unable to manage the girl he took her to a dry goods store and telephoned for a policeman. While he was telephoning the girl escaped through a rear door of the store. The father pursued, caught her, and turned her over to the policeman.

"When she was brought into the station," added Inspector Verney, "and we explained to her that she would either have to go to the convent or be taken care of by the police, she consented willingly enough to accompany her father. She was taken to the convent, kissed her father good-bye and was apparently reconciled."

The convent is constantly utilized by the police authorities for the incarceration of unmanageable girls.

NATIVES OF FRANCE WEDDED IN JERSEY

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Because she was wedded clandestinely in Jersey, while she and her husband were natives of France, a foreign country, Dame Leonie Alice Durey is petitioning for an annulment of her marriage with Joseph Audoin, before the local courts.

Mrs. Audoin avers that, according to the code Napoleon, a marriage contracted in this way is wholly void and illegal unless the contracting parties returned to France within three months and took steps to have the union validated. This, she says, they neglected to do. As a matter of fact, after being married they never once returned to their native land, but eventually took up residence in Canada.

THIS OLD WORLD NOW GETTING TOO SMALL

Birmingham, Eng., Sept. 11.—The annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which began its sittings last night, when the inaugural address on the subject of "Continuity" was delivered by Sir Oliver Lodge, was resumed to-day. The scientists assembled in Central Hall listened to speeches delivered by the presidents of the various sections.

H. N. Dickson, professor of geography at University College, Edinburgh, president of the Meteorological Society, and a recognized authority and writer on meteorological and geographical topics, said the day of striking geographical explorations passed with the finding of the earth's two poles; the geographer of the future will have as his field the vital questions of supplying and distributing food and clothes in the world.

World Getting Too Small.

Foremost of these questions, Mr. Dickson believes, will be that of growing wheat enough for the worlds bread. A host of problems of the future are marshalled behind this, among them being the questions of obtaining power and energy enough to operate the needed increase in factories, the fuel question, and distribution of the population.

PETERBORO EXHIBITION OPENS YESTERDAY IN AUSPICIOUS WAY

Yesterday morning and afternoon the exhibition grounds were a scene of activity and enterprise. Tents were being pitched and other arranged for Peterborough's big fall event. The weather was ideal for such an event. A bright September sun shed its golden rays on the aggregation of local and imported enterprise. A gentle breeze fanned the cheeks of those too hot.

There was a steady stream of vehicles and live stock. Farmers from every part of the district were represented in the throng that poured through the gates and they brought with them some of the finest stock ever shown in the Midland counties. The high reputation which the Peterborough Industrial has earned in recent years for the generous nature of the prizes was an improvement in the quantity and quality of the exhibits. The accommodation for the live stock will be taxed to its utmost to take care of this year's showing in the different lines.

Everything points towards a record breaking poultry show. The cages are new and of most modern type.

The Midway.

The people of the city may, in many instances, pay more attention to the Midway exhibit than to cattle or swine. The Midway this year is greater, better and cleaner than ever.

Vaudeville.

Last night a good vaudeville performance was put on that attracted a large audience and general applause

THAW'S DEPORTATION VIEWED WITH PLEASURE IN ENGLAND

Verdict of General Public is That Canada Has Vindicated Her Old Reputation—Were Perplexed at the Delays

London, Sept. 11.—News of Thaw's deportation has been received with considerable satisfaction here. The English, who have always regarded Canadian justice as sure and swift, have recently been considerably perplexed by the delays in Thaw's proceedings, and feared that wealth might be able to repeat similar scandals to American judicial proceedings. The Immigration Department's summary action is regarded here as a complete answer to such forebodings. The general verdict of the London press is that Canada has vindicated her old reputation.

KEEP THAW JAILED LEST N. Y. POLICE SPIRIT HIM AWAY

This is Attitude of His Legal Army in New Hampshire - Guards Multiplied At His Own Request

Colebrook, N.H., Sept. 01.—It was announced shortly after 11 o'clock that by mutual consent counsel had agreed to postpone the hearing until 4 p.m. It was expected that the case would then be adjourned until to-morrow.

Colebrook, N.H., Sept. 11.—Harry K. Thaw, thrown out of the Dominion of Canada yesterday and arrested near here after a fifty mile flight in an automobile, spent the night in a hotel room here under guard.

Lawyers kept him up until late hour, laying plans to resist extradition to New York. In another part of the hotel, William Travers Jerome, deputized by the state to get the fugitive back to Matteawan, conferred with Thaw's most recent captors, Sheriff Holman Drew, over the court procedure to be followed to-day.

Mr. Jerome accompanied by Deputy Attorney-General Franklin Kennedy of New York, reached town last night on a special train. He had had no supper, so he chose as his conference room the kitchen of the Monadnock House, where he ate and discussed the situation.

At first merely detained, Thaw was subsequently arrested on a complaint charging him with conspiracy in connection with his escape from the asylum, and it was upon this charge that he was to be arraigned to-day before Justice Carr in the Police court. New York was prepared to ask that he be remanded, pending the receipt of a requisition warrant.

CANADA MAY NOW REFUSE TO RECEIVE EVELYN THAW

The Immigration Authorities May Debar Her As an Undesirable Alien

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Evelyn Thaw, who has been engaged for theatrical appearances in Toronto and Montreal may not be allowed to cross the Canadian border.

The Canadian authorities are considering the advisability of refusing her admission as an undesirable. It is held that she is being brought from the United States for the purpose of exploiting financially the unpleasant notoriety which she and her husband, Harry K. Thaw, have received during the last five years.

The Canadian Immigration law authorizes officials to refuse admission to Canada those whose mentality, morals, finances, or general record are under suspicion. The provision is believed to be wide enough to close the door against Evelyn Thaw.

FORESEES JOLLY ROW AS HOME RULE PASSES

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 11—"There'll be a jolly row if the Home Rule Bill passes the House of Commons," was the comment to-day of Lord Desborough, who arrived in Winnipeg last night enroute for Victoria. "The possibility of civil war is far from remote and the political outlook in England is most serious," he said.

His Lordship intimated that in his opinion a general election would shortly take place.

CANADA ALIENATES HER LANDS INVITES ALL EUROPEAN ILLS

London Truth Expresses Astonishment at Readiness of Canadians to Forego Freeholds

London, Sept. 11.—Truth, in its current number, alludes to the late Duke of Sutherland's will, which, in its opinion, contains one passage that should set Canadians furiously thinking. "This astute nobleman," says Truth, "like a number of other eminent persons, selected with extreme care certain properties in the Dominion, doubtless with a view to the unearned increment. I have often been astonished by the cheery optimism with which Canadian statesmen are alienating for all time freeholds of their vacant territories, thereby reproducing future generations the very land problems which are the bugbear of Europe to-day."

SULZER'S PARDON IS NOT WORTH A CENT

Kingston, N.Y. Sept. 11.—Supreme Court Justice Hasbrouck to-day decided that Governor Sulzer was regularly impeached and while awaiting impeachment trial was divested of the right to exercise his executive functions including power to pardon.

The question of the legality of Sulzer's impeachment came before Justice Hasbrouck in connection with habeas corpus proceedings brought to compel the New York city authorities to honor Governor Sulzer's pardon of Joseph G. Robin, the banker convict. He decided that Robin's pardon was invalid, quashed the writ and sent Robin back to prison at Blackwell's Island.

Grape-Nuts

Many people are half-sick because of wrong diet. White bread, rich meats, gravies and pastry put thousands into the "all-out-of-sorts" crowd.

If you feel "out-of-sorts" suppose you change food 10 days—and try

Grape-Nuts

This food is a perfectly balanced ration made of whole wheat and malted barley, thoroughly cooked and ready to eat from the package. It digests easily—generally in about one hour.

Grape-Nuts contains all the rich nutrition of the grain, including the vital mineral salts [illegible] which Nature designed for rebuilding muscle, nerve and brain cells. White bread is lacking in these salts.

A regular morning dish of Grape-Nuts and cream has brought [illegible] health to thousands.

GIVE SOME DETAILS OF ROYAL TRAGEDY

Countess Marie Recalls the Tragedy of 1889 When Heir and Baroness Were Found Dead

Countess Marie Larisch, niece of the late Empress of Austria, made public what purports to be the true story of the mystery surrounding the death of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria. Since 1889, when the bodies of the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary and Baroness Mary Vetsera were found in the royal hunting lodge at Meyerling, there has been no official explanation of the double tragedy. "The accidental shooting of the Crown Prince when on a hunting expedition," is the way the court circular referred to the tragedy, while there was no inkling whatever that the death of the young Baroness had occurred at the same place or at the same time.

The Countess says, in effect, that the Crown Prince killed his sweetheart and then took his own life because he feared that a plot in which he was engaged was about to be discovered, and that he would be court-martialed and shot. That plot, according to the Countess, was a conspiracy on the part of Rudolph, the Archduke John of Tuscany and some others to disrupt the Austro-Hungarian Empire by making Rudolph King of Hungary.

Blames the Baroness

The Countess says that although the Crown Prince was a dissolute man, whose conduct had cost him the love of father, mother and wife, he was not primarily to blame for the affair with the Baroness. The girl fell in love with him before he had ever noticed her, and wrote him a letter begging him to meet her. The Countess appears to have assisted to arrange some of the stolen interviews that followed, though she protests that she only shielded the girl. But soon gossip connected their names. The indiscretion of the young Baroness went the length of publicly insulting the Crown Princess Stephanie, and it seemed probable that she would be dismissed from the court.

A Ghastly Ride

It was in this crisis of their affairs that Rudolph took her with him on a hunting expedition to Meyerling. One morning when they did not appear at the usual hour, Count Hoyos, the attendant of the Prince, broke open the door and found both dead, a small revolver in the hand of Rudolph. Calling in another servant whom he could trust, the Count removed the body of the girl to another room. Then he had both doors locked and guarded while he hurried to Vienna with the news of the tragedy. It was announced that the Crown Prince had been injured, and after a noted doctor had been hurried to the scene the death was announced. In the meantime, the family of the Baroness Vetsera were communicated with. Two uncles went down to Meyerling to bring the body home. The police insisted that the girl should be dressed, and that the body should be held upright between the two uncles on the seat while they drove in a carriage from the hunting lodge. A few miles away, the carriage turned into the gates of a monastery, and here the body was hurriedly buried, neither the father nor mother being allowed to be present and everyone who knew anything of the scandal being sworn to secrecy.

GALLOPING HORSE TOY

Beast's Legs and Head and Jockey's Body Move

An amusing toy in the form of a galloping horse has been designed by a Kentucky man. It is particularly appropriate these days when mechanical toys are absorbing the youth of the land. The body of the horse is fixed to a standard rising from the base, but the forelegs and hindlegs are pivoted to the body and at their middle joints. The tail and neck are also pivoted to the body and the body of the jockey is pivoted at the hips. The horse's feet are fastened to swinging shafts that operate in the base by means of a reciprocating gear. As one shaft is pushed forward the other comes backward, each carrying with it a foreleg and hindleg on the same side of the animal. The gear is operated by means of a crank and the faster the crank is turned the faster the horse trots, bobbing his head and wagging his tail, while the jockey seems to urge him.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

You may have observed that during the last week or so September has given a very clever imitation of July weather.

—o—

Perhaps Laurier and his lieutenants are at last beginning to realize that this country is British and has every intention of so remaining.

—o—

Laurier is evidently beginning to realize that the Canadian people are tired of being placed in the position of 'spongers' by reason of his obstinacy and the Senate's dotage.

—o—

The warlike utterances of the Governor of Texas are enough to convince the public that whoever put the quiet in Colquitt made a mess of the job.

—o—

In the newer dictionaries, "soused" means thoroughly intoxicated, as does "stewed" and the same old headache the next morning goes with both terms.

—o—

An admirer of Premier Borden in Quebec recently sent him a five pound package of native tobacco—probably as evidence that our French fellow-Canadians can raise something beside the devil in that province.

—o—

The country would rejoice with great joy is some way were found to permanently dispose of Harry Thaw and that other nuisance, William Travers Jerome.

—o—

It is obvious that the New York bishop who believes that the millionaires ought to be made to give up their millions by moral suasion has a very slight acquaintance with millionaires.

—o—

The Globe advises people to cultivate cheerfulness. No doubt it is a good thing, but there are times when a man would be utterly miserable if he had to be cheerful.

—o—

Perhaps Sir Wilfrid Laurier will step [illegible] and explain why he [illegible] it necessary to assure [illegible] at St. Hyacinthe that the same blood ran through his veins as through [illegible].

THE NAVAL SCHEMES

How to Ascertain If You Have Catarrh

Look for Symptoms of This Treacherous Disease in the Following List.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritable, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"

If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs or bronchial tubes—then it may be too late. The remedy is "Catarrhozone," a direct breathable cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that's tainted by catarrh germs.

"No one can know better than I the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrhozone," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years a stubborn case of bronchial catarrh, ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stopped-up nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrhozone cured quickly."

The dollar outfit last two months, and is guaranteed; smaller size, 50c, sample size, 25c, at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"Nothing for the Empire." Liberals were also fond of declaring that the people of Canada had not pronounced upon the question of naval policy and that therefor nothing should be done until after an election. Liberals who made these statements knew that they were untrue, but Liberals who had spent months in contradicting themselves and each other cared little for that.

That the Conservative party were not in favor of the Laurier Canadian Navy and that the results of the elections in September, 1910, showed the people of Canada to be with the Conservative party in this respect, has just been admitted by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. Th? admission came in the course of the ex-Minister's attempt to answer the challenge of Commander Roper. Here is what he said:—

"The contract was not let immediately because it called for the expenditure of a very large sum, over $11,600,000 and as the Imperial Conference was gone and was followed almost immediately afterwards by the general elections, it was not thought wise to give out so important a contract. The result of the elections showed the wisdom of the course adopted by the Liberal Government, since they resulted in the return of a Government opposed to the idea of a Canadian navy."

THE PLAIN TASK OF ATTENDING TO BUSINESS

We think that this country has had a surfeit of excitement and high pitched clamor.

We think just now it looks with disfavor on the man constantly bearing false witness against his neighbor.

Look around you and see if it is not so. You will find the farmer busily engaged in the back fields, the merchant stocking up his shelves, the manufacturer figuring on the largest output that he can afford to produce, the financier preparing for further operations.

Nobody much is talking about the uplift of the human race but each is playing his part in advancing his own progress. The common scold has difficulty getting an audience, and the man with the brick keeps out of sight.

Perhaps the coming of the harvest moon has something to do with it, but we rather think it is the Canadian love of a change.

THE PANAMA OPENING

The decision of the British Government to take no part in the Panama Canal Exhibition will probably do more than any other form of protest has yet done to bring home to the people of the United States the consciousness that their politicians have been guilty of a serious international breach in refusing to abide by the Canal treaty. It is just possible that some of these same citizens may represent the British decision, but nothing else could have been done in self-respect, and any spirit of resentment may well be heaped upon their own politicians, whose action in this matter can never be excused or condoned. It is true that no attempt has been made by some of the people of the United States to excuse or condone it. Nowhere has the action of the United States in breaking the treaty been more severely condemned than in some of the leading papers of the r?public. But it is to be feared that a goodly number of citizens saw in it an action in the main quite excusable, and even justifiable. The United States had done it, and therefore it was the shrewd and right thing to do. The verdict of history will be quite otherwise, we are convinced. In fact, this incident will go down to history as one of the most infamous breaches of just and binding obligations that any nation in modern times has been guilty of. And the profit to be derived therefrom will be very small indeed when the stain upon the good name of a nation that is involved is considered. To the Britishers it is a matter of no great moment. He can rejoice over the completion of the great project, and congratulate the Republic heartily and sincerely. There will be no "incident" in connection with the matter. But there will be quite a few people who will not forget that the government which said: "The canal shall be free and open to vessels of commerce and of war of all nations on terms of entire equality," deliberately and explicitly broke its promise. A record like that is a hard thing to forget about.

ON THE DEATH OF FIVE PEOPLE BY A FALLING BUILDING

(Written for The Times)

The thoughtless world pursues its course
Falls black adversity, rude blow.
Of pleasure paid, of pomp and show
Till suddenly, with stunning force!

At morn the sun uprising shone
On lives of beaming prospects fair;
Ere noon destruction's sword is drawn,
And sorrow rends the heavy air.

Death with relentless sickle reaps,
At one fell stroke the young and old.
And loud a stricken city weeps
The ghastly harvest pale and cold.

Some neared the journey's sunset bound
Where evening glimmered in the west
Weary and worn, perchance they found,
A kind release and welcome rest.

Others were young, and joyful beat
Their hearts with love's fond rapture high,
Life's untried bliss to them was sweet;
Untimely then seemed hard to die.

For them a few short radiant years
With dreams of gilded future bright,
Never shall they feel the doubts and fears,
The withered hopes or wasting blight

Some long had borne the heat and glare
Dull toil and burden of the day.
Some wrought, but in the morning fair
Yet equal bliss shall both repay.

Now in this gloomy, adverse hour,
A moment pause and ponder well—
Why ruin's dark, mysterious power,
In wreck, disastrous befel?

Was it to save from darker fate,
In mercy, pure Omniscient love,
Swung open wide the pearly gate,
And sheltered them in realms above?

Perhaps our earth-bound souls to raise
Above this vain low care and strife;
And lead us by these thorny ways
To seek, with them, Eternal Life!

Or with the task appointed done,
Not [illegible] may they tarry here:
The glorious privilege is won—
To labor in a Higher Sphere.

Or did offended Justice call
For some propitious sacrifice!
And, doomed [illegible] a crashing wall
[illegible] for many to suffice?

Bright in varied sheen,
Sparkling waters flowing,
Grass and foliage green—

Gentle dews distilling
Showers of balmy rain;
Orchard's pleasant fruitage,
Fields of waving grain—

For the joy and pleasure,
Of the summer day—
To the Blessed Giver,
Thankful hearts we raise.

Praising Him whose Mercy
Guides this world of ours;
And for promised glory,

Doctor's Opinion of Diabetes Cure

Believes No Remedy So Effective As SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES.

In the treatment of Diabetes Mellitus we distinguish between remedies for the disease itself, and those for complications which may arise. Within the last few years numerous preparations, promising complete cures, have made their appearance, but none of them have been able to reduce, or even eliminate sugar secretions as effectually as SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES. This preparations is successfully applied in cases where sugar remains in spite of a diet free of carbo-hydrates. Experience has proven that this remedy has caused no bad effects, whatever.

The above paragraph is made up of extracts from a written statement of one of the most eminent physicians on the Continent of America. We strongly request anyone suffering from this dreaded disease to write to us for a copy of his letter. We can also send testimonials from some of the most prominent people in nearly any town in Canada who think it a privilege to be able to recommend a medicine which brings such relief to any person who has suffered like themselves.

This remedy is manufactured by the Sanol Manufacturing Company, of Winnipeg.

Price $2.00 Per Bottle.

UNCROWNED RULERS

Who rules Russia? Not the Czar, some people say, but the Czar's mother. At any rate, he has often been known to change his views very suddenly after an interview with the Dowager Empress. From these interviews he is said to come out looking very subdued. Besides his mother, various priestly advisers are said to have had at different times a good deal to say in Russia's policy.

A man of weight—in both senses—in Russia is Prince Vladimir Orloff, who weighs over three hundred pounds, and who is said to have had a great deal to do with urging the Czar into war with Japan. And Russian politics depend largely on which particular high official has the Czar's ear at the moment.

The Emperor of Austria is getting very old, and his place is largely taken by his nephew, the Archduke Ferdinand. The Archduke himself is said to be considerably influenced by one of his private secretaries.

Taking it all round, in fact, Europe has far more kings than countries, and the uncrowned are not always the least powerful. In Africa, too, Egypt is a country whose nominal ruler, the Khedive, is a mere puppet in the hands of Britain's representative, all the strings of Egypt being pulled by the Sirdar.

H.Q. 3—34—6.

IN FOOTSTEPS OF LIVINGSTONE

Twenty-three Years in the Wilds of Africa—Explorer Was Referred to as a "Man Without Toes"

Mr. Daniel Crawford, a missionary who has spent twenty-three years in the Central African wilds, regrets that he never met his great countryman, Livingstone. In an interview he said:

"The point is that I was the first to have the honor of following in Livingstone's tracks after the long silence of the years when he was supposed to have been lost. To me it was a tremendously thrilling and inspiring thing to hear the natives speak in such a fine manner of that hero, David Livingstone. The name they knew him by was 'Ingeresa'—that is, 'the Englishman.'

"In other words, the natives saw in this splendid specimen of man the typical Englishman, and, of course, they did not distinguish between an Englishman and a Scotsman. Livingstone, in fact, set the type, and he was regarded as the typical white man; that is why nowadays, when any of the 'riff-raff' type, the broken-down Britisher, comes along, the natives say, sarcastically, 'You are not an Englishman; we know the brand, it is the English brand; Ingeresa.'"

Mr. Crawford quoted with approval the last of the five verses which "Punch" offered up to the dead Livingstone:—

He needs no epitaph to guard a name
Which men shall praise while worthy work is done;
He lived and died for good—be that his fame:
Let marble crumble; this is Livingstone.

"Many of the natives I came across," said Mr. Crawford, "spoke to me of the 'kindly Livingstone', that is their estimate of him. There is, also, amongst the natives of Central Africa a curious Livingstone joke, they call him even to-day, 'A tadi no [illegible],' which means, 'the man who has no toes.' The explanation, of course, is that Livingstone wore boots."

Of all his experiences in Central Africa, Mr. Crawford regards as the finest that which he described in the following words:—

"It was a thrilling day for me when, long ago, I marched through the long grass to the sacred spot where the great David Livingstone died. The grass was very tall, and ran away into the distance. There before me I saw the three pot-sticks where the weary old man, Livingstone, had boiled his last cup of tea. There was the tree under which his heart was buried, and the inscription from 'Punch' which I have quoted, cut on the trunk by his faithful boys."

ROYAL HANDYMAN

The Popularity of the Duke of Connaught's Son

No member of the Royal family is more widely known or more popular than is Prince Arthur of Connaught. Therefore, it is no matter for surprise that, when he celebrates his birthday, he is the recipient of congratulatory messages from all parts of the world. His Royal Highness has had an eventful career. He is one of the personal aides-de-camp to the King, and is captain in the 2nd Dragoons (Royal Scots Greys). He saw service in South Africa, has opened exhibitions and bridges, visited agricultural shows, shot big game, and presided over conferences and other gatherings of various descriptions. But it is in connection with his diplomatic missions in many of which he represented the King, that he has come most prominently before the public. Thus, he attended the christening of the heir to the Italian throne and the baptism of the Prince of Asturias in Madrid; he visited Germany to be present at the wedding of the Crown Prince, and, later still, represented the King at the funeral of King Oscar of Sweden.

His mission to Japan, when he invested the late Emperor with the Order of the Garter and Admiral Togo and Marshal Yamagata with the Order of Merit, was a magnificent success. So popular was he that he brought back with him on his return to London more than seventy cases of presents.

On account of his many activities Prince Arthur has been styled "the handyman of the family." It is related of him that when young he ardently desired to be a clockmaker, and to this day manifests an intense interest in mechanism of every kind.

Musician Takes His Life Rather Than Lose His Instrument

A poor old starving English musician named William Keiser played moving airs on his violin while the gas from two open jets filled his wretched apartment with deadly fumes. When the eerie music ceased the man was dead.

This was not the only pathetic feature of his closing hours. It is now disclosed that the man, friendless, penniless, and seventy-eight, had made three journeys from his humble lodging to a pawnbroker's shop, but each time he reached the door he felt too keenly the wrench of parting with his instrument, and returned home.

Mr. Keiser, it is said by the other tenants, was a violinist of note in Germany, and had many pupils twenty years ago. He failed in health and spirits when his wife died five years later, and lost his pupils. He was afterwards employed by a violin factory but was told he had passed his usefulness and must go. He had been compelled to sell the valuable violin he had brought from Germany and used all his life, so his employer in pity presented to him an instrument which had been used as a model in the factory.

Rather than part with this, and weary of accepting food and small sums of money from his neighbors, the violinist ended his life.

TIBERIUS CAESAR'S HOUSE

Interesting Discovery in Recent Excavations at Palatine

Another of Professor Boni's discoveries in his excavations of Palatine is reported. He has re-opened a house of the early Imperial period, which was partly uncovered in 1720 and subsequently reburied. Professor Boni is convinced from the inscriptions and other evidence that it was the residence of Tiberius Caesar and Julia, the daughter of Augustus. Amongst the minor evidences which he has discovered are luxurious fittings, which correspond to the capricious, [illegible] character of Julia, who, according to Suetonius, Tiberius reluctantly married. A large bath and hot and cold water supplies are among the fittings. There is an underground cell beneath the house, which Professor Boni tentatively identifies as the prison where Drusus starved to death as narrated by Tacitus.

If a man has loved and lost he is apt to consider marriage a failure.

THE LONG SLEEVE

Some Hints to Amateurs to Secure a Good Fit

The long sleeve is being built into all the new dresses. And strangely enough the sleeve is always the knotty problem in the amateur's work. As every woman knows, a sleeve can make or mar an entire dress. Long sleeves have been out of fashion so long that the younger dressmaker may have forgotten how to make them. Probably the sleeve will be made from a pattern. At the outset then it is wise to remember the necessity of following the pattern very closely and observing the directions minutely. Notches must match if any pattern is to prove a success.

After accurately cutting the sleeves, basting is of the utmost importance. Firm basting may be more trouble to take out, but it ensures better fitting. Take short stitches always. Gather the fulness where the marks indicate, and when both seams are basted lay the sleeve flat on the table. If cut and basted correctly, the inner seam will turn to the under part of the sleeve from elbow to wrist, while the seam from shoulder to elbow will be exactly on the edge. Now, if this line runs the entire length of the sleeve, the seam will look crooked when worn. Some persons don't know of this and think the seam should be seen the whole length when the sleeve is laid flat upon the table.

In stitching the seams on the machine, do not stitch through the basting threads as it will make the latter difficult to draw out. Stitch just inside or just outside. To finish neatly at the wrist, take a strip of crinoline and slip into the sleeve. Baste it in position, leaving a margin of sleeve to turn over the crinoline. Do this while the sleeve is on the outside. Now turn inside out and face with a bias strip of the material or silk. The result will be a smooth fit. If the sleeve had been turned to put in the stiffening the sleeve will probably draw.

Sewing in the sleeve is important. To sew it in correctly draw on the arm, getting the elbow at the right point. Pin the top of the sleeve to the shoulder. The pattern usually indicates the location of the inner seam. But the sleeve does not always set right when this is followed. It should then be moved either above or below the notch on the pattern until the fit is correct.

Amateurs often cut the armhole out too much. Don't be in a hurry to do this. The armhole should be neither tight nor loose, but remember that when the sleeve is sewn in it will measure an inch or more than at first.

GRINDSTONE ON MACHINE

With Aid of Which Any Woman Can Sharpen a Pair of Scissors

Among the new things which have been recently brought out to lighten the burdens of women is a little device by which any ordinary job of cutlery sharpening may be done on the sewing machine. The device consists of a small emery wheel of the right composition for sharpening knives, scissors and similar household utensils, and this is mounted with a pulley wheel on a small metal table. This is placed on the top of the sewing machine table and slid along until the pulley wheel is in contact with the belt as it passes through the table top. There is a small clamp in the proximity of the wheel which is set at just the right angle for scissor-sharpening and with this any woman is enabled to sharpen a pair of scissors whereas under ordinary circumstances, this is a rather difficult task. It is also possible to sharpen any other small piece of cutlery.

RED-HAIRED GIRLS

Quick to Marry But Poor Mates for Red-headed Men

Are red-haired girls more popular than their sisters? If not, then think of the number of red-headed spinsters you have known. You will have to scratch your head a long time before you can remember a single Titian-haired wall flower. The brilliance of women with red hair has been proven by history—Queen Elizabeth, Marie Antoinette, Cleopatra, Helen of Troy.

Prof. C. B. Davenport, who has carried on extensive research work in eugenics, says:

"A curious antipathy is that of red haired persons of opposite sex for each other. Among thousands of matings I have found only two cases where both husband and wife are red-headed and I am assured by red-haired persons that the antipathy exists. If, as it is sometimes alleged, red hair is frequently associated with a condition of nervous irritability, this is an eugenic antipathy."

Red hair is a funny thing the authorities say. It will turn up generation after generation. It is a known fact that at times the child of two black-haired parents develops a full crop of red hair.

Scientists try to explain why hair is red. They say it is from a super-abundance of iron in the blood. The color of hair is due to a pigment called melanin, which is secreted in the roots of hairs. Absence of this coloring matter makes white hair. Melanin is formed by oxidization. A variety of organic compounds may undergo oxidization into melanin pigments ranging in intensity from yellow to black; the greater the oxidization the darker the product. And iron, when oxidized, inside of the body as well as out of it, produces red. This explains the freckles which so often either mar or put an extra touch of daintiness to a red-haired woman's beauty.

TRIBUTE TO SOBRIETY

Liquor Man From Antipodes Says Canadians Most Sober in World

"The Canadian People are the most sober in the world!"

This was the opinion expressed by Mr. W. A. Lloyd, the official lecturer of the Liquor Trades Defence Union of New South Wales, and secretary of the Liquor Trades Defence Association of Western Australia, after travelling through the Dominion while on a tour of the world to study the liquor question.

"I visited South Africa and all parts of Great Britain," said Mr. Lloyd, "with the object of making a first-hand, systematic study of the liquor laws of the Empire; I visited the Continent of Europe also, and worst countries Canada appears to me to be the most truly temperate part of the Empire. I am not prepared to say that your restrictive legislation, as applied to the liquor traffic, is responsible for this eminently desirable condition of affairs, but whatever the cause, Canada is to be congratulated on the sobriety of its people. I think that those countries, such as France, which encourage the drinking of light wines and low fermentation malt liquors, have done more to solve the liquor problem than any other country."

GOOD BALANCE COUNTS

Heavy Hitting Teams Not Always the Pennant Winners

Every ball club wants good hitters, but the best hitting teams do not always win the pennant, and many a time a light-hitting, well-balanced team will succeed in finishing ahead of their heavier-hitting opponents in the race for the bunting.

The light-hitting Chicago Americans club won a pennant in 1906, although it never had a man hitting over .300, and but four players hitting above the .250 mark, and one of these was George Rohe, who was used the greater part of the time in utility roles.

The foregoing is one of the exceptions that prove the rule, and in the majority of cases, the heavier-hitting clubs always finish well up in the race. In 1909 the two clubs which played for the world's championship, namely, Pittsburg and Detroit, led their respective leagues in team batting.

For some time the old Philadelphia National League team, with such wonderful hitters in its line-up as big Ed Delehanty, Larry Lajoie, Elmer Flick, Sam Thompson, Billy Hamilton, Jack Clements, et al., were never able to capture a pennant. In the Southern league it is the exception when the heaviest hitting teams win the gonfalon, as in most cases it is generally won by a well balanced club that possesses few good hitters.

FIREPROOF CLOTH FOR CLOTHING

English Chemist Can Make Flannelette and Other Light Materials Absolutely [illegible]

At last a cheap process for making cloth absolutely fireproof has been discovered. There have been lots of fireproof materials brought out that could be used for many of the purposes for which ordinary cloth is used, but this is the first time that there has been any definite steps taken toward producing a cloth that is cheap enough for ordinary uses. And it is also the first time there has ever been devised a process that would fireproof ordinary cotton cloth in a way that enabled the cloth to be washed or laundered.

The new process is the work of an English chemist and his claims are based upon the fact that the fireproofing of any material desired, and especially of cotton goods, will not increase the cost of production more than a fraction of a cent.

Heretofore the cotton cloths that have been fireproofed have taken on a hard and unyielding texture that made them almost impossible for the ordinary uses of such materials. It is well known that the cotton flannel material which women use throughout the world for making wrappers and night clothing, is highly inflammable and that a number of tragedies have been caused by its being worn. Despite this disadvantage the cloth is used because it is soft and gives good wear. The discovery of a process for rendering such material fireproof, therefore, is deserving of more than ordinary mention.

The process through which fireproofing is obtained is described as being extremely simple. The cloth is soaked in a solution of sodium stannate. This is a combination of soda and the acid of tin. The cloth is thoroughly dried and is then placed in a vessel containing sulphate of ammonium and subjected to heat. This being accomplished the cloth is thoroughly washed. When dried once more it is ready for use. The fibre of which the cloth is composed become impregnated with a tinny substance which forms a practical protection against fire and yet does not in any way destroy the fine texture of the cloth.

The uses to which the fireproof material can be put are practically unlimited, its inventor claims. It can be used for lace curtains, for clothing for women, children, firemen and for house furnishings. After it has been properly treated the cloth absolutely refuses to burn, no matter how long a time it might be held in direct contact with a flame. Woolen goods can be fireproofed as well as cotton.

Washing Black Stockings

Although black stockings are mostly supposed to be "fast dye," unless you pay a good price for them the color is apt to run when they are washed. Dissolve a handful of salt in a basin of warm water and soak the hose in it for an hour or so before washing them for the first time. This will prevent the "greyness."

To Make Rice Starch

Rice starch is generally used for cold water starch employed for collars, cuffs or kindred articles requiring much stiffening. Mix two ounces of rice starch with three-quarters of a pint of cold water to a smooth paste. Leave overnight, or, if possible, for a day or two, because the longer it soaks the better the starch will be. When required for use dissolve half a teaspoonful of borax in a few drops of boiling water. Mix the starch well, add a teaspoonful of turpentine and the dissolved borax. This should keep well if covered over.

How Big is a Bag?

The Department of Trade and Commerce hopes to solve the ancient conundrum, "What is a bag of potatoes?" In Quebec there is a legal standard of 80 pounds of tubers to the bag. Elsewhere in Canada custom has fixed the weight at 90 pounds. The situation is fruitful in uncertainty to the purchasers of potatoes, and lends itself to manoeuvres of various kinds and the Department is collecting information on the potato bag question from various parts of Canada with a view to standardizing the measurements.

NEWFOUNDLAND ISLE SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

Story of the Settlement of the "Isle of the Sea"—Population 300,000

There is at least one case in which distance does not lend enchantment to the scene. The traveller on an Atlantic liner, entering the dreaded fogged Banks of Newfoundland would never imagine that the bare, bald headlands which he sees when rounding Cape Race—that graveyard of the Atlantic—to be anything but the fringes of a country as bare and bald as the rocks themselves. He has to visit this "Terra Nova" and then his will join the many voices already raised in proclaiming it "The Sportsman's Paradise" and a typical "Isle of the Sea." The discovery of Newfoundland dates from 1497, when John Cabot, of Bristol, Eng., in the little ship "Matthew" of barely twenty tons burden made landing at what is now Cape Bonavista. It was not until 1583 that the island was formally taken possession of by Great Britain and attempts at settlement made. Following its discovery its shores were frequented by sailors from all the European countries. They came out to prosecute what is still the greatest natural asset of the country, cod fishery. For many years the island was a bone of contention between the powers, especially England and France and it was only in 1713, by the Treaty of Utrecht, that the French renounced their rights of possession. They still claimed exclusive rights to fish on the North and West coasts and for nearly two hundred years there were frequent controversies between the two nations until the matter was finally adjusted at the Hague conference of 1904. France then withdrawing all claims in return for certain concessions on the West coast of Africa. The island is some 317 miles long by 316 broad, with an area of 42,000 square miles, that is, about half as large again as Ireland. The many inlets and harbors on its coast cause it to have a comparatively great length of coast line. Situated at the mouth of the St. Lawrence, its strategic position is ideal. The power possessing it is in the best possible position to defend or attack the Eastern coasts of the Dominion. Amongst the islands of the world, Newfoundland ranks tenth in size. The total population is some 300,000 of which 50,000 live in the capital, St. John's, the remainder being scattered along the coasts in numbers varying from a good sized town to the smallest hamlet. Nearly one-third of the interior is taken up by waterways. Newfoundland's natural riches consist chiefly in her fisheries—cod, seal, whale and salmon, in order of importance. Four times the amount of fish caught in the Dominion of Canada, nor twice that taken in the Norwegian waters does not come up to a season's catch in Newfoundland; and the supply shows no signs of falling off.

FLYING MEN URGED TO BEQUEATH CORPSES

For Experiments That Will Provide Life-Saving Devices for Aviators —Justified by Death-Roll

The gruesome suggestion is put forward by one of the leading British authorities on aeronautics that aviators should make arrangements during their lifetime so that their mangled remains, after an accident, may be experimented upon with a view to preventing the recurrence of other similar tragedies. The idea would be almost ludicrous if it were not justified by the appalling death-roll which has marked aviation in Europe, and especially in Great Britain.

The proposer of this plan points out that science is to-day almost entirely ignorant of the effects of shock upon the human frame. He emphasizes the vital necessity of knowing what force of blow will cause the breakage of "the bone box which constitutes the human skull; what force acting in what direction is liable to dislocate the hinged parts of the neck and the spinal cord, and what resistance to bending before fracture is offered by the thigh and arm." These facts can only be properly ascertained by "reverent and skilful" experiments conducted on the mortal remains of those whose lack of proper mechanical precautions brings them to sudden death. It is the absence of any such experiments and data that makes the devices such as helmets, belts, etc., now being employed by aviators so ineffective and crude.

"The helmet which takes the highly localized blow and spreads it over a larger area of the head, thereby diminishing the intensity of the blow," writes this authority, "is a crude beginning. The elastic belt, which prevents the flyer from being hurled out of the aeroplane, and keeps him within the region of a friable structure, provides that this structure in breaking absorbs much of the work of the fall and spares him much of the shock. [illegible] an [illegible] defence against damage—too little used in aeroplanes, though well known to the [illegible]—the basket-work cage. Such a stiff, yet elastic cage, installed round, and forming the seat of the flyer, and so attached as to shelter his legs and the whole part of his person, would, according to the opinion of many [illegible] of aeroplanes, [illegible] not only against [illegible] by splinters of struts [illegible], but against the general blow of the [illegible] alighting. It will do this in virtue of its ability to distort while absorbing the work and without splintering or breaking. It is known that the [illegible] that [illegible] is used in the [illegible] in the Royal Aeronautic Force aeroplanes, but not nearly enough.

STUDENTS WORK SIDE BY SIDE WITH NAVVIES

In the Evening They Teach and Write Letters for the Frontier Toilers —All University Men

Interesting, indeed, are the experiences of the students sent out by the Reading Camp Association from various Universities in Canada who spent the summer working shoulder to shoulder with the frontier laborer in the van of civilization—the railway construction camp, rugged mining region of the distant timber limit, devoting their evenings to educational work among those denied the advantages for which they blaze the way. Many and varied, humorous and tragic are the stories told by these men, who for a season substitute overalls for college gowns. Some are employed as axe men, others as graders, brakeman on "gravel pit limiteds," nurses in the camp hospitals, clerks, "cookees," blacksmiths, timekeepers, teamsters or "skinners," lumberjacks, and in other capacities.

The Association's work is to send an instructor into a camp, provide him with a car or tent, fitted as a combined reading room and night school, and keep him supplied with reading matter, books, (which are furnished in travelling libraries by the Provincial Governments) and current newspapers and magazines for the use of the men without charge. The instructor works with the gang in the day time, in any capacity upon which the camp boss may decide. He wins the confidence and respect of the laborers, following the exhortation of Froebel, "Come, let us live with our students." The evenings are devoted to work in the reading room, teaching classes of foreigners or illiterate and ignorant English-speaking workmen, informal lecturing, letter-writing for the men, and assisting in many other practical ways. Years ago a ministerial student, Alfred Fitzpatrick, a Nova Scotian by birth, graduated from Queen's University. Instead of settling permanently in the pastorate he devoted some time to a personal study of actual conditions in the lumbering and railroad construction camps of the frontier. The young student secured some financial backing and commenced to give his idea practical form. At first operations were necessarily conducted on a small scale. Many difficulties were encountered. Foremen were apathetic or openly hostile. But the lanky youth who had conceived the plan was not discouraged. In 1900, three instructors were employed and stationed in lumber camps during the day as actual laborers, teaching in the evenings, on holidays, and when the weatherman would not permit outside work. In the spring of 1901, the Reading Camp Association was born.

Since that time the work of the Reading Camp Association has greatly expanded, until it now carries on its operations in six provinces between Quebec and British Columbia inclusive. The men stationed in Ontario on construction lines, clear between $200.00 and [illegible].00 each for their summer's work, while those in the West save from $300.00 to $400.00. In some cases the manual labor was trying on students unaccustomed to such exercise and many hardships were endured.

THE VICTORIA BRIDGE

A Hark Back to 1860 When the Prince Opened It

Some insist that modern Montreal was born in 1851, while others say that there was hardly a hint of modernity until 1860. The building of the Victoria Bridge and the consolidation of scattered railway interests, aided in the growth, which became marked in the important matters of new buildings and the opening up of new streets. The Hon. John Young had predicted the bridge, and was laughed at as a dreamer. The bridge was completed in 1860. It was superintended in its construction by the great Stephenson, who was presented with an address in the Mechanic's Hall by the late Mr. Henry Bulmer. The Prince of Wales, the late King Edward, came out to open the bridge. That visit is vividly remembered by many now living. The Prince, when in the city and country, won the good will of all by his urbanity and simple, unaffected attitude. At the time of the Prince's visit the population of the city was only 90,000 and the value of real estate $58,976,270. The ship channel showed eighteen feet and there were 141 manufactories in the city, of which the product was $6,130,981.

Stomach Always Rankled, Had Constant Indigestion

Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick—Bilious Two Days a Week.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmens' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmens, of Newbridge, P.Q. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were relieved of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

That Lindsay Touch.

The following conversation was actually heard on George street yesterday. An Irishman of this city remarked to a Lindsay man: "Begorra, that town of yours must be in bad shape." "Why?" "Well, a smart man gets $3,000 out of a bank there on forged paper—the town will have to pay that." His friend replied, "No, you are mistaken. The swindler got $2,500, but left $500 on deposit. In 100 years, at compound interest, the $500 he left will pay all the loss." "Worra, Worra, I niver tought of that. Them Lindsay bankers are smart anyhow!"

A Runaway.

Mr. E. Seranon, of 262 Simcoe street, did a very clever and heroic act yesterday afternoon, and probably saved the lives of some citizens. In some manner, Mr. John Kerr's horse and rig broke loose and ran up George street at a terrific gait. Mr. Seranon, on his way to T. Kinnear's wholesale house saw the horse coming, and he ran out, grabbed the rear end of the rig as it was passing and swung himself in behind. Climbing over the seat, he jumped on the animal's back and brought it to a standstill before any damage was done.

The firm needed the money so they issued a draft for the amount." . . . . . This is the pamphlet in which Lindsay appears on the map as big as a silver dollar, whilst Peterboro' is about the size of a dyspeptic five cent piece. Port Hope, Sept. 10.—Police Court opened at ten o'clock this morning when Mrs. Charlotte Walford laid information against three men for disturbing the peace and quietness of her home on Saturday night. Mrs. Walford was too modest to tell the court the language the men used and equally fortunate the men would not under any consideration repeat Mrs. Walford's language toward them. The men swear they used no abusive language whatever and Mrs. Walford states that her remarks were of the Sunday School variety. She admitted striking one of the men three blows on the head, and regretted the fact she had not used a club. The case was enlarged.

Poor Jack Got Left!

It is not often that Mr. Jack Hardill, traveller for the local wholesale grocery firm of Richer Ltd., gets left. However a few days ago Jack had his goat taken. It will be remembered that Mr. Hardill has paid 114 trips to Apsley. He recently resigned from another wholesale grocery concern, Messrs. T. Kinnear & Co. A few days ago Jack's successor, with the Kinnear people, whose Apsley trip was due on Sept. 21st got a brilliant idea. He went to Mr. E. Lawrence, the local cab driver, and said "Mr. Lawrence, you know the back country and I don't. Will you drive me out to Apsley?" This was agreed to. Jack got wise and started out three hours ahead in Mr. Richer's auto. When Ernie and his fare three hours' late in starting, got near Burleigh they found Jack's car stalled by the way-side. Ernie and his fare drove by, only to be passed by the Richer car. At Eel's Creek, on arrival, the team drawn carriage with the new traveller found poor Jack's car again stalled. They passed it again and got to Apsley first. Mr. Hardill and his motor may have played hare to the livery tortoise, however, Jack, on arriving late, scooped all the orders.

THIS TREATMENT WILL MAKE HAIRS VANISH

(Modes of To-day)

No woman need tolerate objectionable hair or fuzz, because with a paste made with powdered delatone and water it is easy to banish hairy growths. This paste should be applied to the skin for 2 or 3 minutes then rubbed off, and with it comes every trace of hair. Washing the skin leaves it free from spot or blemish.

Thin eyebrows grow thick and glossy if pyroxin is rubbed on occasionally and for short, straight eye lashes apply pyroxin at the lash-roots with thumb and fore-finger. Use care and don't get pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

LURED OUTSIDE CITY AND THERE MURDERED

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Discovery of the baggageman who delivered the trunk at 384 Somerset street, the scene of the tragedy, was the most important development to-day in the quest of the murderer of Abe Rubenstein, alias Charles Robertson, the New York race track employe, whose dead body was found in the cellar of a vacant store here last evening. An empty trunk found beside the body bore evidence of having been used to convey the remains to the store.

On September 2 the Canadian Transfer Company got a trunk off a train which arrived from the West over the Canadian Pacific Railway, with instruction to deliver it at 382 Somerset street. There being no such number the transfer driver left it at 384. An effort is being made at Montreal to-day to [illegible] the point from which the trunk was shipped. The police have the number of the check and C. P. R. records at headquarters in Montreal are being searched for the company's duplicate. The theory of the police is that Rubinstein, who disappeared on August 22, may have been lured some distance outside of Ottawa and there murdered, his body being afterwards shipped to Ottawa with the intention to destroy it.

It is also probable that some of Rubenstein's friends, now at the Blue Bonnets meet at Montreal, will be placed under arrest as witnesses. It is said that they quite freely expressed, within 24 hours after his disappearance, the belief that Rubenstein was murdered, and raised a subscription for his relatives in New York.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant At Once — No More Falling Hair.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength, and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die, then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

VOL. XL, NO. 214 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, SEPT. 13, 1913 — PRICE TWO CENTS.

LORD LOREBURN RECOMMENDS A COMPROMISE ON HOME RULE

Prominent Liberal Statesman's Manifesto Printed in The Times Acts as a Political Bombshell--Results Will Be Baneful Whether or Not Bill Carries.

London, Sept. 12.—Lord Loreburn's manifesto proposing a conference between party leaders to secure a friendly settlement of the Irish question, printed in yesterday's Times, has come as a political bombshell. It is the sole subject of debate here.

The Loreburn letter asserted, "No good purpose can be served by ignoring the certainty that the passage of the bill will be followed by serious rioting in the North of Ireland. Such disturbance may be expected, more widespread, more violent, than of any former occasion during our times.

Bitterness a Grave Calamity.

"However confident we may feel that the affair would be one of street fighting quite within the power of the constabulary with or without the assistance of the troops to quell in a short time, it would, nevertheless, be a grave calamity, for when the riots had been quelled the spirit that prompted them would remain for generations to come. The chance of bringing about cordial partnership in self-government between Protestant and Roman Catholic Ireland would be seriously impaired if there is forced submission."

Rejection Equally Dangerous.

On the other hand, if the bill is by some accident rejected without being replaced by a suitable measure, more disorder may be apprehended from Nationalist Ireland. Both Home Rule and the rejection of Home Rule as now presented must inevitably take us into serious trouble.

"Is there then really nothing," Loreburn asks, "that can be done except each play the part of irreconcilable forces in spirit of indolent resignation."

NEW BRIDGE FOR THE OTONABEE RIVER, SOUTH

A deputation from the township of Otonabee waited upon Mr. J. H. Burnham, member of Parliament for West Peterborough, and Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, member for East Peterborough, to ask for an appropriation for a bridge to be built some two miles below Lock No. 7. It is understood that the city will be asked to contribute towards this seemingly required structure.

Mr. Fred W. Adams, manager of one of the largest commercial floral houses in Toronto, acted as judge, and awarded his decisions as above. In commenting on same remarked that Mr. Kennedy's grounds presented an appearance as good if not better than any to be found in Toronto.

THIS YEAR'S LOCAL FALL FAIR EXCEEDS ALL PAST RECORDS

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is bigger, better and more fully supported than in any previous year's history of such. The weather which threatened rain during the afternoon, turned out ideal for such an affair. The bright, and too often, too hot September sun had its rays tempered by passing fleecy clouds.

The early morning trains from all directions brought big crowds of exhibition visitors, and from early morning, the farmers of the district, with their families, poured into town the streets quickly assuming a gala appearance. The river steamers also brought crowds.

Every street car was crowded and there was a steady stream through the different gates into the grounds. From the standpoint of exhibits, this year's exhibition has left all others behind. Even the directors were amazed at the manner in which the live stock came into the grounds. Nothing like the display has ever been seen here, and the growth in the number of exhibits has been general, not along one line alone. Cattle, sheep, horses, swine and poultry entries are alike very much larger than last year, in some cases being almost double any previous year. As prophesied, the accommodation was not sufficient. Although the stock is doubled up all along the line in the cattle sheds, horse stables and sheep and swine pens, there was not room enough to house all the entries and the directors in charge caused to be erected a huge tent to take care of the overflow. Even this was not enough for the extraordinary display of live stock.

The 1913 Exhibition is by long odds the greatest on record from an agricultural standpoint.

The races were run off most satisfactorily and drew thousands of people to both grand stand and the surrounding fence.

The Evening.

Last night the exhibition grounds were visited by thousands of well pleased people. The street car conductors report a record business. It might be mentioned, incidentally, that Mr. Munro, the efficient manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway, had a splendid service in operation that handled the crowds well. The vaudeville performances were well rendered and of unusually high merit. There is every inducement presented to assure those visiting the Fair to-day, of getting a little more than their money's worth.

CANADA'S TRADE MAY NOW SUFFER BY RATE PROPOSALS

Incredible That Right-Thinking Men Would Consider Them, Says Writer.

London, Sept. 12.—W. Black Noble, writing to the London Times on the subject of Canadian freight rates and with particular reference to the mission of Mr. H. L. Drayton, chairman of the Dominion Railway Board, who has met him, expresses the opinion that the Canadian Government would be adopting a sounder policy if instead of advocating State control of ocean rates they would consider the question in a more general sense apart from the Canadian rail [illegible].

Flour Rate Excessive.

The contention is that the rate on flour is excessive as compared with grain, and that the existing preferential tariff is practically neutralized by the exorbitant rates on westbound goods.

He describes it as incredible that any body of right thinking men could entertain such proposals as are being put forward, namely:

1—That ocean carriers should be treated as, and if necessary legislated into, the position of common carriers.

2—That the Canadian Government should form a fleet of vessels of their own for the conveyance of eastbound produce and westbound merchandise.

Fund to Help Merchants.

3—That powers under the three-mile limit of territorial jurisdiction should be exercised in connection with steamers trading to Canadian points. "It would be much better," concludes Mr. Noble, "if instead of spending money in establishing a State Department, a very dilatory and inefficient method of attaining their object, they employed money in the forming a fund for subsidizing merchants who were unable to carry on profitably a business which is necessary to the well being and prosperity of the country.

Home Trade Restriction.

"By dealing with the situation in any other manner the inevitable result would be the restriction of export and import facilities, an eventuality which for a growing country like Canada, ought not to receive the most passing consideration, on the part of those entrusted with the management of her business."

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and a little cooler.

N.W. MOUNTED POLICE TO ARREST ESKIMOS

Ottawa, Sept. 42.—A patrol of North West Mounted Police has been despatched to Bathurst Inlet to arrest the Eskimo murderers of H. V. Radford and George Street. It is expected that they will be away at least a year and perhaps two.

Though the primary object of the patrol will be to investigate in connection with the murders, it will have other work to do in addition. The tribe is decidedly uncivilized and somewhat more warlike than is usual with the Eskimos. They live on the musk ox, from whose hide they make their clothing. The Hudson Bay Eskimo traders do business with them, prominent among the traders being three men, Kakamo, Kaksuak and Partridge.

Reports have just been received by Comptroller [illegible] of a sanguinary battle which is said to have taken place among the Eskimos of the district two winters ago. Every male member of a band of inhabitants of that region engaged in a battle with bows and arrows, spears and knives during which twenty-eight men fell.

'PASTOR' RUSSELL'S EXPOSURE IN COURTS

Hot Shot From a New York Paper

Pastor Russell, who recently entered suit against the Rev. J. J. Ross for criminal libel because of the publication of a pamphlet by Mr. Ross, exposing the character and teaching of Russell, found his experience such that we judge it will be a long day before he will want it repeated.

Mr. Ross has reissued his pamphlet, with additions, under the title of "Some Facts and More Facts About the Self-Styled Pastor Russell," which can be obtained of the publisher, C. C. Cook, 150 Nassau St., New York, for 10 cents.

The man's true character was exposed by the unblushing lies of which he was convicted under oath. He has generally sought to give the readers of his books the impression that he was a well-educated man, conversant with the dead languages. In entering his case against Mr. Ross, he denied the truthfulness of Mr. Ross' pamphlet, which stated that Russell "never attended the higher schools of learning, knows comparatively nothing of philosophy, systematic or historical theology, and is totally ignorant of the dead languages, and yet he is successful in making his disciples believe that the most difficult passages in the Old Testament and the Book of Revelation are as simple as a sunbeam to him." "But now what are the facts as they were brought out by the examination on March 17th, 1913? As to his scholastic standing, he had sworn that what was said about it was not true. Under the examination, he admitted that, at most, he had attended school only seven years of his life, that the public school, and that he had left school when he was about fourteen years of age, just at the opening of the adolescent period, when the directional element is so necessary in a boys' life.

"Do you know the Greek?" asked the attorney.

"Oh, yes," was Russell's reply.

Here he was handed a copy of the New Testament in Greek, by Westcott & Hort, and asked to read the letters of the alphabet, as they appear on the top of page 447. He did not know the alphabet.

"Now," asked Mr. Staunton, "Are you familiar with the Greek language?"

"No," said Mr. Russell, without a blush. When he saw that he was caught, then he admitted he knew nothing about Latin, and Hebrew, and neither had he ever taken a course in Philosophy, Systematic Theology, and neither had he ever attended any of the higher schools of learning. A trap had been set for him at every one of these points, and having been caught in the first, he thought it best for him to "own up before he was shown up." As it was he was shown up.

No one would challenge Russell's right to teach the Bible because he does not understand the Greek, but every honest person will have nothing but contempt for a man who poses as a religious leader, and who pretends to know Greek when he does not, and who would even go to the extent of lying under oath to carry out the deception.

In a similar way, no one would condemn Mr. Russell because he had not been ordained by man, and question his right to teach. But when he tries to mislead people about it, and give the impression that he was ordained, he is a deceiver.

When in court, under oath, Mr. Russell was asked: "It is true that you were never ordained?" "It is not true," replied Mr. Russell. But Mr. Ross' counsel takes him in hand, and, being wilful, it is difficult to keep the arch-heretic to the point. His Worship, the Magistrate, was appealed to, and Russell is informed that he must answer yes or no. "Now," said Mr. Staunton, "You never were ordained by a bishop, clergyman, Presbytery, council or any body of men living?" After a considerable pause, with his eyes fixed on his feet in the witness box, he said: "I never was."

Since the trial Mr. Russell has been trying to satisfy his followers by decrying "human ordination" and inferring the Divine imprimatur upon himself: but God is not in the habit of putting His hands of blessing, mediately, or otherwise, on a man who unblushingly swears falsely.

We cannot here go into Russell's domestic relations, but urge all our readers who are meeting with Millennial Dawnism to secure a copy of Pastor Ross' pamphlet, or its companion one by the same publisher, entitled "All About Russell."

Christians should pray earnestly that the Russell plague may be stayed, and give as wide currency to the man's real character to this end as possible.

Lest some might think we are further advertising his cause, let us state that Russell is before the public by his own advertising, and unless the church and religious press speaks out with the truth about him, they may expect that he will continue to trap the unwary, to pack the theatres throughout the land, to divide homes and congregations, to be furnished with the funds for his wide propaganda at home and abroad. He who sees the wolf coming to the flock is called on to act.

TRAFFIC VERY HEAVY

Northern Navigation Company Have Had a Very Busy Season.

The tourist traffic this year over the Great Lakes between Sarnia, Ont., and Fort William, Ont., by the Northern Navigation Company's steamers (Grand Trunk Route) has been exceptionally heavy, in fact the monster steamships of this line have been leaving port each trip with their full complement of passengers.

The route is a popular one and has become well known for its exceptionally good service. This is apparent by the many unsolicited letters that reach Grand Trunk headquarters from time to time from patrons who have taken the trip. An abstract from one of these letters written by a gentleman who has travelled the world over, reads as follows:

"We returned a few days since from one of the most enjoyable trips of our lives, having made the journey from Collingwood through the North Channel of the Georgian Bay to the Sault and on to Fort William, returning to Sarnia. We were charmed with the steamship Huronic and all we found while on board that good ship, which is an admirable floating hotel, the officers all that we could wish and the food, cooking and service beyond reproach."

NEW BRITISH DIRIGIBLE HAS 1,500 MILE RADIUS

London, Sept. 12.—It is learned that experts attached to the Admiralty are investigating a privately built dirigible of 1,500 miles radius, called the Britannia. The airship is stated to have a lifting capacity of five tons.

Two years ago, following the collapse of the Mayfly, the British naval airship of the rigid Zeppelin type, experts in torpedo boat construction were reported to have begun to build secretly at Barrow-in-Furness, another rigid airship of similar, but improved pattern.

GOTHAM MOURNS DEATH OF ITS IDOL, LONDON REGRETS

New York, Sept. 12.—New York was a city of mourning to-day for its dead Mayor, William J. Gaynor. Flags flew half-mast and the public buildings—the City Hall, police headquarters, the municipal buildings—were draped in black.

The Board of Estimates, called together by Adolphe L. Kline, the Mayor's successor, was scheduled to meet this afternoon to arrange for a public funeral to be held shortly after the arrival here of the Mayor's body aboard the steamer Lusitania, which sailed to-day from Liverpool and is due here a week from to-day.

Adopts Gaynor's Policies.

The new Mayor, a Republican, who will serve until a successor, to be chosen at the coming November election, is inaugurated on January 1, intends, he has announced, to carry out the policy of the Gaynor Administration "insofar as I know them," and to make no changes in appointive officials.

Messages of condolence from all parts of the country continued to pour in to-day at the office of Robt. Adamson, the Mayor's Secretary, and at the Gaynor country home, St. James, L.I. where Mrs. Gaynor and her children are reported to be bearing their loss with fortitude.

The dead Mayor's friends recalled to-day a paragraph he wrote in a letter to his sister soon after the attempt on his life three years ago.

RECKLESS AIRMAN PAYS WITH HIS LIFE.

Killed since 1908 355
Killed in 1913 134

Munster, Germany, Sept. 12.—Aviator Hans Lorenz was killed here to-day as he was completing a two hours' flight. He steered the machine too steeply in a downward direction and the wings buckled, the aeroplane falling to the ground. The gasoline tank exploded and the pilot's body was partly burned before the fire could be extinguished.

HARRY K. THAW GAINING TIME WHILST HIS CASE IS ADJOURNED

Lunatic Will Be Arraigned To-morrow Morning Perhaps Says Latest Report.

Albany, Sept. 12.—Papers calling for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw from Colebrook, N.H., to New York State, were signed to-day by Acting Gov. Glynn. Sheriff Hornbeck left at noon for Concord to present the papers to Gov. Felker.

Colebrook, N.H., Sept. 12.—By agreement the arraignment of Harry K. Thaw as a fugitive from New York State justice was continued until 10 a.m. to-morrow by Justice of the Peace Carr. The hearing set for to-day, was delayed until after noon by a conference among lawyers for Thaw and New York State, and both sides finally asked the magistrate to put the case over a day. Chas. D. White, of Thaw's Canadian legal staff, has arrived here.

District Attorney Conger, of Dutchess county, left for Albany this morning carrying extradition papers asking for the return of Harry K. Thaw from Colebrook. As soon as Acting Gov. Glynn signs the papers, Mr. Conger will take them to New Hampshire.

Shortly after rising this morning Thaw issued a formal statement summing up his case and lamenting the fact that New York State was spending so much money on him.

The statement in part follows:

"I think the people of my own state would like to know by what warrant of law or common sense the money of the people of the State of New York is being squandered like water by many more thousands of dollars than are available to me in these persistent and unscrupulous efforts to return me to Matteawan."

CHURCH MOTION NOT SERIOUS BUT COLLEAGUES CARRIED IT

Irate Tommy Sarcastically Nominated R. G. Black to Attend Convention—Tommies Wash Hands of Hydro

Toronto, Sept. 12.—"We have washed our hands of all Hydro business," declared Controller Church at the Board of Control to-day, speaking for himself and Controller Fos- of the Hydro System and Hon. ter, erstwhile the gallant defenders Adam Beck against the alleged perfidious assaults of Mayor Hocken and the Mackenzie interests. The appointment of Mr. R. G. Black as a member of the local Hydro Board by the Ontario Hydro Commission seems to have cooled the ardor of the two Tommies.

A letter had been received announcing a meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association in Toronto on Sept. 30. Two representatives from Toronto were asked.

"I move that Mr. Black be one," said Controller Church.

Mayor Hocken and Controller McCarthy looked up in surprise.

"Carried," they said.

"I only meant that humorously," said Controller Church.

"It's carried now," rejoined Controller McCarthy, and added, "I move that Controller Church be the other representative."

Tommy drew back. "I choose my company," he exclaimed in a spasm of virtuous horror.

"Controller Foster, then," insinuated Controller McCarthy.

The economical one shook his head.

"We have washed our hands of all Hydro business," announced Controller Church. Controller McCarthy will be the second delegate.

Players do Themselves Much Harm by Wreaking Vengeance on the Critical Fans, Says Collins

The most disagreeable feature of the professional baseball player's life, says Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is the criticisms from the spectators' stands. Frequently this criticism is unjust and unwarranted, but players have to "stand the gaff." In some cities it is worse than in others. Boston to my mind, is the fairest city in the major leagues. There a visiting player receives better treatment and is given recognition for a good play, even though it works to the disadvantage of the home club.

EDDIE COLLINS

The remarks of the boisterous fan are usually of a "kidding" nature, and it depends, nine times out of ten, upon the individual against whom they are directed, how he chooses to interpret them. If a player gives sign that he has heard a remark, he is wise to pass it off with a jest rather than give vent to his feelings and show a [illegible]. A [illegible] beats any other [illegible] a thousand ways. "Germany" Schaefer is the best example I know. Of course, he is an exception, but he has always something funny and amusing to say to the bleacherites, and they are ready for him, rather than against him.

The primary intention of the fan in shouting and hooting is to distract the player's mind from his work and "get him up in the air." Naturally any player who allows himself to be influenced by such taunts and replies is likely to bring more abuse upon himself and he is always the loser. Nine times out of ten a player cannot single out the person who has called to him, and if he does his reply is ignored in a general [illegible].

"Let 'em howl" is the best play. There have been incidents where an obnoxious fan has sought a front seat and picked on one player continually. This happened on the old Columbia Avenue grounds in Philadelphia, when "Rube" Waddell was playing.

It was afterwards discovered the [illegible] who [illegible] Rube's [illegible] and [illegible] him to jump over the railing and [illegible] the only chance he had of winning [illegible] in Waddell's retirement.

However, his [illegible] method of bringing about Rube's [illegible] resulted in a hiding for himself and Rube was allowed to finish and win his game. A three-day suspension followed and Rube took a fishing trip.

There have been numerous similar incidents where a player subjected to abuse sought revenge upon the spot. A story is told of how "Tyrus" [illegible] the [illegible] up in the bleachers and [illegible] a spectator who had been annoying him.

When a ball player feels he is abused by a spectator he has only to [illegible] and the umpire will order [illegible] to eject the [illegible]. But you can rest assured that while base ball reigns supreme fans will have their say, and the player who can't stand being called a "bonehead" had better give up hope of becoming a [illegible].

The new Chinese alphabet was adopted by a special committee composed of the most learned men, including Professor [illegible], professor of Chinese and [illegible] in the school of Oriental languages at Naples. At the present time the Chinese alphabet consists of 2,000 characters whereas the new one will contain forty-two characters, twenty-three of which are vowels and nineteen consonants. Four of the vowels are taken from the Greek, four from the Russian, five from the Latin, and one from Chinese. Of the nine remaining vowels two are modified signs and several are reversed [illegible].

THE IDEAL MAN

Must Not Smoke or Drink, Need Not be Handsome

All the colleges for women in Kansas were canvassed on the question, "What is your description of the ideal man?" This is what the male being should be like in order to meet the requirements of the girl graduates:

Height, 5 feet 11 inches.

Weight, 159 pounds.

Chest, 40 inches expanded, 34 inches contracted.

Waist, 30½ inches.

Must make a good appearance, but need not be handsome.

Must be careful of his personal appearance, but not a dandy.

Must be jolly, accommodating, considerate, and a true sportsman.

Must be a good conversationalist, but not a flatterer.

Must revere and respect the aged.

Must show courtesy to men and women.

Must not smoke or drink or be guilty of attendant evils.

Must not sneer at religion or joke lightly of it.

Must not recognize a different standard for men and women.

The physical qualifications were averages taken from the thousands of replies, each girl being asked to submit the measurements of what she considered her ideal man. Some of them liked giants, and some liked little fellows. The unusually tall girls liked short men while the plump girls liked tall, attenuated fellows. The rule of contrasts was followed almost invariably in every case, where the girl who made her choice of an ideal was small or large compared with the average girl.

Mental and moral requirements varied a great deal, too. Some girls put ability to cook ahead of all other standards.

One surprising feature, says the "Telegraph," is that the girls canvassed seemed to prefer men of merely good appearance, "who could put up a good front" to just handsome men.

HERO OF BALL STORIES

Original "Night Watchman" of Will Owen's Sketches Dead

The night watchman of Mr. W. W. Jacobs' diverting stories has passed away. Mr. Will Owen, who illustrated Mr. Jacobs' tales, found the prototype of that night watchman at Deal in the person of Robert Osborn, known to his intimates of the boating fraternity as "Bobby," and Mr. Owen's presentment of him as the teller of amusing sea yarns was lifelike.

"Bobby" Osborn was a feature of Deal sea front. It was impossible to miss seeing him, as, with his huge bulk he occupied an appreciable section of the landscape.

He sold fish for a living, and was noted for his stentorian voice, which was heard to particular advantage in his favorite cry of "Rye Bay Plaice!"

His comrades amongst the fishermen tell some tall yarns of the penetrating powers of Bobby's voice. They say it could be heard as far as the South Goodwin lightship, and that in foggy weather when they heard his call of "Rye Bay Plaice!" they knew they were somewhere within the vicinity of port.

Various artists besides Mr. Owen had selected Osborn as a model. He lived in a picturesque old cottage embowered with flowers and he was rather pleased with the attention of the artists and laughed heartily at his presentment as "The Night Watchman." At his funeral six boatmen acted as bearers.

HIGH CHAIR ATTACHMENT

Horseshoe-shaped Receptacle Holds Toys or Things

A busy woman has designed an attachment for high chairs that seems to be a convenient article. It will hold the baby's toys or other articles or catch the things that happen to fall off his tray. A horseshoe shaped frame of double construction is removably attached to this frame, being in the form of a strip of fabric with shirred edges which slip over the frame and slide around until the infant is surrounded with a deep trough of yielding material. Breakable objects that fall or are pushed off the tray are caught in this basket, without injury and baby can have his playthings in the receptacle or spread on a smooth and tidy surface.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The New Haven road has the distinction of being one of the greatest slaughtering concerns in the United States.

The automobiles, motorcycles, and railroads are showing what the present high speed of living costs in human life.

The suffragette armistice was no sooner established than the tramway strikes broke out in Dublin. Poor Mr. Asquith! His government seems to be just one rumpus after another.

The Duke of the Abruzzi gave a dinner and a prize for the best tango dancing, the guests to be the judges. With a jury thus fixed, it is no wonder that the Duke won the prize himself.

It appears that a number of soft-hearted Governors are sending their condolences to Governor William Sulzer, of New York. But, unfortunately, it is a vindication and not sympathy that the Hon. Bill needs most.

Asks the Toronto World: "Did it ever occur to you how much the persistent chirping of the August crickets on a hot night sounds like sleigh bells?" No, and it has never occured to anybody else either, unless he has a high-geared imagination.

THE CANADIAN NAVY

In time of peace the disposition of a Canadian navy would be comparatively unimportant. In time of war it would necessarily become an integral part of the common forces of defence. It is inconceivable that under such circumstances there could be any kind of dualistic control. Unless public feeling suffered vast change, all of Canada's naval resources would be put at the disposal of Great Britain, and from a single centre would go the commands leading to effective defence. The Liberal arguments are largely superficial and lacking in any real appeal to the sober sense of Canada.

GUN AND AEROPLANE

There is no apparent connection between a great gun and an airship. If they did actually connect, the airship would be no more. Yet this plain case of cause and effect is suggested by the character of the gun which is being built for the defence of the Panama Canal. The weapon is to be really the greatest on earth. It will be a 16-inch breech-loading rifle, its length of bore 37 feet 4½ inches, and its total length 49 feet 3 inches. The projectile will be 5 feet, 4 inches long, will weigh 2370 lbs will start at a velocity of 2300 feet a second and will travel 21 miles. These are interesting figures, but perhaps the most remarkable statement is this, that the shell in its flight will reach an elevation of 30,500 ft. which is higher than Mount Everest, the loftiest mountain in the world.

A good deal has been said as to the ability of the coming navies of the air to keep out of range of guns on the earth. It has been contended that aeroplanes could safely do scouting in time of war at a height of 5000 feet. When rising higher than that there would naturally be an increasing difficulty of observation, as well as of sustained navigation. Now there is to be a gun that will send an immense shell to six times the height at which the aeroplanes were to scout safely above battlefields. Those who said that there would be no safety there are right. Very much smaller guns than those of the Panama pattern can shell the aeroplanes at whatever height they choose to sail. Not in height will they find safety. They will have to seek it in swiftness of flight.

Quit Snuffing,
Stop Sneezing,
Cure Your Cold Now

Thousands of Cases Prove the Quickest Cure is Catarrhozone.

When germs attack the lining of the nose, make you sneeze and gag—when later on they infect the bronchial tubes—how can you follow them with a cough syrup?

You can't do it—that's all. Cough syrups go to the stomach—that's why they fail.

But Catarrhozone goes everywhere—gets right after the germs — kills them—heals the soreness—cures the inflammation—makes Catarrh disappear.

"Nothing I have ever used gives the warm, soothing sensation of Catarrhozone," writes Isabel Fry, of Niagara Falls, Ont. "I was in a frightful way with catarrh of the nose and throat—had droppings, hard breathing, bad breath and indigestion. Catarrhozone relieved at once and cured me thoroughly. It is invaluable in colds, sore throat and bronchial trouble." Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh. Large size costs $1.00, and contains two months treatment; smaller size, 25c. and 50c. all druggists and storekeepers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

BOOKS FOR QUEEN MARY AND ROYAL CHILDREN

The Business of Selection Always in the Hands of a Court Official

In all King George's domains there is said to be no more voracious reader than Queen Mary.

In spite of the innumerable demands on her time, her Majesty manages to read most of the novels of to-day that really count, and almost always has a serious work in hand, too, such as a book of biography or one devoted to science or travel.

But the Queen does not choose her reading herself. The business of selecting it and also that of Princess Mary and the young princes—with the exception of the heir to throne—is in the hands of a court official. This is the Hon. John Fortescue, and the author of several books.

Since 1906 the Hon. John has been librarian at Windsor Castle, and he went to India with the King and Queen, and wrote the official account of the Durbar, which was severely "roasted" by the newspapers on account of its author's tendency to dilate on the color of ceremonial carpets and the length of court trains to the exclusion of more human details.

However, there was some excuse for the Hon. John, for it is hard to imagine a more thankless job than writing about such a ceremonial with a whole battery of royal and official blue pencils ready to pounce on the slightest "indiscretion," or disclosure of what went on behind the scenes.

One reads every now and then that Queen Mary has accepted a copy of So-and-so's book, but whether she ever reads it or not depends on the royal librarian. Every week he sends her a list of works which he believes she will enjoy reading, including suggestions about books for the royal children, and we hear that he has his work cut out to keep up with the literary appetites of the Queen and her youngsters, all of whom, the little princess especially, are inclined to be bookworms. Nor is the Hon. John Fortescue's job an exceptional one.

There is always some one at court whose business it is to recommend the right books to the young princes and princesses, and probably Queen Mary has no time to bother with book reviews, and is glad to be told what is worth reading. As for King George, he rarely takes up a book, and when he does wants a straightaway story of adventure.

DUCAL PALACE REVEALED

"Suffolk," or "Farmhouse," Once Home of Mary Tudor a Lodging House

While continually growing on the outskirts into startling newness, London still holds undivulged mysteries hidden in its ancient quarters. Strange accidents, however, are frequently bringing to light unsuspected romances in stone, and indications of the storied past.

The district of Southwark, well known because of its fine old cathedral and its memories of Charles Dickens, has lately given another picturesque secret to the world. A shoeblack died suddenly in a common lodging-house. The coroner startled the members of the jury by announcing to them the intense interest of the quaint old place where the shoeblack died. This was the "Farm House," a strange title for a residence now packed away and hidden amid acres of sordid bricks and mortar. To find it is like looking for a needle in a haystack. Only by dint of pertinacious search in the neighborhood of the site of the old Marshalsea prison is the Farm House reached. Passing through a slit of brickwork rather than a lane, you come across what is probably the only relic of Suffolk House, a notable mansion in Henry VIII.'s day. The authorities contend that the Farm House was built about 1518 by Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, as part of the palace for his royal bride, Mary Tudor. After several vicissitudes, it was partially pulled down and small cottages were built on its site. In course of time it became the haunt of coiners and small debtors, who shielded themselves under the right of sanctuary supposed to be conferred by the fact that it was once the site of a royal residence.

Promise of Greece's King

"My strength lies in the love of my people. I will make Greece a model for the kingdoms of Eastern Europe." Such was the enthusiastic words of King George when, as an inexperienced youth of nineteen, he was suddenly called upon to rule Greece. People laughed at his words at the time and said they were bombastic; but under the rule of King George the country, in spite of mismanaged and unfortunate finances and frequent ministerial crises, became fairly prosperous till the disastrous war with Turkey in 1896.

Doctor's Opinion of Diabetes Cure

Believes No Remedy So Effective As SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES.

In the treatment of Diabetes Mellitus we distinguish between remedies for the disease itself and those for complications which may arise. Within the last few years numerous preparations promising complete cures have made their appearance, but none of them have been able to reduce, or even eliminate sugar secretion as effectually as SANOL'S ANTIDIABETES. This preparation is successfully applied in cases where sugar remains in spite of a diet free of carbo-hydrates. Experience has proven that this remedy has caused no bad effects, whatever.

The above paragraph is made up of extracts from a written statement of one of the most eminent physicians on the Continent of America. We strongly request anyone suffering from this dreaded disease to write to us for a copy of his letter. We can also send testimonials from some of the most prominent people in nearly any town in Canada who think it a privilege to be able to recommend a medicine which brings such relief to any person who has suffered like themselves.

This remedy is manufactured by the Sanol Manufacturing Company, of Winnipeg.

Price $2.00 Per Bottle.

HAS ANTISEPTIC TOUCH

Remarkable French Woman Has Strange Power to Prevent Decay

French scientists are puzzled over the discovery of a woman, who, apparently, can preserve vegetable and animal tissues merely by laying her hands upon them.

They call her "The Antiseptic Lady," and declare that she possesses a hitherto unknown property of human effluvia, or emanation of some preservative power from her hands. The name of this woman is not made public, but Drs. Clarac and Llaguet, of Bordeaux, made many experiments with her and they put themselves on record as placing their entire belief in the powers the woman has to preserve both vegetable and animal matter.

These doctors have known the woman nearly five years, and during that time she kept by her various plants, vegetables and small animals, all perfectly preserved and free from the least sign of decay or putrefaction. Both the woman and her husband declared that these subjects were merely touched by the woman's hands once a day. Probably one of the most astonishing things claimed is that a small animal killed by a gun was kept as perfect at the end of four years as it was the day it was brought in from the forest. The fur was still clean and bright and shiny, and there was not the least sign of decay about the body.

The doctors themselves selected a variety of objects—roses, branches bearing leaves, a rabbit, some uncleaned fish, a number of oysters, plants and wine. These they brought to the woman and watched her carefully. Her hands were washed by them to make certain she had no sort of preservative upon them. Some of the objects, at their bidding, she handled, others she merely passed her hands over without touching them.

These objects were then carefully wrapped in paper and locked up in a laboratory where no one could see or touch them or even get in the same room with them.

At the end of 10 days the rose had dried, but every bit of its color, as natural as when picked in full bloom, was preserved, while the leaves were bright and green and adhered to the twig with the same tenacity it would while growing. It is well known that under ordinary circumstances the leaves would crumble, turn brown and shatter, and the rose leaves would also turn brown and shatter.

Wine at the end of 12 days had not fermented in the least. The woman had dipped her fingers in this. Wine she had merely passed her hands over had soured and moulded. Oysters she had handled dried completely in 12 days without the least sign of decay. Other oysters she had not handled or been, but from the same lot and placed in the same room, had putrefied in nine days, and turned to a repulsive liquid. Two dead specimens of fish, not cleaned, had dried in three days with no decay, and the eyes were as bright as when taken and the color of the scales quite brilliant.

It is known that some people possess in a small degree the power of killing bacilli by the touch—that is, by actually touching them through impregnated with the bacilli—but that a person could kill them alike in vegetable and animal matter through thick fur, heavy scales and the like is considered a most remarkable thing. This woman, the doctors say, preserves objects by her power of killing the bacilli of decay.

A QUEEN STAMP

Tibet Produced a Crude But Interesting Sticker

A philatelic curiosity that reached England from Tibet is of muddy purple colour. It is very crudely designed and printed, and was evidently modelled after the Edwardian ½ anna stamp of India. In the place of the central portrait, however, there is the mysterious looking symbol identified as the white lion of Tibet. Possibly by an error of drawing the white lion is shown in color on a white ground.

The inscriptions are in native and English characters, the latter reading "Tibet-Postage." The native characters are unreadable by the lay. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

DURAZZO ONCE GREAT

Seaport Occupied by Servians Was Important City Many Centuries Ago

Durazzo, the Albanian port which attracted international attention on account of its occupation by the Servians in opposition to the wishes of the Austrians, is just such an outlet to the sea as the Servians long coveted. As a Turkish port it has been badly run down in the last quarter of a century, for the railway from Salonica to Mitrovitza had diverted much of the trade that it once controlled in the interior of the country southward to the Aegean. The harbor is filled with big rocks—if we are to trust the stories of some of the Albanian patriots the Turks dumped them there purposely to ruin the harbor—and it has become silted up. Steamers stop there twice a week, and carry partly olive oil, cotton and fruits, which are abundantly produced on the rich lands of the neighborhood.

Durazzo was a port more than six centuries before the Christian era, and became a populous and important city. When the Romans came they didn't like the sound of its ancient name, Epidamnus—and they changed it to Dyrrachium, which time and later occupants corrupted to its present name. It was the beginning of a Roman road southward along the coast and of the great military road via Egnatia, running through to Salonica and the Hellespont. It has been the scene of much strife, and Slavs, Normans and Venetians had been masters of its port before the Turks took it in 1501. An earthquake destroyed Durazzo in 1273, and the only traces of its ancient buildings are in broken columns and marbles where the city once stood.

The city, which was formerly an island, is joined to the mainland by a huge marsh, over which is built a bridge 750 feet long. Durazzo is scarcely more than a shadow of its former self. The old walls are dilapidated, plane trees grow on the ruins of the ancient Byzantine citadel and many of the Roman remains, funeral slabs, columns and inscriptions have been smashed up by the Turkish Government to build a road projecting out into the bay.

VALUE OF CREOSOTING

Treated Railway Ties Last Much Longer—Creosote Mostly Imported

One million four hundred thousand gallons of creosote could have been produced in Western Canada last year if the coal that was converted into coke had been coked in by-product ovens. With the exception of the creosote produced from the by-product ovens at Sydney, N.S., and at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., no creosote is produced in Canada. This valuable wood preservative is imported from Britain and the United States, but the high cost of the imported article has restricted its use very materially. In view of the steady and even rapid rise in the price of almost all classes of wood products, the importance of creosote is readily seen. For example, there is the problem confronting Canadian railways in obtaining timber for cross ties. There were 12,693,770 ties purchased in Canada last year, an increase of 43.5 per cent. over the figure for the previous year. When it is considered that the annual replacement of ties on existing lines amounted to about 10,000,000, it is evident what enormous quantities of the material are required in order to supply the demand. This demand will not remain stationary, but, on account of the increased mileage of railways being constructed in Canada, will increase each year. Owing to the scarcity of [illegible] wood products, the price of [illegible] has been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and the higher prices of the better grades of wood have forced the railway officials to [illegible] woods. In order that the lower grades of wood may be satisfactorily used for ties it will be necessary [illegible] these species that are subject to decay, called W. J. D., in [illegible] order, also to [illegible] woods, it is necessary to use tie-plates. When it is remembered that the average life of an untreated tie is seven years while the life of a treated tie is seventeen years, the importance and value of creosote is readily seen.

Yawn Might Have Caused Death

At an inquiry at Chesterfield into the death of a miner, aged forty, who died suddenly while at work, a doctor said that the man's kidneys were five times the normal size. The problem of a woman who went to bed and refused to get up for a fortnight, though apparently in good health, was dealt with by the Bexley magistrates. It had been suggested that he should leave her without food, but he did not like to see her starve. The magistrate sent the woman to prison for four months with hard labor.

HIGH DIGNITARIES OF CHURCH OF ENGLAND

The highest office in the Church of England is held by the Archbishop of Canterbury, officially known as Primate of all England, in distinction from the Archbishop of York, who is simply Primate of England. The jurisdiction of the latter extends over the province or county of York, which includes ten dioceses in that part of England from the Humber to the Dee, and embraces the Isle of Man as well.

The rest of England is under the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Canterbury. That dignitary, however, as Primate of all England, is supposed to possess a certain authority over the Church in the whole country. He takes precedence on all public occasions, not only of the Archbishop of York, but of all the nobility save the immediate members of the Royal family. He crowns the King, but the Queen is crowned by the Archbishop of York.

The Church has two legislative bodies, called convocations, which attend to ecclesiastical matters. Each convocation, that of York and that of Canterbury, contains two houses. The upper house is composed of bishops and other dignitaries, and the lower house is made up of deans, archdeacons and delegates who are elected whenever a new Parliament is chosen.

JEWISH STRATEGY

Posing as Dentists They Fooled Russian Officials for a Long While

A remarkable trial was that in Moscow where about five hundred persons were accused of working at various trades on the strength of the possession of faked dentists' diplomas, two hundred and one of them being found guilty and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

The facts are these: Some two years ago the police discovered that a large number of Hebrew dentists living in Moscow possessed neither a dentist's parlor nor a dentist's practice, but followed other occupations instead.

As is well known, Jews are only permitted by Russian law to reside within the "Pale." Outside the "Pale" only certain privileged classes of Jews are allowed permanently to reside. Among those privileged classes are dentists. Now the acquisition of a dentist's diploma in Russia is, or rather was, not a difficult matter. It sufficed to be articled for three years as a voluntary assistant to an established dentist, after which a very simple examination before a medical commission had to be passed.

Thus many young Jewish traders went through their three years' apprenticeship simply in order to obtain the right to reside in Moscow or other cities. Things came to such a pass that of late years there was hardly a young Jew in Moscow who did not have his dentist's diploma in his pocket.

A new law, however, came into force by which a university degree was made the necessary preliminary to obtaining a dentist's certificate. Then a flourishing trade at once sprang up in diplomas bearing dates prior to the day the law came into force.

It was later discovered that a great number of so-called dentists had faked diplomas, and this led to the further discovery of a widespread organization which made it its business to procure and sell antedated certificates for spot cash. Wholesale prosecutions followed.

PIPES THE INDIANS MAD

A Red Stone Could be Carved When First Dug

I will tell you how the Indians made their pipes and about the material they used. There is a bright red stone which, when taken from the quarry is so soft that the Indians could carve it with their knives.

They carved the stone while the material was soft. Once placed in the air the stone became hard and brittle. Later the Indians found a black stone which was soft enough for carving. This, too, they used in making pipes. And this stone could be polished like marble.

Stems for the pipes were made of wood. Some stems were round, others were flat; some were ornamented with porcupine quills and others with bird feathers or tufts of horse hair. Some of the pipes were used for everyday smoking. Others only when the tribe prayed to the Great Spirit.—Major Newell.
